ENTERTAINMENT 'DRESS' FOR TRADESHOWS

"What Does Public Want?" Metro to Ask Dailies

Studio Sending Two Reps. On Country-wide Swing; To Visit 90 Large Papers

Myrtle Beach, S. C.—Metro, startng today, will canvass 90 leading American newspapers in an attempt to find out through them what they feel the public wants in the way of film entertainment, it was disclosed here yesterday by H. M. Richey, assistant to W. F. Rodgers, general sales manager, in his address before the convention of the Theaters Owners of North and South Carolina.

Richey stated that the company was sending two contact men from the studio to call on the dailies, and

Suggest 'York' Battle As a Training Short

U. S. Army officers who have seen rushes of the battle sequences in "Sergeant York," in which Gary Cooper, as the hero, shoots 25 Germans and takes 132 prisoners, have suggested to Warners that they be shown in Army camps as a training short. Idea is that the sequence illustrates to trainees proper way to take cover so as to shield themselves and make every shot count, as well as showing the rookies how clever outflanking can minimize an enemy's numerical superiority.

FEW FILMS FOR COMMERCIAL TELE

Major Distribs. Won't Supply Them; Ascap's Row With Nets Also a Factor in Their Non-use Initial television programs as the industry goes commercial today with the sanction of the FCC are strong in "flesh," markedly weak in films.

The bars to more liberal use of films are two—one, the refusal of major companies to supply pictures, explained by their professed desire to protect the interests of their exhibitor customers the other fact that Ascap and the NBC and CBS are at swords' points. With Ascap music prevailing in films, the latter can no more use Ascap music on tele programs than they can on radio programs.

As a result, CBS has no film features on its first week's tele program, the lineup running largely instead to news, children's programs, sports features by Bob Edge and telecasts from the Metropolitan Museum. NBC will use one feature film,

Competitive Dates Causing Change in Policy; Warners Weigh Tea Dance Fixings

Plans of all major distributors, signatories to the New York consent decree, to adhere to a "strictly business" policy for tradeshows, required by the decree's selling provisions next season, yesterday bogged down.

The barrier which in the instance of one company, and reportedly in others, caused the change of front, it is understood, is the fact that tradeshows are now taking on a decidedly competitive angle. Meaning that there apparently will be numerous instances where distribs. will be bidding against each other for ex-

Mary Pickford Will Produce on Her Own

some of her recent extra-curricular activities, such as war relief work, Miss Pickford will rest during the Summer on the Coast, for which she plans to leave with her husband, Buddy Rogers, next week.

"At present, I have under consideration production of 'Coquette'," Miss Pickford said. "If I can find an original story that I think is as strong, I prefer to do it rather than a re-make. But to date, no such story has presented itself."

Discussing her relations with Murray Silverstone, who recently stepped down as UA's chief exec. to enter production, Miss Pickford said she was working with him solely in a financial and advisory capacity.

Reports current both on the Coast and in New York that Harry Goetz would take Silverstone's old UA berth was described as "groundless" by the UA co-owner.

There will be no UA board move to fill the company's top title permanently until the Selznick-Capra deal is a fait accompli, Miss Pickford stated. This, she added, may be a matter of days or weeks. The contracts are under advisement.

Mary Pickford, accompanied by Buddy Rogers, arrived in New York over the week-end to confer with her counsel, Edward C. Raftery, who returned from the Coast late last week. Miss Pickford goes to Harrisburg and later to Gettysburg late this week.

Few Films on Commercial Tele's First Programs

CBS Clings to All-Flesh; NBC to Delete Ascap Tunes —Re-Dub With New Music

"Death from a Distance," made in 1935 by Invincible with Lola Lane and Russell Hopton, and some shorts on its first week's lineup.

NBC Re-dubbing Film Music

NBC, it was said, plans to meet the Ascap music situation insofar as films are concerned by eliminating the Ascap tunes and re-dubbing. Should it be found that this ruins the pictures, they will be replaced on the tele programs, it was added.

Two local tele stations begin operating today under the new rules, NBC as a regular commercial station, and CBS, operating on a 30 day experimental license, at the end of which the station will go on a commercial basis. NBC's station, WNBT, will operate 15 hours weekly for the immediate future, while the CBS schedule for the week includes 12 and one-half hours of programs, slightly below the minimum, but by far more than the usual experiment schedule.

Don Lee Broadcasting System, W6XAO, Los Angeles; Zenith Radio Corp., W9XZV, Chicago; and the Philco Radio and Television Corp., W3XE, Philadelphia, will continue to transmit scheduled programs over their respective stations pending the formality of shifting from experimental to commercial operation at the earliest date possible.

DuMont Starting Before Aug. 1

Allen B. DuMont Laboratories will begin commercial operations at its New York station, W2XWV, as soon as possible, within the next month and prior to Aug. 1, and is also rushing work on its Washington station, as is NBC, which expects to have its Washington station operating by Nov. 1, and its Philly outlet on the air by July 1, 1942, at which time the three-way television web is expected to begin operations.

Thirteen additional television stations are now n the process of readying commercial telecasts, and are expected to shift to a commercial basis in the ensuing months. Stations and their locations are as follows: General Electric, Albany, W2XB; Balaban & Katz, Chicago, W9XBK; CBS, Chicago, W9XCB; Crosley Corp., Cincinnati, W8XCT; Earl C. Anthony, Los Angeles, W6XEA; Hughes Productions, Los Angeles, W6XHH; Television Productions, Inc., Los Angeles, W6XYZ; The Journal Co., Milwaukee, W9XMJ; Bamberger Broadcasting Service, New York, W2XBB; Metropolitan Television, New York, W2XMT; WCAU Broadcasting Co., Philadelphia, W3XAU; Don Lee Broadcasting Corp., San Francisco, W6XDL; and Hughes Productions, San Francisco, W6XHT.

Four-Sponsor Parley

Highlighting the inauguration of commercial television will be a four-sponsor parley at NBC today, with Lever Bros., for Spry; Procter & Gamble, for Ivory Soap; Sun Oil Co.; and Bulova Watch Co. sharing honors as the first tele sponsors. Initial blurb will be heard at the start of the baseball game when Bulova will sponsor a time signal, the opening show of the first commercial schedule, and the first full-length commercial broadcast and telecast will be aired at 6:45-7 p.m. when Sun Oil presents Lowell Thomas simultaneously over NBC and WNBT.

Presenting a new problem to advertisers, television as an advertising medium is now confronted with the necessity of developing methods of presentation that can take full advantage of the video medium. At the present time there is an audience estimated at more than 2,000 families in the New York metropolitan area. There are approximately 10,000 sets which will be made available to the public within the near future—and production of new sets, employing all the standards recently approved by the FCC, will shortly get under way at DuMont, RCA and several other plants. These new sets are expected to retail at about 10 per cent more than those sets already built as a result of the national defense program.

First actual firm to enter the advertising field in television is the Lawrence Levey outfit of New York City. The system employs 36 principal elements of stage, motion picture and tele production, plus the application of mobility to selected materials in combination with other mobile effects, the sum total showing on the screen as television's newly-acquired own technique.

Network Tele Lagging

At the present time network television has been given very little consideration by the telecasters. Aside from NBC's plan to establish connecting link between New York, Washington and Philadelphia, little talk has been forthcoming on the possibilities of tele in network operation.

Metro to Sound Out U. S. Dailies on Pix Wants

Studio Reps. Later Will Extend Canvass to Smaller American Publications

later on smaller publications, in a "grass roots" survey. In addition to seeking the dailies' views on the type of entertainment wanted today, the Metro reps. will check on the studios' publicity handouts and its suitability in each spot.

Richey, who spoke in the place of Rodgers, unable to attend the convention, scouted exhibitors' "mounting fear . . . of some strange bogey man who will arise and gobble up theater owners" as a result of the consent decree selling changes, and said that it was having an unfortunate effect.

Metro, Richey declared, "doesn't know or care how long the new method of selling is going to last —one year or forever," and added, "we will continue to do business with our regular customers wherever and whenever possible."

Drop 8 Lower Bracket Films

He asserted that the company will deliver every high bracket pix under the current contract, but will eliminate eight lower bracket pictures from the commitment.

Turning to recent blasts at producers, Richey told his audience:

"I can't find it good business to start at this late date, to tell Hollywood to make good pictures. That doesn't mean that constructive suggestions, made within the trade are not always highly desirable and most acceptable, but I believe that, working with the tools at hand, we must carve out of the amusement dollar a bigger slice."

On the matter of elimination of duals, now agitated by many exhib. organizations, Richey observed that the move's backers may have a case, but expressed serious doubt that the situation will be corrected in time to give exhibs. the relief they are seeking.

Traces Attendance Decline

Richey declared that to comprehend why too many potential patrons are looking elsewhere for their recreation, it is necessary to go back a decade or so ago. He put it this way:

"When labor, in order to spread jobs over a greater number of people, was successful in shortening the working day from 50 hours a week to 45 and then to 40 and in some instances 35, the whole American public became more recreation conscious for the simple reason that they had more time on their hands—more leisure hours to fill and where, before they worked longer hours and motion pictures were the only amusement they could find time for at hours that were convenient and not too tiring, now they have plenty of time to look for and embrace many sports and recreations which before were impossible.

"The five-day week, offering opportunities for a long week-end doing other things than attend movies, —golf, hobbies, more bridge because Mr. Wage Earner has more time, bowling, all of these sports have found a new revitalization from a public who has become more recreation conscious and while this change was taking place the average theater continued its role of a more or less public utility—there to be used when desirable, flaming up once in a while when a big picture stuck its thumb in the public's eye and demanded to be noticed but carrying on day after day much in the same manner it had for years. I say this not as criticism, but as an analysis of the position many theater owners find themselves in today."

Says Charts Not Constructive

In conclusion Richey warned that "this is no time to talk ill of any element in this business" and said pointedly, "I don't believe charts, analyses, predictions or revolutionary formulas which leave the impression that the movie business has gone to hell are constructive." The big job ahead, he asserted, "is to all work together to get more people through that box office."

METRO PRESCRIBES FOR INDUSTRY

"We Must Stop Wringing Our Hands and Start Ringing Door Bells," Company Tells Carolina Exhibs.

Myrtle Beach, S. C. — Here's Metro's prescription for the cure of industry ills, including both the biz slump and the eradication of trade disunity, as offered by H. M. Richey, speaking yesterday before the Carolinas' exhib. convention here:

> "We must stop wringing our hands and start ringing door bells, quit shouting business is bad and remember that we are still getting three-quarters of the amusement dollar, throw away our charts and graphs of whether business has gone up or down and turn our attention to the buying of new ropes to keep the standing crowd in line, quit criticizing our business in the public but reserve for our inner councils that bawling out we may find it necessary to give each other, quit referring to our business as a racket, drop the word 'lousy' from our vocabulary, applaud the good and bite our lips at the bad and start telling the whole cockeyed world that motion pictures are ready for the job of entertaining a public which is sick of the black headlines, and if I am not mistaken, a period of that kind of thought will result in the most important 'cease and desist' order ever adopted in this business—a permanent 'cease and desist' against cutting each other's throats and a united industry against anyone who tries it."

No. and So. Carolina Exhibs. Condemn Hollywood Previews

Myrtle Beach, S. C. — Theater Owners of North and South Carolina, first MPTOA affiliate to hold a meeting since the MPTOA convention in Los Angeles, in session here yesterday adopted a resolution condemning the previewing of pictures by columnists and radio commentators prior to trade press reviews as unfair and inimical to the best interests of producers and exhibitors alike. Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA prexy, had attacked the practice at the national convention.

Other resolutions adopted were:

Expressing thanks to President Arrington for his effective work and time given; endorsing the program outlined by the Motion Picture Committee Co-operating for National Defense and urging all exhibitors who have not yet joined to sign such pledges immediately; condemning the continuation of the importation and distribution of propaganda and subversive Communist, Fascist and Nazi and Axis films being brought into this country for distribution; condemning the practice of exhibiting so-called non-approved "sex pictures" as part of a double feature program with an "approved" picture, as inimical to the best interests of the motion picture theater operation and to the morals of the youth of the country.

Charles H. Arrington, president, presided at the convention. Delegates were welcomed to Myrtle Beach by Mayor Ben M. Graham. A feature of the meeting was the present of Leo the Lion, sent from Hollywood by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Principal speaker was Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA prexy, who reiterated his Los Angeles attack on the previews of pix by columnists and radio commentators. He told the delegates that the national convention was a tremendous success because 7,000 theaters were represented involving 26 states.

The MPTOA chief stated exhibs. should devote more time to enlisting the good-will of luncheon clubs, civic organizations and various women's clubs in order to bring about a better understanding of the problems confronting the industry.

Kuykendall said that he had spent many weeks in Washington during the past year "fighting the increasing tendency toward Government interference and regulation of our business, which in many instances, we as an industry, are continually inviting because of our failure to discipline ourselves. The present proposed tax bill in Washington is very severe on all business, but in this time of war we might as well prepare ourselves for further tax shocks."

As a member of national committee cooperating with the Government for national defense Kuykendall pointed out that it has encountered many angles and many problems, all of which have been met by the committee. Kuykendall charged that double bills were a menace to the motion picture industry, stating that the time is long past when the public just wants to sit through a lot of motion pictures. He deplored the previewing of pictures by the Hollywood columnists and commentators long in advance of their exhibition to the public.

Other speakers were R. B. Wilby of Atlanta, H. M. Richey, Metro's public relations counsel, and J. Noble Braden, executive director of the AAA.

hibitor attention and attendance when the tradeshows get under way.

With this situation shaping up, Warners, it was learned yesterday, has approached Music Corporation of America for a list of its ace bands and the hotels in which they are booked for the coming months.

As MCA gets it, idea mulled by Warners is to make their early tradeshows a "must" event on the exhibitors' social calendar, to this end transferring tradeshows from theaters—the plan announced by some companies—to the large hotel ballrooms, with tea and dance for the theater men to follow.

Warners is said to figure that such a plan, if adopted, will solve the competitive tradeshow problem satisfactorily. Theory is that exhibs. won't be adverse to mixing pleasure with business, and that if exhibs. are serious about seeing pix before buying, the company which actually gets 'em to tradeshows will have the selling edge.

Warners, it was said last night, is not the only company with a plan to "dress up" the tradeshows, but considerable secrecy shrouds the slants under consideration.

Warner District Managers In New York for Meetings

With Grad L. Sears and Carl Leserman presiding, all Warner district managers opened a series of pre-convention sales huddles at the Warner home office yesterday. The district heads will remain here over Wednesday, and are scheduled to attend the premiere of "Sergeant York" at the Astor tomorrow night. Confab, it is understood, is concerned with sales policies to prevail when consent decree selling starts.

"Code of Honor" of Pacific Coast Conference

No Preferred Playing Time on Percentage Pix, One Provision

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—The "Code of Honor" of the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theater Owners contains, among other provisions, the declaration that distributors shall not have the right to designate preferred playing time on percentage pictures.

Included in the Code's provisions are the following:

Unfair clearance shall be eliminated; a new brief standard exhibition contract shall be prepared (this contract to be approved by Department of Justice); exhibitors should have right to exclude any feature which would be locally offensive on moral, religious or racial grounds; distributors shall not refuse to release pictures on some run to be designated by distributors for exhibition in any situation provided that exhibitor can satisfy reasonable standard operation and exhibitor is reputable and responsible unless granting of a run on any terms to complaining exhibitor will prejudice distributors' business interests in the area where complainant's theater is located; and

There shall be no discrimination by distributors as to right to buy, priority of runs, clearance price, terms, rebates, adjustments, allowances, settlement or availability of prints first-run if such commercialized preview is presented to a paying audience or announced to the public by any medium whatsoever; where an exhibitor buys a selective contract he shall be required to announce acceptance or rejection of any picture in such contract within one week of notice of availability.

Concerning Cancellation

The following points apply to all distributors with the exception of those five companies consenting to the decree: exhibitors shall have the right to cancel 20 per cent of pictures under contract; distributors shall not force exhibitors to buy westerns, reissues, serials, foreign pictures, short subjects, newsreels or trailers as a condition for entering into a contract for feature pictures.

ITO of So. Calif., Ariz. To Co-op on "Code of Honor"

Hollywood — Independent theater owners of Southern California and Arizona have elected the following to board of directors: Hugh Bruen, Jenne Dodge, Al Galston, R. D. Whitson, Ned Calvi, Murray Hawkins and Max Sinift.

One important piece of business was the appointment of three new committees to function in conjunction with the PCC of ITO committees on resolutions and "Code of Honor." Galston is to act as chairman of the arbitration committee; Calvi as chairman of the double bill committee; Whitson as chairman of the committee on prevues, move-overs, prints, price, allocations, discriminations, and box office slump; Sinift as chairman of the committee on junior prices of admission.

The members voted unanimously in favor of single bills. Also approved and adopted resolutions and a code of honor. Report was given on action by members of PCC of ITO against Ascap including the fact that all exhibitor complaints were in and that suits should be filed shortly.

Fox West Coast requests for clearance and Universal sales policy on "In the Navy" and "Tight Shoes" were referred to the board of directors.

Fairbanks Reports on His Lat.-Amer. Trip to Welles

reported in person to Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles on his findings. He will confer with Welles again today and probably with President Roosevelt either today or within the next few days.

Fairbanks said he reported to Welles that "there is no question in my mind the people of the countries I visited are virtually 100 per cent behind us and the Democratic cause." He visited Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Peru and Panama.

Fairbanks said he found the Governments of all these countries are doing the very best job they can, despite "dangerously effective propaganda job" by the Germans, and other situations which include Germans and their friends in key positions, and former dependents on Germany for trade.

He said he recommended concrete illustration of our profession of good neighbor policy through finding some way of getting more of their products into this country. "This would be more effective than all the good-will missions we can send down there," he said.

Fairbanks also recommended interchange of students, and inviting army men from the Latin-Americas to train in our schools, as well as encouraging political missions from those states.

U. S. Films were blamed in part by Fairbanks for the bad impression some Latin-Americans have of this country. These include gangster pictures, which convey the impression we are all hoodlums, and pictures which depict the Latins as a lazy, sleepy race, he said, adding that the control board is now clearing this situation.

To the film industry, Fairbanks suggested that we concentrate for a time on showing the better side of America and Americans.

"I don't mean by that we should stop telling the truth. I think 'The Grapes of Wrath' was a good picture. But I do think we can stress more than we have, our good points, get back to the simple stories which after all, are best. For instance, I think 'Mr. Chips' was the most effective British propaganda film ever put out, and there wasn't a single bit of flag waving in it."

interests would ever get more than a 49 per cent interest in any British circuit.

Carr also revealed an interesting fact in that since the bombing of the Ealing Studios the plant had been rebuilt on a large scale, completely modernized and assisted in every way possible by the Government, thereby putting Hitler in the role of giving the film industry an assist in that instance.

Carr, who was accompanied by his wife, expects to remain here five or six weeks, going to the Coast Sunday night. He related some amazing experiences of English film men, including himself, in escaping Nazi bombs. He stressed the fact that in comparison to the severity of the bombings there were comparatively few theaters blitzed out of action altogether. He said that 495 houses were closed in the U. K. as of May 31, but of that number, only 231 will not be reopened sooner or later.

Carr was enthusiastic about a film Ealing is now producing for UA world-wide distribution. Entitled "Ships With Wings," story revolves around the H. M. S. Ark Royal, with much of the footage taken during combat.

Describing company business in U. K. as being better during the past six months than any other period in four years, he characterized his trip as being of strictly a business nature.

When Carr returns he will be complete head of UA interests in Great Britain as George Archibald, his co-managing director, is joining the British Army.

Westway Dismissal Appealed

Homand Continues Balto. Clearance Battle

wood but Arbitrator Sefton Darr held that the clearance was reasonable as the Homand house was not built on the promises of distributors to supply pictures, that the Edgewood is the superior house in the neighborhood, and that the distributors and theaters are better served financially under the existing clearance. Complaint was brought against 20th Century-Fox, Loew's, Vitagraph and the Durkee Lyndhurst Corp., operator of the Edgewood.

Homand has been trying to reduce the 14-days clearance since 1929, when he filed an anti-trust action against the majors and the Durkee interests. He lost in the U. S. District Court and again on appeal.

Arbitrator Rules Clearance Issue in Philly's Palm Case

Philadelphia—Hearing of the Palm arbitration action against Loew's, Inc., Paramount, and 20th Century-Fox began yesterday, and quickly became tangled in the run-clearance maze. Arbitrator H. Evans Rhell, a business executive, decided that the request was one for change of clearance, and not for change of run, allowing the case to go ahead.

Following the usual historical review of the industry by Frank Fogel, for Sam and Morris Somerson, plaintiffs; John Caskey, for 20th Century-Fox, and Stuart Aarons and Harold Levinson, for Warner Brothers Theaters, first on the stand was Carl Goldblum, of the city surveying department, who presented a map of theaters in question, and S. E. Applegate, M-G-M sales manager, who gave testimony on clearance and runs for a long period.

The Palm wants a reduction in the run the S-W Kent has over it while the defendants claim this would amount to a change in run, as the Palm, according to them, is in the same availability as the New Broadway and Jumbo. The Ken appealed decision was cited by Stuart Aarons to explain the run-clearance distinction to the abitrator.

First argument arose when Fogel asked for information on what E-A paid at the Richmond for product. Attorneys for the distribs. objected and the arbitrator declared the information could only be made available to the arbitrator, and to Fogel, but not to Somerson, Fogel's client. Fogel objected.

Hearing will be continued tomorrow morning.

WB Policy

. . . it makes sense

By CHESTER B. BAHN

NATIONAL ALLIED, declaring that it certainly was not too much to ask, called upon major distributors in a recent general bulletin to "release a few big pictures during the Summer season so that the public will not entirely lose interest."

Whether by coincidence or design, Allied's members, as well as thousands of other showmen seriously concerned about the state of the nation's box-office, doubly menaced by the apparent shortage of top quality product during the torrid weeks immediately ahead, have Warners' answer in Grad L. Sears' very-much-to-the-point statement of policy, keyed to "We'll worry about September IN September."

Sears, asserting that the company's obligation entered into with 11,474 exhibitors to deliver 48 pictures before Sept. 1 "remains an obligation with us," adds:

"Until it is completely fulfilled, we have no intention of concerning ourselves or our customers with consent decree selling or the screening of next season's product. . . . Meanwhile, we recognize our present responsibility. The flow of big pictures during July and August will be uninterrupted—and unprecedented. . . . And we'll worry about September—in September."

—— o ——

FROM the standpoint of Warners' customers—and the vast movie-going public served by them—such a sensible policy spells assurance and insurance at a time when there is a crying need for both.

Regardless of the cause or causes, of the present menacing dip in grosses, it is obvious that, to re-build patronage, quality product packed with entertainment is essential. The exhibitors' problem, today of all times, cannot be solved with weak product or stale product. It requires pix like, say "The Bride Came C.O.D." and "Manpower," to turn that trick.

While necessarily distributor and theater man alike cannot be indifferent to 1941-42, a season which will be marked by the advent of a revolutionary selling policy in at least 47 states, the present must be the operator's prime and urgent concern. There are eight hot weeks to be bridged to Sept. 1.

And in those eight weeks, theater overhead must be met. The alternative—unpleasant no less for the distributor and the

Missouri-Pacific R. R. Travel Short Set for NBC

As the entire advertising and entertainment fields eagerly studied the inauguration of commercial tele yesterday, NBC last night announced the station had signed the first commercially-sponsored film telecast, with the Missouri-Pacific Railroad set to sponsor a travel film over the WNBT facilities on Friday at 9-9:30 p.m. and, further, that the Bulova Watch Co., which sponsored two time signals yesterday over WNBT, the NBC television station, had signed a 13-week contract continuing its time signals.

There was also a strong possibility last night that Sun Oil, Procter & Gamble and Lever Bros. would also sign up for term tele commitments.

Officials at NBC pointed out that producer than the exhibitor—is too obvious to require definition.

—— o ——

INCIDENTALLY, from the purely selfish standpoint of the distributor, it is "good business" to supply available top quality product now rather than to deliberately withhold it for the new season.

The latter course, if adopted, as Allied's bulletin pointed out, "means surrendering the field for the time being to rival forms of entertainment with the accompanying risk that the public may get entirely out of the movie-going habit."

And, if industry statistics mean anything at all, millions already have done exactly that, to the great loss of Hollywood, New York and in-between points.

Circus Gets Writ to Show In Sioux City on Fourth

Sioux City, Ia.—The Cole Bros. circus nipped Sioux City theater and other amusement operators in a legal entanglement and will stage its show on July 4 after securing a writ of mandamus in District Court to secure its city council permit.

The circus originally was denied its permit when the other amusement operators complained that Independence Day might mean the difference between a profitable and unprofitable season. The operators claimed they operated year-round or during entire seasons and it wasn't fair to have outside competition come in on holidays to take the best of the business.

Strawhat Opposition Up; 80 Theaters Now Operating

Strawhat opposition steps up this week, with 16 additional Summer theaters opening and bringing the total in operation to approximately 80. Latter is some 11 less than for the same week a year ago.

Pix company scouts have four new plays to lamp this week at Summer theater tryouts. Opening last night was "Divorcons," Margaret Mayo's new adaptation of the Sardou play, at the Hilltop Theater, Ellicott City, Md., and "Broadway, 1941," an up-to-date version by Philip Dunning of the prohibition era meller, "Broadway," originally written by Dunning in collaboration with George Abbott, at the Montowese Playhouse, Branford, Conn.

Republic Speeds Up 1941-1942 Production

Although Republic is not considering itself affected by the New York consent decree, its production department is speeding up work on product for next season and has generally allocated an increased budget to improve the quality of all its 1941-42 features, it was learned yesterday at a press conference held by M. J. Siegel, studio production head, at the home office. Siegel, here to discuss plans for second quarter production for next season with Herbert J. Yates, said that approximately $1,500,000 was being added to next season's budget.

Siegel affirmed that instead of announcing a fixed program for the forthcoming year, the company had announced a given number of pictures, but put itself in a position by which each quarter's production could capitalize on any subject worthy of production. He cited the contract the company signed with Billy Conn to star in "The Tinsel Kid" as one of the benefits derived from a flexible program. Conn starts work on the picture around July 20.

Siegel said that the entire program for 1940-41 would be delivered by Aug. 15 and that probably three or four features and a like number of westerns on next season's program, would be completed by that date.

It was learned that Republic has completed one 4,000-foot feature subject for the Army as part of the Hollywood defense production program. Siegel returns to the Coast next week.

Early Senate Study of Divorcement Bill is Seen

Sub-committee Expected to Meet Next Week to Take Up Neely's Legislation

delayed due to necessity for studying emergency legislation which had to be completed before end of the fiscal year.

Now that this is out of the way, he is ready to go, but has done nothing pending return to Washington of Senator Langer of North Dakota, who expressed considerable interest in the bill, according to Senator Kilgore, and who had been away from Washington for some time due to illness of his mother.

At Senator Langer's office, however, it was said yesterday he is expected to return to Washington on Monday. Kilgore said in that event he will almost immediately call the sub-committee for study of the legislation. This does not mean, however, that hearings will start at once, or even that hearings will be held.

Senator Kilgore explained that he has a mass of information from previous hearings. First action of the sub-committee will be to study this information. Following that will be conferences with Thurman W. Arnold of the D of J, to determine just what further hearings are necessary, whether the sub-committee should act solely on basis of the information already before it.

Kilgore said that in all likelihood, however, all interested parties will be notified and at least given an opportunity to add whatever they might wish, to what has already been said.

Washington—Recommendation by the House Ways and Means Committee that Federal admission tax have a lowered base to 10 cents, is expected to reach the floor of the House in about two weeks, and to be passed without strenuous opposition, it was revealed here last night.

Committee members predicted it would take about two weeks to complete work on the new tax bill of which the admission tax item is a part. Since the lowered base was advocated by the industry, and now has been approved by the Committee, it is generally expected the provision will soon become law.

Believe Settlement Near In Strike at Disney Studio

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Indications before last night's session between the Screen Cartoonist Guild and Walt Disney were that a settlement would be reached that would terminate its five weeks' strike or Disney cartoonist.

Designation of the Guild, wage scales to equal the best wages in other cartoon studios, a union shop with preferential hiring has already been agreed to by Disney. Remaining points of difference are principally retroactive pay and treatment of Guild members who did not join the walkout.

The proposed pact will be submitted to Disney unit members of the Guild for adoption or rejection.

First Sponsored Film For Tele A Travel Pic

it would not be the practice of the television station to sell one-time shots, but that for the time being advertisers would be allowed to purchase the one-time telecasts and could include the one show in a term contract when and if it was signed.

Promptly at 2:30 p.m. yesterday afternoon WNBT faded out its test pattern, which had been used for a few hours, and for the first time in the history of radio, a strictly-television commercial was seen by the 2,000 families in the metropolitan New York area. Using no sound in the presentation, the initial image was a large clock, with the name Bulova prominently displayed. The clock ticked off one-minute, and then the station faded the commercial to pick up the baseball game from Brooklyn.

In every available tele room at Radio City were the advertising executives, as well as motion picture and radio officials who had turned out to witness the initial commercial telecast. Their reaction to the initial showing was mixed, but the final consensus of opinion seemed to be that the images were vastly improved over those seen during the experimental period, even in their last stages.

Telecasters were emphatic in their decision to give the best possible program to the tele audience despite the limited number of sets now in use throughout the centers where telecasts will be available. The highly interested attitude displayed by the advertisers and their agencies —plus the fact that the tele stations can still operate without too much union difficulty, has brought about the attitude of quality instead of quantity. Music, it was explained, will be the same as is now popular on the air, and no difficulties are expected as a result of Ascap-BMI situation now current in the broadcasting field.

Ill. 135-Minute Measure Dies

bill had been referred after it had swept through the House. Only 23, however, were cast, and the bill remained buried in committee as the session ended.

The measure was supported by Illinois Allied, opposed by the downstate United Theater Owners of Illinois and the major circuits, the latter asserting that a majority of patrons favored duals and terming the legislation unconstitutional, destructive and interference with business.

A similar anti-duals bill was passed at the 1940 legislative session in Illinois, but subsequently was vetoed by the Governor.

Adjournment of the Illinois legislature leaves anti-dual bills active in only five states—Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Texas and Missouri.

Major industry interest now centers in Washington where the House Ways and Means Committee is drafting tax legislation. The Committee has approved a 10-cent tax base, with reduction of admission tax exemption to nine cents from the present 20. Only service men in uniform would be exempt under the proposal.

FPC Moves to Bring More Power Into Southeast States

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—The Federal Power Commission yesterday moved to bring more electricity to the Southeastern states, where power shortage has threatened possible closing of picture shows. FPC ordered interconnections among power companies to bring 200,000 kilowatts to that area.

Although the commission's action would make power rationing possible in all the 17-state area, officials declined to say whether restrictions would be imposed. Power already has been rationed to some extent in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee.

Kuykendall Raps Relying On Publicity and "Free Space" by Film Cos.

and will continue to be bad through the hot months, probably in spite of anything that can be done about it," the bulletin asserted "the distributors have got a job to do in advertising their product and creating a market for the pictures they will release."

"Curtailing their advertising and relying on publicity and 'free space' to put over their pictures and personalities because business falls off" is not the solution, the bulletin affirms, with this added pointedly:

> "Not a single advertising director came to our convention (held recently in Hollywood) to outline and explain to the exhibitors any plans for putting over his new product, though all of them received personal invitations to do so."

Discussing the current situation, Kuykendall writes that "it is rather obvious that mass meetings, publicity statements, mud-slinging, resolutions, stump speeches denouncing Hollywood and damning the pictures we are showing in our theaters, are a waste of time and only make matters worse . . . What we need most of all are sound, realistic and constructive plans to bring it (business) back to at least normal starting with the new season on Labor Day."

Kuykendall asserts that "cussing Hollywood is a sure way to grab headlines, but it doesn't turn out any better product, and it drives business away from our theaters by convincing the public that our shows are no good." He continues with the assertion that Hollywood now realizes what it is up against and that the exhibitor, too, "has got to work hardest at his job from now on."

Turning to "the double feature sickness," the MPTOA exec. asserts the dual bill "is a local problem of competition," adding "we believe something should and will be done about it soon."

> "Resort to rigid statutory regulation of the length of a show is dangerous," observes Kuykendall, "but may be the only way out as a last resort if public resentment and indignation keeps mounting. It is a bad method to pursue, and may bring worse troubles in its wake."

It is the MPTOA prexy's thesis that the producers and distributors have a definite role in the elimination of duals. "Why," he asks, "don't they undertake to convince the public that they should patronize the theaters that try to show single feature programs?"

Kuykendall also contends that the Hollywood press preview "evil"—meaning the previews by Hollywood commentators and columnists long in the advance of release—"ought to be corrected by the producers." He asserts that there is no quarrel "with the Hollywood commentators' judgment of the merits of the picture."

"No one, however, has yet tried to defend or justify the long interval between these 'Hollywood press previews' and the actual release of a picture for public exhibition, which is seriously damaging our business," Kuykendall says, adding, the taunt,

> "When will the producers do something about it, or are they afraid of the Hollywood commentators and columnists?"

49 Arbitration Cases Pending; 3 Appealed

Of 84 cases filed with the motion picture arbitration system since Feb. 1, 17 have been decided, 18 withdrawn and 49 were still pending as of yesterday. Distributors won in 12 of the 17 decisions; three favored exhibitors, and two were split judgments.

Three complaints have been carried up to the Appeals Board which has made one decision upholding the arbitrator in a finding favoring the distributors.

SERVICE BUREAU FOR THE MPTOA

Bi-Weekly Summaries to be Distributed from New York Offices to Affiliated Units

The MPTOA shortly will launch an established service bureau which fortnightly will release a summary of information on conditions in territories, trends in buying and selling under the consent decree, important developments in arbitration, etc., it was disclosed yesterday when the full text of the report of MPTOA's Committee on Film Buying Problems and Operating Policies was made public.

Secretaries of state units affiliated with the national exhib. organization will submit summaries weekly to the MPTOA headquarters here, which will make the required digests for re-distribution among the units.

The committee's report, submitted by Chairman Arthur H. Lockwood at the recent MPTOA convention, it is also disclosed, rejected an all-industry ad campaign proposal, suggesting the inclusion of uniform industry institutional copy in all company and theater ads instead.

Report further condemned distributor tendency to reduce the number of prints, called for the death of duals, condemned the sale of pictures to non-theatrical accounts where sale of all product to established theaters is not effected, and reviewed anticipated results of the decree and arbitration system.

Carolina Exhibs. Close Parley; Elect Next Winter

Myrtle Beach, S. C.—Theater Owners of North and South Carolina closed their convention here yesterday on an optimistic note after what was described as one of its best and most helpful meetings. Approximately 300 theaters were represented at the convention. A large group of Paramount execs. were in attendance.

Officers will be elected at the unit's Winter meeting.

Soviet Russia Enters Bid For "The Great Dictator"

proached on a deal for "The Great Dictator." United Artists is considering the offer, but it is not likely that any deal will be made unless it is a cash transaction, it was reported last night.

It is expected that the Soviet will also try and make deals with other film companies that have produced anti-Nazi pictures, Warners, 20th-Fox and Metro having a number of productions of this type on hand. What the offer was for the Chaplin picture was not disclosed.

Exhibs. Reported in Rush To Book Soviet Pictures

As a result of Russia's entrance into the European War as an enemy of Germany, theaters throughout this country are swamping Artkino Pictures with orders for prints of Russian films. Artkino, sole distributor in this country of Soviet films, is not only smothered by orders from regular customers, but also by houses that would not have played a Soviet film a short week ago under any circumstances, but are now anxious to get on the bandwagon and cash in on a rising wave of interest in Russia.

"Soviet Frontiers On The Danube," a full length Russian documentary, and a two reel subject dealing with the Red army is now playing at the Central Theater, and Amkino is faced with the necessity of rushing out a number of extra prints to fill orders.

Company is unable to fill a large number of orders for Soviet anti-Nazi pictures. "Professor Mamlock," a bitter anti-Nazi film, is particularly in demand, with not a print in the country.

Auto Giveaways For Tradeshows?

show practice. Attempts to confirm this last night were unavailing; previously, it had been understood that the company named in the reports was committed to a "business only" policy for its tradeshows.

Should any company finally determine upon the auto giveaway plan discussed, it could mean the distribution of some 160 cars for the first full five-block, assuming that tradeshows were held in all 32 exchange territories and that one car was given in every spot for each one of the five screenings for the exhibs.

With Warners said mulling over plans for tea dances in connection with ballroom tradeshowings of 1941-42 product—as exclusively disclosed in THE FILM DAILY yesterday—there was lively trade speculation yesterday as to line to be adopted by other companies.

Metro, which starts its tradeshows the week of July 14, has no "window dressing," social or otherwise, in mind, it is understood. There is no hint, as yet, as to the plans of 20th-Fox or Paramount, the other two signatories to the consent decree.

Meanwhile, it was said yesterday that other companies, not signatories to the decree, are watching the situation with keen interest, with some execs. said prepared to advocate tradeshows if the decree plan works out for the "Big Five."

SEC Approves Exemptions Asked in K-A-O Reorg'n

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—The SEC has approved application of Atlas Corp., RKO, K-A-O, the American Co. and Michael J. Meehan for exemption from the provisions of the investment company act of 1940 in several transactions involved in the reorganization of K-A-O.

The Commission found the terms of the proposed transactions reasonable and fair and that they do not involve over-reaching on the part of any of the parties.

In This Case Italy's Film Fare Was "Fine"

Rome—An Italian producer and nine pic stars have been fined 10,750 lire (nominally about $550) for eating meat on "meatless days." Owners of restaurants which served the meat were fined 5,600 lire each and given 20 days in jail. Two butchers, charged with selling the meat at advanced prices were fined 1,500 lire each and jailed for 20 days.

ference yesterday that the company would not be stampeded into following suit, but would fulfill its current season's contracts 100 per cent before going after new season's business.

The district managers were told to so inform their field staffs and to abide strictly by this policy.

Sears condemned the tendency in some quarters to "sluff off" the last few months of a season in order to get the jump in selling the new lineup. He declared that Warners not only would deliver their full lineup for the year, but that exhibitors would be given the same service in the last two months as in the first two.

GRAD SEARS

Carl Leserman, assistant general sales manager, presided with Sears at the conference. Also in attendance were Roy Haines, Eastern and Canadian manager; Ben Kalmenson, Southern and Western manager; Norma H. Moray, short subject sales manager; A. W. Schwalberg, supervisor of exchanges; Arthur Sachson, head of the contract department; and the following district managers: Ed M. Schnitzer, Eastern (N. Jack, Southwest (Dallas); Henry Herbel, West (L. A.).

Warners Starting Singles In Uptown at Cleveland

Cleveland—Nat Wolf, Warner zone manager, has made the first local step leading to adoption of a single feature policy in subsequent-runs. Starting yesterday, the Uptown, 3,500-seat nabe house, went into straight single features with no change in the admission scale. Heretofore, the Uptown has played a mixed policy,—singles when the pictures were strong enough to stand alone, and duals otherwise.

All Cleveland first-runs play single features, as do the de luxe first-run nabes, including Loew's Park and Granada, Keith's East 105th St., Warners' Colony and the Shaker.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

"The Bride Came C.O.D."

with James Cagney, Bette Davis
(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

Warners 86 Mins.

DAVIS-CAGNEY COMEDY STARRER RINGS THE MONEY BELL AND WILL RE-SELL TIRED MOVIE PATRONS.

In "The Bride Came C.O.D." the producing and acting team of Cagney and Cagney, enhanced by the versatile Miss Bette Davis, have rung the money bell. It's solid proof that William Cagney's position as associate producer is predicated on ability. This is the type of product that will re-sell kicked-around theater patrons on movies for entertainment purposes. There is nothing new or unusual—with the exception of seeing Bette Davis as a comic—but plenty of action and laughs and not too much worry about dramatics and leading characters' dignity—pays off in the audience's thorough enjoyment of the film.

We label Miss Davis versatile—and that she is. She takes pratt falls and mud on the face and a shoving around, with the grace of a hard working, competent burlesque queen. She'll disappoint none of her fans with this performance. The brothers, Epstein have written a clever story—well balanced and sprightly. Ernie Haller's camera work adds authenticity, almost newsreel in quality to the yarn.

Of course, it would not be possible to say all those nice things if the directorial chore had been bungled—but it wasn't. William Keighley has added to his reputation.

Jack Carson, as the egotistical band leader, gives a cutting, brilliant performance. The rest of the strong cast including Eugene Pallette, Stuart Erwin, Harry Davenport and William Frawley give excellent support to the starring players.

James Cagney, about to lose his airplane to the finance company is hired to fly Bette Davis, an oil heiress, and Jack Carson, a "phony" band leader from Los Angeles to Las Vegas—in an elopement engineered by radio gossiper Stuart Erwin, who has jumped the gun on the announcement.

Overhearing a long-distance telephone conversation between Bette and her father (Eugene Pallette), Cagney, to earn enough money to get his plane out of hock, calls the father back and agrees to kidnap Bette and deliver her unmarried in Texas for ten dollars a pound.

He gets off the ground with her but over the desert she attempts to escape via parachute and they crack up on the desert. They come upon a ghost town—are discovered by Army fliers, the band leader arrives, the sheriff arrives, the father arrives, and bedlam breaks loose as Cagney tries desperately to prevent Bette from marrying Carson.

Of course, it's a comedy windup with Bette and Cagney man and wife.

Book this one—it's cash on delivery.

"Barnacle Bill"

with Wallace Beery, Marjorie Main, Virginia Weidler
(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer 92 Mins.

BEERY'S RETURN TO SEA-TRAMP ROLE IN FILM MARKED BY STRONG CAST, ACTION AND COMEDY, SHOULD DO GOOD BIZ.

There are a few stars in Hollywood who can stand being typed. Wallace Beery is one of them. Audience reaction to the first glimpse of Beery as the foul old sea-tramp in "Barnacle Bill" is good proof that is the way they want to see him. This film might be "Min and Bill" or any of the others of the sea stories Beery has made, and although the story here is good, it is Beery's characterization that makes the film. Beery has never had a better feminine foil than Marjorie Main proves to be. She is excellent as the frumpy amorous storekeeper.

Director Richard Thorpe and Producer Milton Bren working from Jack Jevne and Hugo Butler's screenplay have both done a fine job. The only possible criticism, could be that the film is a little long. Leo Carrillo, Virginia Weidler and Donald Meek in supporting roles rate bows.

There are great exploitation possibilities in this picture and you won't have to worry —your audiences will thoroughly enjoy it.

Wallace Beery, a sinful, worthless, lazy deep-sea fisherman, registers his boat in his daughter's (Virginia Weidler) name to escape creditors, even though he hasn't seen her since she was a babe in arms.

Virginia, when she hears of it, comes to San Pedro from Gloucester, Mass. to live with and reform her dad. She, with the assistance of Marjorie Main, who is in love with Beery, are doing a good job until Beery borrows money from Marjorie to keep a schooner and is discovered running off to the South Seas.

Disappointed, Virginia leaves him and tells him she is going back to Gloucester. Beery filled with remorse, takes his schooner out and—using it as a refrigerator ship—breaks a monopoly held by racketeers and has them thrown in jail. He sails his ship home in a hurricane and earns the respect of his daughter and wins the hand of Marjorie.

The kids will love "Barnacle Bill."

U. S. Halts Import of Nazi Propaganda Pix

sult that not one has entered the U. S. in more than a week, it was learned from authoritative sources here today.

While other propaganda activities have been curtailed with public announcements such as closing of German consulates and German Library of Information, film suppression has been accomplished quietly, but nonethe-less effectively, officials revealed.

While present legislation is believed adequate to cope with situation, both State and Justice Departments are drafting new legislation to make enforcement air-tight. Officials are still trying to figure out some way to stop distribution of films already in country, but doubt if this can be accomplished even through new legislation, but hold that public opinion will stop their showing in time.

Flow of Nazi Newsreels To the U. S. Interrupted

Steady flow of German newsreels into the U. S. has been stemmed or at least interrupted, with two varying reasons given.

Some trade quarters link the nonarrival of the newsreel subjects, deemed largely of a propaganda nature, with the closing order for German consulates issued recently by the U. S. Government.

At Ufa's offices here, however, it was claimed that the non-receipt of new Nazi newsreels was due to "transportation difficulties."

No new German features have been received recently, it was also said.

Proposed New Taxes Would Hit Pix Industry

New taxes tentatively voted yesterday by the House Ways and Means Committee would adversely affect the motion picture industry and its affiliates. Rep. Cooper, D., Tenn., stated that the committee had agreed tentatively on a $25 annual use tax on coin-operated devices which pay cash or tokens redeemable for cash or merchandise and a $5 tax on each machine vending merchandise, such as cigarettes and candy.

Also a 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax was approved for optical instruments other than eye glasses. This would affect camera lenses. A similar tax was approved for adding and calculating machines and typewriters in stores and offices.

Other tentatively approved taxes which would affect the film industry were a 5-cent tax on all passenger fares in excess of 35 cents whether by rail, air, water or bus; a five per cent levy on all telephone bills; and an increase in rates on second-class postage.

The committee tentatively rejected a proposal to tax electric light bulbs. Such a tax would add greatly to the exhibitor's headaches if the committee should reverse itself and the tax be imposed.

TRADE GETS ACOUSTIC RECOMMENDATIONS

Legislation Spurs Theater Building In Cuba

PLAIN TALK

. . . about equipment

By GEORGE H. MORRIS

Equipment Editor, THE FILM DAILY

IN the days when sound films were in their swaddling clothes, there could be found within the industry a number of folks who thought them merely a passing fancy. Silent product was riding high, wide and handsome. The trade and the public was used to it, and it was inconceivable to many a sincere soul that articulate pictures could supplant the inarticulate productions.

All kinds of arguments were advanced by the stand-patters in an effort to persuade the progressives of the latter's impractical enthusiasm. There's no use hashing-over what developed. Silent pix quickly grew colder than the ground in which they buried Massa.

WHAT'S the point of resurrecting this now ancient sound-silent war? Merely that it serves, along with countless other instances we could cite, as proof that, in a business whose membership at large is constantly shouting, "Give us something new!" well, the shout is sometimes louder than the actual inclination to accept innovation.

Right now, when theaters are faced with the problem of retaining attendance, appears to be the time for them to think in terms giving audiences something new besides the changes in screen programs. Isn't it logical to assume that if fans like to view different pictures, that they also appreciate a change in the environment in which they see those pictures? Monotony, we hold, should not be allowed to set-in in film houses.

MUCH can be done to build business via equipment, furnishings and decoration, —which brings us to the subject of the magical things which can be accomplished by theatermen disposed, for example, to harness the newly-developed field of fluorescence.

PLAIN TALK

. . . about equipment

Out in Chicago's new Ken Theater you will find periods of intermission quite as interest-creating as the periods during which the films are being projected. Patrons are intrigued and delighted with the fluorescent murals and the fluorescent curtain within the auditorium. Activated by so-called "black light," they glow in the dimmed-to-a-minimum illumination while music swells from invisible music sources. This showmanship in decoration is proving a co-force in the b.o. magnet.

THEN out in Columbus, Ohio, the Beechwold Theater is a definite subject of a fan conversation through its fluorescent art objects in luminescent niches,—one of which objects is a three-foot-tall plaster cat. Patrons gawk at it with amazement, and 'round the city folks talk volubly about the theater,—which is precisely what theaters want folks to do.

Many, many houses, most of them spanking new ones, have succeeded handsomely in getting themselves favorably talked about, and consequently better patronized, by installing the new Alexander Smith & Son's fluorescent carpet which is treated to glow under "black light."

—o—

SOON hosts of theaters, we predict, will be using house programs printed in fluorescent inks, permitting the audience to read them without going through optical contortions. Strangely enough, the blackouts in Europe's beleaguered cities are giving impetus to the use of fluorescent printing.

"Black light" may be considered by some, in its application to film houses, as just a passing fancy. But we don't concur. Showmanship marches ever onward, and it's dangerous to snub progress.

The exhibition field will be a long way toward recalling its lost sheep customers when it clarions: "Off with the old, and on with the new!" And means it.

Little effort to sell city accounts has been made as yet.

● ● ● THE spirits of many a fine film production of the past ......seemed to pervade the institutional Astor Theater last night...... as if to welcome a worthy successor to the triumphs they themselves once enjoyed......at that showcase of cinema powerhouses......And a triumph it was for "Sergeant York"......and all who have had a hand in its making and impending distribution......Chiefly among the "all" who were present last night......at the world premiere ......were Sergeant Alvin York himself......whose titanic act of heroism in the Argonne Forest during the World War......was the factor responsible for spotlighting a career......many of whose facets are in themselves exceptional screen material......and bringing that career biographically to the American screen......

● ● ● ALSO among the "all" at last night's inaugural...... was Co-Producer Jesse L. Lasky......who came on to New York this week from the Coast......as the representative of the Lasky-Hal B. Wallis team......which combo reaped unto itself its deserved share......of the audience acclaim......which resounded at the finale......Too, there was Gary Cooper...... who plays so magnificently the film's title role......and Harry M. Warner, head of the House of Warner, who had also come to town from California......for the debut......as well as upon the highly patriotic mission......of raising funds for United Service Organization......

● ● ● WARNERS' "greeting staff" included Gradwell L. Sears, Carl Leserman, S. Charles Einfeld and Mort Blumenstock......—and just to give you an idea of the greeted-ones:......Governor Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, the entire Tennessee contingent from the House of Representatives......General Hugh Drum, General Lewis B. Hershey, the entire Second Corps Area staff, the Army Information Department staff......Mrs. Ogden Reid, Billy Rose, Eleanor Holm, Major General Bill Donovan, Max Gordon, Bert Lytell, Jack Alicoate, H. V. Kaltenborn, Franklin P. Adams......Joan Bennett, Major Albert Warner, Constance Collier, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Borough President George U. Harvey of Queens......Mr. and Mrs. Jules Brulatour, Henry Luce, Elsa Maxwell, Fannie Hurst, Grace Moore, Don Mersereau, Barnarr Macfadden, General Stotesbury, and many others......

● ● ● MOST of the above......upon invading the theater's lobby......were shuttled willingly to the microphones of Station WINS......o'er whose facilities the premiere was broadcast ......and spoke of the gala event......Before the eyes of the droves of Great White Way pedestrians......flashed the magnicent "Sergeant York" announcing sign......—four stories high and a half block long......on which glitter 15,000 red, white and blue lamps......—a stirring sight and the most patriotic sign to grace Old Broadway within this scribe's memory......To add further glamour, Charles Ross, (filmland's Eastern illumination genius), had the facade bathed in lumens......issuing from three huge searchlights......Indeed, last evening Broadway was the Great Red, White and Blue Way!......

● ● ● THE "Sergeant York" world-bow account would be incomplete......without recording the fact that Jesse L. Lasky......deserves the thanks of the entire nation for making the film possible......With infinite patience, enthusiasm and faith......he negotiated for the story ......America will be richer for his efforts and those of his associates ......and, make no mistake about it......—so will exhibitors......

"Sergeant York"

with Gary Cooper, Walter Brennan, an Leslie, George Tobias, Stanley Ridges

Warners 134 Mins.

ACE B.O. ATTRACTION, SPLENDIDLY RODUCED, ACTED AND DIRECTED. IS "NATURAL" FOR EVERY OUTLET.

Every factor which spells Success with capital "S" for a feature picture, and evenue with a capital "R" for theaters verywhere, is present in the screen veron of the saga of "Sergeant York," Amera's Public Hero No. 1 of World War No. 1.

Like the incredibly accurate marksmanip of its title character, the footage scores ntertainment bull's-eyes from start to finh,—a span of 2 hours 14 mins.—during hich the story of the Tennessee farmeroldier is enthrallingly told at the hands f Producers Jesse L. Lasky and Hal B. Vallis through the brilliant directorial skill f Howard Hawks.

The latter has acquitted his assignment ith rare good taste, and a sensitive feelng for bringing out the best values of the creenplay which Abem Finkel and Harry Chandlee, plus Howard Koch and John Huston, co-operatively fashioned.

For sheer timeliness, this picture has few serious competitors, despite the fact that it deals with events transpiring 'twixt 1916 and 1919, for the reason that the erson of York symbolizes the fundamental elements America needs to survive in a world where democracy and moral honesty e the targets of fierce, destructive forces.

"Sergeant York" will fill the hearts of everyone with pride, and spines with those chills and thrills which spring from rampant action, heroics and romance. It is an audience picture of the highest rank, and this by any yardstick, for its appeal ranges through every age-bracket of fandom.

Gary Cooper heads a cast of great ability, —a magnet name on any marquee. In the top femme role is Joan Leslie who rockets to star-status as a result of her work in this vehicle. Noteworthy performances are turned in by Walter Brennan, pastor of the mountain folks; Stanley Ridges as the Major; and Margaret Wycherlv, as Mother York.

The story tells of York's metamorphosis from a drinking, brawling, but nevertheless industrious individual, into a man of fervent faith and stalwart character, whom fate was to make the idol of a nation. His romance is tenderly and interestingly told, as is his finding religion on the night when he set out in the storm-wrecked Tennessee mountains to kill the man who [illegible] cheated him, only to have his rifle ick by lightning.

There are the sequences unveiling his [illegible] experiences in the Army, into which [illegible] was, as a conscientious objector, unwillingly inducted, and his subsequent "conversion" effected through the realization that he must "render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and to God the things which are God's." His capture virtually single-handed of some 132 Germans in the Argonne is rousing, based-on-fact stuff.

Too, there is his return to worshipping America which bestowed upon him lavish honor, and to his native State which gave him the home he yearned for, and where he could live in happiness with the girl he loved.

So fine is the assembling of the production that one is apt to be enchanted by, rather than cognizant of, the music by Max Steiner,—which is excellently conceived and rendered at vital periods during the picture, with splendid dramatic and emotional results. "Sergeant York" may not be a great picture by the standards of arty critics, but it is smash box-office.

"TOUGH GUY" YARN WILL SUPPLY AMUSEMENT FOR KID AUDIENCES.

Once more, what's left of the Dead End Kids, plus the Little Tough Guys, are regenerated and set on the straight and narrow in an innocuous programmer that will amuse the juveniles. To most other audiences, the mannerisms, gags and plot will be too, too familiar.

Gladys George, Barton MacLane and the kids do as much as possible with a weak story involving a reformed gangster who takes several kids out of a reform school because they are the sons of his former gangsters. The kids, not knowing of the reformation, believe they are part of a plot to revenge their father's deaths by a rival strong-arm mob.

On finding out their benefactor has gone straight they try to leave but come to his rescue when they find the rival gangster is plotting to pull a job in the small town where they have been living.

"Forced Landing"

Starring Richard Arlen

Evelyn Brent
(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

Paramount 67 Mins.

PINE-THOMAS ACTION MELLER ABOVE AVERAGE FOR "GASPER" AUGURS WELL FOR SERIES.

This is the second Bill Pine-Bill Thomas effort for Paramount release, and if the boys keep up the standard used in this film, they are going to make a lot of friends who operate theaters.

It's an action picture with plenty of production—a reasonable budget—and a plot that raises it a mite above the average gasper.

Dick Arlen, trimmed back down to the handsome class, and Eva Gabor, a Paramount foreign hope, handle the romantics. Miss Gabor is lovely and possesses that continental charm that has clicked before. What Paramount does about it matters a lot—from what she looks like in this.

Associate Producer John W. Rogers has done well. Interesting background, good casting and clever cutting brought him what he sought. Gordon Wiles' direction is excellent, good enough for any cast of players.

The Maxwell Shane-Edward Churchill script shows thought and aside from a few corny sides of dialogue—which action fans don't mind—it is real meritorious. J. Carrol Naish as a banditto and Nils Asther, a heavy, merit praise.

Richard Arlen, a transport pilot who has lost his "ticket" in the states, joins the air force of a mythical country in the Pacific Ocean. Before he ever steps into a plane, he punches his Colonel (Nils Asther) in the nose, in a fight over the Colonel's fiancee, Eva Gabor.

He accepts a position flying a civilian plane to one of the islands far outposts rather than inprisonment or death for striking an officer. His first passenger is Miss Gabor and while on their way to the outpost they land to inspect the burned plane of Arlen's predecessor and are captured by bandit-patriot J. Carrol Naish. Naish's son is accidentally shot and Miss Gabor flies him to safety and a doctor. Naish pays with his life for going along.

There are some thrilling air-fight scenes as Arlen and Miss Gabor uncover and destroy the real villain of the piece.

You can't go wrong on this cast or finished product.

"Bachelor Daddy"

with Baby Sandy, Edward Everett Horton, Donald Woods, Raymond Walburn

Universal 61 Mins.

WEAK COMEDY IS INEPT IN ALL DEPARTMENTS; SANDY ONLY BRIGHT SPOT.

Several good comedians are shamefully wasted in this offering because of a generally inept job, the screenplay being weak to an extreme and the direction is hardly adequate. Baby Sandy is extremely cute, but a cute baby doesn't go a very long way in making a whole picture. The cast is more than adequate and the technical work is up to par.

As screen merchandise this picture is a week lower bracket on a double feature bill for small nabes. Its faults lie principally in a corny story that reaches back into antiquity to dust off the bewhiskered plot about the bachelor, or, bachelors, in this case plural, being stuck with an offspring an anxious mother wants cared for. Even an old one like this can be amusing if it is novel, but this isn't.

Baby Sandy, Edward Everett Horton, Donald Woods, Raymond Walburn, Franklin Pangborn, Evelyn Ankers, Kathryn Adams, Jed Prouty and Hardie Albright are prominent in the cast. Harold Young was the director and the original screenplay was written by Robert Lees and Fred Rinaldo.

Story concerns Miss Adams' incarceration and plan to get Horton, Walburn and Woods to take care of her baby. There is considerable confusion too much slapstick that is not very funny and few other odds and ends before it is wound up. Habet Hoc Habet.

More Firms Step Up Com'rc'l Tele Plans

step up plans so as to cash in on the publicity wave which pioneer advertisers are netting as a result of preliminary tests. Estimated audience in metropolitan New York during the first two days of commercial telecasting was about 5,000 television homes, practically all of them in the income brackets which most advertisers desire to reach.

Programming is now smoothing out at both NBC and CBS, and schedules for the future will be arranged at least 10 days to two weeks in advance. There will in all probability be no further emphasis on films—although they will be used to a certain extent, but most of the efforts will be confined to live talent shows.

At the present time work is being rushed to re-align the receiving sets now in use and it is estimated that about 85 per cent of the 5,000 sets in New York have been fixed and now are performing according to existing standards. Set owners were practically unanimous in favoring the reception of the sound on the new FM channels, claiming a 100 per cent improvement over the old sound channels.

Unions Again Worrying Over Tele Jurisdiction

The long delayed, all-out struggle for jurisdiction over television talent is expected to break out anew following signaturing by CBS of a contract with Local No. 1, IATSE, covering tele programs on WCBW, and the imminent conclusion of a similar contract by NBC for its tele outlet, WNBT.

Unions principally involved in the struggle to control tele talent are Actors Equity Ass'n through its charter from the 4 A's, AFRA controlling the radio field, Screen Actors Guild which considers tele an extension of the motion picture art as well as a possible threat to it, and Chorus Equity.

First Tele Variety Show Tonight From WNBT

Preparedness Note?

New Haven—Maybe it's in line with the defense program—maybe not. But at any rate, the Paramount, M & P first-run house here, has installed a target gun game in the men's room.

Government's Defense Move to Interconnect Systems May Dim Broadway's Bright Lights

Possibility that Broadway's bright lights may be dimmed loomed as a result of the Government's drive to conserve power and to interconnect power systems for the benefit of Southern defense manufacturers. Decision rests on the duration of the Southeastern shortage and the availability of steel and copper to make necessary connections between utility networks.

While the initial Federal Power Commission interconnecting order involved only power companies in Florida, North Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, experts are probing possibilities in the Tennessee Valley and Ohio and the New York utilities systems could be hooked in if necessary wire and tower materials are made available.

changeover, Sears stated that: "We are stepping-up the authority and scope of our field sales forces. It means that we are abandoning the now out-moded plan of maintaining sales outposts and are concentrating executive energy in the important market points by having a field sales manager in constant two-way contact with our branch managers and customers.

"Under the consent decree, the Home Office must be in rapid contact with all branches at all times. To do this, a certain amount of in-between supervision must be removed."

The men now holding the post of district manager will be added to the branch sales personnel, where they will function as field sales managers. Those affected include Ed M. Schnitzer, New York; Robert Smeltzer, Washington, D. C.; Rud Lohrenz, Chicago; James Winn, Kansas City; Ralph L. McCoy, Atlanta; Fred M. Jack, Dallas, and Henry Herbel, Los Angeles.

Sears pointed out that, if any other supervision at all becomes necessary under the decree, it will only be as assistants to either himself, Carl Leserman, assistant general sales manager, Roy Haines, Eastern and Canadian sales manager, or Ben Kalmenson, Southern and Western sales manager.

"The change will add seven top-flight sales executives to the branch forces," added Sears, "and will put Warners not only in a stronger selling position, but also equip it to serve exhibitors better than ever."

convention this year, Barney Balaban Paramount president said yesterday. Balaban asserted that selling under the consent decree necessitated a great amount of attention to detail in every situation which could not be gone into at a national convention.

In regard to the company's selling policies, Balaban said that until such time as he had discussed every angle of selling with Neil Agnew, sales chieftain, it would be impossible to make any statement on the subject. He did say, however, that with percentage pictures, it would be a question of what Paramount and the exhibitors thought of a picture that would determine any percentage basis.

Balaban said that he did not foresee any change in selling in Canada, with the sales forces expected to sell at least a minimum totaling this year's lineup. He explained this by stating that under the company's elastic production policy it would be impossible for the sales force to sell a given number of pictures in Canada at the beginning of the season above this year's announced program of 44.

Questioned as to whether or not Paramount would increase its theater holdings in Canada to offset the rapid development of the Odeon circuit there, Balaban said that Famous Players Canadian was interested in making deals with any theater owners who had worthwhile properties that would be important to Paramount.

Smalley Injunction Suit Against Para. Settled

Troy, N. Y. — Suit brought by Smalley Theaters, Inc., against Paramount Pictures for a show cause order and a mandatory injunction compelling the distrib. to carry out the provisions of a contract, has been settled and discontinued.

Plaintiff alleged that Paramount did not license its films to the Smalley Theater at Fort Plain according to the contract and that it was giving Schine's Little Falls Theater preference. Stipulation entered provides that terms of the contract be carried out.

Louis Phillips represented Para., and Leonard L. Rosenthal of Troy the plaintiff.

Finds Minn. Exhibs. Back "Anti-5" Law

ied, after a tour of mort than half he state and interviews with more han 100 exhibs.

"Certain parties seem to be trying to create the impression that our members are beginning to weaken, that they are starting to worry about product," Strom said. "But the real truth is just the opposite.

"Some exhibitors I conferred with while out through the state have told me their present film contracts will carry them only through August or the first half of September, but even these boys are standing pat. Several of them told me they'd go so far as to close up rather than go back to the block of five plan of buying film.

"There is no move here to close houses for the month of July or for any other month, either because of lack of film or as a b.o. aid. If there are any closings for lack of pictures, they'll not come until October and likely not then, as long as some of the distributors are selling now under the Minnesota law.

"We are prepared for any action which may be taken by the distributors. We are not going to stipulate to set the anti-act aside until such time as its constitutionality is determined by the courts. We are ready to fight this thing through to the finish and don't let anyone make you believe otherwise. I've found only two exhibitors in all my travels through the state who are opposed to the new law and these two alone are certainly not going to control the actions of the majority nor of Northwest Allied.

"Distributors can spring any surprise they want. We'll be prepared for it. And I'm sure the court will give the attorney general and our attorney plenty of time to answer in any court action that is started."

Majors' Legal Attack on Minn. Anti-5 Block Law Is Said Near

Minneapolis—Legal attack on the Minnesota anti-five block selling law, long in preparation by major company counsel in New York, is expected to be launched here momentarily, with David Shearer carrying the ball for the distribs. as local counsel.

Decision to move now in the test case is said to have come suddenly in New York, when two of the three major companies insisted on action before the new selling season starts, United Artists, not a party to the New York consent decree, also is lined up in the fight against the Minnesota law.

It is reported the decision to withhold date of the attack on the law and course of procedure, is for the purpose of keeping distributor moves in the fight more or less secret from sponsors of the law until the last minute, indicating a "surprise" approach by which the distributors expect to get quick temporary relief, without endangering their future status. The surprise move is expected to shorten the trial as well, forcing a quick showdown one way or the other.

OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this resume of critical and columnar comment on industry matters are essentially those of the writers quoted; they do not necessarily reflect those of THE FILM DAILY.

JIMMIE FIDLER (N. Y. Daily Mirror): "Hope I'm not boring you with my attack on double features. I feel I'm fighting for the life of the films. The movies face bankruptcy if this attendance slump doesn't end —and I blame it on the duals.

"I started this about two years ago. Then it was near a one-man battle. Lately it has created national interest among producers, exhibitors and public.

"My mail has heavily increased from theater owners and managers. Of 411 to date, only two favor double features; 391 see double features ruining the business.

"Many theater men conducted polls on the question. Not one poll shows a public majority in favor of double features. Patrons of the Ken Theater (Chicago), are 77 per cent for single features, 21 for double, 2 per cent neutral.

"So, why doesn't the declining industry do something? Why don't theater competitors see they're fighting a common enemy, and get together?"

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS: "The House of Representatives at Springfield has voted, 81 to 49, to compel managers of movie houses to have a recess of 15 minutes after every hour of showing of any bill that runs longer than two hours and 15 minutes. This great 'health' measure is supposed to be aimed at the naughty 'double feature,' which is said to annoy some movie patrons and must certainly annoy the Hollywood producers or the theater owners—we don't know which, or why.

"Of course there are Tories who still cherish ancient delusions about people minding their own business and regulating their own amusements; but there are only 49 of them in the Lower House of the Sucker State. Eighty-one representatives are committed to the doctrine of Nursie State and Kiddie People.

"We think the law may be popular. The only thing more popular in the Little Red Schoolhouse than a recess was a holiday, and it ought to be that way at the movies. The lobby industries, including peanuts, candy bars, popcorn and pop, should boom. Jimmy Roosevelt's juke boxes can be installed in the lobby for patrons who prefer an unbroken evening of film gazing. Nursie Illinois is good to her little boys and girls."

THORNTON DELEHANTY (N. Y. Herald-Tribune): "Hollywood theater owners from many parts of the country came here . . . for their annual convention, which was devoted largely to speeches blaming the producers for the ills of the picture business, particularly as regards the double feature. The producers in turn blamed the exhibitors for ruining the business by giving away a set of dishes with every picture.

"Everyone agreed that the double feature was a menace, and each side held the other responsible. When the convention was over the exhibitors passed a resolution condemning double features, a move that will be about as effective as if Congress were to pass a bill decreeing that henceforth all children are to be born with not more than one eyebrow.

"The exhibitors, on the final day of the clambake, also passed a resolution disapproving of the preview system in Hollywood which permits the correspondents and syndicated columnists to evaluate pictures before the public gets a chance to see them. Evidently the theater owners are striving to find some way to keep their patrons from knowing how bad a picture is until they have paid their money to see it.

"From the theater owner's point of view this is an excellent idea. People are more inclined to see a picture if no one has said anything to discourage them, but it does not go far enough. The theater owners should pass a rule, and get Congress to enact it into a law, forbidding any patron who has seen a picture which he didn't like from relaying his opinion to any of his friends or acquaintances. This would do away with that word of mouth publicity which many experts in the field of showmanship consider immeasurably more potent than professionally directed propaganda. Of course, if by some weird quirk a patron liked a picture, he would be free to talk about it as much as he liked. He might even get some kind of reward. . . ."

Retailers Spent $370,000 To Plug Benchley's Short

Retailers in 530 cities throughout the U. Detroit Film Row Buys Defense Savings Stamps

here, according to statement to THE FILM DAILY by Edgar E. Kirchner, chairman of the Motion Picture Division.

Practically 100 per cent enlistment of exchanges on a weekly contribution basis has been secured, with purchases ranging from 25 cents up to some $25 and $50 bonds for some branch managers and salesmen. One salesman made a single purchase of $1,000.

Average sales to exchanges and supply companies have been about $400 weekly, with a steady increase so that the current weekly contribution is $500—about $2,000 in the first month.

Story in the theaters is just the reverse. Failure of Government officials to supply necessary signs to hang in the box-offices so that customers will know the bonds can be bought there, plus the failure to supply the books for the stamps, as undertaken when the campaign was started, has made it impossible to event start the drive, except in about a dozen houses in the state.

Available books and signs were placed in the Adams Theater, Detroit first-run house, and some 10 houses of the Associated Circuit here and upstate as of last Wednesday. Sales to date have, however, been negligible, with insufficient data to even make an estimate of Stamp sales.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

"Hello Sucker"

with Hugh Herbert, Tom Brown, Peggy Moran

Universal 61½ Mins.

STILTED AND STAGEY, "SUCKER" BOGS DOWN DESPITE POSSIBILITIES IN CAST AND STORY.

There is little to recommend this picture. A clever yarn and, as far as leading characters are concerned, a good cast are here, but something happened somewhere and it all counts for naught.

A newcomer, June Storey, playing a 17-year-old Mae West character takes care of killing the sequences in which she appears, but the rest of the film, despite the clever Hugh Herbert and personable Tom Brown and Peggy Moran, is stilted and altogether too stagey. It might be acceptable for a second spot with a strong main feature.

Tom Brown and Peggy Moran—a couple of kids from the country, are sold a booking agency by "slicker" Walter Catlett. The former owner Hugh Herbert, convinces them they have been robbed but the three of them decide to carry on.

They begin booking acts into store windows and develop a good sized nation-wide "circuit." There is a lover's quarrel, a few knock-down and drag-out scenes and of course the pair are re-united through the efforts of Herbert.

There are some good comedy scenes in this, but not enough to make the picture.

"New England's 8 Million Yankees"

RKO-MOT 20 mins.

Interesting Issue

Dealing with the rock-ribbed shorelines and hilly fastnesses of New England, the cradle of the nation, this new issue of the March of Time is interesting for general audiences. However, it is a slightly confused subject, as it jumps from women's garden clubs to national defense plants. It might have been better if it had adhered to a closer-hewed line of material.

Subject shows Exeter, New Hampshire, as a typical New England town of a high order. It deals extensively with the people, their activities and way of life, all of which is interesting, but more on the travelogue style than the usual MOT material.

The noted Yankee Division is also seen in the subject, once again at full strength for the first time since World War I. In addition, a number of defense plants, including shipyards, are shown. The commentary is good and the subject is handsomely projected to the screen.

Para. 16-Week Production Cost Up $2,600,000

No "Sluffing" of Para. Pix for Summer, Balaban States at Press Confab.

Coast by the PCC of ITO, and taken up by the MPTOA at its recent Los Angeles convention, Balaban and Adolph Zukor, Para. board chairman, who also was present, concurred in the opinion that the New York consent decree made necessary a new system of business "for everybody."

Exhibs. See Pix Well in Advance

Balaban and Zukor pointed out that exhibitors will see pictures well ahead of their bookings, will be able to determine a picture's worth and plan campaigns in advance, and that smart exhibitors will single-feature to conserve product. Balaban stated that if one large territory would go single feature it would pave the way for a national attempt.

Regarding pix advertising under the consent decree, Balaban expressed the opinion that increased costs and additional effort necessary to sell product certainly warranted increased advertising.

Breaking with generally accepted trade practice and custom, Paramount will have no set number of pictures on the 1941-42 program and will provide the studio with as large a budget as is necessary to produce and deliver pictures that will be top flight in every respect insofar as maximum costs, technical efficiency, stories and planning can make them, Balaban declared.

Planning Strong Pix for Two Years

Balaban said that Paramount has been planning such a program for two years in anticipation of world events and the New York consent decree. He pointed out that the company has a huge theater interest, and therefore must service these theaters with top-flight pictures; that shrinking foreign markets and increased production costs make it mandatory to increase earnings from every available source, and that only strong product can meet these needs. He was laudatory in remarking upon the tremendous strides made by the studio in diversifying and speeding up production and in increasing quality generally.

In emphasizing increased spending, Para.'s prexy said that during the past 16 weeks, the studio has spent $2,600,000 more on production than in the same period last year. Qualifying this expenditure, he pointed out that the company's financial position is excellent, earnings have justified increased expenditures and that earnings for the current quarter, would probably top the corresponding period last year.

No "Sluffing" on Summer Pix

Balaban emphatically stated that there would be no "sluffing" on the company's Summer schedule, and that every one of the 44 pictures sold on the current season program would be delivered, and delivered on time. He said that the company was well ahead now on its production schedule and a number of pictures on next year's schedule are in work, with several completed.

Paramount's first block-of-five to be sold under terms of the consent decree has been completed and by Sept. 1, a number of other pictures will be completed or in various stages of advanced production, Balaban said. He emphasized the point that Y. Frank Freeman and his production forces are farther ahead with actual and planned production than the studio has been any time in its history.

Make Production Fit Demand

Enlarging on the production speed-up, Balaban stated that the company's elastic policy will allow it to increase production greatly to meet any demands, but said that the studio will only produce material that has definite marketable qualities. He also warned that dissipation of product might be very harmful in the future, due to a scarcity of worthwhile stories and ideas.

Balaban said that theater attendance nation-wide has shown some improvement, and has increased generally in the far-flung Paramount interests, but that increased taxes have offset any benefits. He also said that he believed general admissions were slightly lower.

COL. MAY HANDLE ARGENTINE PIX

Interested If Equitable Deal Can Be Worked Out, Says McConville, Back from S. A. Trip

Returning this week from a Central and South American trip, Joseph McConville, Columbia foreign manager, reported yesterday that company business was moving ahead, due to pictures that had a general appeal. McConville stated that the market was in a healthy condition, theater construction was continuing on a large scale, and conditions were generally good.

He said that company business was definitely better than last year in the territory.

McConville declared that he was still interested in making a deal for distribution of pictures produced in Argentina if an equitable proposition could be worked out. Under such a deal, Columbia would distribute these pictures throughout the world where they were marketable, he said.

He held conventions in Brazil and Argentina during his nine-week trip. McConville expressed the belief that Argentina would turn out about 50 pictures this year, with this total probably increasing in the future.

New Efforts Being Made To End SCG, Disney Strike

Hollywood—Although negotiations to settle Screen Cartoonists Guild's Walt Disney strike were stymied when Guild representatives charged that Willie Bioff had been invited by the Disney organization to participate in negotiations, new efforts were being made last night to settle the walkout.

Disney issued following statement to strikers:

"I believe you are entitled to know why you are not working today. I offered your leaders the following terms: All employes to be reinstated to former positions; No discrimination; Recognition of your union; Closed shop; Fifty per cent retroactive pay for time on strike—something without precedent in the American labor movement; Increase in wages to make yours the highest salary scale in the cartoon industry; Two weeks' vacation with pay.

"I believe that you have been misled and misinformed about the real issue underlying the strike at the studio. I am positively convinced that Communistic agitation, leadership, and activities have brought about this strike, and have persuaded you to reject this fair and equitable settlement. I address you in this manner because I have no other means of reaching you."

Guild representatives said they are willing to accept 50 per cent of retroactive pay to May 28, 1941 if non-strikers were assessed 50 per cent of what they earned since May 1928.

Chi. Operators Vote Not To Take Summer Pay Cuts

Chicago—Chicago operators' union executive committee voted yesterday that no Summer reductions in operators' salaries would be permitted. They also endorsed action of operators donating time to run defense films which they figure would amount to 1,000 hours weekly for 300 Chicago theaters.

Defense Bonanza In Ind. No. B. O. Aid

Indianapolis, Ind.—A list of defense expenditures of the Federal Government, compiled by the ATOI as distributed to the manufacturers located in the various cities and towns in Indiana, with the exception of Gary, gives a rather peculiar picture however true, of the enormous amount of money being spent in the state, while exhibitors located in the defense towns report business 20 to 30 per cent below normal. The total amount of Government spending totals $435,933,274.

Exhibitors in small towns of the state report that many of their patrons are leaving to take advantage of the high wages being offered in the defense manufacturing industries.

Exhibs. offer several reasons for showing absolutely no increase in box-office receipts, in fact just the opposite.

(1) That most of the industries are operating from two to three shifts; (2) that the country is suffering from war nerves and cannot sit still for three hours required for viewing a double feature program; (3) that listening to the radio for war news has supplanted motion picture entertainment for the present; (4) that most picture patrons formerly in the lower wage group, now employed in defense work a higher wages are seeking more expensive entertainment; (5) that most people are no longer interested in entertainment in which they can take no active part.

Indiana has one of the largest per capita expenditures for defense in the nation, estimated at $127.17 per person, despite the fact that b.o. receipts currently are from 20 to 30 per cent off, with wages going skyward and help scarce.

Academy Gives Views On Theater Acoustics

acoustical and equipment engineers. The recommendations embody general principles to guide the acoustical design and construction of sound motion picture theaters.

In a recent letter sent to the president of each chapter of the American Institute of Architects, as well as other architectural groups, Darryl F. Zanuck, Council chairman, pointed out the value to architects of the information contained in the bulletin, and offered a sufficient number of copies for transmission to the complete membership of each organization.

Essential design features as summarized in the bulletin are:

1. A minimum volume consistent with the required seating capacity and proper auditorium proportions.

2. An auditorium width of from 50 to 70 per cent of the length and an auditorium ceiling height of not more than 40 per cent of the length.

3. The use of non-parallel surfaces; in particular, the floor should not be parallel to any ceiling section not opposite side wall sections parallel.

4. The use of convex rather than concave surfaces. In addition, the wall and ceiling surfaces should otherwise be broken up so as to thoroughly diffuse the sound.

5. Auditorium absorption characteristics to provide the same rate of sound decay in a vertical as in a horizontal direction from side to side or from back to front walls.

6. Heavily upholstered seats and ozite-lined carpet in the aisles.

7. Backstage treatment giving a negligible amount of reflected or reradiated sound from the backstage into the auditorium.

8. A heavily carpeted proscenium designed for good viewing conditions from the front seating section.

9. Auditorium walls with sufficient sound insulation material to prevent extraneous noise entering the auditorium.

10. The projection booth acoustically treated with fire-proof material and projection ports equipped with acoustic baffles.

11. All equipment subject to vibration and hum such as arc generators, voltage regulators, lighting control equipment, etc., acoustically isolated from the auditorium.

12. Air-conditioning equipment of a high-volume, low air-velocity type with air ducts provided with acoustic baffles.

Long narrow auditoriums, high ceilings, excessively long and narrow balcony overhangs, concave focusing surfaces, and large unbroken reflecting areas should always be avoided, as acoustical faults will always result from their use.

If these recommendations are followed, the resulting auditorium will give sound (as reproduced on a modern two-way equipment) with high intelligibility, warm, natural screen presence, good balance between high and low frequencies, uniform loudness level throughout the auditorium and the proper relative balance between high level music passages and low level, intimate dialogue scenes, the bulletin declares.

Recommendations for reducing acoustic difficulties on motion picture sets were made recently by the Academy's Research Council.

Duplex Theater Idea Revived

Associated Project Will Be Test Of Duals

the angle of duplex theater construction, an idea popular in theater construction about the time of the last war. Construction has been started on a second 900-seat theater to adjoin the present 1,200-seat Wyandotte Theater in the south end suburb of Wyandotte, where Associated also owns the only other two theaters in town. The new building, which will include two store units, will contain 900 seats.

"The basic policy will be single admission which will allow patrons to attend either theater auditorium," Schreiber said. The usual two feature program will be shown in one auditorium, while the other will show the main attraction single feature, with the rest of the program made up of short subjects and news reels. Those patrons who prefer double bills can have them, and those who prefer a shorter show or single bill can likewise have it. There will be no differential in admission price.

Test Case for Duals

"Thus there will be a determination of how many patrons go to one show only, and how many prefer double features. There are, of course, other possibilities, but the basic theater policy at the opening will be adapted to the needs of the present, and an attempted solution to the double bill evil.

"Associated has experimented on a small scale with single bills in Wyandotte, and found it successful when the picture played was strong enough to warrant single billing."

Two other construction projects are included in the same announcement by Schreiber. The Iris Theater in Detroit, which they have just taken over, is to be closed in about three weeks, and will be completely remodelled at an estimated expenditure of $30,000 for opening in September.

To Demolish Norwood

The Norwood Theater on Woodward Ave., one of the oldest neighborhood theaters in the city, is to be torn down in about a month for street widening, and will be replaced by an entirely new theater structure.

Shindler to Construct $100,000 Pic Theater

Wilmington, Del.—Benjamin Shindler, manager of the Ace Theater, has announced that construction of a film theater to cost more than $100,000 will be started within a few weeks at Boxwood Road and Maryland Ave. in suburban Crestwood.

The property in Crestwood was purchased recently by Shindler, and an initial survey was immediately started.

House will seat about 800, Shindler said, and will incorporate every modern design of theater construction. It is planned to have the theater ready for opening in the Autumn.

Steel Tower Will Make Fox Building a Landmark

Detroit—Construction of a 100-ft. steel tower atop the 125-ft. Fox Theater Building is designed to give the house the most outstanding sign in Detroit, when the present two-story sign is removed because of city ordinance condemning stickouts on Woodward Ave.

The sign, being erected by Walker & Co., will have a slow motion flasher effect on the lower 40 feet, through use of 4-ft. sections. Upper 60 feet on each of the four sides will have the name F-O-X in red lettering 14 feet high. A dual read beacon light will top the entire structure. Sign will be constructed to withstand a 100 m.p.h. gale, according to L. C. Van Boven, who is directing the job.

HAVE MADE A LOT OF Improvements
IN LOW COST
COMFORT COOLING

To date there are over 8,000 USAirCo theater installations. Such a record brings justifiable pride in having attained the industry's No. 1 position in theater cooling. But its real significance lies in the benefits to be derived by the exhibitor from the wide and varied experience it represents.

Many of these thousands of installations presented new and unusual problems to challenge the skill and ingenuity of USAirCo engineers. Their solution upset many an apple-cart of old-time air conditioning theory. New, more practical, more economical methods had to be devised. As a result, scores of improvements have been perfected by USAirCo engineers which have brought Kooler-aire to new peaks of efficiency and costs down to the lowest level in years.

You, like every other smart operator, no longer question the need for comfort-providing, business-building theater cooling. But you are concerned over what type of system will do the job best at the least cost. Equally important—Who makes it? Who installs it? Who stands back of it?

So before you invest in comfort cooling equipment, get the answers to these important questions. Learn what is new in theater air conditioning. Get all the facts about the different types of cooling—blower, evaporative, cold water, refrigerative—all of which are made by USAirCo.

Find out how little Kooler-aire costs—how easy it is to buy—why the theater industry has for 17 years made USAirCo its first choice.

Shift of Plans Made In Up-State Project

Rochester—Merger of two building projects in suburban Brighton has effected the new theater planned for that section.

The new development, a half-million dollar building enterprise, will include the theater and a large block of stores.

Plans for the project, which will get underway in two weeks, call for a 1,200-seat theater, two large stores and 12 smaller stores.

The two building projects were merged when it was feared both projects might place too many stores in the Brighton area, dislocating both town planning and economic balances.

Philip Smith Theatrical Enterprises have the lease on the theater. A supermarket and Neisner's will occupy two of the larger stores.

Savini Notes Boom In Theat. Building

because these sections have felt the slump more than the New York and New England areas, he adds.

Savini attributes this activity to renewed confidence on the part of the independent exhibitor to obtain a steady flow of product under the consent decree. "Heretofore," says Savini, "the 'Little Fellow' was at his wit's end to secure pictures. Now he knows he can force the situation where product is refused. Thus assured, he is going ahead with much needed improvements which he had been putting off because of his uncertain position. The average exhibitor is willing to take a gamble if he is reasonably sure of a return. He still believes in the picture business so long as he has something to offer worth selling.'

Savini agrees with this viewpoint as he feels that by September a natural amount of extra revenue out of the great sums now being spent on defense works is sure to gravitate to the boxoffice. Motion picture business is due for a boom in the Fall, he says, and the small exhibitor is in a better position than ever before to gather in his share.

"STANDS OUT LIKE A LIGHTHOUSE IN A FOG" says MOTION PICTURE DAILY of

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye"

[Paramount]

Hollywood, June 23

THIS picture has everything a box-office doctor could think of to prescribe for his feeblest patient. The prescription is dated for release on Aug. 1, when if ever a stimulant is needed, and the previewers were saying, following its press screening, that if this treatment doesn't effect a cure there's nothing left to do but 'phone the mortician.

The picture is a comedy with music, a funnier comedy than the screen has seen in some while and with better music.

The marquee names are Mary Martin, Don Ameche, Oscar Levant, Virginia Dale, Connie Boswell, Rochester, John Scott Trotter's orchestra, Elizabeth Patterson and Raymond Walburn, to list the tops.

Source work, from which the picture takes its title and plot, is Clare Boothe's stage play, the newspaper, magazine and radio comment on which was of a kind and persistence to din into the memory of the population that this was a hit show.

The picture is designed, exploitation-wise, to tap just about every sector of public interest, to wit:

Mary Martin, in fact a Southern belle, plays a Southern belle, only superficially counterfeit, in the picture; she also sings, among other good songs, a number entitled "My Start" in which she manages to divest herself of garments, inoffensively, much as in her original "My Heart Belongs to Daddy";

Don Ameche, a direct inducement to the feminine trade, plays a straight role and shares the singing;

Oscar Levant, of the "Information Please" program, the concert stage, the bookstalls and the fields of humor, plays a pianist-composer, as well as several pianos, and sparks the dialogue with a steady flow of wit;

Connie Boswell, of the Bing Crosby airshow, sings a song in characteristic fashion and with telling result;

Rochester, of the Jack Benny broadcasts, sings a song and executes a dance in a manner to stop any show;

John Scott Trotter and his orchestra, famed for their contribution to the Bing Crosby radio show, furnish superlative musical accompaniment and background, as well as a somewhat special addition to marquee copy.

It stands out against the welter of contemporary screenings like a lighthouse in a fog.

Running time, 83 minutes. "G."

USO Campaign Opens With Speed Keynote

their drive for contributions this morning. Much preliminary work already has been done. Healthy pledges are waiting to be picked up from several of the major producing companies with home offices in New York. But the important part of the campaign is the collection of hundreds of smaller contributions from workers in the industry. The USO (United Service Organizations) wants the active, personal participation in its work of as many individuals as possible.

The USO, seeking a $10,000,000 fund nationally, will use its money to provide recreation and proper environment for men in the U. S. services when they are on leave away from their camps. Co-operating with the USO are such organizations as the YMCA, National Catholic Community Service, Salvation Army, YWCA., Jewish Welfare Board and National Travelers Aid Ass'n.

Crescent Trust Suit Trial Starts Today

Judge Elmer D. Davies, presiding, who is expected to deny the defense application for a jury trial when court opens this morning, will determine whether the Crescent setup, built and headed by Tony Sudekum, is to be dissolved and the properties rearranged under separate and independent corporations.

The Government also seeks injunctive relief by directing that the practices resulting in the alleged monopoly control and its oppressive exercise be enjoined, and, additionally, seeks to enjoin producers from licensing pictures except on a local competitive basis and to enjoin Crescent from acquiring additional theaters or financial interests therein.

The Crescent case qualifies as a unique legal "guinea pig" in that it is the first time that the Government has so moved against an indie circuit. Similar suits are pending against the Griffith interests, in Oklahoma City, and against the Schine interests, in Buffalo, N. Y.

Imposing Legal Array

The array of counsel on both sides is imposing. Prosecuting for the Government are Robert L. Wright, key man in the New York equity suit, Alleyn N. Doby, Albert Boggess, Seymour Simon, John Clagett, Frank Cunningham, all here from Washington, and Assistant U. S. District Attorney O. W. Hughes. Appearing for the defendants are George H. Armistead, Jr. of Nashville; Louis D. Frohlich, Herman Finkelstein, Arthur Driscoll, Benjamin Pepper, Edward C. Raftery and Adolph Schimel, all of New York.

Under subpoena by the Government are such New York company execs. as R. W. Perkins, Austin C. Keough, Leopold Friedman, J. Miller Walker, Felix Jenkins, Peyton Gibson, Charles Schwartz, among others.

Trial is expected to require some five or six weeks, and the court will sit six days a week, with both morning and afternoon sessions.

Court records disclose the Government is having considerable difficulty in getitng subpoenas served on many of the almost 100 independent theater owners and others whose presence in Nashville as witnesses are very essential to the D of J. They have left former addresses and many have not been found, which may in itself null and void charges involving individual situations.

Sam Harris Rites Held

Funeral services for Sam H. Harris, veteran theatrical producer, were held yesterday at the Frank C. Campbell Funeral Church. Burial was at Woodlawn Cemetery. In association with George Kleine, Harris, in 1913 booked "Quo Vadis" into the Astor theater at the then unheard of admission price of $1.00.

GOETZ-BROWN TO LONDON

Would End Tax on Tickets Of Uniformed Service Men

aters that cut established prices must collect tax on the full admission price and the circuit seeks to eliminate all taxes, or to at least permit soldiers to pay tax on the reduced price.

Pointing out that Loew's has reduced tickets usually selling above 40 cents to 25 cents and 40 cent tickets to 20 cents but must still collect 10 per cent of the original price, four cents on a 40 cent ticket sold for 20 cents or nine cents on 99 cent ticket sold for a quarter—circuit executives believe the tax does much to nullify the patriotic gesture of the theater, and that the amount of tax revenue involved is trivial.

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, is behind the drive and has said, "It seems rather illogical to offer a cut-rate ticket to a man—because his $21 per month wage hardly includes much margin for entertainment—and then tax the man on the full price of the ticket, or at all."

C. C. Moskowitz points out that the practice requires endless explanation by theater staffs and in many instances the theaters is blamed for the high tax.

Double Bill, Double Biz

Portland, Ore.—Broadway theater here is about ready to conclude that its patrons want duals. House played "Billy the Kid" solo for half the way, then added "Washington Melodrama." Biz promptly doubled.

B & K Aluminum Shows

Chicago—B & K will co-operate with the drive for aluminum utensils by staging morning shows July 21, aluminum utensils paying admissions. Other theaters will also cooperate in the drive.

"Manpower"

with Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich, George Raft

Warners 105 Mins.

MOVING DRAMATIC VEHICLE HAS ACTION, DRAMA AND "NAMES" TO GIVE IT STRONG GENERAL AUDIENCE APPEAL.

This release should ring the box office bell any place. It is a picture that should do business despite weather or competition as it contains everything the general public looks for in a picture. It has a cast of "names," lots of action and plenty of drama, all rolled up in a fast-moving story. Exhibitors will do themselves a favor by giving this picture a boost.

Edward G. Robinson and George Raft are both well cast in the two male leads and both turn in neatly geared performances. Miss Dietrich is more than adequate as the female bone of contention, and the picture has been afforded a supporting cast that could hold its own at the top of any picture. Included in the long list of top-notch performers cast in minor roles are: Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Egon Brecher, Ward Bond, Eve Arden, Walter Catlett, Joseph Crehan and Joyce Compton. All of them are good.

Credit for the fine assemblage of players and quality of the picture belongs to Mark Hellinger, who served as associate producer. Director Raoul Walsh moves the story and players along on an even keel, pointing up the dramatic scenes nicely and injecting plenty of laughs. The ably contrived screenplay was written by Richard Macaulay and Jerry Wald. The dialogue is fast, funny and sharp throughout.

Robinson and Raft are linemen for a power company in Southern California, and are the closest of friends, although Robinson is a dud with the females and Raft has little if any trouble making his way. Raft befriends Brecher, an aged lineman, and goes with him when his daughter is let out of prison. Miss Dietrich, the daughter, is tagged by Raft as a sharpshooter the minute he sees her.

However, Robinson falls for her when they meet and despite Raft's efforts to prevent it he marries her. Balance of the story is concerned with the triangle created by the situation, with Robinson killed in the end, but not before he has forgiven Raft for his mistaken belief that he had tried to poach on his territory. Climax is a bangup.

To Every Man and Woman In The N. Y. Film Industry:

Starting today, (July 7th) the N. Y. Motion Picture Industry in all its branches, starts a rapid-fire, 10 day campaign to raise its quota in the drive for the United Service Organizations (USO).

We, the committee, realize that there have been many recent drives for funds; we also know there will be many more. An emergency is with us—and we must meet it.

No campaign strikes nearer our hearts than that of the USO. You have been liberal in your response to appeals from abroad. Now comes an appeal from home—from the lines of defense right here.

The USO is raising funds to provide recreation and proper environment for men in the U. S. services—when they are on leave from their camps. This is vitally important. Many hundreds of the boys in training have come from our industry. Your contribution to the USO will help keep those boys happy.

The USO wants as many donations—large and small—as possible, because it wants as many persons as possible directly and personally to participate in the work of the USO.

Your contribution will be welcome. Please give it quickly!

cameras during July and August, while the remaining 13 will start in September and October, Einfeld told THE FILM DAILY at the week-end.

In addition to its record for production, the Warner company also is setting a Summer record in distribution and exploitation activities. This schedule, highlighted by the roadshowing of "Sergeant York," is of such proportions that Einfeld will stay in New York for at least a month to work with Mort Blumenstock, who is in charge of advertising and publicity in the East, in directing special campaigns on four of the eight features set for July-August release.

Chief motivating force behind the unprecedented activity is the company's intention, as recently indicated by General Sales Maager Gradwell L. Sears, to deliver all the product contracted for 1940-41 before making any announcements about the new season. With the pictures already finished or in work. Warners will go into September, when selling under the consent decree begins, with from 15 to 20 pictures ready. Some of these are to be sold singly.

In addition to "Sergeant York," the features already completed or in production include "Flight Patrol," "Navy Blues," "Law of the Tropics," "Nine Lives Are Not Enough," "The Smiling Ghost," "One Foot in Heaven," "The Maltese Falcon," "New Orleans Blues," "They Died With Their Boots On" and "Kings Row."

The starters for July-August include "Captains of the Clouds," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Battle of the Atlantic," "High Towers," "Black Widow," "Background to Danger," "Man from the F. B. I.," "Right Shoulder Arms" and "Sing, Baby, Sing."

Just set for September-October are: "The Gay Sisters," starring Bette Davis; "Captain Horatio Hornblower"; "Yankee Doodle Dandy," with James Cagney portraying George M. Cohan; "The Hard Way," Irwin Shaw play; "Carnival in Rio," musical; "George Washington Slept Here," from the Kaufman-Hart Broadway hit; "The Male Animal," another stage hit; "All Through the Night"; "The Widow Wouldn't Weep," starring Jack Benny; "Rhapsody in Blue," based on George Gershwin's life; "Mr. Skeffington," best-selling novel; "Manhattan Fury" and "The Great Divide," from the play by William Vaughn Moody.

The four July-August releases that are being given special advertising and exploitation campaigns under Einfeld and Blumenstock are: "The Bride Came C.O.D.," co-starring James Cagney and Bette Davis; "Manpower," with Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich and George Raft; "Dive Bomber," with Errol Flynn and Fred MacMurray, and "Bad Men of Missouri," which Einfeld describes as the "Dodge City" of 1941.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Tradeshows

By L. H. MITCHELL

TRADESHOWS: Whether tradeshows under consent decree shall be plain or fancy is giving five consenting majors a prolonged headache. All business was first intention, entertainment being too costly, but competitive dates brought a change of mind, with Warners reported considering a tea-dance in connection with show, and one major said to be weighing automobile giveaways. One major sent questionnaires to its entire sales staff for their suggestions on how to handle tradeshows. RKO execs., it was stated, will spend week of company's first tradeshows, starting July 14, at various branch offices. Twentieth Century-Fox will have 3 "A" and 2 "B" pix in its first block-of-five.

COMMERCIAL TELE: Commercialized television had its official start on July 1 with an estimated 5,000 receiving sets in the New York City area, that number of families seeing and hearing the telecasts. First sponsored film will be a Missouri Pacific R. R. travel pic. New films will be produced for tele broadcasting, motion picture producers having decided not to supply pictures.

SHORTS: Majors reported from Chicago pushing long-term contracts (two and three years) for short subjects. . . . Twentieth Century-Fox plans an elastic program for its shorts. . . . Warner Bros. announced 86 but may add more.

MISCELLANY: Divorcement measure, originally sponsored by Senator Neely, bobbed up again with Senator Kilgore, D. W., Va., chairman of the committee studying it. . . . Illinois 135-minute program bill was killed by Senate vote. . . . MPTOA prexy, Ed Kuykendall, in a general bulletin demanded that distribs. put strong advertising campaigns behind their product. "Distributors," he said, "have got a job to do in creating a market". . . . U. S. halts importation of Nazi propaganda pix. . . Prexy Barney Balaban of Para., in trade press confab, said enough good pictures would end duals, with smart showmen playing singles to conserve product. Para., Balaban stated, has spent $1,600,000 more on production in the past 16 weeks than it had for similar period in past year. . . . Para. bought interest of E. J. Sparks in the Florida houses of his circuit. Sparks retires as president. . . . Mary Pickford will produce on her own. . . Sol Lesser gets UA pact release and joins RKO as exec. producer. . . . N. Y. trade will stage a 10-day campaign to aid USO. . . . Loew's cuts admission price for service men and the move is sweeping the country. . . Metro will question 90 big daily newspapers on "What does the public want?" in its film fare, its sales chief, W. F. Rodgers, told Theater Owners of No. and So. Carolina at Myrtle Beach convention.

Warners Buys Into ABT: Deal by which Warners will acquire 50 per cent of the Associated British Theaters 400-house circuit from the estate of the late John Maxwell was reported in the closing stage last night, with actual signing regarded as a mere formality. Warners won out over intense British opposition, and alternative offers which were said to have matched WB's.

DISTRIBUTORS TO RULE PREVIEWS

Three-Point Plan of Procedure Adopted by "Big Five" Following Discussions in New York

Adoption of a three-point plan of preview procedure was announced yesterday by the "Big Five" following a series of conferences attended by distribution heads, advertising and publicity directors and company counsel in New York.

The discussions, importantly, resulted in the decision that "previewing of pictures, for exhibitors, trade press or lay press, is strictly a function for distribution."

Heretofore, production has assumed that previews were essentially under its jurisdiction. Since early April, the preview issue has claimed exhibitor attention, with the climax coming last month when the MPTOA convention on the Coast called on all studios to halt advance previews for lay press critics and radio commentators.

Issue was originally defined when a group of Hollywood correspondents, headed by Douglas C. Churchill of the New York Times, demanded in essence that the studios give Hol-

With Few Exceptions, U. S. Theaters Drew Record Crowds; B'way Boomed

The nation's theater business over the July 4 week-end topped all previous Independence Day periods, according to reports reaching circuits and home offices yesterday. Records were toppled in most areas and, although official figures have not yet been compiled, indications are that even mediocre product was able to pack the theaters. In a few scattered territories, business was below normal.

In New York, the Broadway houses drew heavier patronage than was recorded last July 4 and attendance kept up the momentum for the entire week-end. For example, Radio City Music Hall with "Blos-

G. C. Graham to Australia For National Theaters

G. C. Graham, a former Paramount executive, has been named to represent National Theaters in Australia as a laison man between the home office and the company's interest there in the Hoyt theater circuit, it was reported yesterday. William Powers, National Theaters executive, leaves for Australia this week-end by Clipper to study the Hoyt setup.

Graham is expected to follow Powers shortly, and after working together for some months Powers will return to this country. A proposed merger between Hoyts and Greater Union hit a number of snags which shelved the whole plan and it is reported that Powers and Graham will work with the theater executives there to find some equitable way to put it through. Graham replaces Herschel Stuart, also a NT employe, as the Australian contact.

The celluloid story of the arena engagement has played over practically all of the major circuits. Exhibitors have reported to RKO Radio that it has been a tremendous boon to Summer business and in spots has upped grosses as high as 50 per cent.

$6,000,000 Trust Suit Settlement Is Sought

Application to settle the $6,000,000 triple damage anti-trust suit filed by Stanley K. Oldden. assignee of Pacent Electric Co., against Erpi, Western Electric and AT & T for $150,000 was filed yesterday in the New York Supreme Court and will be heard today by Justice Benjamin Schrieber. Pacent. which went out of business in 1933, claimed that it was prevented from selling motion picture sound equipment to theaters during the period starting in 1929. The suit had contended that an alleged conspiracy on the part of the defendants had resulted in a monopoly in the field. Action was filed in 1935.

Rites Held for Ulrich, "Father of the Pressbook"

Funeral services for Charles K. Ulrich, 82, former newspaperman, veteran film publicist, novelist and playwright, were held Sunday at the Fairchild Funeral Home, Brooklyn. Known as the father of the film pressbook, Ulrich originated the prototype of the modern books while a member of the Paramount publicity staff, then headed by John C. Flynn. Later, Ulrich held posts with PDC and Pathe, and at one time, he was also with the industry's Code Authority under the NRA. He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. F. E. Rutledge, Mrs. J. Z. Zollies, and Carl C. Ulrich.

Big 5 Adopts Plan To Rule Previews

lywood a priority on previews. For some weeks, the Studio Publicity Directors Committee has been working on a preview plan; meanwhile, new product has been generally previewed on the Coast at least two weeks before release.

Whether other companies will follow the lead of the "Big Five" which evolved the review formula for consent decree operations, was not ascertainable last night.

Statement issued yesterday on behalf of the "Big Five" conferees said that the following points had been established at the huddles:

> "1. That the trade press attend and review films at the trade showings for exhibitors in various parts of the United States, since the primary function of the trade press is the dissemination of information for the trade itself and serves as a guide to exhibitors;
> "2. That advance showings be arranged for magazines and weekly publications of general circulation, in such cases where deadlines make such advance showings necessary;
> "3. That, as the result of discussions with syndicate heads and newspaper publishers throughout the country, it was found that the consensus of their opinions was that the lay press and radio commentators be shown the pictures for review when they open for public exhibition in their local theaters. Therefore, this has been adopted as the practice."

The latter provision was interpreted as putting the lid on the early preview practice of radio commentators on national hook-ups. It also apparently means that local cities will no longer catch pictures in advance of engagements in their respective towns.

Participating in the discussions here were: William F. Rodgers and Howard Dietz, of M-G-M; Gradwell L. Sears and S. Charles Einfeld, of Warner Brothers; Neil F. Agnew and Robert M. Gillham, of Paramount; Herman Wobber and Charles E. McCarthy, of 20th Century-Fox; and Ned E. Depinet and S. Barret McCormick, of RKO Radio.

Holiday Theater Biz Hits Peak in Nation

soms in the Dust" took in $21,000 on the holiday, itself, and grossed $65,000 during the four days from Thursday to Sunday. The week is expected to hit $100,000.

The Criterion, where a $3,000 day is exceptional, grossed $5,000 with "In the Navy" on Friday and continued over the week-end to record-breaking crowds.

The Paramount had its biggest one-day business except New Year's Eve, on Friday when "Caught in the Draft" pulled in $15,000 and chalked up a matinee record of $9,000. The three-day period grossed $40,000, according to Manager Bob Weitman who predicts a $70,000 for the second week of the picture.

"Moon Over Miami" did "terrific" business at the Roxy, attendance being far ahead of last year's holiday, according to the management. "Manpower" gave the Strand its biggest opening week-end in more than a year, while "Sergeant York" was a sell-out from Friday through Sunday at the Astor. Business on "They Met in Bombay" at the Capitol was bigger than the holiday attendance last year. "Underground" kept up a strong pace at the Globe, while other theaters and neighborhood houses enjoyed the best business in months. Every Broadway theater, with the exception of the Rialto, held over its picture for another week.

All major circuits reported heavy attendance on the holiday and a strong upswing during the two following days.

Rain in Philadelphia A Boon to Exhibitors

Philadelphia—Inclement weather over the holiday week-end was a boon to local exhibs., with theaters experiencing their first really good biz in some time. Para.'s "Caught in the Draft" was reported setting a new record for the Fox.

Theaters in nearby shore spots also cashed in, thanks to the cold and rain. In Atlantic City, the ban on Bingo upon expiration of licenses, also aided theaters materially. Darkening of Bingo spots over the week-end cost the operators well into the thousands.

Triple Holiday a Hypo To Omaha Box-Offices

Omaha—The triple holiday of July 4th was a hypo to theater business here. At some houses grosses actually sky-rocketed.

The Orpheum broke the house record for an opening day with "In the Navy," which opened the Fourth. Indications pointed to double average business with this picture for the week.

Other holiday business in Nebraska and Western Iowa was spotty, depending largely on product and competition. Matinee business was off, evening grosses up.

total of between 85 and 90 pictures imported by them during the past year.

In addition, the Government is asking that 60 per cent of current releases be immediately withdrawn from circulation. Other companies operating there do not have offices and sell outright to agents, with monetary restrictions bringing business to a standstill in this respect.

It is expected that the companies affected will refuse to comply with the demands and cease doing business there unless more equitable terms are set up. It is pointed out that no money is likely to be allowed out of the country in the future, and the U. S. companies would merely be sending over sufficient top product to keep the Hungarian theaters open with no benefits to be derived.

Nazi influence is believed to be the cause of the ruling, with Nazi pressure also forcing a number of German-made films on Hungarian screens, according to reports.

Atlanta "Blackout" Ends as Rains Come

Southeast which had all but depleted power lakes and reservoirs was ended with heavy rains during the past week which covered north Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee where the major power dams of the Southeast are located.

The lifting of the ban will continue through this week and if at the end of the seven-day period, the lakes are continuing to store up reserve power, the "blackout" will be permanently lifted.

Under the program of cutting down on power wattage, theaters had been asked to reduce their kilowatt consumption by one-third of that used during the last week of May. All Atlanta and Georgia theaters co-operated to the utmost, even cutting down on the power usage more than asked while baseball clubs were yelling that they couldn't afford to stop night baseball and didn't.

Mo. Measure Would Make Stench Bombings a Felony

Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, to make it a felony for anyone to drop stench bombs in or adjacent to motion picture theaters or other public amusement places. The bill must now hurdle the Senate before the General Assembly adjourns sine die on July 12.

Punishment for the offense under the bill would range upwards from two years' imprisonment in the Missouri Penitentiary. Bombings now constitute only a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine or workhouse sentence not to exceed one year.

Crescent Jury Trial Motion Withdrawn of the presiding jurist to that type of trial.

Argument over validity of subpoenas issued to representatives of the major distribs. in New York, exchange heads and to defendants calling for correspondence relating to matters at issue in the suit largely took up the first day of the trial.

D of J's Allegations

Alyn N. Doby, special assistant to the Attorney General, who heads the Government's legal staff, told the Court the D of J would seek to prove that the defendants were able to secure from distributors lower rentals than indies could secure; that the defendants were able to demand clearance on any desired picture at any time regardless of prior requests of indies, and that a licensing system was maintained under which indies could never successfully compete with the defendants.

Armistead argued that all evidence as to cutting of local admission prices were irrelevant in a suit based on violation of interstate commerce laws. This was challenged by Doby, who cited the Standard Oil case in which evidence of local price cutting was admitted.

Branch Execs. in Attendance

Present in answer to Government subpoenas, are the following branch execs.: Thomas W. Young, manager Memphis branch, 20th Century-Fox; Walter W. Anderson, Paul S. Wilson, H. M. Lyons, T. L. Avery, Memphis.

Also present under subpoena are the following circuit presidents: G. W. Haynes, Memphis, Strand Enterprises, Inc.; Earl Hendren, Erwin, Tenn., Cherokee Amusement Co., Inc.; W. F. Ruffin, Covington, Tenn., Ruffin Amusement Co., Inc.; J. W. terday by Rep. Edward E. Cox, (D., Ga.).

It is understood that the Ways and Means Committee will write similar exemption into new tax bill which will provide tax, except for this exemption, on all admissions over nine cents.

However, the new tax bill is not expected to be enacted until September or possibly October and the Cox bill is designed to provide exemptions in meantime for service men.

Cox said he expected little opposition to the measure but would not predict how soon it will be enacted, due to prospects of recess of several weeks.

Wilgress Resigns from Canadian Film Board

Montreal — Resignation of L. D. Wilgress, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, as a member of the National Film Board was announced last night by Hon. J. F. Thorson, Minister of War Services, when he presided for the first time at a meeting of the board in Ottawa.

Thorson intimated that Judge T. C. Davis, Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services, would be selected to fill Wilgress's unexpired term which runs to August, 1942.

Jurisdiction of the National Film Board was transferred from the Department of Trade and Commerce to the Department of National War Services just before Parliament was adjourned and coincidental with the appointment of Thorson as Minister of the Department. Possibility of an enlargement of the duties of the Film Board in relation to the war effort was the theme of discussion at yesterday's meeting, the Minister said.

REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS

"The Stars Look Down" with Michael Redgrave, Margaret Lockwood, Emlyn Williams

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)
Metro 100 Mins.

SOMBRE WELSH MINING STORY BEAUTIFULLY DONE MAINTAINS TRAGIC NOTE THROUGHOUT.

Because there has been no previous exploitation on this English-made Metro release, don't expect to find just another short imported bill-filler in "The Stars Look Down." It's a thoroughly solid dramatic denouncement of private operation of Welsh coal mines.

Dramatically acted—beautifully written—and photographed in a stark newsreel manner considered a sign of genius when achieved by our American directors, this film has much to offer and in a great many respects is comparable to A. J. Cronin's previous "The Citadel."

However there isn't a light touch in the entire 100 minutes. If laughter is what's needed at the B. O. this one's no go. But if any picture that can honestly be labeled excellent in every department is going to draw—Metro has a sure-fire "sleeper" here, at least for highly discriminating audiences.

Of the three co-stars Michael Redgrave and Emlyn Williams are not so well known here while Margaret Lockwood was seen in "Night Train," but regardless of their obscurity audiences will know them before the screening is half through and what's more—talk about them.

Michael Redgrave, a young coal miner, in a mining town in Wales, leaves his home to study at a nearby University to enter Parliament so he can improve the lot of his people.

He falls in love with a little tart and chucks his career for marriage. Realization of what he has done comes when he discovers his wife's unfaithfulness—but because of his foolish choice between his people and the woman—he is unable to convince people of his sincerity in his belated campaign for the miners' safety.

A tragic mine disaster—in which his father and brother are killed, and the death of the mine owner finally accomplish what he has failed.

CAST: Michael Redgrave, Margaret Lockwood, Emlyn Williams, Nancy Price, Edward Rigby, Cecil Parker, George Carnay, Olga Lindo, David Markham, Kynaston Reeves, James Harcourt, Dorothy Hamilton, David Horne, Ben Williams, Allan Jeayes, Linden Travers, Milton Rosmer, Ivor Barnard, Desmond Tester, Aubrey Mallalieu, Clive Baxter, Frederick Burtwell, Frank Atkinson, Edmund Willard, Scott Harold.

"Accent on Love" with George Montgomery, Osa Massen, J. Carrol Naish, Cobina Wright, Jr.

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)
Twentieth Century-Fox 61 Mins.

LOW BUDGETER WITH EVERYTHING IT TAKES SHOULD PLEASE IN TOP SPOTS.

Originally tagged "Man With a Shovel," this little epic is a nice clean little movie with a lot to recommend it for a higher market than the one it was intended for.

Produced by Walter Morosco and Ralph Dietrich, with a screenplay by John Larkin, from Dalton Trumbo's original, and ably directed by Ray McCarey, it proves again that a good yarn and competent technical and artistic talent can produce a good movie on a very limited budget.

It also upholds the critics' recent predictions of good things for actor George Montgomery. This boy is going to have more feminine hearts at his feet, one day soon, than any of our present glamorous male stars. His acting is fresh and virile and doesn't take second place to a handsome phiz and physique.

A good cast—well cast—handle their roles—in the main character parts—earnestly and believably. Cobina Wright, Jr., a Fox importation from the "400" does a creditable piece of work—a few things like this and audiences will forgive and forget the caviar past.

George Montgomery, son-in-law of a business tycoon, is rapidly becoming fed-up with his lot as a pampered executive of his wife's (Cobina Wright) father. He decides to leave it all and bluffs his way into a WPA job as a ditch-digger.

He is befriended by his foreman, J. Carrol Naish, and goes to live with his family. He meets Osa Massen, the girl upstairs, and falls in love with her. He is delegated to go to his father-in-law (Thurston Hall) and demand better conditions in the tenements. He does, and his new friends discover who he is and accuse him of being a spy for their landlord. However, in the last reel he gains their points and is given the job of reclamation of the tenements. His wife gets a divorce and he is free to marry Osa.

There is comedy, drama, action and a tear or two in this. It's just the kind of picture your audience will like.

CAST: George Montgomery, Osa Massen, J. Carrol Naish, Cobina Wright, Jr., Stanley Clements, Minerva Urecal, Thurston Hall, Irving Bacon, Leonard Carey, Oscar O'Shea, John T. Murray.

"Dance Hall"

with Carole Landis, Cesar Romero
Twentieth Century-Fox 68 Mins.

WEAK STORY STOPS EFFORTS OF CAST; LITTLE DRAMATIC VALUE IN ACTION OR DIALOGUE.

Based on a novel by W. R. Burnett, this film from the Sol Wurtzel unit of 20th, isn't exactly top-grade screen-fare, but will do okay as a double bill filler. Redeeming factors are Cesar Romero and Carole Landis, who, even in this vehicle, will please a great many fans; and little flashes which, thanks to Director Irving Pichel, save the picture from complete failure.

The Stanley Rauh-Ethel Hill screenplay takes what was undoubtedly a good backstage yarn about a dance hall, and the people who make it tick, and swirls it into a kaleidoscope series of unconnected sequences and unimportant happenings. There is little dramatic value in the action or dialogue.

The rest of the cast is good—the music adequate—but on the whole the elements fail to jell.

Cesar Romero, manager of a dance hall featuring William Henry, a brilliant ivory pounder, is fluffed off by a pretty blonde, (Carole Landis) whom he meets in the hall. She turns out to be his new featured singer and there begins a series of battles between the two hard-boiled eggs—each trying to outsmart the other, and each in turn succeeding.

Romero loses a large sum of money to a group of gamblers and borrows it from William Henry, who had planned to use it to have a symphony of his played at Carnegie Hall in New York.

Romero gets the money back by pulling a phony lottery and gets thrown in jail only to be released by Carole, who confesses she loves him.

There are side plots involving Henry and June Storey, and J. Edward Bromberg and Carole—but the main theme deals with the Romero-Carole search for romance.

CAST: Carole Landis, Cesar Romero, William Henry, June Storey, J. Edward Bromberg, Charles Halton, Shimen Ruskin, William Haade, Trudi Marsdon, Russ Clark, Frank Fanning.

CREDITS: Executive Producer, Sol M. Wurtzel; Director, Irving Pichel; Author, W. R. Burnett; Screenplay, Stanley Rauh and Ethel Hill; Cameraman, Lucien Andriot, ASC; Art Directors, Richard Day and Lewis Creber; Editor, Louis Loeffler; Musical Director, Emil Newman; Lyrics and Music by Mack Gordon, Harry Revel, Jimmy McHugh and Harold Adamson.

"Mail Train"

with Gordon Harker, Alastair Sim, Phyllis Calvert
20th-Fox 87 Mins.

ESPIONAGE THRILLER WITH LIBERAL DOSE OF COMEDY IS ENTERTAINING SCREENFARE.

Any audience should get a fair measure of entertainment from this British-made offering being handled by 20th-Fox. It is well-paced, well-cast, replete with a well-sustained and suspenseful plot, ably directed and liberally sprinkled with good humor. It's a credit to Producer Edward Black, Maurice Ostrer, who was in charge of production, and all the other English technicians and players who continue to turn out creditable productions under what they term "a slightly difficult situation." Possibly the dialogue is a bit too British at times, but otherwise the picture is above par.

Gordon Harker, who continues his role as Inspector Hornleigh, is fine as the Scotland Yard man who looks dumb, but is smart. His sidekick, Alastair Sim, portraying the redoubtable and humorous Sergeant Bingham, is also very good. Phyllis Calvert adds an attractive and capable touch to the picture and the balance of the cast is more than competent. Walter Forde directed, keeping the players in line and getting the laughs over without undermining the suspense built up by the story. J. O. C. Orton and Val Guest wrote the screenplay.

Harker and Sim are sent to the Army to ferret out some petty thieves, much to their chagrin, but they run into a nest of fifth columnists and spies with dramatic results. Needless to say, Harker rounds them up after a struggle.

CAST: Gordon Harker, Alastair Sim, Phyllis Calvert, Edward Chapman, Charles Oliver, Raymond Huntley, Percy Walsh, David Horne, Peter Gawthorne, Wally Patch, Betty Jardine, O. B. Clarence, John Salew.

Popularity Ratings For Film Players

ture Research Bureau, 512 Fifth Ave.

Large-scale nation-wide surveys conducted under the direction of the new Bureau's regional supervisors will be made monthly to obtain a continuous popularity rating of actors and actresses, Dr. Handel stated.

The new service will be sold on a contract basis, and will be made available to producers, distributors, exhibitors, directors, agents and players themselves, it was stated. Male and femme players will be rated as two separate groups.

Discussing the new rating plan, which already has attracted the interest of two majors, Dr. Handel commented yesterday.

"The monthly spacings of the MPRB reports which will make it possible to establish the popularity trend of the stars should prove of utmost importance to all branches of the film industry as these ratings might well serve as bases for contracts, casting and advertising. The value of any casting combination could be determined by adding the rating of the individual actors. Another feature of this new service is a special provision which is made to determine the increasing popularity of newcomers and the interest in supporting players."

File Particulars Bill In Pickwick Trust Suit

the eight major companies has been filed here by Raymond E. Hackett, attorney, and Cummings & Lockwood, counsels for the plaintiffs.

Case involves the Greenwich and Pickwick Theaters, Greenwich, which seek $5,452,575 damages.

As to "collectively produced and distributed," as used in the complaint with reference to the film industry, it is stated the plaintiffs meant "the aggregate amount of feature motion pictures produced by the defendant producers and distributors." Regarding the allegations with reference to "collusion," the bill states that plaintiffs "have no knowledge of and do not presently claim or rely upon any acts of collusion other than those now set forth in the complaint." They do reserve the right, however, to furnish further particulars prior to the trial "when, as and if they may obtain further knowledge and information."

Justice Diamond continued temporary injunctions restraining the police from interfering with the game in Old Vienna (formerly the Gaiety Theater), the Academy Theater and Richter's Hall, pending trial in the Fall of indictments against the operators.

Justice Diamond emphasized he was not implying criticism of the police and was not sitting as a court of criminal jurisdiction, but said the operators had made out a prima facie case of irreparable harm if forced to discontinue until their trial.

Little 3 Omission in Crescent Suit Asked

but that this has never materialized.

Mitchell brought into the case the name of Lee Castlebury, manager of the Fifth Avenue Theater, Nashville, who was named as the representative of Crescent and who allegedly contacted owners of small town theaters in behalf of the expansion program.

Prior to calling of the first witness a plea was made by Attorney Edward C. Raftery, New York, for elimination of United Artists, Columbia, and Universal Pictures as defendants in the suit. Raftery created excitement among the attorneys when he accused Allyn N. Doby and Robert T. Wright, special assistants to the Attorney General, of attempting to have the Griffith suit in Oklahoma and the Sudekum suit in Nashville tried at the same time to confuse and hinder the defense.

Raftery explained that the "Little Three" could not come along with the "major distributors" in accepting the consent decree because United Artists, Universal, and Columbia had no theaters to which they could sell their pictures that might not sell to exhibitors in a block after a tradeshowing.

"They want us to put in a licensing system that is contrary to barter and trade," declared Raftery. "Their system would force the distributor to sell his product on the local option block." He charged Assistant U. S. Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold with failing to go through with his proposal, prior to the New York Paramount hearing, to "divorce" distribution and exhibition, forcing the "Big Five" to let go of the some 2,500 theaters owned or controlled by them and through which they are able to market their pictures without restraint and unhindered by the consent decree.

Admittedly representing only 15 per cent of total distribution volume, Attorney Raftery asked the court how the "Little Three" could possibly "create a monopoly" as charged with the Crescent Amusement Co. or anybody else.

'Ahem, Gentlemen. . .'

San Francisco—Northern Californian theatermen, gathered in PCC convention at Hollywood, agreed on one thing—double bills were the curse of the industry. Boys struck a gentleman's agreement. If duals couldn't be barred totally at the moment, at least they would knock out the practice of putting two top films on a single bill. Last week the California in Frisco played "Road to Zanzibar" and "Meet John Doe." Down the Peninsula, the El Camino doubled "The Great Dictator" with "Flame of New Orleans." Both are FWC houses.

> "I am sure the motion picture industry will speedily raise its quota for the USO—the army behind the army. Won't you please convey my thanks to the members of your Committee and the employes in the motion picture industry for their efforts in behalf of the USO."

B. S. Moss, chairman of the exhibitors and accessories committee, reports a ready response from those in the independent exhibition and affiliated industries.

Representatives in each home office makes it possible to step up collections. It is estimated that approximately 5,000 donations can be handed to committeemen without the donors leaving their buildings.

Kirsch Bids Chi. Industry Raise USO Quota by July 25

Chicago—Picturing actual conditions in many army camps, Jack Kirsch, prexy of Illinois Allied, yesterday made a stirring appeal to the USO committee for the amusement division and expressed the hope that the quota of $10,000 would be reached by July 25.

The film operators announced that they would donate 15 minutes per day without overtime if necessary for exhibitors running defense trailers.

Cashier Saves Theater's Cash

Miss Helen Monroe, cashier at the 46th St. Theater, saved the theater's $2,000 cash "take," by shouting into a telephone connected with the theater manager's office when a young thug appeared at the window at 6 o'clock last night and demanded that she hand over the money in the till.

Court Refuses to Modify Anti-Picketing Injunction

Scranton, Pa.—A request by Local 329, operators, for a modification of a preliminary injunction restraining picketing of the Bulls Head Theater was refused in an opinion by President Will Leach of the Lackawanna County Court. In dismissing exceptions by the AFL group and making the decree final, Judge Leach said Local 329 obeyed the preliminary injunction in form but not in fact as picketing was continued under the guise of an associated organization until final hearing was held.

The theater, long the center of a jurisdictional controversy between Local 329 and a CIO motion picture operators' union, is operated by R. A. Lesaius. Both unions alternately picketed the house with Lesaius eventually signing a contract with the CIO. Local 329 continued picketing until Lesaius was granted an injunction. The present contract with the CIO expires Oct. 1.

speeding up sales. Last year Columbia sold 9,800 accounts and he predicted that the figure would be exceeded this season, based on the present selling pace.

Decentralization has given the district and branch managers more power in concluding contracts, Montague said. It was noted at the recent Chicago convention that 75 per cent of the authority in making deals rested with the field staff executives and Montague said he believed the time would come when 90 per cent of the power would be with the district heads. While the home office retains the right to approve a deal, changes are seldom ordered, he said.

Columbia contemplates no scheduled tradeshowings as required by the decree but periodic screenings will be continued. Montague said Columbia had more big pictures completed and ready than at any previous corresponding period.

Complaint names M-G-M, RKO, Paramount and Warner Bros., with the latter's circuit the interested party. Theaters involved are the Liberty, Stanley, Grand and Lyric, the latter in Camden.

The same parties filed Case No. 11, naming the same defendants and involving their own Parkside Theater and the same theaters as in Case No. 10.

Myers Tries to Show Lea Was Forced to Run Duals

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Hearing in the arbitration case of Lea Theaters, Danville, Va., against Loew's, et al, continued here yesterday with Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied, who is representing the Lea interests, trying to show that Lea was forced to run double features and cut prices because of inability to obtain other than aged pictures; and John Casky, counsel for 20th Century-Fox, trying to show that other theaters in the city were superior to Lea theaters and that Lea forced them into double features and admission price-cutting.

H. F. Kincey, representing Wilby-Kincey Theaters, sought to prove under questioning by his counsel, Thomas Varnum of Charlotte, that Wilby-Kincey Theaters are the best houses in Danville and therefore entitled to booking reference.

Under examination by Myers, Lea denied that his theaters are inferior, or that others have better parking and transportation facilities. He also denied that he forced others into double features or price-war, during which it was testified, admission to Lea theaters dropped to five cents for double feature shows.

Myers brought out that Lea repeatedly had tried to obtain better bookings without success.

Hearing will be continued today.

MACGOWAN SPEEDS CULTURAL FILMS

66 to 100 Subjects for Latin-American Distribution in Prospect for the Coming Year

KENNETH MACGOWAN

With the film production program for the Latin-American Cultural Relations organization now under full steam, Kenneth Macgowan, the program's director reported yesterday that the coming year will see between 66 and 100 subjects from one to four reels in length ready for distribution in South and Central America. Macgowan also said that about the same number of subjects dealing with Latin-America would be distributed in the U. S.

The committee is currently organizing a distribution setup for Latin-America and two representatives will leave shortly to appoint representatives in every capital of the neighboring republics. A large-scale survey is also being conducted in this country with a view to establishing a distribution setup here. Number of 16 mm. projectors and outlets for this material is being carefully checked to avoid overlapping of distribution when it is started.

Macgowan is particularly enthusiastic about the fine co-operation he has been receiving from numerous amateurs who have filmed material in Latin-America at one time or another. He said he had received some 20,000 feet of material taken by amateurs, much of which would prove valuable.

At the present time, Macgowan has 40 subjects either completed or in various stages of production or preparation for distribution in Latin-America. In addition, he has some 15 subjects on Latin-America ready for distribution here.

Extend Junior Admissions Plan to Nine Ia. Towns

Des Moines, Ia.—Officials of Tri-States Theaters report the first month's try-out of the junior admission prices for youths between ages of 12 and 16 has worked successfully in Des Moines. Plan has been extended to several other cities—Waterloo, Oskaloosa, Cedar Rapids and Cedar Falls.

In addition the Central States Theaters, Inc., is using the junior prices at Fort Dodge, Mason City, Charles City, Clear Lake and Clarion.

The junior prices were tried out as an experiment to overcome the price jump from 10 cents for those 12 years old or less to the full adult admission prices. Most of the 12 to 16 are high school students.

Miss. Theaters Affected By Rationing of Power

Meridian, Miss. — Theaters throughout Northern, Eastern and Southern Mississippi are feeling the effects of "voluntary electric power rationing" being carried on by co-ops. operating under the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Mississippi Power Company, subsidiary of Commonwealth & Southern, which buys most of its power from TVA.

Marquees, lobby lights and others are not turned on in most houses under the "voluntary" saving of electric power for aluminum plants. Air-conditioning units have not yet been cut down, but such a step is contemplated if not enough power is saved otherwise.

Oddly enough, the Mississippi Power & Light Company, a subsidiary of the Electric Bond & Share Co., continues to urge its customers to increase their use of electricity and has gone out of its way to encourage continued use of all lighting. Its territory is in the Mississippi Delta and in Western Mississippi, but much of its power is obtained from the TVA at wholesale prices.

Sam A. Scribner Dies

Scribner, 82, veteran theatrical manager, organizer of burlesque shows, head of the Columbia Amusement Company, chain of 40 burlesque theaters, and an official of the Actors Fund, died yesterday at his home in Bronxville. Scribner at one time was in the circus business, then in vaudeville and a partner of the late Sam H. Harris, theatrical producer.

DFT. SCORES AT CRESCENT TRIAL

Court Unimpressed by Some of Evidence Offered

Nashville—Testimony in the Crescent Amusement Co. anti-trust case by six witnesses took an unusual turn yesterday when Presiding Judge Elmer D. Davies admitted that he wasn't much impressed with statements of J. A. Taylor, Cranberry, N. C., after Taylor testified that he sold the Piedmont Theater in Spruce Pine, N. C., after the Cherokee Amusement Co., an affiliate of the defendant Crescent, had built the Caroline in a town with a population of 1,500.

The defense apparently scored heavily when, during the questioning of Taylor by George H. Armistead, Jr., for Crescent, a signed statement by the witness was introduced in which he declared that he sold the

Reel Fellows Club Plans National Status

Detroit—Reel Fellows Club has been organized by Michigan film salesmen, and includes a total of 36, all but two salesmen in the State at the present time. Plans for national organization are being made, with a branch club proposed in each exchange city.

One method of activity will be establishment of a fund from which members can borrow without interest if they become sick or lose employment—with no obligation to repay if they are not able to later. Finding employment for members who lose their jobs, as salesmen, theater managers or otherwise, is another object.

Officers of the club, which is holding noonday luncheons the first Monday of each month, are: President, Jack Stewart, Universal; Vice-president, Jack Ryder, Paramount; secretary, Harold Sandelman, M-G-M; and treasurer, Irwin Pollard, Republic.

Pathe is suing on the claim that it was overcharged on 77,000,000 feet of raw film stock purchased under a contract made in February 1935. No master was named, the Court stating that it would designate one if the litigants could not agree upon a master.

Havana (By Air Mail)—New regulations affecting matinee programs for children are being considered for introduction by the Cuban Film Censorship Board. A provision of the contemplated measure is to prevent theaters exhibiting films whose scenes are likely to corrupt the morals of young picture-goers.

It is further proposed that youngsters under 14 years of age shall not be permitted to attend a movie unless accompanied by an adult.

Vine St. Widening Will Cause Pix Co.'s to Shift

Philadelphia—The familiar face of Vine St., heart of the local film district, is scheduled to be changed within the next few months when a new $50,000,000 road program which will include widening of Vine St., from 6th St. (Delaware River Bridge) to the Parkway will be begun.

This will mean a Vine St. of more than twice its present width, and it will cause several exchanges and affiliated companies to shift.

On the south side of the street, which is scheduled to be widened, are Columbia, UA, John Golder, and Capitol, in addition to a local projection room and offices, etc. RKO is building a new exchange, but it is not in the area to be torn down, while Paramount and Metro are also outside the razing zone.

The widening has been hinted at for years, but it never got started until defense needs made a wide highway a necessity.

"Inferiority" of Lea Theater Occupies Day's Hearing

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Arbitration case of Lea Theaters, Danville, Va., against Loew's, Inc., continued yesterday, with Abram F. Myers, Allied chief counsel, representing Lea and trying to prove that Willby-Kincey theaters are granted favorite treatment by distributors, and defendants attempting to prove that the Lea houses receive poor bookings because they are inferior theaters.

Lea vigorously denied inferiority of his houses, and Myers introduced into record several pictures of exterior and interior which he asserted proved that the Lea Theater is more modern than others. In reply to assertions brought out by John Casky, on behalf of the defendants, that Lea's downtown theater offers projection problems because it is the narrow "shot-gun" type, Myers pointed out that patrons prefer to sit in center, rather than sit on sides.

Finally, at the agreement of both parties, it was decided that pictures of interior and exteriors of theaters of both parties be taken for sake of record. These will be submitted today when it is expected hearings will be concluded. Testimony was ended yesterday and now closing awaits only summation by attorneys.

Robert Wilby of Wilby-Kincey denied at the hearing that houses with company connection are given preference. In reply to Myers' question whether there is temptation there, he replied: "In my experience it is temptation which is well resisted."

Rudolph Berger, Washington, district manager for Loew's, Inc., denied that he had warned Lea, on learning that Wilby-Kincey would "take over" Danville, that he would be unable thereafter to give him good bookings.

Restrain Lew Valentine From Using "Dr. I. Q."

Salt Lake City—Lew Valentine, formerly "Dr. I. Q." of the radio can no longer use that term in "any way, shape or form."

By terms of a consent decree entered in Salt Lake City's Third district court after an agreement between Valentine, Larry Kurtz, Intermountain Theaters, Inc. and Saltmount Theaters, Inc. on one side, and Grant Advertising, Inc. of Texas on the other, Valentine was restrained in the United States, Mexico or Canada from appearing or advertising himself as "Dr. I. Q.", "the original network Dr. I. Q." or variations thereof, and from capitalizing on the fact that he once enacted the role of Dr. I. Q. on the radio.

The decree was entered in a suit brought by Grant Advertising, Inc. which owns the right to the Dr. I. Q. quiz program, in which another radio actor has supplanted Valentine. The suit for an injunction was filed during a recent appearance of Valentine at Salt Lake theater.

laboratory workers or set electricians here, it is asserted. Lab. workers union has had charges leveled at it several times for allegedly having "Comies" in its membership with group now said to be behind the under-cover drive being waged in ranks to ditch IA-AF of L affiliation.

Any crackup in hitherto solid IA front can be laid to several reasons. It is pointed out substitution of unwieldy committees who have differences of opinion among themselves instead of local business agents handling negotiations hampers all discussions on contracts. Withdrawal of IA from the basic pact and granting autonomy to locals here left them without the unquestioned support of the operators' unions throughout the countary, kingpin threat in event of any strike. Jealousies among local leaders has also contributed to breakdown of solid negotiating front.

It is reliably reported that IA stands ready not only to "read out" those unions dropping IA affiliation for CIO, but will order all other IA unions that are loyal, with operators looming big, to refuse to handle any films turned out by any CIO union. Ramifications of such a move are widespread to extent that film industry might be hogtied, if worst came to the worst.

IA execs. contacted here tacitly admit knowledge of what is going on, declare that withdrawal from basic pact dumps all negotiations squarely on locals' shoulders and also leaves them with responsibility of squelching any CIO threat. However, they express confidence that any such move can be squashed properly, but point out that locals will lose prestige, wages and other benefits if they derail their smoothly operating machine.

Film Censorship Found Light

served that difficulties have been "traditional in recent years" in Pennsylvania, one of the seven states which censor pix.

The Pennsylvania Censor Board banned "The Ramparts We Watch," "objected to as pro-Hitler," the report said, but withdrew a ban on ground of "morals" against a film entitled "World in Flames" after litigation was threatened.

New York State censors, "fairly liberal-minded in recent years," the survey added, "put a ban on 'Fools of Desire,' released by Syndicate Exchange, Inc. The distributors declined to test the decision." "Merry Wives," a Czechoslovakian film, held to be indecent, was released "after a few minor deletions," the report recorded.

"In Chicago, where the police exercise both a political and moral censorship of motion pictures, 'Pastor Hall,' an anti-Nazi film, was cleared after protests by the Chicago Civil Liberties Committee and others. 'After Mein Kampf,' produced by Crystal Pictures, an anti-Nazi film which the censors held might 'create contempt and obloquy among our German classes' (population 400,000 in Chicago) was barred before the election but permitted after it, as was also 'Goose Step' (originally known as 'Hitler, the Beast of Berlin'). 'After Mein Kampf' also ran into slight difficulties in Pennsylvania," the Civil Liberties Union said in the review.

"Efforts were made by the Chicago Civil Liberties Committee, backed by many public agencies and supported also by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America for a reform of the police censorship. An ordinance was introduced in the Chicago City Council, and hearings were held, so far without effect."

of repeal of "some Sunday blue laws."

Sentiment against restrictions on Sunday movies in Mississippi has been growing for years, having reached the point in such centers as Vicksburg, Hattiesburg and the Gulf Coast as to be ignored openly. In most counties, however, the sheriffs have "cracked down" at the first sign of disobedience.

The governor said he was in favor of the relaxation of "blue law" restrictions because of the large number of soldiers in Mississippi and because Sunday is the only day in the week that many defense workers can see a picture show. Statement marked the first time he had come out openly in favor of repeal of the state law which has been in effect in regard to "paid amusements" on Sunday since 1836.

Piedmont "gladly and willingly" and without any kind or degree of compulsion. Judge Davies overruled objection to admission of this statement as evidence and also admitted as documentary evidence a signed contract between Taylor and a film exchange.

Contract as Evidence

Defense attorneys stated to the court that a condition in this contract which gave Taylor the refusal of 23 pictures out of 48 was relevant evidence of the exhibitor's privilege of selectivity. Fred Gorman, representing the Cherokee Amusement Co., was named by Taylor as the man who tried to buy out his Spruce Pine Theater. Later he named S. G. Hendren as another representative of Cherokee with whom he conferred.

J. Meyer Schine of Schine Theaters, Gloversville, N. Y., with his attorney, Willard McKay, here to observe proceedings of the Sudekum hearing, would not comment on the case, but definitely revealed their impression of the trend of the testimony offered.

Other witnesses heard during the day were Ruble D. Page, operator of the Maury Theater, Mt. Pleasant, who testified that Kermit C. Stengel, son-in-law of Tony Sudekum, insisted that his circuit could "afford to build a theater and operate at a loss for three years."

Additional Witnesses Heard

C. T. Rankin, Jefferson City, Tenn., banker, who testified that he was approached by Hernden, of Cherokee, with a proposition to use his influence to get Carl Hutton to sell a local theater on which the bank held a mortgage; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Caldwell and Mrs. J. H. Hollinger, all of Scottsville, Ky., whose testimony concerned alleged efforts of Lee Castlebury, of Crescent, to buy a theater owned by the Caldwells.

Even with 18 attorneys present to offer objections to statements of witnesses Judge Davies continues to admit that much of the testimony offered in the case should be stricken from the records and the general impression is that special assistant to the Attorney General, Allyn N. Doty, was too optimistic in his assertion that the Government "could establish a case with the first witness."

☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆

"Ellery Queen and the Perfect Crime" with Ralph Bellamy, Margaret Lindsay

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

Columbia-Darmour 68 Mins.

"QUEEN" MYSTERY THRILLER PROVES GOOD HANDLING OF ROUTINE PLOT; OKAY FOR DUALS.

Third of a series of 13 "Ellery Queens" Larry Darmour is releasing through Columbia, "And the Perfect Crime" is a good clean running mate for dual bills. An exceptionally good cast, a good yarn by Eric Taylor, and smart direction by James Hogan cinch the buy.

Ralph Bellamy is a good choice for the title role and Margaret Lindsay is a fine foil. Charley Grapewin and James Burke, a comedy cop duo should be great favorites with the fans after a few of these pix are released.

Word of mouth won't do this film any harm—and the unusually good cast should sell plenty of tickets from "lobbies" or newspaper ads.

Ellery Queen (Ralph Bellamy) is going fishing with his father and Sergeant pal (James Burke) when a murder is committed involving his friends John Beal and H. B. Warner. Warner has been accused of murdering a business associate who swindled him in a power deal.

After all the routine suspicions, opening curtains, screams and false clues, the murderer is uncovered and Bellamy goes fishing.

It's routine stuff but good.

CAST: Ralph Bellamy, Margaret Lindsay, Charley Grapewin, Spring Byington, H. B. Warner, James Burke, Douglass Dumbrille, John Beal, Linda Hayes, Sidney Blackmer, Walter Kingsford, Honorable Wu, Charles Lane.

CREDITS: Producer, Larry Darmour; Director, James Hogan; Author, Ellery Queen; Screenplay, Eric Taylor; Cameraman, James Brown; Editor, Dwight Caldwell; Music by Lee Zahler.

DIRECTION, Fine. PHOTOGRAPHY, Good.

"Hurry, Charlie, Hurry" with Leon Errol, Mildred Coles, Kenneth Howell

RKO 65 Mins.

SLAPSTICK FARCE WITH FUNNYMAN ERROL WILL SERVE NICELY AS PROGRAM OFFERING.

Gags and slapstick in large quantities are the essence and base of this new Leon Errol comedy from RKO. It has a sufficient number of laughs to make it okay as a program offering, and that is its limit. Picture gets a little gummed up at times with an overdose of comedy, but it moves along, the cast is more than adequate and general audiences should get a fair share of laughs from it.

Errol is his own inimitable self, weaving around on his rubber legs, continually in hot water and extricating himself in the nick of time. Mildred Coles, a cute young girl, has the ingenue role opposite Kenneth Howell, a fugitive from the Jones family. Howell has improved considerably as an actor. Cecil Cunningham does a good job as Errol's domineering wife, and George Watts and a number of other capable players are helpful. Charles E. Roberts directed from a screenplay by Paul Gerard Smith.

Errol is trying to help his daughter, Miss Coles, elope with Howell, operator of a bakery, and anathema to Errol's wife, Miss Cunningham. Social wars in the small town, a trio of Indians, the vice-president of the United States and a number of other people and events get scrambled up before the situation gets in hand.

CAST: Leon Errol, Mildred Coles, Kenneth Howell, Cecil Cunningham, George Watts, Eddie Conrad, Noble Johnson, Douglas Walton, Renee Haal, Georgia Caine, Lalo Encinas.

CREDITS: Producer, Howard Benedict; Director, Charles E. Roberts; Screenplay, Paul Gerard Smith; Story, Luke Short; Cameraman, Nicholas Musuraca; Editor, George Hively.

"We Must Have Music," New Metro Bally Reel

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Production has started at Metro studios on "We Must Have Music," eighth of the company's "Romance of Celluloid" series, the semi-annual one-reel institutional subjects produced under the supervision of Frank Whitbeck. Para., McCarey Dickering

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Paramount is negotiating with Leo McCarey to produce and direct "Hollywood Legend" by Adela Rogers St. Johns which Morrie Ryskind has adapted to the screen. Deal, however, depends upon purchase of the story from Howard Hughes for whom McCarey was to direct it. Ginger Rogers and Carey Grant will be sought for the leads if Para. succeeds in obtaining rights from Hughes.

"Emergency Landing" with Forrest Tucker, Carol Hughes, Evelyn Brent, Emmett Vogan

PRC 70 Mins.

ENTERTAINING PROGRAM OFFERING; SHOULD FIT NICELY ON ANY PROGRAM.

This picture has a lot of entertainment value in its footage. There is a considerable amount of well-handled humor and enough dramatic asides to maintain interest in that angle. Considering the budget range it is a first-class piece of merchandise for its classification. Forrest Tucker, Carol Hughes and Evelyn Brent are the strongest "names" the cast has to offer, but exhibs. should get a good reaction from it.

Tucker, Miss Hughes, Miss Brent and Emmett Vogan head the cast. Tucker shows improvement as an actor and the other three are capable players, Miss Brent and Vogan being valuable additions to any cast. Other players are more than adequate, Joaquin Edwards standing out in a very funny characterization. William Beaudine did a workmanlike job on the directing end and Martin Mooney contributed the story and screenplay.

Tucker and Vogan, employes of a plane factory owned by William Halligan, father of Miss Hughes and brother of Miss Brent, are trying to sell him a robot-controlled plane they have invented. They do, but annoy Miss Hughes by splashing her with water when they land the plane. A test flight is sabotaged and they both get fired, returning to a desert weather station to carry on their experiments. Miss Hughes and Miss Brent unexpectedly stumble into their camp and an amusing situation is created and maintained to the end of the picture with a little espionage trouble thrown in for good measure.

CAST: Forrest Tucker, Carol Hughes, Evelyn Brent, Emmett Vogan, William Halligan, Joaquin Edwards, George Sherwood, Stan Jolley, Stanford Price, Jack Lescoulie, Paul Scott.

CREDITS: In charge of production, George R. Batcheller; Producer, Jed Buell; Director, William Beaudine; Original Story and Screenplay, Martin Mooney; Cameraman, Jack Greenhalgh; Editor, Robert Crandall.

DIRECTION, Able. PHOTOGRAPHY, Good.

Eight Unions Sign Basic Contract With Disney

Hollywood—Eight A F of L unions which have supported the SCG strike, now in its 43rd day, at the Walt Disney Studios have signed a basic agreement with Disney, it was announced yesterday. Details of the agreement were not made available.

Gunther Lessing, vice-president of the Disney organization, said: "We negotiated a standard basic motion picture A F of L contract which included the union shop and wage scales."

William Littlejohn, president of the Cartoonist Guild, asserted less than 100 persons can be affected by the contract, adding:

"Whatever agreement Disney has entered into with the other unions, they do not affect 472 members of the SCG nor 21 members of the Society of Motion Picture Film Editors."

the laboratory. He has made intensive studies of film technique under the auspices of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, is a member of the SMPE and has been active in Army pictorial and visual education since 1929, working in close collaboration with Lt. Col. Richard T. Schlosberg, Chief Photographic Officer in the Washington office.

> EDITOR'S NOTE: Spotlighting the industry's sizeable contribution to the Army's Signal Corps, this story was written expressly for THE FILM DAILY by Pvt. Joseph A. Thompson, 20th Signal Service Co., Fort Monmouth, N. J.*

Officers From Many Fields

Colonel Gillette's officer staff is drawn from numerous branches of the picture industry. Capt. Gordon Rigby, veteran screen-writer, late of Columbia, heads the scenario department, and Capt. Paul Wing, well-known to Paramounters, is a unit director. Lieut. Jack Clink is from M-G-M's sound department, and Lieut. Harold Knox came into the olive drab by way of Pathe. Then there's Lieut. Frank Lepore from NBC's television studios, Lieut. Arthur Gaskill of the Boston staff of News of the Day, and two men from Eastman, Lieut. Garland Misener and Lieut. William Rivers.

The TFPL makes sound pictures for the training of troops, and uses almost every device available to any picture studio. There is a large animation department, script-writers, cutters, cameramen, producers, actors and technicians. These men are organized into the 20th Signal Service Company and Fort Monmouth is their permanent post, except when units are sent out to the various branches of the Army where on-the-spot pictures are shot. These pictures are assembled and edited at the Fort Monmouth lab and sent to Washington for sound. The unit looks forward to their own sound stage soon, however.

In the Script Division

In Captain Rigby's script division, are found Berk Anthony from Disney's, Pete Barker of New York television, Bill Bloom from Columbia, Bob Churchill of the Documentary Films, Arthur Lewis who was associated with Ben Hecht, Edmund North, writer of "One Night of Love" and assistant producer to Sam Goldwyn, Sol Shor of Republic serials, Arthur Wilmert from the Yale Department of Drama, Sidney Katz from RKO, Don Hays and Joe Thompson of NBC, and Lester Cooper, writer of Warner shorts.

Production and organization work is being done by Gil Scott, who was assistant to Darryl Zanuck, and Jerry Bergman from the production department of M-G-M. In the near future, the Film Unit will probably have RKO's Garson Kanin on the job too.

Animation at Monmouth is loaded with Disney graduates. . . . Murray Fairbairn, Vic Michonski, Amby Paliwoda, Bob Perry, George Peed, Bob Majors, and Mel Grau. Schlesinger's WB outfit is represented by Dave Monahan, Lew Irwin, Harold Soldinger, and Herman Cohen. M-G-M gave Paul Fanning and Fleischer gave Alden Gets. And there are two men that worked at several of these studios, Jim Miele and Joseph Miller.

Included In Camera Crews

The camera crew in the Army's film unit boasts such men as Bill Widmayer, crack lenser for the March of Time, Bob Daly also of MOT, Andy Gold of N. Y. Fox and Henry Gerzen of Beverly Hills Fox, Irving Smith of Universal, Harry Kreider of Para., and freelancers Gene Levy and William Saltzman.

As for cutters, you'll find Vic Kline (Warner Brothers), Frank Baldridge (Korda), Bernard Small (son of Producer Ed), Jerry Thomas (son of Monogram's Harry Thomas), Albie Shaff (Dr. Christian series), Billy Reynolds, (Loew-Lewin productions), Russell Selwyn (of M-G-M, nephew of Edgar), Jason Bernie (son of the old maestro), and Marshall Neilan, Jr. (M-G-M).

The acting contingent includes Granville Owen ("Little Abner"), Douglas Kennedy ("The Bride Came C. O. D."), Ray Parker and Bob Richardson.

Thus, the Army is well prepared to produce pictures of the highest caliber with which thousands of men can be trained and informed, and thus the film industry is directly active in the present military campaign.

28% of Para.'s 1941-42 Shorts Ready or In Work

Twenty-eight per cent of Paramount's 1941-42 short subjects product already has been completed or is now in production, it was said yesterday by Oscar A. Morgan, general sales manager of the department. With the new season still two months in the future, it's a new company record. Of the 85 scheduled productions, all of them one-reelers, 24 are either finished or before the cameras.

Schlesinger Suspends Avery

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Leon Schlesinger has suspended Fred Avery. one of his supervisors of "Merry Melodie" and "Looney Tunes" at his cartoon plant for four weeks due to the fact that Avery got temperamental and walked out in the middle of a picture because 40 feet of film was cut out of a "Bugs Bunny" picture Avery had recently completed. Avery is still under contract to Schlesinger and has been with the producer since 1935 and has two and a half years to go on his present contract.

examples of improved relations with the press.

"These moves," one executive said, "should silence those who have been squawking about press treatment."

All three plans, it was said, appear to be a forerunner of a better understanding between the newspaper publishers and the industry and should be of material benefit to both sides.

Newspapers have found that a well-edited amusement page tends to build and hold circulation and that harmonious relations with the film industry are essential, executives said.

SPG Majority Predicted In Bargaining Election

While complete returns of the NLRB poll to determine a collective bargaining agent for home office publicists were not available last night, members of the Screen Publicists Guild were confident that their organization would receive a majority. It was believed by many that only a few publicists in each major company would vote against the SPG.

Delay in getting the final figures was due to the mail poll by publicists who are away on vacations and whose ballots will not be counted until today.

"LIFE WITH FATHER" TO LASKY?

Producer Negotiating with Oscar Serlin for Film Rights to Broadway Comedy Hit

Jesse L. Lasky may get film rights to Oscar Serlin's smash comedy hit, "Life with Father," now running at the Empire on Broadway, it was reported last night.

Negotiations are understood to have made marked progress during Lasky's visit to New York for the premiere of "Sergeant York." Lasky left for the Coast last night.

It is reported that Lasky is dickering with Serlin on his own. Acquiring the rights, he presumably would then make his own producing-distribution arrangements with a major company.

"Life with Father," with Howard Lindsay and Dorothy Stickney, opened at the Empire in November, 1939, and quickly qualified as a hit. Film company interest in the comedy has been keen, but thus far Serlin has politely declined buying overtures.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

"Law of the Range"

with Johnny Mack Brown, Fuzzy Knight, Nell O'Day

Universal 59 Mins.

BETTER THAN AVERAGE HOSS OPERA WILL SATISFY THE WESTERN FANS.

Johnny Mack Brown and his sidekick, Fuzzy Knight, do a very thorough job on the villains in this hoss opera, which should delight the western fans. As a western, it is better than average fare for the action fans. The cast is good, the action fast, the outdoor locations very fine, and the story moves along at a goodly clip. Plot hinges on a family feud and the traditional bitterness between the cattlemen and the sheepmen.

Brown effectively handles the hero stuff and Knight provides the comedy. Nell O'Day attractively fills the lead femme role, and Roy Harris provides most of the villainy, with an able crew of bad men backing him up. Incidentally, there are several neat musical numbers injected in the film. Ray Taylor directed.

Harris creates trouble between Brown and his neighbor rancher, Hal Taliaferro, by killing one of his men and blaming it on Brown. The feud grows in bitterness and Harris murders Taliaferro, blaming Brown again. Meantime, Harris and his gang plan to drive sheep onto the cattle range. Plenty of action ensues before Brown clears himself and leads the cattlemen to victory over the sheep ranchers.

CAST: Johnny Mack Brown, Fuzzy Knight, Nell O'Day, Roy Harris, Pat O'Malley, Elaine Morey, Ethan Laidlaw, Al Bridges, Hal Taliaferro, Lucille Walker and The Texas Rangers.

CREDITS: Associate Producer, Will Cowan; Director, Ray Taylor; Cameraman, Charles Van Enger.

DIRECTION, Fast. PHOTOGRAPHY, Good.

☆ SHORTS ☆

"Aluminum"

Office for Emergency Management Film Unit 9 mins.

Timely Defense Subject

Theater patrons will be thoroughly interested in the OPM subject as herein are the answers to many questions about the current campaign to conserve aluminum. The film will be especially effective before, or during, aluminum collecting campaigns by theaters or communities as it points out the need for a minimum of 1,500,000,000 pounds annually for defense needs compared with 40,000,000 pounds per year in peace time, and shows why increased production, plus conservation of civilian uses, is necessary for adequate defense.

Film traces the manufacture of aluminum from the South American bauxite mines and through the U. S. processing plants, highlighting its varied uses in aircraft manufacture. Shots of dams and plants being constructed especially for the processing of aluminum are very effective.

"Gangs of Sonora" with Robert Livingston, Bob Steele, Rufe Davis

Republic 56 Mins.

WELL-PACED WESTERN HAS PLENTY OF ACTION AND DRAMA.

Latest in Republic's Mesquiteer series, this one is up to par and should prove satisfactory fare for the western fans. The cast is okay, action is plentiful and well-paced and there is a sufficiency of mellerdrammer. Direction is fast and the technical work good. Locations are interesting. Exhibitors should find a ready-made audience for this release in its proper sphere.

Livingston and Steele handle the rough stuff and Rufe Davis takes care of the laughs. Chic Johnson's daughter, June Johnson, makes her debut as a film player in this effort, without much effect one way or another. Good supporting roles are contributed by Ward "Bud" McTaggart, Helen Mackellar and Robert Frazer, last named gent being the villain of the piece.

The Mesquiteers ride into the middle of a "passel" of dirty work when they run up against Frazer and his gang, who are trying to run the Wyoming territory and prevent it from becoming a state. From there on they pit their wits against Frazer with the final result inevitable.

CAST: Robert Livingston, Bob Steele, Rufe Davis, Ward "Bud" McTaggart, Helen Mackellar, Robert Frazer, William Farnum, Budd Buster, Hal Price.

DIRECTION, Fast. PHOTOGRAPHY, Good.

Mexican Features Waiting on Shelf

Mexico City (By Air Mail)—While the bill making it compulsory for all exhibitors to play a Mexican-made film at least every two months as a measure to further the development of the native picture industry, is still being debated by the Congressional Committee which introduced it originally, local distributors of the native product are taking stock of such pictures from local studios as are yet to be released.

Twenty-four pictures made locally are available for presentation, including some two and three years old; the great majority have so far failed to find an outlet. The 24 include:

"Pescadores de Perlas" (Pearl Divers), "Sangre en las Montanas" (Blood on the Mountains), "La China Hilaria" (That Hilaria Girl), "Adventureros del Mar" (Sea Adventures), "La Mancha de Sangre" (Blood Stain), "El Fanfarron" (The Show-Off), "El Hotel de los Chiflados" (Looney Hotel), "Herencia Macabra" (Macabre Legacy), and "Repatriados" (Back from Exile), all of which were produced prior to 1940; "Cuando la Tierra Temblo" (When the Earth Shook), "Por una Mujer" (For a Woman's Sake), "Sendas del Destino" (Roads of Destiny), and Producciones Vicente Orona's "El Viejo Nido" (The Old Nest), all made in 1940; while the 1941 product yet to be viewed includes: "Papa se Enreda Otra Vez" (Papa's at It Again), "Las Viudas de Papa" (Papa's Widows), and "El Nieto de Papa" (Papa's Grandson), three of a family serial produced and directed by Miguel Zacarias; Producciones Ramon Pereda's "El Capitan Centellas" (Captain Lightning), "Cinco Minutos de Amor" (Five-Minute Love), "El Hijo de Cruz Diablo" (The Son of Cruz Diablo), Grovas Oro Films' "'Cuando los Hijos se Van" (When Children Leave Home), and Cinematografica Latino Americana, S. A.'s "La Companera de Viaje" (Fellow Traveler), which is being distributed by Grovas y Cia.

The two last named pictures are the only ones now set for early release.

Of the product cited above, about 10 per cent has been classified as in the AA class, 20 per cent as belonging in the A category, 30 per cent in the B classification, and the remaining 40 per cent falls into the C. class.

Predicts Early End Of Crescent Trial

Cherokee, Rockwood, and Newport theater groups.

A. O. Taylor, operator of a theater in Dresden, Tenn., testified that in 1938 a salesman for Paramount Pictures informed him that pictures already booked would have to be rebooked behind nearby theaters in Martin and Greenfield, which was alleged to show a forced change in an existing five-year contract after Crescent Amusement Co., became owners of theaters in those towns.

Taylor says that he was referred to the "home office" by the salesman and was again referred to "higher ups" when he visited the Paramount exchange at Memphis. Government attorneys entered copies of Taylor's contracts with Paramount which gave him clearance through 1938. Taylor testified that the defendant Crescent Amusement Co. was referred to by picture salesmen as the "circuit."

Experience of Another Exhib.

R. D. Page, operator of the Maury Theater, Mt. Pleasant, described similar experiences with Paramount Pictures causing him to negotiate with 20th Century-Fox, but he claimed that the Atlanta exchange of this distributor informed him that his area was already sold to Crescent Amusement Co. He admitted however, that he later obtained a contract with 20th Century-Fox.

The switch in the trend of testimony came when E. G. Hendren, an official in the Cherokee and Newport Amusement Companies, was put on the stand and questioned the greater part of the day about various transactions in the East Tennessee and North Carolina towns of Greenville, Lenoir City, Copperhill and Edwin in Tennessee and Piedmont and Spruce Pine in North Carolina, locale of three Crescent affiliates—Cherokee Amusement Co., Rockwood Amusement Co., and Newport Amusement Co.

Questioned exhaustively about acquisition of theaters at Spruce Pine and Newport and information of the Newport Amusement Co., Hendren continually denied that there had been coercion or compulsion, by threats or otherwise, in any of the deals made. He denied the direct connection of Tony Sudekum with any other transactions, denying that he was present at any other sales conferences or that he had exerted anything more than an advisory influence in any transaction.

Defense Objection Overruled

Some idea of the "prevailing price" and of movie theaters in Tennessee may be obtained from statements made by Hendren that in 1934 he paid W. H. Tarbott $18,750 for a 25 per cent interest in eight theaters in Maryville, Greenville, Sweetwater, Lenoir City and Lafollette and that in 1936 he and Tarbott sold their interests in these theaters along with 50 per cent interest in six theaters in four other towns for $25,000.

Defense objections to such evidence was overruled when a Department of Justice attorney stated that Tarbott and Hendren sold "at a low price to obtain better buying and unusual privileges in the licensing of film in interstate commerce."

Hendren's statement that in 1940, Cherokee Amusement Co., paid Tony Sudekum a salary of $200 per week was amplified by the explanation that he was paid for "counsel, advice, benefit of his experience and suggestions as to exhibiting films policy and how to best operate the theater."

Court Cites "Good Bargain"

Attorney Wright's development of the probable fact that certain officials of the Crescent Amusement Co. and Cherokee Amusement Co., had obtained a larger total sum in salaries in the first three years than the sum of $5,000 paid for a one-half interest in the group was met with amused comment by Judge Elmer Davies that they "made a good bargain, that's all," as he sustained objection of defense attorneys, Armistead, Frohlich and others, to such conclusions as evidence in the case.

The witness, E. G. Hendren, first employe of the defendant organizations to testify, maintained that the "independent theater owner who can bargain can buy pictures as cheap as anybody regardless of how many theaters they own or control."

Hendren buys films for theaters of his group.

Attorney Wright developed through Hendren's testimony that all bookkeeping functions of affiliated groups have been transferred to Nashville and placed under the defendant K. C. Stengel; likewise that correspondence called for in Government subpoenas if available may be found at Nashville headquarters.

J. Meyer Schine and his attorney, Willard McKay, remained through a third day of the trial as very interested observers.

Talent Loans on the Decline

Only 33 "Farmed Out" in the Second Quarter

ary to March, 58 players were farmed out in 50 agreements, surveys reveals.

Half year totals are 91 players loaned in 83 deals. Of these, 54 were arrangements for actors to perform on other lots—the second quarter reversing the trend towards loaning of actors shown in the earlier three-month period. Of the 33 second quarter deals, 16 were for men, while 38 of 58 first quarter loans were male talent.

M-G-M is shown to be the chief source of loan talent with 20 deals closed in six months, 13 in the first quarter and seven in the second. Tied for second are Paramount and Warner Bros. with 14 while 20th Century-Fox with 11 deals was the fourth largest lender of players.

First quarter loans were detailed in THE FILM DAILY of April 2. Second quarter deals were as follows:

OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this resume of critical and columnar comment on industry matters are essentially those of the writers quoted; they do not necessarily reflect those of THE FILM DAILY.

NELSON B. BELL (Washington Post): "However the press preview may operate in Hollywood . . . it is a godsend to the drama desks of Washington and, I assume, those of many other cities. To the best of my knowledge it has never redounded to the disadvantage of any theater interest—well, hardly ever.

"From a purely personal point of view, it all simmers down to the matter of time, that priceless commodity the local drama departments ain't got nothin' else but a lack of.

"On Saturdays, Mondays and Tuesdays they find it possible to tiptoe out to some private projection room long enough to take a peek at a picture that is often weeks and sometimes only days away from the public view. On Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays things are different. Those are the days upon which the daily and Sunday papers double up, entailing two performances of each function of the job. Time out to sit through from two to three hours of an opening on a Thursday or Friday is a brutal business, deleterious to both the critical nervous system and thoughtful and reliable public information.

"Here in Washington we boys and girls of the press do not burst into print with blasts on the strength of a 'cold' projection room screening, as you seem to think is the universal custom. We all know that audience reaction—even partial audience reaction—has a great deal to do with the way a picture 'goes over.' Even when we sense that a picture is filling the place with a nauseous effluvium we wait to observe whether the cash customers detect the same odor before we say so. . .

"That is the way we do it here. Instead of banning the press preview in Hollywood, why not do a little missionary work for the Washington method? It might work. . ."

land, Milder is also in charge of production there for his company and he is anxious to have Warners also make "Captain Hornblower."

Milder stated that Warner Bros. spent in excess of 100,000 pounds each on "The Prime Minister" dealing with the life of Disraeli, with John Gielgud playing Disraeli; "Atlantic Ferry," starring Michael Redgrave and Valerie Hobson; and "So This Was Paris," with Robert Morley, Ben Lyon and Anne Dvorak.

Out of 5,500 theaters in England not more than 500 are not operating, Milder stated. These were blitzed or evacuated.

Milder declared "The Fighting 69" did excellent business in London and he believes "Sergeant York" will also do heavy business. He spoke highly of Thorold Dickinson who directed "The Prime Minister" and will also direct "Winston Churchill."

Milder said Warner Bros. turned over $45,000 to the British Government from showings on "London Can Take It" in the United States, Canada and Latin-America.

Chi. Portage Files Arbitration Case

sections eight and 10 of the consent decree.

Mort and Frank Goldberg, owners of the Portage Theater, which is part of GCS circuit, contend they have the best theater in that district, that they prefer not to show double features, but B & K which operates the other houses involved compels them to show duals inasmuch as B & K play a double feature policy in that territory.

They further claim that various film companies will not sell them product, until B & K has contracted for that district for their houses. Some time ago, B & K voluntarily reduced the Belpark and Will Rogers Theaters to first week, general release, but advanced the Gateway Theater to B week. This placed the Portage at a big disadvantage, despite the fact they are willing to pay as high, or higher, prices for film.

Sabath, Perlman, Goodman & Rein represent the Portage Theater. This case will attract much attention here.

Survey Shows Varied Film Tastes of Pupils

Excerpts from detailed reports on a national picture survey recently completed by the Camp Fire Girls of America reveal the wide variety of preferences of patrons and show the problems of producers to please everybody. Poll was aimed primarily at school children but opinions also were obtained from business men and housewives.

Data obtained in various parts of the country are presented herewith:

Huntington Park, Cal.: Ninety-five per cent of the students attend the theater at least once a week; 90 per cent go because of the entertainment value, 3 per cent only if there is a good picture and 2 per cent because there is nothing else to do; 98 per cent approved twin bills.

Oklahoma City: Junior high school students preferred duals, senior high school students did not as a majority.

Fort Worth: A definite plea to stop forcing propaganda pictures on the public was expressed among students here.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.: Hollywood's practice of re-writing history "is one of the most unforgivable sins," according to the poll here.

Spokane, Wash.: Majority of grade school students attend the theater at least twice a month, many attending once and even twice weekly; average attendance of high school students is three times a month; housewives go once a month; business men, the report here shows, go on the average of once every three months; high school and grade school students voted three to one for duals, but the majority of business people and housewives voted against them.

Des Moines: Students claimed it was difficult to know which parts of a picture are true to fact and which are propaganda, indicating their opposition to propaganda pictures.

ITOA Chief Advocates Formation of National Showmen's Organization

What was regarded as a "feeler" for reaction to a new national exhibitor organization was put out last week by Harry Brandt, president of the ITOA, who in the current issue of The Independent outlined a proposed platform for a model association.

It was learned that no concrete plans for such an exhibitor group had been formulated but that the ITOA would join, assist in forming

"U's" Releases to Jan. 1 To be Finished by Sept. 1

By Sept. 1, Universal will have completed all pictures to meet release dates between Sept. 1 and Jan. 1, according to Nate J. Blumberg, president. Blumberg said that the present list of top-budget picturs now in work was the largest in the history of Universal City.

Universal's "Exhibitor" plan of operation, he said, had become a reality and that the company was actually realizing its ambitions formulated in 1938. Blumberg said the flexible policy was in full force so that all types of theaters will have the right kind of attractions with which to cash in on the rising national prosperity.

Roger Sherman Arbitrator In Second 'Frisco Demand

San Francisco—Roger Sherman, San Francisco attorney, has been named arbitrator in second case to come before local AAA tribunal. Al Karski, owner of the Laurel Theater in Oakland, has asked that his present clearance, running around 90 days, be cut in half. Complaint names all five majors, while Fox West Coast, Golden State Circuit, and several independent theaters have filed interventions.

Sherman was selected as arbitrator by the AAA after the interested parties here were unable to agree on a choice.

Immediate Negotiations To be Requested by SPG

The New York SPB will ask for immediate start of contract negotiations with the eight majors on behalf of home office publicists as soon as the NLRB announces the results of elections held last week, the Guild announced Friday following a membership meeting Thursday night at the Hotel Piccadilly. The Board will tabulate the ballots Thursday, at its regional offices at 120 Wall St.

Guild Thursday night received a full report on negotiations from the executive council, presented by President Joseph Gould, outlining in detail the Guild's plan of action.

Guild also unanimously passed a resolution urging the reappointment by President Roosevelt to the NLRB of Edwin S. Smith upon the expiration of Smith's term next month.

Short-Term Film Deals For N. Y. Stage Players

Short term and optional contracts are being used to temporarily lure players away from Broadway hits for screen appearances. Under the arrangement a player can take time off for a show, make his studio appearance, and then go back to the legit. attraction.

A deal of this type has been made by RKO with June Havoc who will take a five-week leave from "Pal Joey" for a Coast stint. Rosalind Ivan is leaving "The Corn is Green" for a studio appearance but will rejoin the show on the road, while Boris Karloff will vacation from "Arsenic and Old Lace" by February.

Goldberg Campaigning for Passage of Cox Measure

Baltimore—Thomas D. Goldberg, whose Walbrook, Hartford and Hilton Theaters were the first in the city to reduce admission prices for service men in uniform, is waging a campaign to line up Congressional support for the measure designed to exempt service men in uniform from any admission tax to any place of amusement or entertainment where the tax prevails.

Goldberg beat Rep. E. E. Cox (D., Ga.), sponsor of a pending bill in the House, to the punch, urging Sen. Millard F. Tydings (D., Md.) by telegram on July 8 to sponsor such legislation. However, with the Cox measure introduced, Goldberg has addressed letters to all Maryland members of Congress requesting that they push the Georgian's bill.

At his three local houses, Goldberg reduced the service men's prices to below the Federal tax level.

"A HIT OF REAL PROPORTIONS!"

—Hollywood Reporter

'KISS' SMACKS EAR, EYE;

Vic Schertzinger, Martin Get Cheers

There never has been anything quite like "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" on the screen before. It is delightful and fresh and very charming. This is an eye-filling production, one which will materially increase the pace of the seven league boots in which Paramount has travelled to the front in recent months.

Two persons may claim the lion's share of the huzzahs for this show—Victor Schertzinger and Mary Martin. The overworked adjective, magnificent, is scarcely adequate here to cover their contributions. Seldom has a film been as charmingly paced as this one; it is, under Schertzinger, so casual, so easy and natural that it actually has an effect of soothing an audience. Perhaps this is because the director lets music—fine music—tell his ingratiating story. And when one considers that Schertzinger also wrote the music, his is an achievement of rarely great stature. Mary Martin is superb; and all the adjectives in the book are not enough to give her her due. She is at once photogenically exquisite, in gorgeous voice and reveals splendid dramatic talents.

But it is for its music that you will read of the boxoffice records this film will set. The term "genius" has come to be rather loosely applied around this town but it fits Victor Schertzinger perfectly. His is the amazing feat of composing five hit songs, each different from the other and each revealing a rich talent. Frank Loesser gives lovely lyrics to them all. The title tune is a hummable popular hit; "Find Yourself a Melody" is the standout tune, inspiringly backgrounded by magnificent negro choral effects; "I Never Let a Day Pass By" should crowd everything else off the hit parade when it's released; "Sand in My Shoes" is a great torch song; and "My Start" is the hit novelty to which Mary Martin does a knockout strip tease act. The musical direction is in the excellent hands of Victor Young, the songs equally excellently arranged and conducted by John Scott Trotter.

It is a hit of real proportions which Bill LeBaron leaves Paramount and one which can dare these boxoffice doldrums with full confidence. Victor Schertzinger's "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" gives great new meaning to the word entertainment.

Streamlining of the Warner sales force in preparation for operations under the New York consent decree went one step further last week when it was learned that the company would install teletype machines in every exchange for direct communication with the home office. Installation work has been started, and is expected to be completed within 10 days or two weeks.

Field sales managers, new title conferred on the district managers, will have direct communication with the home office by teletype, speeding up operations and cutting costs in many ways.

Ruling May Prolong Crescent Suit Trial

Attorney General and head of anti-trust division of the D of J, a letter in which he claimed to have been defrauded out of $20,000 in the deal in which Sudekum interests purchased theaters in Greenville and Maryville from E. G. Hendren and W. H. Tarbott.

W. F. Roth, operator of the new Palace Theater, Gallatin, Tenn. on the witness stand identified a letter which he wrote to the Department of Justice in 1938 concerning failure of Paramount Pictures to renew annual contracts after the Roxy Theater had been opened in Gallatin by Crescent. Roth, who is a jeweler, testified to failure of both Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount Pictures to renew previous contracts in 1938 for the 1938-39 season; how he visited the Paramount branch office in Atlanta, and was told by Branch Manager Cecil D. House, that a five-year franchise had been sold to his competitor in Gallatin by the "home office" in New York.

Says Split Deal Was Offered

After receiving a similar reply from New York, Roth stated that he wrote the D of J. It was intimated that he mentioned failure to renew contracts with both Paramount and M-G-M in his letter to D of J and his testimony contained the statement that later he was offered "split" deals by these distributors but refused to accept. Later he did renew a contract with M-G-M.

Questioning of Roth by Allyn N. Dobey, special assistant to the Attorney General, for the Government led to a ruling by Judge Elmer Davies barring all "interoffice" communications—distributor company to branch manager, and vice versa. Dobey contended that this ruling would call for subpoening 75 or more additional witnesses and extend the trial at least two weeks. However, Judge Davies sustained objection of defense attorneys declaring that "such testimony can only be introduced by regular court procedure of calling to the stand the parties concerned." In spite of this restriction more than 40 separate exhibits, some including numerous items, have already been admitted as evidence. Many of these are distributor-exhibitor contracts.

Schine Circuit Mentioned

Testimony of Charles O. Brown, former operator of two theaters in Middlesboro, Ky., brought into records of this case mention of Schine Theaters, another movie organization that is facing prosecution by the D of J. When Brown stated that in January, 1939, He leased his two houses in Middlesboro, to Schine Theaters, Inc., after he had heard rumors that Crescent Amusement Co. planned to build one or more houses in that city. Later, according to Brown, Schine purchased the houses. J. Meyer Schine, president of Schine Theaters, Inc., with his attorney, Willard McKay, were absent from the "observation gallery" here Friday after hearing three-days' procedure in the case.

Brown testified, that after "rumors" that Crescent had taken options on a local site for a theater in 1938, Tony Sudekum went to Middlesboro and that during a discussion of the possibility of Crescent forming a small circuit in this section of Kentucky he offered to sell his two houses to Sudekum, but that his offer was considered too high. In his testimony he accused Sudekum of entering the balcony of his theater and "checking his house."

Early End Again Predicted

O. W. Hughes, of the Government legal staff, declaring that the Government may complete its case within the "next week or 10 days," stated that several witnesses considered important to the D of J suit had been traced through several addresses by subpoena servers but have not been located. Representatives of New York distributors, already subpoenaed in the suit, have not been instructed to come to Nashville. Hughes placed the time of their calling into the hearing as probably the first part of this week.

Judge Davies, apparently satisfied with progress of the trial, changed his original schedule of hearings by dropping a Saturday morning session, reserving the right to hold such sessions later if necessary. Counsel for both sides, at the opening session, had requested a five-day schedule to permit necessary outside preparations for the hearing.

last week with the arrival in the U. S. of Allen Styne, First Secretary of the American Embassy.

Styne, whose trip home is understool to have been occasioned by the coming remittance talks as well as some other matters, conferred at the Hays office last week with company executives.

The industry's position was generally outlined, it is reported, and the way paved for subsequent meetings at which Styne will be supplied with a wealth of trade "vital statistics" to be utilized in the presentation of the industry's case to the British Government.

The present agreement with the British Treasury and the Board of Trade expires on Oct. 25 next. Under it, American companies have been permitted to remit a maximum of $12,900,000.

It is indicated that the companies which are parties to the agreement will ask for a material increase in remittances for 1941-42, with the altered situation due to the Lend-Lease bill employed as a prime talking point.

Warners Aiming 1941-42 Pix at Canadian Market

Montreal—Delegates to Warners Canadian regional sales meeting, which opens today at the Mount Royal Hotel, will hear news about an unusual number of pictures with special appeal for Dominion audiences to be released by Warners next season.

In addition to the production of chief Canadain interest, "Captains of the Clouds," which is being filmed on location in this country, and "Sergeant York," which has aroused keen interest here following its reception in New York, the list of 1941-42 releases is expected to include several productions from Warners' London studios.

One of these, "The Prime Minister," is to be screened for the delegates. Plans also are understood to be under way for a hemisphere premiere of this picture in Ottawa next month with Government co-operation.

"The Life of Winston Churchill," "Flying Fortress" and "Atlantic Ferry" are among other Warner-British-made films of particular interest to this country. "Flight Patrol," "Battle of the Atlantic" and "Right Shoulder Arms" are among the forthcoming Hollywood productions with a timely interest for Canadians.

Exchange head believes that there would be advantages all the way 'round. The theaters, he points out, would get a boost in business, the exchange would get a block of free seats for its exhibitor customers, and the exhibs. would get the audience reaction to the pix thus tradeshown.

Exchange manager argues that "you couldn't, if you tried, give a picture a worse sendoff than showing it to a cold trade audience."

OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this resume of critical and columnar comment on industry matters are essentially those of the writers quoted; they do not necessarily reflect those of THE FILM DAILY.*

JOHN CHAPMAN (New York Daily News): "Some of us correspondents out here (Hollywood) are in a pet because the movies, operating under Thurman Arnold's consent decree, have whipped up a decree of their own to the effect that correspondents can't see a picture until the date of its public release.

"Whenever the argument about advance comment comes up, Hollywood has a stock answer: 'This is the only great industry in the country where such a thing happens. When Packard, or Ford or Chrysler brings out a new car, you don't see the newspapers printing advance dope that the 1942 model borders on the lousy, do you? The papers wouldn't dare.'

"To which I always reply, 'And you never heard of a paper assigning a by-line correspondent to an automobile plant, did you? You never read a gossip column from Detroit saying 'Pete Schmalz, on lathe No. 27 at the Super-Duper plant, did a honey of a job on a spark plug yesterday.' The movies have had more free publicity than any enterprise in the history of the world. The papers aren't giving it away out of pure kindness, of course. They wouldn't print it if it didn't interest their readers. But all the same, you guys better remember to be grateful.'

"This new ruling about correspondents serves to emphasize one very true thing: That the movie does not consider itself an art form. It is business enterprise, like making Chryslers and Fords and Packards. It makes its dough from the exhibitor—and the exhibitor, if he can, makes HIS dough from you . . . and I'd like to see how big an egg a picture could lay if nobody ever wrote anything about it."

Welles May Direct "Journey"

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Music Hall Gets Premiere

RKO's "Tom, Dick and Harry" will have its world premiere at the Radio City Music Hall Thursday.

CBS to Show Color Tele Thurs. Night

Color television will be broadcast on Thursday night at 9:30 from CBS's New York television station, WCBW. This will be the first actual broadcasting of color television and is expected to be the forerunner of a regular series under the experimental conditions laid down by the FCC.

Initial program, titled "Country Dances," will be televised in black and white for the first portion of the program, switching to color at about the mid-point in order to give televiewers the opportunity of comparing the two varieties of transmission under exactly similar conditions.

The number of television sets in the metropolitan area capable of receiving color emissions is estimated at hardly more than a baker's dozen.

The average set capable of receiving black and white transmissions will not take color pictures without intricate and costly readjustments. Thus it is estimated that a considerable period of time must elapse before color television becomes any considerable competitor of the more prosaic black and white.

Problem of adjusting receivers for both black and white and color is admittedly a difficult one, involving not merely the inclusion of a synchronized color disk, but also a variation in lines and frames per second. This, it was explained, will be vividly demonstrated during the experimental telecast Thursday night. When the changeover to color is made, sets which can not be adjusted to color reception will receive not one image on the tele screen, but four.

While WCBW's black and white transmission employs 525 lines and 30 frames per second, color telecasts will use 375 lines 60 frames. In this connection it is estimated that sets capable of receiving color when they are placed on the market will retail about 15 per cent higher than black and white receivers.

The program "Country Dances," which is directed by Tony Miner, was chosen for the color demonstration because it features native dances by various racial societies with dancers in colorful native costumes.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

"Tom, Dick and Harry" with Ginger Rogers, George Murphy, Alan Marshal, Burgess Meredith

RKO 86 Mins.

SOCKO COMEDY IS TOPS IN ALL DEPARTMENTS: SHOULD CLICK BIG WITH ALL AUDIENCES.

In reply to the lament of exhibitors RKO provides a perfect answer with "Tom, Dick and Harry." It should go over with a bang with all types of audiences, and exhibitors that don't play it are missing a swell bet to boost their box office take. Fast, funny, cast to perfection and skillfully guided by director Garson Kanin, the laughs are continuous, the situations always amusing, and the story and dialogue maintain a high level from start to finish. This is a top-notch piece of screen merchandise in every respect, and it deserves all the attention exhibitors can give it as the exhibitors will benefit just as much as RKO.

It is difficult to single out any one technician or player for individual praise as they all are responsible for the finished job. Director Garson Kanin has created a comedy of first rank, making the most of every opportunity for laughs, deftly handling the players and maintaining a smooth pace. The story and screenplay by Paul Jarrico is a gem. Kept in a light vein, it never loses its theme and is funny at all times. Photography, special effects and all other technical work is first-rate.

Plaudits go to every member of the cast. Ginger Rogers is tops. She delivers her lines with a perfect sense of timing, puts over every situation where it takes more than lines, and, doing a comedy role as a change of fare, proves herself to be a comedienne of first rank. George Murphy is fine as the hot-shot automobile salesman, one of Ginger's suitors. Burgess Meredith, also a suitor, delivers a comical performance that is a revelation. Alan Marshal, third gent to enter the lists for Miss Rogers' hand, fills his part neatly. Lenore Lonergan, portraying Miss Rogers' younger sister, turns in a performance that will make audiences wish there had been more of her in the picture, it is that good. Phil Silvers also contributes a swell bit.

Story concerns Miss Rogers' dizzy gyrations in the matrimonial field. She gets herself engaged to three men at once, Murphy, Meredith, who is a garage mechanic, and Marshal, a suave millionaire. Her problem in deciding which one to marry gets quite complicated before she decides to marry Meredith, although she has decided to marry Marshal, because bells ring every time Merdith kisses her. Just as funny are some expertly done dream sequences which Miss Rogers encounters after she gets herself engaged to each of the different men. It's a laugh show from beginning to end, a tonic for the box office, and a swell pickup for the general public.

CAST: Ginger Rogers, George Murphy, Alan Marshal, Burgess Meredith, Joe Cunningham, Jane Seymour, Lenore Lonergan, Vicki Lester, Phil Silvers, Betty Breckinridge.

CREDITS: Producer, Robert Sisk; Director, Garson Kanin; Story and Screenplay, Paul Jarrico; Cameraman, Merritt Gerstad; Special Effects, Vernon Walker; Editor, John Sturges.

"Hands of Destiny"

Paramount 10 mins.

Unusually Timely

This short should stir up a great deal of comment and cause patrons to examine their hands for signs of genius. Dr. Joseph Ranald, a world authority on hand analysis, reads four hands of destiny—those of President Roosevelt, Hitler, Mussolini and Churchill. Ranald actually has analyzed the hands of the four men personally and his comments are of extreme interest during these perilous times. According to Ranald, who points out the lines of the hands, Mussolini's hand implies ruthless energy and vanity, with cruel determination. He predicts a tragic end for the Italian ruler. Hitler has a similar destiny, his hand showing sadistic cruelty, according to Ranald. Brilliant reasoning powers are indicated in Churchill's hand which shows a great future triumph, while Roosevelt's hand foreshadows a dynamic part in world leadership. Ranald predicted that Roosevelt would be President in 1932. Action of the short takes place in a Pullman parlor car where Ranald explains his findings to fellow-travelers. Fans should find it interesting. It was produced by E. W. Hammons and directed by Al Christie.

"Going Places"

Universal 9 1/3 mins.

Corking Short

Here is a short that should draw gales of laughter from any audience. Exhibitors will miss a bet if they don't play this one. It is the story of "Jimmie The Chump," and his accomplishments. Action and story revolve around a pair of Chimpanzees that are boisterously funny, shrewdly intelligent and fascinating to watch at all times.

"Music A La King"

Universal 17 2/3 mins.

Entertaining Musical

This two-reel musical number is entertaining short fare. But it could have been considerably improved with a presentation that had a little inspiration and creative effort. Henry King and his orchestra and a number of specialties are seen and heard. A couple of the numbers offered are top flight.

"Once Upon A Summer Time"

Universal 17 2/3 mins.

Fair Musical Number

Skinnay Ennis and his orchestra are featured in this two-reeler. A dance team, a soloist with the band and a group of singers round out the entertainment offered. Subject misses being top notch.

or even be a nucleus if enough interest were aroused.

Declaring that the "present type of national exhibitor organization is incompetent," The Independent asks exhibitors to "rally together and form a new national exhibitor organization," with a national figure such as James A. Farley or Wendell Wilkie or Tom Dewey at its head.

The aims and ideals of the proposed organization would be, according to the Independent, to eliminate or correct such "evils" as duals, games and giveaways; foster better understanding among the various types of operation; establish an arbitration board among exhibitors for exhibitors; establish a production committee; create tax and legislative committees and a committee on public relations.

"This organization," it was stated, "would accomplish two important things: (1) it would represent a solid front of theater owners who could then do invaluable work in bringing back that part of the public which no longer goes to the theater, and (2) it would co-ordinate the activities of exhibitors in fighting those evils which affect all exhibitors."

Mourn William T. Wilson

The industry last week mourned the death of William T. Wilson, veteran film man, who was credited with having initiated many forms of film exchange operation that are standard today. Wilson, who was the father of Carey Wilson, M-G-M producer, was buried July 5 in Philadelphia, having died July 2 in Hackensack, N. J. He entered the film business in 1911 and for many years was traveling auditor for Fox and Metro. He retired in 1932. Carey Wilson and a daughter, Helen, survive.

Only way for Jack to save himself was to step in and enact the groom's role, which he reports he did "for his flag, country and Warners"—and for plenty of space in the papers.

Industrial films of the U. S. Bureau of Mines were shown on 111,045 occasions to an attendance of 10,910,762 during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to M. F. Leopold, supervising engineer of the Bureau.

The Bureau now has 5,961 reels in its library, but in spite of the fact that it has as many as 100 prints of a subject, the demand is so great due to the National Defense Program that at present subjects are being booked six months in advance.

The Bureau's film activities are in co-operation with American industries, without the expenditure of Government funds, it is pointed out.

Hollywood "All Out" for USO

Film Div. Gives $112,398; Quota, $60,000

Hollywood's film colony is going all-out for the USO, word received at national headquarters here shows.

First report meeting of the motion picture division of the Los Angeles USO campaign produced a total of $112,398 against a quota of $60,000. This total does not include a gift of $100,000 from Edward G. Robinson, but includes receipts of $20,000 from a recent Hollywood Bowl show in which most of the celebrities of the film colony participated.

The total raised to date in Los Angeles is $212,398 toward a goal of $387,000. The original quota was $287,000, but the goal was raised upon receipt of the Robinson gift. First reports of divisions other than the motion picture group will be made tomorrow. The film division is seeking contributions from each of the 30,000 persons in the industry, and its report cited gifts from 1,450 of the 1,458 Columbia Picture workers as an example of the co-operation being given.

William Wellman, Paramount director, and Edward Arnold, chairman of the Motion Pictures Permanent Charities Committee, are heading the drive in the film industry.

tained by Thursday, Chairman Joseph Hazen said yesterday. Hazen today is launching an all-out personal solicitation drive by his committee.

One of the larger donations has been made by Loew's, Inc., which is contributing $5,000 plus several thousand dollars more from individual executives. Warner Bros. has made a similar pledge. Other large company contributions are being made.

Hazen said that the chief trouble has been procrastination. Some persons whom the committee knows will make donations are delaying, he said. Immediate pledges are needed to go over the top.

"If necessary, Hazen announced, "we will extend the drive. I hope that won't be necessary."

Army Sends Officer To Speed Service Pix

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—In a move to eliminate red tape, expedite clearances on scripts and to meet rush loan requests for service equipment, the U. S. Army, with the approval of Secretary of War Stimson, plans to designate a high-ranking Army officer with authority to act and assign him to duty in Hollywood.

This became known with the arrival here of Maj. Gen. Charles Richardson, chief of the Army Bureau of Public Relations, which governs films, radio and press in matters concerning the Army.

General Richardson, accompanied by his aide, Lieut. Col. W. Mason Wright, Jr., chief of the Pictorial Branch of the Bureau, came here Sunday from Washington for conferences with industry leaders.

General Richardson expressed his gratification at the industry's cooperation in National Defense publicity dissemination. Describing himself as "the Army's champion moviegoer," the General asserted that movies were America's greatest need in time of a "war of nerves."

In addition to outlining the Army's plan to work closely with the studios, General Richardson's agenda includes the problem of camp entertainment, talks with Guilds' execs. and plans for photographing the Army's huge maneuvers, utilizing 500,000 men, in Louisiana in September.

Col. Davidson Heads The Army's Film Service

Col. Frederick L. Herron, Army officials said. He will continue on as Col. Davidson's assistant, since Colonel Davidson outranks him.

Col. Davidson, who was assigned to the service in an expansion program, is a regular Army officer. Officials indicated his assignment, under the Army's Morale Office, will not mean any change in policy.

tending the initial RKO screenings was admittedly low, it was believed generally that attendance would pick up during the week as a different picture is scheduled for showing each day. There appears to be particular interest in the showing of "Citizen Kane" on Thursday.

Biggest Turnout at Indianapolis

Biggest turnout for the RKO screening was in Indianapolis where approximately 450 exhibitors were on hand. It was indicated that most of the out-of-town showmen would remain in that city for the balance of the showings, RKO tradeshowing its first block-of-five on a one-a-day basis.

Chicago had the second largest turnout with 300 in attendance.

In New Haven, only 16 exhibitors were present but a much larger number is expected today. Twenty-eight persons attended the RKO screening in Cincinnati, one-third of them from out of town.

The RKO screening in New York drew representatives of 338 circuit theaters and 22 independents. Among the circuit operators were Si Fabian, Sam Rosen, Irving Lesser, Leslie Schwartz, Arthur Mayer, J. M. and Ed Seider, Murray Miller, Walter Reade, Jr., Leon Rosenblatt, Sam Rinzler, Harold Klein, Leo Brecher, Jack Shea and Ed Grainger.

M-G-M screenings were held in Albany, Buffalo, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Dallas, Des Moines, Detroit, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Memphis, New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. In some cases they competed with the RKO screenings. First tradeshow any place was that held Sunday in Jackson, Miss. by Metro.

50 at Metro's Albany Show

One of the first reports of the M-G-M tradeshows came from Albany where more than 50 exhibitors were on hand. In general, few theater men came from long distances, although Warner Bros. and Fabian circuits were fully represented. One exhibitor, Pete Varnakis, came 175 miles from Watertown, otherwise Utica was the farthest city to be represented. Most of the showmen returned to their homes last night and will be back today for the RKO screening.

Only exhibitors with accredited passes are being admitted to the M-G-M showings. In New York where M-G-M's first trade screening is scheduled for tomorrow, the trade press reviewed the picture yesterday.

RKO Detroit Show Draws 25; Two or Three Will Stay Over

Detroit—First tradeshow by RKO at the Majestic Theater yesterday drew about 25 exhibitors. These represented about 150 theaters mostly in Detroit. Major affiliated circuits will probably attend screenings in their own projection rooms or upstate.

About six upstate exhibitors attended, mostly just those who happened to come in to book anyway on Monday. It is not likely that more than two or three will stay over for balance of the week's showings.

M-G-M showing in the afternoon at the Majestic drew 40 exhibitors, largely the same crowd as in the morning with a number of additions.

MacMurray Opposite Dietrich in Col. Pic; "Kid from Pittsburgh," Billy Conn Title

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Riding herd on the Hollywood news range:

Fred MacMurray will be opposite Marlene Dietrich in "Miss Madden is Willing". . . . I. A. L. Diamond, who graduated from Columbia U. this year, has been signed by Paramount as a writer. . . . Ann Sheridan will star in "Mississippi Belle," once "Memphis Belle," for Warners. . . . Billy Conn's Rep. pic will be dubbed "The Kid from Pittsburgh," not "Kid Tinsel". . . . Metro may send Hedy Lamarr to England to appear with Robert Donat in "Cargo of Innocents". . . . Two more biographical pix loom in Warners' "Peary at the North Pole" and Gregory Ratoff's plans for one based on the life of Sir Thomas Lipton, tea magnate and America's Cup challenger.

300 Attend Chicago RKO Radio Tradeshow

30 Exhibs. Representing 150 Theaters At Boston Screening

Boston—More than 30 exhibitors representing 150 theaters in this area attended "Parachute Battalion" screening yesterday at the Uptown Theater. After Thursday the showings will be held in the new RKO exchange. RKO executives estimated that the attendance for the rest of the week would exceed that of yesterday and that approximately 200 theaters would be represented from now on.

Sixty Attend RKO's Philadelphia Tradeshow

Philadelphia — Attendance at the RKO screening here yesterday was light with about 60 persons present, some of whom were from out of the city.

Pittsburgh Screening Attended by 132 Exhibs.

Pittsburgh—RKO screening was attended here yesterday by 132 exhibitors, half of whom were out-of-towners. About 20 remained over for the balance of the screenings as the majority of those present are within fairly easy driving distance.

Attendance Only Fair At RKO-Dallas Showing

Dallas—Attendance at the first RKO tradeshow was considered only fair. A big turnout is expected for "Citizen Kane."

Dozen Out of Town Exhibs. At Milwaukee Screening

Milwaukee—Forty-one exhibitors attended RKO's "Parachute Battalion" tradeshow here yesterday with about 12 of these from out of town. Only a small percentage from the state are staying over. Those coming from within a 35-mile radius of Milwaukee, are planning on coming in every day.

A. N. Schmitza, local RKO exchange manager, says he is not disappointed in the number attending showing.

A Few of Dozen Exhibs. At Mpls. Show Stay Over

Minneapolis—Only about a dozen exhibitors of Minneapolis and points in this territory attended the preview showing yesterday of the first picture in RKO's initial block-of-five of the 1941-42 season. The Park Theater here was used for the screening of "Parachute Battalion," first of the five to be shown, with Metro's "Lady Be Good" set to be screened for the trade this morning. The other three will be previewed later in the week.

Metro will screen its first block-of-five today at the same theater, with Paramount scheduled to start its previews July 23.

Some out-of-town exhibitors who attended RKO's screening said they probably would remain in the city to see the others of the five and pictures of the aquatennial celebration while others said they had come primarily to see the first of the new season's pictures.

35 at Denver Show; Some of Them Will Return

Denver—About 35 attended the first trade screening of "Parachute Battalion" at the Santa Fe Theater. A dozen of them were from nearby towns and most of them will be back this week to see the other features.

Omaha Tradeshow Attendance No Greater Than Ordinary

Omaha—Attendance at RKO's tradeshow here yesterday was in the nature of a flop, attendance being between 40 and 50—which is no more than turn out for the ordinary Monday screening.

Exhibs. generally said they would not come in during the week for further tradeshows. Some theaters in the territory are 250 miles from Omaha.

RKO's Atlanta Tradeshow Attracts 25 Exhibitors

Atlanta—RKO's first tradeshow screening here yesterday attracted 25 exhibitors. These, and more, are expected to attend the showing of "Citizen Kane" on Thursday.

Twentieth Century-Fox begins its tradeshowing today, and Metro starts tomorrow.

St. Louis Tradeshows Draw Fair Attendance

St. Louis—First tradeshowings under the consent decree met with fair response in St. Louis yesterday when RKO's "Parachute Battalion" at the S'Renco projection room drew 30 exhibitors, including 18 from outside St. Louis.

Metro's "Lady Be Good" at the Norside was viewed by 75 exhibitors about equally divided between local and out-of-town men.

RKO expects to reach peak attendance when "Citizen Kane' will be screened Thursday. It will hold showings every day until Friday. Metro will show on each Monday for five weeks.

Paramount's first screening will be July 28 and 20th Century-Fox's on July 23, both at S'Renco room. Warners will announce plans later. A few out-of-town exhibitors are expected to stay over from day to day for the showings.

40 at New Orleans Show; Expect 100 for "Citizen Kane"

New Orleans—Exhibitor attendance touched nearly 40 yesterday at RKO's first tradeshowing under the consent decree, a presentation of "Parachute Battalion." About a third of the exhibs. were out-of-towners.

RKO Branch Manager Page M. Baker said attendance was not quite as good as he hoped for, but expected nearly 100 Thursday for the "Citizen Kane" showing. Showings are being held all week in Suburban House, across the city from M-G-M's showings.

30 at RKO's Los Angeles Tradeshow; 100 at Metro's

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Los Angeles—Thirty exhibitors attended the tradeshowing of RKO's "Parachute Battalion" and very few were from out-of-town.

M-G-M representatives stated that more than 100 exhibitors attended showing of their "Lady Be Good."

Chi. Holds "Caught in Draft" delegates that the arbitration setup was clean and offered a possibility of adjusting some of the complaints that "have been too often voiced in front of the film building and too seldom talked over between the interested parties."

Expressing the hope that when an exhibitor feels he has a grievance that he will at least first talk over the situation with the local manager, Richey admitted that some grievances, especially those involving clearance, made arbitration necessary.

"We believe," Richey said, "that it was the intent of the arbitration system to offer exhibitors a speedy and inexpensive method of adjusting differences that may arise and if the arbitration set-up in the industry fails to do that, it has failed in its purpose."

Harmon Addresses Va. MPTO Mid-Summer Convention

Hampton, Va.—Meeting here for their tenth annual mid-Summer convention at Hotel Chamberlain the MPTO of Virginia was addressed by Francis S. Harmon, co-ordinator, who told of his recent trip to Hollywood and films that had been produced by the industry for national defense. He also told of difficulties in handling the distribution of films and asked for suggestions on same.

H. M. Richey also explained M-G-M's sales policy for the next season, stating that any sales formula is as good as the reputation of the company making it. Richey also told of a survey made by his company which worked out a streamlined selling plan whereby the "gross receipts will be the barometer of what theater owners will pay for film rentals."

Julian Brylawski, president MPTO, district of Columbia, told of his recent trip throughout the Middle West and East in connection with films in Army camps. He said that the chief complaint from camps was on account of the age of films and he could not see where the camps were direct competition for theaters.

Disney Rejects Gov't's Strike Arbitration Offer

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — Walt Disney studio has rejected the Government's proposal to arbitrate the strike of Screen Cartoonists Guild at the Disney plant.

Gunther Lessing, Disney vice-president and general counsel, charged NLRB with stalling and meddling and expressed the belief that Communistic influences were prevalent in the strike.

Guild strikers voted to accept telegraphed offer of J. R. Steelman, director of conciliation for the Labor Department for arbitration of the dispute by the Government.

Early 1931 Deals in Crescent Suit Trial

to the Attorney General, was questioning C. G. Lawing, of Charlotte, N. C., former operator of theaters in Brownsville, Paris, and other West Tennessee towns.

It was concerning contracts for films for Crescent's Capitol theater, a competitor of a theater owned by Lawing, that Willingham wrote Sudekum on December 5, 1935, as follows: "We trust that you will see to it that Mr. Shepherd plays our product as certainly when we take the product away from our old, regular customer in Brownsville, Tenn., such as we are doing in this instance, and give it to you, you should give us 100 per cent representation in your situations."

1931 Deal Cited

The letter also stated that the contracts for certain films were enclosed. Lawing, who stated that he now owns and operates a theater in Albemarle, N. C., testified that he began operating a theater in Brownsville in 1931 and operated it profitably until 1935 when the Capitol was constructed by Crescent Amusement Co. In an effort to "make a living" he said that he opened a tent theater in Paris, Tenn., in a few months beginning operation in a remodelled store building. This continued until the Summer of 1936 when, unable to continue the business at a profit, he sold his theaters in Brownsville and in Paris to Crescent for $75,000, assuming himself the debts against both houses.

In addition to the letter from Willingham, the Government attorney also obtained the statement from Lawing that, after Crescent entered Brownsville, it became difficult for him to get needed films from M-G-M, Paramount, and Warner Bros.

Admits Copyright Difficulty

On cross-examination by Defense Attorney William Waller, the admission was drawn from Lawing that he told distributors whom he contacted that he couldn't afford to pay rentals as high as formerly because of Crescent competition. Lawing also admitted that he had had some difficulty with the copyright owners on certain films bought for use at Brownsville which he showed in Whiteville without the necessary clearance. He claimed that this was settled without difficulty.

Lawing, in his testimony revealed that he was manager of the Royal Theater, Charlotte, N. C., before moving to Memphis to work for S. T. Meyer. When Meyer didn't "need me any longer" he moved with his family to Brownsville and open a theater, with ten shows operating in Paris, and for a time in Alamo and Whiteville. Four years later he sold out for $75,000.

E. W. Dozier, who followed Lawing on the stand, proved to be a former partner with Crescent Amusement Co. in a theater at Madisonville, Ky., during 1931 and a part of 1932 when he sold his interest to Crescent following a disagreement. His sales agreement, which was not produced, contained, according to his testimony, the provision that he would not operate a theater in Madisonville for 10 years. However, he did move over to Earlington, Ky., 3 or 4 miles from Madisonville, where he opened the Roxy.

Dozier claimed that, partly because of the fact that he would often show pictures at the Roxy ahead of Madisonville, K. C. Stengel, for Crescent, came to Earlington and took options on a lot for a theater in competition with the Roxy. Dozier testified that he offered to sell the Roxy for $16,000 but that Stengel would not talk about buying. A lease was then proposed at the rate of $185 monthly.

Coming to Nashville to discuss the matter with Crescent officials, the witness states he refused to sign the lease when he discovered that the other contracting party was the Rockwood Amusement Co. and not Crescent. He said that he asked for a financial statement of Rockwood and, not considering it as showing a favorable financial condition, he refused to lease unless Crescent or Sudekum would endorse the lease. Dozier testified that during the Nashville conference, he insisted that Crescent stay out of Earlington, a coal mining town. Not nearly so large as Madisonville. However, Crescent interests did purchase a site and erected the Earl Theater in 1937. The Roxy and the Earl were operated in competition until July, 1939, when, after negotiations with Tony Sudekum and R. E. Baulch in Nashville, Dozier sold the Roxy for $7,000. A condition to this deal was also the sale of Dozier interests in the Alhambra in Hopkinsville, Ky., for which he was paid $18,000. He testified that, 60 days after the sale, Crescent closed the Earl and operated the Roxy exclusively. Dozier is now in the real estate business exclusively.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

"Parachute Battalion"

with Robert Preston, Nancy Kelly, Edmond O'Brien, Harry Carey

RKO 75 Mins.

TIMELY, DRAMATICALLY EXCITING AND WELL-PLAYED, SERVICE STORY SHOULD CLICK.

(In RKO's First 5-Block)

Audiences generally should be keenly interested in this new RKO offering as it deals with a new branch of our Army, the parachute troops. It is a natural for exploitation as the whole world is conscious these days of parachute troops due to their prominence in the news from the European war fronts. In addition to exploitation and publicity angles, there is a solid cast of well-known players for marquee use.

Filmed with the co-operation of the Army's 501st Parachute Battalion, Fort Benning, Ga., where much of the material was filmed, picture has real authenticity. There is some splendid photography of actual jumps, with a sock thrill contained in the sequences where whole troops of these men jump from planes in formation. The story is well-worked out, the players are first-rate and the direction is able.

Leslie Goodwins directed and Howard Benedict produced, both men doing a first-rate job in their respective departments. Original story and screenplay was written by John Twist and Major Hugh Fite, Air Corps. Roy Hunt handled the cameras.

Preston, Miss Kelly, O'Brien and Carey are fine in the four lead roles, Preston, a wise guy, and O'Brien, vying for the attention of Miss Kelly, daughter of crusty officer Carey. Excellent characterizations are also turned in by Buddy Ebsen, Richard Cromwell, Paul Kelly and Robert Barrat.

Story opens with a number of men joining the Army's parachute troops, and takes them to Fort Benning. Training, life at the post, the feelings of the men and two-way play for Miss Kelly by O'Brien and Preston comprise the balance of the story, with the romantic stuff relegated to secondary importance by the more essential work at hand, training of the men. It is interesting throughout and should entertain any audience.

"Lady Be Good"

with Eleanor Powell, Ann Sothern, Robert Young

M-G-M 111 Mins.

GERSHWIN MUSIC HIGHLIGHTS A TUNEFUL BUT LONGISH ROMANTIC COMEDY.

(In Metro's First Block)

Featuring some grand music, including the title song and "Fascinating Rhythm," by George and Ira Gershwin; "The Last Time I Saw Paris," by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein, II, and other good numbers of Roger Edens and Arthur Freed, "Lady Be Good" should be well received by the popular music devotees. Unfortunately the film, running nearly two hours, is overlong to the point of becoming monotonous at times. Fault is with the script which takes too much footage to tell of the marital troubles of a couple of pleasant people.

All of the cast do good jobs. Ann Sothern and Robert Young are a song-writing team that clicks before they are married and after they are divorced. Eleanor Powell has little to do until late in the picture when she does two of her tap specialties, a cute rehearsal number with a dog, and a full-scale Busby Berkeley routine. Lionel Barrymore is up to par as a judge, while John Carroll sings a couple of numbers and Red Skelton is a song plugger.

Yarn, which has no resemblance to the original legit. musical, tells of the song writing team that clicks in a small way until they are married. Then Young gets an enlarged head from attention paid him by the Park Ave. set; the girl walks out, and they are divorced. Teamed up again for song writing only, they turn out a best seller and are remarried, only to split up again when Young wants to play instead of working on a show they are writing. This time the judge refuses to grant a divorce and the couple is eventually brought together by their friends.

Musical numbers are interspersed throughout, with songs sung by Miss Sothern, Virginia O'Brien and Connie Russell, as well as Carroll, as the story moves through rehearsal rooms, night clubs, radio, etc. A typical Berkeley production number is spliced in near the finish.

CREDITS: Producer, Arthur Freed; Director, Norman Z. Atlanta's Second "Blackout" May Last

yesterday, was deferred until July 21.

First "blackout" was lifted a week ago, but the period of normal current consumption cut into water reserves to the point that power company officials feel "rationing" necessary during the normally dry season if demands of the National Defense Program are to be met.

Theater fronts will again go dark here next Monday and power usage inside will be cut one-third. Radio stations will go on curtailed schedules or install their own generators. Night clubs will also be affected. Air conditioning will be cut.

Georgia Power Co. officials said the "blackout" must continue indefinitely through the Fall.

Kab Amusement Case to be Arbitrated on Thursday

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—The arbitration case of Kab Amusement Co., Washington, vs. Loew's, Inc., with Warner Bros., as intervenors is set for hearing Thursday. This case has unusual interest because attroneys Hayes and Sher formerly of the D of J, who aided in the New York equity suit preparation, represent Kab Amusement. Kab claims Warner theaters, Calvert, Uptown and Avalon, receive too much clearance over its Alavo.

UA TO LAUNCH CIRCUIT WITH 12 HOUSES

Deal in Work for Interest in String, Kelly Reveals; Eventual $6,000,000 Theater Investment in Prospect; Private Sources to Finance; Buckley to Head Setup

Entrance of United Artists into theater operation was announced yesterday by Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president, who returned Monday from Coast conferences. It is the plan of United Artists to acquire interests in established circuits and, in some cities, to build its own theaters.

Negotiations are now in work with an unidentified circuit for the acquiring of an interest in 12 theaters. Deals will call for a controlling and operating interest in most cases, although holdings as low as 25 per cent may be obtained.

Harry Buckley, now in charge of exchange operations, will head the theater enterprises, Kelly said. He further indicated that theaters may SIGNS are multiplying that exhibition may face, if indeed it does not already face, a serious problem as a result of the ever-increasing demands upon theater owners and operators for screen time in the interest of the National Defense Program.

The problem, as it is defined both in the flow of correspondence across the editor's desk and in comment made personally by showmen and officers of exhibitor organizations finding their way to New York, arises in part from the profusion of subjects loosely grouped as "defense" films and in part from the character and entertainment quality of some of the subjects for which screen time is sought.

The various division of the Motion Picture Committee Co-operating for National Defense are functioning with commendable efficiency, and the program committee charged with the selection of films to be released by the National Committee especially merits, and has, the confidence of all exhibition.

YET the uneasiness manifested by showmen is understandable. As the defense program's tempo increases, there is certain to be pressure exerted for more and more screen time, both by Government agencies, existent and yet to be established, and those which are semi-public or private in character. It will be difficult to withstand all pressure, particularly should the United States actively enter the war.

The entire industry, of course, is patriotically resolved to do its bit; indeed that is so patent that it scarcely calls for statement here. But if it is to fill its prescribed role, the building and sustaining of national morale in this new type of war, "the war of nerves," there must be no diminishing of entertainment on the screen —and nothing on the screen to discourage attendance.

If defense subjects, whatever their nature, are to fulfill their mission, their message must—and the word well might be in caps—be entertainment-coated. If it isn't, it's a 100-to-1 shot that it will not only miss fire, but definitely irk the audience. For it must be remembered that the audience has paid, not for a message, but for entertainment.

That is why one picture like Jesse L. Lasky's "Sergeant York" actually is worth a hundred or more clips or trailers in furthering today's great national program.

AS to audience reaction to defense footage, a mid-Western exhibitor leader, in New York yesterday, contributed this sidelight. Reporting audiences there restive when special reels were holding the screen, he observed that with some 26 per cent of current newsreels being devoted to defense program developments, theatergoers were surfeited.

Still another slant was recently brought to the fore by Abram F. Myers, general counsel of national Allied, who said bluntly, "It is proper to inquire whether the volume of subjects dealing with war and preparedness for war is not hurting the national morale by denying to the public one of the few remaining avenues of escape from the horror war?"

Myers cited the case of a man with two sons in the Army, who has given up the movies for baseball, with the explanation, "There must be some retreat from my thoughts. After all, they are taking chorus girls to the training camps to help the soldiers forget."

Which in turn points up the fact that there are 1,400,000 men now in the U. S. Army, and presents the very pertinent question, How many of their kin folks feel the same way about it?

Single Feature Experiment Clicks in Chicago Houses

Chicago—Essaness circuit's experiment with single features in six houses is proving successful, according to Prexy Emil Stern, who says that if there is no flareback, the policy will be adopted permanently for the Summer. Extension of the policy to other situations is also possible.

The Schoenstadt circuit's tryout of a similar policy at the Piccadilly also is termed "satisfactory thus far" to Reuben Schoenstadt, and its permanent adoption is in prospect.

Schoenstadt personally has assumed the circuit duties of the late Joseph McCune.

Fox Wisconsin Tries Singles In Nine Wisconsin Situations

Milwaukee—Fox Wisconsin Amusement Corp. has inaugurated single feature policies in its Fox in Stevens Point; Myers in Janesville; Strand in Manitowoc; Orpheum in Green Bay; Brin in Menasha; Wausau in Wausau; Odeon in Beaver Dam; Fond du Lac in Fond du Lac, and the Fox in Marinette. In the latter house, the single policy will operate only Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

The circuit is also admitting all non-commissioned service men in uniform at one-half the prevailing admission price at all its houses.

Discount Squawks Army's Films Are Too Ancient

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Fresh complaints that films reaching Army camp theaters are "old" are discounted in Army circles here.

Can't Impose License Fee On Outdoor Movies in Ind.

Indianapolis—George N. Deamer, Indiana Attorney General, holds in an opinion that outdoor movie entertainment provided by portable equipment is not within the provisions of the 1937 law licensing and regulating motion picture theaters.

The opinion given to Clem Smith, State Fire Marshal, asserts the 1937 law's intent is to regulate structures as a safety measure and that fees are established on the size and capacity of building.

The Attorney General pointed out that in many cases outdoor movies are free and are sponsored by merchants in the communities in which they are shown and that it would be difficult to fix a license fee on an audience capacity basis.

Wobber to Outline Policies Tomorrow

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Twentieth-Fox's sales policies for 1941-42 will be outlined to the sales convention at the Ambassador Hotel here tomorrow afternoon by Herman Wobber, distribution chief, who formally opens the three-day session this morning.

On today's program are Hermann Place, chairman of the executive committee; Joseph M. Schenck, Darryl F. Zanuck, Irving Maas, Ben Miggins and C. V. Hake. Zanuck this afternoon will introduce an array of stars, directors and producers to the delegates, who also will preview "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Charley's Aunt" during the first day.

Tomorrow morning, addresses are carded by Truman H. Talley, W. J. Clark, Paul Terry, William Sussman, William Kupper and M. A. Levy, the latter distributing the Kent Drive awards. On the afternoon's program will appear, in addition to Wobber, Charles E. McCarthy, Harry Brand, William C. Gehring. Pix set for screening tomorrow are "Wild Geese Calling" and "Belle Starr."

Friday morning the delegates will see a screening of rushes of "A Yank in the R.A.F," "Week-End in Havana" and "How Green Was My Valley," all currently in production. Following the screening, they will assemble to hear addresses by Felix A. Jenkins, Fred Pride and John Caskey, who will explain the legal angles of the consent decree and its anticipated effect on the company's sales policy. Theater operations will be the theme of addresses by Spyros Skouras and Charles Skouras. The afternoon session will be devoted to a visit to the studio.

Delegates will leave Saturday aboard the same special trains which brought them to the West Coast, returning to the two central assembly points of New York and New Orleans.

Papayanakos Wins Clearance Award

the clearance complained of was unreasonable.

Papayanakos complained in his proceedings against Warner Bros., and RKO, over the 14-day clearance enjoyed by Schine's Strand in Ogdensburg

Hall, in revoking all existing clearance in his decision, cited the admission prices of the two theaters were virtually the same and mentioned that photos do not show any marked dissimilarities, although the Schine theater is obviously larger.

Continuous double-feature policy of the Schine house was mentioned, plus its playing Bank Night, Ten-O-Win and Bingo. American Theater, Canton, it was stated, had discontinued Bank Night and Bingo some time before complaints were brought.

Fact that Ogdensburg has no clearance over Potsdam and Gouverneur, lying approximately the same distances from city as Canton was cited. Cost of proceedings are to be paid by RKO and Vitagraph.

Abe Garbos Loses Clearance Case Against Five Distribs.

Boston—John Daly, arbitrator in the clearance case brought by Abe Garbos against the five consenting companies, ruled against the complaint in a decision handed down here.

Daly decided that clearance was well established in the Fitchburg, Gardner and Athol areas and that Garbose, who operates the Yorke Theater, Athol, had no just cause for complaint.

In so deciding, Daly said that no considerable amount of patronage was drawn from one of these cities to the others and cited the fact that Fitchburg is 25 miles from Boston, Athol 14 miles west of Gardner and the latter town 13 miles West of Fitchburg so that there was no actual grievance to be adjusted.

Half of Fans Lost at Age 40

Cater More to Public's Tastes, Advises Dr. List

thorough study of polls and surveys and he lays the blame for the diminishing market to a lack of understanding of adult tastes on the part of the producers and the failure of exhibitors to cultivate their publics.

Having worked for many years with Parent-Teacher associations and having been retained by the Quaker Oats Co. to pass on the script of the Dick Tracy radio serial to insure juvenile appeal and parents' approval, Dr. List believes he is in a position to understand the reasons for the lost patronage.

Fail to Interest Public

The majority of theaters, both independent and affiliated, have failed to capitalize on their ability to get people interested in making their neighborhood shows a community meeting place, he asserts. Most theater managers, Dr. List said yesterday in an interview, are not paid high enough salaries nor are they sufficiently trained to do anything more than look after the welfare of their theaters. Greater contact with their publics would keep more than 50 per cent of adults interested in the movies long after they pass the age of 40, he insisted.

Dr. List, who has addressed Ampa on several occasions, expressed the opinion that representatives of the civic organizations and Parent-Teacher groups should be invited to the tradeshowings which got under way this week. He said it would be a wise policy to take the parents in as "partners" so that they can create interest in forthcoming product through verbal contacts.

Sees Correction Possible

His theory that half the theater fans lose interest in pictures after 40 could be corrected, Dr. List said, if greater attention were paid to tastes of all ages. This, he admitted, would be a difficult task and yet he insisted that psycho-analysis of a story in advance would insure its acceptance by the public as a whole.

In this respect, Dr. List said that the radio industry was a step ahead of motion pictures, declaring that sponsors, advertising agencies and stations carefully diagnose their programs before putting them on the air so that as much mass appeal as possible can be obtained.

FDR Asks Federal Daylight Saving

quested the Governors of eight Southern states by letter to proclaim daylight saving immediately if legally possible.

The letters went to the Governors of Alabama, Virginia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida.

In letters to Vice-President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn, the President asked for legislation to provide daylight saving time "upon such a regional or national basis, and for such part, or all, of the year, as he might deem necessary in the interest of our national defense."

The President said that the effects of year-a-round daylight saving would result in a probably annual reduction of 736,282,000 kilowatt-hours in the use of electricity.

Speaker Rayburn said he had always been opposed to national regulation of daylight saving, believing this was properly a matter for the states to settle, but that in view of threatened power shortage he does not see how Congress can deny the President's request.

"U" Program to Jan. 1 Said Virtually Finished

was announced by the studio yesterday.

Already completed or before the cameras, with but one or two exceptions, are 27 features which reach U. S. theaters from August through December. This includes 24 pictures for the 1941-42 season which starts Sept. 1.

Universal's announcement is all the more spectacular in view of the Company's previous revelation, two weeks ago, that a total of 32 feature films for the new season will be ready for delivery, or in the cutting rooms, by Sept. 1. It was pointed out that this places Universal in an unsurpassed position to pick appropriate release dates for its product.

"U" will wind up the 1940-41 season by releasing "Hold That Ghost" Abbott-Costello starrer, and Frank Lloyd's "This Woman is Mine" next month, and will herald the advent of the new season in September with "Badlands of Dakota," super-western. To follow in Autumn and early Winter are "Unfinished Business," "Almost an Angel," "Hellzapoppin," "Appointment for Love," "The Great Man," "Ride 'Em Cowboy" and "They Lived Alone," among others.

Gordon-Goetz May Do 2-3 Annually for UA

said that under the terms of the proposed deal, Gordon and Goetz would make a minimum of two pictures and a maximum of three yearly for the next three years.

Because of their experience as Broadway producers, Gordon and Goetz would also be called upon to produce legitimate plays which would later be transferred to the screen.

"The American Way" is likely to be one of the pictures to be made by the pair, Kelly said.

Kelly said that contracts calling for David O. Selznick and Frank Capra to become owner-members of the company have been completed but that other members had not seen them in order to give approval. Issue is expected to be settled shortly on the Coast.

Titles of 18 pictures to be released by UA this season were revealed by Kelly yesterday. These do not include contributions by Selznick and Capra who will deliver two each a year if the deal is closed. Capra has one story in mind. Selznick has three, one of which is untitled. The other two are "Claudia" and "Jane Eyre."

Forthcoming product include: two from Alexander Korda, "Lydia" and "The Jungle Book"; four from Walter Wanger, "Sundown," "Eagle Squadron," "To Be or Not to Be" and one western; five from Edward Small, "International Lady," "Twin Beds," Shirley Temple in "Little Annie Rooney," "Heliotrope" and "My Official Wife"; one from David Loew-Albert Lewin, "The Mating Call"; one from Richard Rowland, "A Man's Man"; one from Arnold Pressburger, "Shanghai Gesture"; two from Garbriel Pascal, "Major Barbara" and "The Snow Goose"; one from William Sekely, "New Wine" and a British picture, "Three Cockeyed Sailors." Hal Roach will deliver 10 streamlined features, two of which are completed.

Kelly said that a deal with the Ealing studios in England would bring over three of eight British productions. First will be "Ships With Wings," based on the exploits of H.M.S. Ark Royal.

Sol Lesser is expected to make "Strange Victory." Deal for this one is still in work.

Name Little 3 At Crescent Trial

Exhib.-Exchange Letters Are Introduced

film distributors and Crescent or its affiliates.

Actual documentary evidence of involvement of United Artists and Universal in the alleged illegal transactions in pictures were introduced yesterday for the first time while William Pope Miller, manager of the Rogersville, Tenn., theater, which is owned by Rockwood Amusement Co. was on the stand. Miller, questioned by Wright, testified that, after being in the theater business since 1917 he built the Palace in Rogersville, as an independent operator, in 1933. Cumberland Amusement Co., Crescent affiliate, built a competing house in Rogersville, (which had a population of 1600) in 1936.

Tells of Decreased Attendance

The witness told of the decrease in attendance at the Palace as a result of the competition resulting, in 1938, in his selling his house to the Rockwood Amusement Co., which had taken over the other theater in the meantime. Miller was made manager of the Palace and has since continued in that capacity.

The vital part that letters and contract documents, etc., are playing, and will continue to play, in the Government's efforts to convict the several defendants of violating the anti-trust law was particularly demonstrated in the testimony of Miller when Wright, during the examination, introduced letters, applications, and contracts passing between the witness and distributors' exchanges (including United Artists and Columbia in Atlanta, Ga., between the time the competing theater was erected in Rogersville in 1936 and Miller sold the Palace to his competitor in 1938.

"Bought Any Pix We Could Get"

Concerning the pictures that he was able to contract for during this period, Miller declared: "We were buying anything we could get hold of to fight our competitors and stay in business." In 1937, he rented what he described as "old pictures" and was questioned in minute detail by Wright certaining his efforts during this period to get pictures.

By this testimony the Government attorneys proposed to show that distributors withheld pictures from the Palace and sold them to the compeing house at rentals less than Miller offered to pay.

E. W. Dozier, who went on the stand before noon Monday, was questioned for hours by Government attorneys and then subjected to a gruelling cross-examination by George H. Armistead, Jr., for the defense. He was questioned exhaustively concerning his relations with Crescent Amusement Co., first as a partner with the defendant at Madisonville, Ky., and then as a competitor at nearby Earlington, Ky.

Dozgier Cross-Examined

One statement made by Dozier on cross-examination was to the effect that he had told a representative of M-G-M, in discussing renewals of certain film contracts, that he could not afford to pay as high rentals for films after the Earl was built by Crescent in competition with his Roxy.

Dozier was also carried over again a conversation with Tony Sudekum in which the president of Crescent had said Earlington, Ky., was to small for one theater and yet had later approved the opening of the Earl with Dozier's Roxy already in operation.

Dozier came back to the stand at the opening of court yesterday morning for completion of the cross-examination.

Overlooked as being present for the hearing several days last week was Henry Griffin, Oklahoma City, attorney for the Griffith interests. Both he and J. Myer Schine and his attorney indicated their probable return for further observations at the hearing.

Counsel for SCG Charges "Intimidation" by Bioff

District Attorney Mathias F. Correa. While Correa withheld formal comment on the telegram, his office intimated that no steps would be taken unless proof was forthcoming that witnesses claimed to be molested were those involved in the extortion suit against Bioff and George E. Browne.

The U. S. District Attorney's office is inclined to believe that Bodle's charge was confined to persons involved solely in the union battle with the Walt Disney studio. Bodle's demand is based on instructions from Federal Judge John C. Knox that any attempt at intimidation would bring forth the immediate arrest of Bioff. Meanwhile, it was stated, Correa was investigating the charge with a promise to act if warranted.

Move for Joint Support Of SCG in Disney Strike

Among those attending the meeting will be representatives from the Screen Readers Guild, New York Newspaper Guild, United Office and Professional Workers of America, League of Women Shoppers, United American Artists and the SPG.

New Warner Lineup Has Seven Musicals

28, it was learned that in addition to the nearly completed "Navy Blues," musicals will include "A Night at Tony Pastor's," "Here Come the Girls," and "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Rhapsody in Blue," "New Orleans Blues," "Yankee Doodle Dandy," in which James Cagney will portray George M. Cohan. also more or less in the musical category. The list probably will be amplified later.

Sears and Carl Leserman, assistant general sales manager, also outlined six big Broadway hits on the new program—"The Corn is Green," "Arsenic and Old Lace," "Old Acquaintance," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "The Male Animal" and "George Washington Slept Here," with others in process of negotiation. At least a dozen important novels, including recent leading best-sellers, likewise are on the schedule.

The sessions continue today and tomorrow.

"My Life With Caroline" with Ronald Colman, Anna Lee, Charles Winninger

RKO 81 Mins.

FROTHY COMEDY SHOULD BE PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT FOR AVERAGE AUDIENCES.

The average audience should be pleasantly entertained by this comedy. It is light, frothy and flimsy with a highly improbable story, but lavish settings, a highly able cast, good direction and a smooth pace keep it moving without any letdowns. Picture is exploitable and boasts Colman, Winninger, Gilbert Roland and Reggie Gardiner for marquee purposes in addition to Anna Lee, attractive English actress making her bow in an American-made picture.

Lewis Milestone produced and directed, with the picture a United Producers production. William Hawks served as executive producer. Milestone deftly handles the players and situations involved, getting amusing results. John Van Druten and Arnold Belgard wrote the screenplay from a play by Louis Verneuil and Georges Berr. The story could have been a little more solid, with its drawback an attempt to extract more humor than can be gotten from one situation. All in all, though, with the material at hand it is a workmanlike job which produces pleasing results.

Colman is smoothly efficient as the understanding husband. Miss Lee registers as his attractive and slightly foolish wife. Gardiner and Roland are effective as suitors for Miss Lee's hand, and Winninger is amusing as her father, only intersted in making sure he is comfortable no matter who she is married to, although he rather likes Colman. Other members of the cast are helpful.

Story deals with Colman's intelligent handling of his wife to prevent her running off with first, Gardiner, and then Roland. The results are entertaining and amusing, with Colman winning his point in smart style.

CREDITS: Executive Producer, William Hawks; Producer and Director, Lewis Milestone; Screenplay, John Van Druten and Arnold Belgard; Based on a play by Louis Verneuil and Georges Berr; Cameraman, Victor Milner.

"Here Is A Man"

with Edward Arnold, Walter Huston, James Craig, Anne Shirley

RKO 112 mins.

ONE OF YEAR'S BEST; IS TOPS IN ALL DEPARTMENTS AND SHOULD CLICK SOLIDLY WITH ALL AUDIENCES.

(In RKO's First 5-Block)

Here is a picture. It should be a strong contender for honors when any laurels are handed out for the year's best pictures. Tops in all departments, it should click solidly with all audiences—but it needs selling to put it over with the general public, selling it richly deserves on its merits. Edward Arnold, Walter Huston, Anne Shirley, James Craig, Simone Simon, Jane Darwell, Gene Lockhart and John Qualen are a whole lot of "names," insofar as "names" go. However, there is no one big star to serve as a box office magnet.

Exhibitors have a brilliant piece of screen merchandise in this offering that warrants every effort they put behind it, and they will benefit from their own efforts. The picture will sell itself to an extent by word-of-mouth advertising. It is doubtful that many people are familiar with the brilliant story by Stephen Vincent Benet under the title of "The Devil And Daniel Webster." However, RKO has a wealth of material and a really fine picture to sell to the public.

Produced and directed by William Dieterle, these two departments leave nothing to be desired. Etched against a year round New England landscape, the delineation of the period, the people and the countryside is faithful and sharply drawn with a bold sweep. Dieterle's direction is smooth to an extreme. The players fit their parts to a T, and a final scene of great importance is amazingly underplayed by Arnold, undoubtedly at Dieterle's behest, with brilliant results.

The screenplay written by Dan Totheroh and Stephen Vincent Benet is a gem. It is clever, subtle and dramatic, humorous and tragic in turn, with a number of smart touches that register solidly. Camerawork and special effects are also top drawer, Joseph August handling the cameras and Vernon Walker contributing the special effects. Bernard Herrmann also gets a big hand for an exceptionally good musical score. Art Director Van Nest Polglase rates a hand. Charles L. Glett served as associate producer.

Arnold, portraying Daniel Webster, is excellent. Walter Huston does a whale of a job as the devil of the piece, working his nefarious schemes under the nom de plume of Mr. Scratch. James Craig looms as a whale of a screen bet with an outstanding performance as the young husband of Anne Shirley, and victim of Scratch. Miss Shirley is fine as the wife. Jane Darwell, Simone Simon, Gene Lockhart, John Qualen and H. B. Warner are important to the picture with expert characterizations. Possibly Miss Simon's characterization might have been more effective if given more animation. Other members of the cast are equally good, Lindy Wade and Frank Conlan deserving mention.

Story concerns Craig's hard luck and his unfortunate bargain with Huston, who "gets him" when he is down on his luck. From there on Craig waxes wealthy in answer to his wish, becomes arrogant and turns into a true creature of the devil, only to be saved by Arnold in a splendid climactic sequence when Arnold argues for him before a jury of dead cutthroats brought back for the trial by Huston. The story points up a few morals and precepts we all would do well to heed, and it deals in an abstruse but tastefully done method with the world's ills today. The picture is a credit to RKO and everybody connected with it.

UA May Acquire So. Amer. Theater Holdings

Company's New U.S. Chain To be in Operation by Late Summer or Early Autumn be acquired later on in South America.

Circuit Long Contemplated

Kelly explained that it had been the aim of the founders of the company in 1919 to ultimately acquire theaters for their product but the idea had never been put actively to work. The United Artists circuit, he said, was not a UA property but was operated by executives within the organization.

Investments in theater properties, Kelly said, will ultimately involve between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, to be financed through private sources. Theaters will be acquired or built in spots where UA product has not had proper representation.

Houses to be Modern De Luxers

The houses will not be "memorials" but will be modern and of a de luxe type and suitable for comparatively low-cost operation. The initial 12 theaters will be for first-run showings but others in the second- and subsequent-run classification may be added as the theater plan expands and develops.

By operating its own theaters, UA will be able to handle the showings of its product in a way best suited for the individual pictures, Kelly said.

Kelly contended that UA was not violating the Department of Justice's edict against theater expansion by producers, inasmuch as UA is not a producing company but strictly a distributing organization. Details will be pushed so that the new plan can be in operation by Fall or late Summer.

Plenty of Amusement Money in Frisco, But Only Stage Show Theater Benefiting

San Francisco—While film theaters not happy about business, plenty of amusement money is floating about town. "Ice Follies" is in its 8th week, averaging a terrific $30,000 weekly. Show is hitting 30 per cent higher than in its last year's profitable engagement and no end in sight for the run. One exception to so-so theater "take" is RKO's Golden Gate which has only vaude in town and has booked a succession of strong stage shows, Ted Lewis, Sophie Tucker, Andrews Sisters, Earl Carroll's, etc. Golden Gate, in spite of rather weak film fare, has had the most profitable Summer season, to date, in its history.

ings were not encouraging. Only 10 exhibitors appeared for RKO's tradeshow in Memphis. In Portland, Ore., 25 exhibitors responded to the 200 invitations sent out, although it was said that a heat wave had held attendance down. Twenty exhibitors out of a possible 270 showed up in San Francisco. In Philadelphia, attendance was slightly lower yesterday than on Monday. In Buffalo only about 30 exhibs. attended RKO's tradeshow Monday or yesterday although many out-of-town exhibs. were in the city to book pictures. Among them were many chain reps.

In Chicago yesterday more than 100 exhibs. attended M-G-M's preview.

Local Fabian and Warner managers and bookers and a handful of exhibs. from outlying spots were present at RKO's Albany tradeshow yesterday. Further screenings will be held today, tomorrow and Friday.

Attendance at RKO's tradeshow in Detroit yesterday dropped to 12, nine of whom had attended the first day's show. But one upstate exhib. actually stayed over for the second show. Heads of local buying combines, however, attended every showing.

In Des Moines attendance at both RKO and M-G-M tradeshows on the first two days was slim, about 40 being present, half from out-of-town.

Only New York paper to take note of the inauguration of tradeshows was PM which said: "For all the excitement it aroused the event might have been a trailer."

General Council Calls on M.P.'s to Intervene With England's Board of Trade

London (By Cable) — The CEA General Council here yesterday moved to toss a monkey-wrench into Warners' deal for a 50 per cent interest in the Associated British Cinemas circuit of 350-odd houses.

Aroused by persistent reports here, and advices from the U. S., that deal negotiated by Warners with the John Maxwell estate was ready for signature, the General Council called on members of Parliament to intervene with the Board of Trade to prevent financing and control of the circuit to pass into American hands.

Larger N. Y. House For "Sergt. York"?

"Sergeant York," now playing at the Astor on Broadway, may be shifted to a large New York theater, it was reported yesterday. Move is under consideration at Warners, which is distributing the Jesse L. Lasky production, but decision may wait upon the return from Montreal today or tomorrow of Grad Sears, sales chief. Heavy demand for tickets as against the house's 1141 seats explains the proposal.

The industry co-ordinating commission is seeking some ruling to enforce the measure currently and some remedy for correcting it in the future. Other measures in the decree were said to be working out satisfactorily. Penalties are provided for violations, but none have been handed down to date.

Hub Biz Drops, Yet Still Ahead of '40

Boston—Summer theaters of the legitimate variety, vaudeville in Cape Cod and Cape Ann night clubs, tent shows in various Cape and suburban cities and towns and the appearance of several circuses in this vicinity have immeasurably cut into the attendance at film theaters in and around Boston and exhibitors are experiencing their usual Summer complaint—that of being alarmed lest the invasion of these outside influences do permanent harm.

Hub downtown theaters are not suffering more than in past years, however, and the general report is that business is as good, if not better, than last year.

Defense projects, which for a time aided the Boston theater patronage tremendously, have fallen off in this respect though constantly increasing in actual performance and men employed. But the tendency seems to be these defense workers with their sudden onrush of unaccustomed riches to patronize the horse and dog racing tracks and to gamble their earnings instead of putting them through the turnstiles of the theaters.

The suburban towns complain that soldiers and sailors as well as defense workers on their days off are not patronizing the theaters but are instead rushing to the beaches and amusement parks, latter of which are experiencing an unusual rejuvenation this year.

Of course, this was all news to Warners . . . of course! ! ! !

Frank Buck Pic Scores In Chicago Opening

Chicago — First two days of "Frank Buck's Jungle Cavalcade" at the Woods Theater here drew capacity business. Monday's gross was $1,900 and Tuesday's register was $1,500. Picture followed "Citizen Kane."

"Frank Buck's Cavalcade" will be held for a third week at the Palace Theater, Broadway, following a big second week.

Valparaiso (By Air Mail)—M-G-M is expected to build a new theater here.

"Stormy Weather"

Newport, R. I.—Francis Sullivan, of E. M. Loew's Paramount here will never again hear "Stormy Weather" without a shudder. Opening a balcony door at the theater during a heavy wind and rain storm, Sullivan felt the door whipped open by the strong sea breezes, dragging him out with it and dropping him 25 feet to the roof of an adjoining building. At Newport hospital they treated him for lacerations of face and head and held him for further observation.

limits would be passed, for example, if the distributors should attempt to give the Rivoli in perpetuity a monopoly of the business in West Haven." Admitting the superiority of the Rivoli location as its strongest claim to preference, he believes the award of 7 days adequate. The higher films argument, he states, "would have operated with more weight if it had been demonstrated whether the difference in rentals was the cause or the effect of the clearance." "If . . . the cause . . . and if the difference ought in and of itself to prevent a change of clearance, then on the circumstances of this case clearance could never be modified while the difference lasted, and this in my opinion is a result not contemplated by the decree."

Second case, that of Saybrook Theater, Inc., against RKO, Loew's, Inc., and Vitagraph, filed June 13, asking for elimination of New London clearance over Saybrook, first scheduled for hearing today, has been postponed to next Tuesday at the office of the local tribunal. RKO asked for postponement because of trade screenings during the week.

Warner Bros. has intervened for the New Britain Warner houses in the New Newington case brought by Fred Quatrano, asking reduction to 7 day clearance for the New Newington, now under construction.

Blumenstock Promotes Two

Two promotions on the staff of Mort Blumenstock, Warner Bros. Eastern advertising and publicity head, place Bill Berns in the radio department as aide to Mrs. Isabel Turner, while Morton Brill will assist Lee Blumberg, field exploitation.

Cool Greeting

Newark, N. J.—Ed Sniderman is a firm believer in air conditioning and advertising. The enterprising local downtown theater manager has his telephone operators greet incoming calls with:

ernment attorneys trying the Crescent anti-trust action here, Wright's active participation in decree problems will be delayed until the trial is completed, and possibly until after the pending Schine and Griffith anti-trust cases are disposed of.

In the meantime, his Washington staff has been delegated the task of keeping a record of exhibitor complaints charging unfair distributor practices and the parts of the country from which these complaints are coming. Wright has indicated that he will welcome suggestions that will improve any part of the decree operation, including trade-show schemes.

Transfer Gen. Richardson To Seventh Army Corps

from that post, it was revealed here yesterday.

In a bare announcement, containing no exemplary details, the Department said that General Richardson will be transferred to head the 7th Army Corps, with headquarters in Birmingham, Ala., effective August 1. His successor has not been revealed.

General Richardson, who has been in Hollywood this week conferring with producers on problems of camp entertainment, has described himself as the "Army's champion moviegoer." On the trip to Hollywood, General Richardson was accompanied by his aide, Lt. Col. W. Mason Wright, Jr., chief of the pictorial branch.

Lose Suit to Establish Parking Lot for Tuxedo

Detroit—Suit to establish suitable parking lot for the Tuxedo Theater was lost by Wisper & Wetsman Circuit, and the Wayne County Circuit Court has ordered them to rebuild the street curb and install "no parking" signs on the property. The Court upheld the contention of neighbors that ancient building restrictions restricted the property in question to residential use, even though it was shown in court that the character of the site had changed so far that it could never be used for a home site hereafter.

MPTOA Plans Early Service Bureau Bow

A service bureau for MPTOA members, as proposed at the annual convention in Los Angeles last month, may be put into work shortly, Ed Kuykendall, president, said yesterday in New York. Purpose of the bureau will be to keep members informed as to sales policies in the various territories so that theater men will be aided in buying pictures.

Kuykendall said the service can be of great value but its success would depend on the co-operation of all exhibitors in widely scattered territories.

Policy of some companies to present trade shows on five successive days may be an expensive problem for the average small town theater owner, Kuykendall said, adding that there was nothing that could be done about it for the present except watchful waiting.

"We believe," he continued, "that the production end of this industry has at last accepted the seriousness of the preview nuisance about which so much was said at the national convention and about which MPTOA is in dead earnest. This gives the trade a wider scope of service to theater owners who will be dependent in many instances on trade press reviews of pictures."

Kuykendall said that the problem of giving so much screen time to propaganda and drives of various kinds was becoming serious even though the industry was mindful of its patriotic duty. "But this should be done in good taste and with strict discrimination," he said.

Creating new theater patrons and bringing back the old ones were subjects that were being given a great deal of thought, Kuykendall asserted, declaring that "we must find a plan behind which all of us can wholeheartedly work."

MPTOA may have something important to announce in regard to double bills, Kuykendall said without revealing the plan for eliminating them.

Kuykendall left yesterday for Washington and his home in Columbus, Miss., after having attended a meeting of the industry's USO drive committee.

"Father Takes A Wife" with Adolphe Menjou, Gloria Swanson, John Howard, Desi Arnaz, Florence Rice

RKO 79 Mins.

AMUSING COMEDY SHOULD ENTERTAIN AVERAGE AUDIENCES; GLORIA SWANSON EFFECTIVE IN RETURN TO SCREEN.

(In RKO's First 5-Block)

Pleasant entertainment is a fair description of this offering. It is opulently mounted, peopled with a highly competent cast and ably directed. The story has a funny situation for its premise, but once again it is a question of trying to wring too many laughs from too scanty material. All in all, though, the picture should be well received by the average audience, and it undoubtedly will get a fair share of laughs wherever shown. It is also interesting in that it brings Gloria Swanson back to the screen after an absence of more than half a decade.

Menjou is suavely efficient and Miss Swanson very effectively fills the bill as the actress he marries. It's a tailored-to-measure role. John Howard and Florence Rice, Menjou's son and daughter-in-law give good characterizations. Helen Broderick is amusing, and Desi Arnaz is more than adequate as the Latin menace that causes all the trouble. Other members of the cast are capable.

Lee Marcus afforded the picture an opulent production value and Jack Hively turned in an able directorial job. Screenplay was written by Herbert and Dorothy Fields.

Menjou, a shipping magnate, much to the surprise and dismay of his stuffy son, Howard, announces he and Miss Swanson are to be married. The marriage almost doesn't take place, but everything is fine until they run into Arnaz, a stowaway singer on the boat bringing them back from their honeymoon. Arnaz moves into their home and disrupts it, then disrupts the home of Howard and his wife. Father and son are about to launch a new boat when they discover they are to become fathers and rush to their respective wives to make peace, having sent Arnaz on a concert tour which they had to pay for.

CAST: Adolphe Menjou, Gloria Swanson, John Howard, Desi Arnaz, Helen Broderick, Florence Rice, Neil Hamilton, Grady Sutton, George Meador, Mary Treen, Ruth Dietrich.

CEA Would Toss Monkey-wrench in WB Deal

Objects to Extension of American Interests in British Movie Theaters

the CEA, are objecting directly to the Board of Trade against the extension of American interests in British theaters, and are reported informing the Warner home office in New York of this view. Warners at the present time has a single "show window" in London.

It is the understanding here that the Maxwell estate gave a definite commitment to Warners, but regardless of that, it is pointed out that the Government can, if it so desires, prevent consummation of the deal. According to report here, finalization presumably awaits the return of Max Milder, Warners' British managing director, from the U. S.

Milder was scheduled to leave New York by Clipper for Lisbon on Tuesday, but encountered Portuguese visa difficulties. He may take today's Clipper, or he may be further delayed.

It is understood the purchase price of the ABC stock involved in the Warner deal is approximately $3,600,000. Warners would utilize frozen credits here as well as American dollars in making the deal, it is said.

It is believed here that Milder would be named joint managing director of the circuit should the deal go through. That, however, is made problematical by the strong British opposition which crystalized yesterday in the CEA's action.

20th-Fox Would Block 21st Cent. as Co. Name

Suit for an injunction to restrain the use of the name Twenty-First Century Film Corp. was filed yesterday in the Federal Court by 20th-Fox against the former company and its officers, Arpad Szemere, Juliette Brill and Emery I. Stern.

Twentieth-Fox claims the exclusive use to the name and contends that the defendants upon incorporation in 1940 assumed a similar name as a deception to the public and the trade. In addition to an injunction, the complaint seeks an accounting of all profits obtained by the defendants through use of the name.

Current-Saving Recess Extended in Alabama

Montgomery, Ala.—Theater marquee signs, brightened last week at the temporary "go" signal of the Alabama Company after a month's blackout because of power shortage, will remain bright another week as the power-saving recess is extended.

With stream flow on the Coosa River maintaining a higher level than was anticipated, the Alabama Power Company announced relaxation of power curtailment another seven-day period. Three of the power company's "run-of-the-river" hydro-electric plants, operating on stream flow instead of stored water, are on the Coosa, whose watershed has been visited daily with heavy rains.

If, at the end of this seven-day period, the reservoirs have enough water to operate the hydro-electric plants using stored water, the ban will probably be permanently lifted.

Under the program of cutting down on power wattage, Alabama theaters reduced their normal usage by one-third, cutting out one show daily and reducing air conditioning.

Farm Bloc Fights Move For Nation-Wide Fast Time

Washington—The farm bloc in Congress will oppose President Roosevelt's request for daylight saving time throughout the country. Chairman Fulmer (D., S.C.), of the House Agricultural Committee considers the proposal a joke.

"Two to one," he said, "the farmers wouldn't even set their clocks ahead. They wouldn't pay any attention to it."

Speaker Rayburn was of the opinion that Congress would not oppose the proposal as it is a means of combatting the power shortage now acute in some Southern states.

Writ Halts Buffalo Police War on Bingo

Buffalo — A Supreme Court order signed by Justice David Diamond, restraining police from interfering with Bingo games in two theaters and an amusement hall, was served yesterday on Police Commissioner Austin J. Roche.

Plaintiffs listed are Old Vienna, Inc., operating in the Old Gayety theater; Jay-Phil Co., Inc., operators of the Academy theater, and William Richter.

The order prohibits interference with Bingo "until the day after the dismissal or trial of any of the indictments now pending against the plaintiffs."

Leyser Gets Leave to Set Merchandising Campaign

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollyood—Billy Leyser, director of publicity and advertising for Fine Arts Producing & Distributing Corp., has secured a few weeks' leave of absence to enable him to complete a nation-wide merchandising campaign.

Leyser and his associates in the East have been working on this plan for nearly a year and it is now nearing the completion stage. It is possible that he will fly to New York and Washington to conclude arrangements at the final conference before returning to Los Angeles, where practically all the work will be done.

Hollywood — Ernst Lubitsch has signed Ginger Rogers to star in his first 20th Century-Fox production, "A Self-Made Cinderella." This will be Miss Rogers' one outside commitment allowed under her RKO contract.

NAM Raps Proposed Patent Law Changes

Special Patent Adviser George E. Folk of the National Ass'n of Manufacturers, in an address yesterday before the Practising Law Institute at the Hotel Astor, took a crack at Assistant Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold's proposed changes in the patent laws, limiting patent licensing rights.

Arnold's anti-trust division of the D of J, he said, "demonstrated a disturbing lack of understanding of the nature, purpose and effect of patents. The proposals apparently grew out of misunderstanding as to the rights created by patents and the failure to distinguish between the rights inherent in a patent, and the rights created by patent agreements."

"The department assumed, erroneously, that patents at present are not subject to anti-trust laws," Folk stated.

"One might well come to the conclusion that the Department of Justice was laboring under an entirely wrong impression of the nature of patent rights and assumed that patents, in themselves, represent an unjust monopoly, and that, therefore, patent rights should at least in part be destroyed.

"There is nothing wrong with the property right represented by a patent. If combinations in restraint of trade are resulting from the misuse of patents, as the Department of Justice and the TNEC seem to assume, the anti-trust laws are adequate to deal with them."

Folk held that enactment of these proposals would increase rather than diminish monopoly, because they would discourage patent licensing. He said they would curb the rise of new companies, and new industries, and decrease opportunities for employment of capital and men.

Finney Borrows Mary Ruth From Metro for Musical

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Producer Edward Finney, who will put his first feature in the bigger budget class, "Lil' Louisiana Belle," into work tomorrow, has borrowed the eight-year-old piano prodigy, Mary Ruth, from M-G-M for the title role in the picture, which Monogram will release.

Film is of the musical type, with many Stephen Foster tones to be heard, some of which will be played by Mary Ruth, others to be sung by Clarence Muse and his vocal chorus. Finney has signed Jack LaRue for a top role, with Marian Marsh and Robert Kellard to have the romantic leads. Al Herman has been act to direct. Shooting will take place on the Talisman lot. Story is an original screenplay by Fred Myton.

33 WB '41-42 Titles Announced in Canada

of the parent company and president of the Canadian subsidiary. Cohen amplified important features of the selling policy and Sears reported in detail concerning new pictures.

With the advent of consent decree selling, scheduled for the new season in the states, considerable speculation has been rife as to the details of Canadian policy, which, Cohen stated, will, in general be the same as heretofore, except that a group of outstanding films will be sold separately and individually.

The company's 1941-42 product will include 40 feature pictures plus this group of outstanding films. Among the latter are "The Prime Minister," which, was made in the London studios of Warner Bros., and will have its premiere in Ottawa August 13, accompanied by a Government-sponsored broadcast. Playdates in Toronto and Montreal will follow on consecutive days, respectively, with general release throughout Canada later.

"Captains of the Clouds" seemed to him to be the most important to the Canadian market. Cohen said Warner Bros. is the only company releasing Class A pictures in Canada during the Summer months, normally a depressed period. Product of the company, he claimed, is being shown in 97 per cent of the cinemas of the Dominion.

Sears announced that final standings in the annual sales drive, concluded in April, will be reported at the national convention in Chicago and said the Canadian district and its individual branches will share in substantial awards.

Concluding session yesterday was concerned with screening of unreleased short subjects. A statement of selling policy regarding them was made by Norman H. Moray, in charge of this department.

The 1941-42 list of pictures was announced as follows: "The Prime Minister," "Sergeant York," "Captains of the Clouds," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Flight Patrol," "Navy Blues," "One Foot in Heaven," "The Maltese Falcon," "They Died with Their Boots On," "King's Row," "Captain Horatio Hornblower," "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "The Male Animal," "George Washington Slept Here," "The Widow Wouldn't Weep," "Mr. Sheffington," "Rhapsody in Blue," "The Gay Sisters," "Background to Danger," "Battle of the Atlantic," and "Man From the FBI," "Nine Lives Are Not Enough," "Law of the Tropics," "The Smiling Ghost," "The Hard Way," "Carnival in Rio," "High Towers," "The Black Widow," "Right Shoulder Arms," "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Manhattan Fury," "The Great Divide" and "All Through the Night."

He has completed work on "The Gay Knighties," Pal's fourth Puppetoon, in collaboration with Cecil Beard and they are now working on the fifth story.

NLRB Sanctions Bargaining Election by Screen Readers secret ballot will be conducted as early as possible within 30 days among all salaried readers employed in story-reading departments in New York offices of Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, RKO, Universal, Columbia, and Loew's.

The readers will determine whether they desire to be represented by the Screen Readers Guild of New York for collective bargaining purposes. Piece-work readers and supervisory employes will not participate in the balloting.

Board decision stated that in each case question concerning representation existed. Each company stated that it contested both the unit proposed by the Guild and Guild majority. Board's regional director in New York stated that Guild represented a substantial number of screen writers in service of each company.

Board decided that piece-work readers are not employes within the meaning of the NLRB act since they frequently work for more than one company; that companies do not list such workers on regular payrolls; that they do not receive vacations with pay, etc., and that no social security tax is deducted.

One board member dissented from that part of the decision.

Mich. Allied Survey Shows Construction Gain

State Gained 83 Houses; Circuit Seats Increase, Three-Year Survey Shows

By H. F. REVES

FILM DAILY Staff Correspondent

Detroit—The growth of theater construction in Michigan during the past three years is strikingly summarized in a survey completed by Allied Theaters of Michigan, which has carefully totalled seating data for the state. Evidence strongly confirms the many reports of heavy theater building in both Detroit and upstate areas, as published from time to time in THE FILM DAILY during this period.

The state has gained 83 new theaters, over and above the loss of houses closed and dismantled, during the three years since the last similar survey was made. Even more striking is the increase in seating capacity, with the increase totalling 52,296 seats.

Breakdown of figures compiled shows that bulk of increase in seating capacity has been among the circuits, both affiliated and independent, with the actual increase in number of houses about evenly spread between the two classes of circuits and independent exhibitors—owners of one or two houses. Indication is clearly that while the independents are holding their own in adding new theaters, the circuits are definitely gaining in total seating capacity by the construction of larger houses.

Outstanding in the figures for increase is the record of the Butterfield Circuit, which added some 18,000 seats during this period. The other drastic change shown among the circuits is in the substitution of Raymond Schreiber's group of houses for the former Advance Theatrical Operation Circuit, whose five houses he acquired.

In Detroit itself, the outstanding increase is in the Wisper & Wetsman Circuit, which added some 8,000 seats in this period.

The general summary of gains is:

1938

Type of Operation	Theaters	Seats
Affiliated circuits	110	133,112
Unaffiliated circuits	66	61,117
Independent exhibitors	404	209,517
Totals	580	403,746

Affiliated circuits	133	153,597
Unaffiliated circuits	81	75,487
Independent exhibitors	449	226,958
Totals	663	456,042

The circuit figures are broken down by each management group including a total of four affiliated theater circuits—two of them operating a single house each—and nine unaffiliated:

Crescent Defense Scoring

Judge Rules Evidence is "Too Speculative"

Crescent Amusement Company and affiliates—from an observer's viewpoint, was very much in favor of the defense. First of all, Judge Elmer D. Davies ruled as "too speculative and too remote all evidence bearing upon Bank Nights, Amateur Nights and Hot Seat Nights," although very little testimony as to these methods of competition has as yet been given.

In an equally important, if not more important, decision, Judge Davies stated that he was inclined also to eliminate all evidence as to methods employed by Crescent Amusement or other defendants in acquiring theaters in small towns whether by fair means or foul, but that he was concerned about the issue of whether "by the acquisitions, defendants did build up a monopoly in restraint of interstate trade in films, through the use of circuit building power."

Lengthy argument by Government counsel that any and all methods used by Crescent were an integral part of the defendants' conspiracy with film distributors resulted in an agreement by the court to continue to accept evidence regarding theater purchases by defendants.

J. D. Henry a Witness

On the stand at the time above decisions were made was J. D. Henry, now operating the Hickman Insurance Co., Hickman, Ky., but who had previously for many years operated theaters in Hickman and for a short time in Union City, Tenn.

Henry was questioned for the entire morning by attorneys for both plaintiff and defendants. He was questioned exhaustively by D of J attorneys concerning the opening and operations of a theater in Union City involving contracts for films with United Artists, Columbia, and Universal. Henry testified that he opened the Roxy Theater there in March, 1939, but that three months and nine days later he sold out to Crescent Amusement Co. for $8,000 and signed an agreement not to engage in the moving picture business in Union City for 25 years.

This was followed by testimony revealing that Henry contracted for a total of 175 pictures out of the 1937-38 and 1938-39 seasons, contracting with United Artists, Columbia and Universal, altogether more than $1,000 worth of films in rental value, using only a small part of these pictures before selling the Roxy to Crescent.

Questioned on cross-examination by both Edward C. Raftery, representing United Artists and Universal, and Louis D. Frohlich, attorney for Columbia, Henry admitted to considerable controversy with the exchanges due to failure to meet his part of the contracts. He revealed to the court that, according to his interpretation of his contracts with exhibitors on pictures played on percentage he was not obligated for anything where he didn't play the picture.

Had Large "Bank" of Film

Although the witness testified that he sold out largely because he foresaw difficulty in contracting for United Artists, Universal and Columbia pictures for 1939-40, Attorneys Raftery and Frohlich drew from him evidence that he had a large "bank" of films to draw from when he sold out and had no difficulty in obtaining pictures up to that point.

Under questioning by Raftery, he identified a letter bearing his signature, addressed to United Artists, in which he proposed co-operation in competing with Crescent Amusement Co. with this distributor's products in Union City and nearby towns.

Questioned about a letter which indicated his failure to keep the agreement with Sudekum to stay out of the theater business in Union City, Henry testified that films he sought to get for exhibition in a tent theater was "for PTA (Parent Teachers' Association), probably during Fair week."

At the conclusion of the cross-examination defense attorneys stated to Judge Davies that it was their opinion that Henry opened the Roxy Theater in Union City with the intention from the beginning to sell out to Sudekum. It was brought out in the testimony that none of the pictures contracted for by Henry for the Roxy was ever shown by Crescent's theaters in that city.

Joe Wiley on Stand

Following Henry on the stand was Joe Wiley, also of Hickman, Ky., and associated with Henry, both in the Roxy Theater at Union City of which he was manager, and at present working for his insurance company. He was questioned closely about what he knew about the operation of the Roxy, but little was developed of interest to either side.

After Government attorneys had drawn from Wiley considerable testimony concerning the fact that the witness began remodelling a building for a theater at Hickman, but gave it up when W. F. Riffin, of the Riffin Amusement Co., began constructing a competing theater, Judge Davies ruled it all immaterial since Ruffin is not a defendant in this suit and has no direct connection with it.

OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this resume of critical and columnar comment on industry matters are essentially those of the writers quoted; they do not necessarily reflect those of THE FILM DAILY.

ANGELO PATRI (Knoxville Journal): "The movies are a part of the daily life of this country. They are an educative force to be reckoned with and used for the good of the people. For the most part they are light entertainment and that, too, is educative and to be used for our good.

"We complain about the effect of movies on children without making the complaint specific. That we have a just complaint is beyond question, but it is not a blanket complaint and should not be offered as one. My specific complaint is that all movies are open to everybody from infants in arms to the aged. I would prefer a little discrimination in this particular. I would not allow children of certain stages of development to attend certain movies. I would exclude babies in arms on the ground of health reasons.

"When a movie has to do with questions beyond the understanding of children . . . I would keep children who might be affected by them out of the theater. But I would do that myself, being the responsible parent, and I would not expect the police to do it for me."

gram, listed 38 titles for Hollywood production, and six for filming in England under Associate Producer Robert Kane. The latter leaves shortly for London, via New York and Lisbon.

Sharing the spotlight with Wobber's disclosures was the appearance of Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production, who assured the delegates that 20th-Fox has assembled the strongest lineup of young players in its history.

Zanuck in particular cited Dana Andrews, Anne Baxter, John Sheppard, Gene Tierney, Carole Landis, John Sutton, George Montgomery, Roddy McDowall, Victor Mature and John Shelton, whose contract was recently acquired from Metro.

Directed at Mass Appeal

Six months ago 20th-Fox set a policy of concentrating on making box office pictures and dropping plans for any prestige or "trophy" pictures, Zanuck told the salesmen. He said the organization's pictures will be directed at mass appeal and will have a diversity of subjects. Zanuck said Ginger Rogers will do one picture for company with Lubitsch directing.

Emphasizing cost of production he pointed out that cost of labor on a picture exceeds salaries of star or stars on same picture. Zanuck also stated that because of war plenty of comedies and cheerful pictures will be needed. He declared that the organization is way ahead on production and that by January 1, 1942 the company will have six or eight more A pictures ready than were made in the entire 1940-41 season.

Hermann G. Place, chairman of the executive committee, said the company is in excellent condition and has tremendous assets. Joseph M. Schenck gave the salesmen an inspiring talk.

Wobber said his selling system will be kept flexible and production will have a maximum flexible policy to take advantage of changing world conditions.

Wobber's title lineup included 25 of the 29 published in THE FILM DAILY on Monday. The omissions were Hugh Walpole's "Blind Man's House," Theodore Dreiser's "My Gal Sal," "This Above All" while "I Wake Up Screaming" was listed under a new title, "Hot Spot," indicating last minute changes in program make-up.

New Titles Listed by Wobber

In addition to the 25 previously printed, Wobber listed:

"DRESSED TO KILL," starring Lloyd Nolan with Mary Beth Hughes and Sheila Ryan; "PRIVATE NURSE," with Jane Darwell, Brenda Joyce, Sheldon Leonard and Robert Lowery; "GREAT GUNS," a Laurel and Hardy comedy with Sheila Ryan in the feminine lead; "MARRY THE BOSS'S DAUGHTER," with Brenda Joyce, Bruce Edwards and George Barbier; "CHARLIE CHAN IN RIO," with Sidney Toler again playing the title role; "HOT SPOT," based on Steve Fisher's mystery novel, "I Wake Up Screaming"; "GIFT OF THE MAGI," Robert Kane's production of the O. Henry tale which will star Tyrone Power; "SMALL TOWN DEB," a Jane Withers film, with Jane Darwell, Cobina Wright, Jr., and Bruce Edwards; Zane Grey's "LAST OF THE DUANES," "WE GO FAST," "MAN AT LARGE," "CADET GIRL" and a second Zane Grey story, "RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE."

Eight On British Program

Additional titles will be added to this list as new story purchases are made by the studio, Wobber stated. He listed the British pictures to be made by Kane as "This Above All," from the novel by Eric Knight; "Spitfire," "Uncensored," "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," "Kipps," the H. G. Wells story co-starring Diana Wynyard and Michael Redgrave; "Pitt the Younger," with Robert Donat and Robert Morley; a second film with Robert Donat; and another in the popular "Inspector Hornleigh" series of comedy mysteries.

The company also will release 52 one-reel films and 104 issues of Movietone News.

For Maximum Flexibility

Distribution of the new season's pictures will be governed by the terms of the New York consent decree, and the selling system will be kept flexible to meet varying situations, Wobber emphasized, and added that the company had deliberately set its plans to insure maximum flexibility in production operations in order to be in a position to take advantage of changing world conditions.

The first group of five pictures will be ready for distribution on Aug. 1.

Wobber informed the convention that the 1940-41 feature film circulation was more than 12 per cent over the record-breaking 1939-40 figures.

K-B Arbitration Hearing Under Way in Washington

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Arbitration case of K-B Amusement Co., Washington, against Loew's, Inc. got under way here yesterday, with routine testimony setting the stage for major arguments to come. The K-B Company is contending against clearance the Calvert and Up-town theaters over its Apex Theater, in the same neighborhood.

James V. Hayes and Robert Sher, former D of J attorneys who worked on the New York consent decree represent K-B Amusement Co. C. Stanley Thompson is attorney for Loew's while Warner Brothers, an intervenor in case, is represented by Howard Levinson and Harold Berkowitz.

Apex owners contend that seven days' clearance granted nearby Calvert is unreasonable. Much of yesterday's testimony concerned real estate values in the neighborhood. Rudolph Berger, district manager for Loew's, also was called in to testify.

Optimism in Canada Despite Heavy Tax

Canada's most important showmen and representative exhibitors are highly optimistic over theater business conditions despite the additional 20 per cent Dominion amusement tax, according to F. J. A. McCarthy, Universal's Southern and Canadian sales manager, who has just returned from a three-week tour of Canada.

McCarthy reported that the new tax, combined with a spell of unusually hot weather, resulted in a temporary drop in receipts but that business has started to build and Canadian showmen are confident that it will continue to increase. He said that Empire Universal executives were enthusaistic over the first-run grosses of "In the Navy" which exceeded in business the unprecedented receipts from the 11-week run of "Buck Privates" at the Imperial Theater, Toronto.

McCarthy's tour of Canada was the most extensive ever made by a home office executive, being the first time that a company official has visited every key center and so many of its subsequent-runs.

Theaters to Start USO Drive Sept. 1

Dallas, Tex.; Jay Emanuel, Philadelphia; Si Fabian, New York; Charles Koerner, New York; John Harris, president Variety Clubs of America, Pittsburgh; Herman Robbins, New York; George Skouras, New York; Sidney Samuelson, Philadelphia; Jules J. Rubens, Chicago; R. B. Wilby, Atlanta; Pete Wood, Columbus, Ohio; Major L. E. Thompson, New York; Joe Vogel, New York, and R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas.

Announcing that he and the exhibitors' committee had persuaded Bernhard to head the campaign, Dewey said, "I have asked the motion picture theater men of the nation to volunteer their services and their theaters for the USO because of the unusual situation which has developed since we began the campaign.

"Since the original budget was planned, the Government has practically doubled the number of men who will be in service within a year. In addition to the first 1,200,000 men, another 900,000 will be drafted in the next 12 months.

"With more than 2,000,000 men to serve, the USO will need considerable additional funds. Therefore, we are asking the American people to contribute further and have asked the theaters of the nation to wind up the campaign during the first week of September.

"Since everybody goes to the movies the theaters will give an opportunity for millions of people not reached through our various committees, or who wish to increase their contribution, to do their bit for the USO. The theater men of the country have responded generously to this request and I am certain millions of Americans will be glad to help the theaters help the USO."

PLAIN TALK
. . . about equipment

By GEORGE H. MORRIS

Equipment Editor, THE FILM DAILY

ANY action which purposefully or even circumstantially aids a crusade is welcome to the crusaders.

For some time, the need has been felt by this industry, and specifically by the exhibition field (for that is the first line of revenue), to arrest the tendency of the public to stay away from movies. Evidence that folks are doing so outcrops in both recent statistics and the testimony of circuits and indie showmen who are well qualified as witnesses on this score.

Although the attendance drop cannot be characterized as alarming, nevertheless it is of such proportions that corrective measures should and must be harnessed,—before the horse is stolen, or at least a goodly way out of the barn.

Because the proverbial stitch in time saves nine; because there have been too many instances of delayed action being costly to motion picture interests; and because a sincere minority of far-sighted and progressive film executives are expending a good deal of time and effort to stay the hand of admissions-recessions and their cause deserves support, FILM DAILY Equipment News has been consistently pressing for action which would "sell" the film patron on all that he or she receives for an admission ticket, over and above the privilege of seeing the show. In other words, if benefits to the purchaser effect sales favorably (and they do), the theaters should point out to their active, dormant and prospective patrons the benefits they gain through theater equipment.

WHAT will please the crusaders who hold this view,—and you can't "include us out of it,"—is the recent constructive

Trys Black Light

Honolulu—Particularly effective is the use of fluorescent carpeting and black light in the Waikiki Theater aisles. Interior of the house is designed to resemble an open-air tropical patio, with banana and coconut trees and other lush vegetation discernible in the soft lights. Installation, by Vin Hamm Young Co., has brought favorable press and oral comment.

Obsolete Construction, Fire Hazards Checked In New Development

Establishment of an inspection service for theaters was announced yesterday by John and Drew Eberson, leading theater architects, who are developing the new activity at the instigation of a large circuit. Some 400 of the circuit's houses have been turned over to the Ebersons for immediate inspection.

In view of the fact that many of the theaters owned by circuits qualify as antiquated, preliminary surveys establish that more than 20

The Coast states, both East and West, the South and the Southwest, loom as the probable best markets for equipment distributors in the near future, it is revealed by a survey comparing the ratio of National Defense contracts awarded with the volume of manufacturing, and the percentage of contracts awarded to state incomes for 1939, the last year not affected by Defense orders. Checkup showed a national total of $15,350,716,000 in Defense assignments between July 1, 1940, and May 31, 1941, equal to 22.3 per cent of all 1939 manufacturing and 21.9 per happening in Chicago, namely, the appearance of newspaper ads with this head: "Imagine Theater Seats That Banish These 'Pet Peeves'!" The organization which effected their insertion is Kroehler Mfg. Co., Public Seating Division. The ads, some quarter-page in size, carried three illustrations of an attention-getting, informative kind. They said, in part, "With this sensational theater seat, there is no more standing to let others pass . . . no more stepped-on toes . . . no more obstructed view! . . . You stay luxuriously seated in loungechair comfort throughout show."

Oh, but here is the sound and benefit-producing strategy! Prominently displayed at the bottom of the ads was a list of the theaters where the reader COULD FIND THE COMFORT which the Kroehler ads spoke about. Nineteen Chicago-area houses were named as equipped with Push-Back chairs.

THE manufacturer has started the benefit-ball rolling. But will the individual houses move now to keep it rolling? They should,—and by constantly hammering home to moviegoers in their respective sectors that with the admission ticket goes a great deal more than the film program.

Rip Van Winkle slept while the little mountain-men bowled. Isn't it just possible that the helluva lot of bowling alleys and such, which are mushrooming round the land, are coming into being because theatermen are snoozing, all to oblivious of the gold there is in the hills of their theater equipment . . . if only that equipment is used PROMOTIONALLY to build patronage.

This is our sixtieth year of service in the field of carbon arc lighting. Throughout the years "National" carbons, by constant research and development, have been steadily improved and adapted to the needs of the times.

● The most satisfactory projection of modern films requires a white light of daylight quality. This means high intensity projection. Color that is really natural — snappy black and white — comfortable vision at all times assure audience satisfaction which spells success for any theatre.

The modern "One Kilowatt" arcs bring High Intensity projection within the reach of any small theatre. If you are still using Low Intensity projection ask your dealer to demonstrate this new light. The difference is marvelous. Step into High — It pays dividends.

Smaller Mich. Circuits Lead in Remodeling

surprisingly few remodeling jobs by independents, while the average-sized circuit is spending fairly generously in this field.

One reason lies in the heavy investment in new theater construction in this area in the past two to three years—a figure estimated by observers at around $5,000,000 for the State. With attention centered on new houses, it has become evident that a number of older theaters would be doomed in the relatively near future unless there was a sizable increase in patronage, because of the overseating problem. Many smaller exhibitors, facing dwindling revenues because of loss of business to newer houses, have not been financially able to put new money into improvement programs to compete with the newer houses.

A survey of construction by circuits shows about 10 jobs in progress or set for the immediate future by groups that control about one-third of the theaters of Michigan. In most cases, the costs of the various jobs are not known, but a comparison with available costs gives an estimate of $200,000 to $250,000 for the entire program.

Butterfield Circuit, with its 100 theaters, has three jobs in progress. At Ionia, the 350-seat Orpheum, closed for eight years, is being remodeled and modernized and renamed the Center, to be a companion in Butterfield's 1,000-seat Ionia, only other theater in town. Major contracts were: general building, Strom Construction Co., Grand Rapids; plumbing, heating, and ventilating, to Pipe & Raap, Grand Rapids; electrical, Jackson Electric Co., Detroit; sign and canopy, American Electrical Displays, Kalamazoo, Mich.

At Grand Rapids, the 947-seat Kent was closed last Sunday, to have the stage torn out and seating increased by 150, plus some general remodeling. Same contractors have this job.

At Lansing, the 1,789-seat Strand is nearing reopening after a complete job of rebuilding, and will be reopened as the Michigan Theater.

Associated Theaters is starting work on a remodeling job estimated to cost around $25,000 at the Iris Theater, Detroit, recently acquired. This will include complete re-equipping and installation of air conditioning. Associated has two other projects under way—a second auditorium for the Wyandotte and a complete replacement of the Norwood, but these do not classify as improvement projects.

United Detroit Theaters, operating most Detroit first-runs, has no immediate program under way or planned, nor has any sizable amount of remodeling been completed in recent weeks. However, plans are under way at UDT offices for improvements to a number of their 19 houses, to be started early this Fall, although no details have been definitely decided upon. This program will swell the total volume of remodeling locally later this season.

A major program for immediate remodeling was disclosed by Lou Wisper of Wisper & Wetsman Circuit, with expenditures totaling about $75,000. This will be divided between three houses—the Calvin in Dearborn, and the Fenkell and Piccadilly in Detroit—about equally. All three will be thoroughly modernized, and re-seated. New fronts will be erected to improve appearance, and air conditioning will be installed.

Only contract awarded to date is for the re-seating which will be done by American Seating Co. Final O.K. has not been given for the work on the two Detroit houses, but was expected late this week. All work is scheduled to be completed by Sept. 1, Wisper said.

SHOWMAN HINTS—By Showmen

By R. D. TOUPS

Manager, Loew's State, New Orleans

SINCE our routine media of advertising each week thoroughly cover newspapers and radio we have successfully used the schools, both white and colored, by making up in our art department a number of 14x17 cards which we are permitted to thumbtack on school bulletin boards. These cards carry simple one stroke copy of title, stars, a catchline, playdate and name of theater. We believe we should go after the youngsters as much as possible since they are our future customers, too.

During the football, baseball and basketball seasons thousands of these pupils see Loew's directional arrows which mark the routes to the stadia. Copy pertaining to our current picture is carried on these arrows which are tacked on posts of the highways and streets leading to the big games.

As a further approach to students we have had on some occasions arranged for a distribution of heralds to the student body. On some occasions announcements are made during school assemblies calling the student body's attention to certain pictures that are current or are coming to the theater. Throughout the year we try to take advantage of all occasions which afford tieups for good will and at the same time make for better box-office. We watch the newspapers for anniversary parties, birthday parties, school graduation, holidays, weddings, etc. Gold Star Mother parties on Armistice Day, holiday party for orphans, go long way towards building up prestige and good-will for the theater.

Inspection Service Started by Ebersons

per cent of those inspected reveal the need for immediate attention.

Most common difficulty is obsolete and failing wood construction, including attacks by termites, dry rot and other submerged attacks on the life of active structures, the survey showed. One theater examined showed termite damage that had so weakened the structure that disaster was imminent. Prompt renovation saved the house, adding many years to its life.

John Eberson pointed out that properties built years ago have naturally become subject to the deterioration of time and the elements and that an independent inspection represents worthwhile precaution by the management in behalf of its patrons. During the past year, he said, nine theaters collapsed with consequent losses in business and damage actions.

Another advantage claimed for the service is the pointing out of fire hazards with recommendations for changes in order to increase safety while reducing insurance premiums. Locations of projection booths, box-offices and other vital parts of theaters will be checked in this end of the inspection.

Service calls for a crew of trained inspection men covering every part of the theater, making photographs. A complete inspection will take two days with another day required for the writing of a report.

It is pointed out that an independent inspection service is essential from a legal standpoint in the event of damage actions. The testimony of the owners in such suits would be more or less insufficient in a court procedure. Efforts of the owners to establish and prove safe conditions as evidenced by an independent expert inspection represents also safeguards by ownership and management in behalf of the general public, it is stressed.

meeting held this week in Montreal.

Factors cited by Sears as making for a bigger market in Canada include the accelerated industrial activity in Dominion as a result of the defense program, increasing influx of both visitors and permanent residents, and the fact that most of the soldiers recruited by the Canadian army are remaining here.

An added favorable business factor for Warners, Sears pointed out, is the special production being made on location near Ottawa, the Royal Canadian Air Force film, "Captains of the Clouds," starring James Cagney, as well as several other pictures with special Canadian appeal.

Returning with Sears were Carl Leserman, assistant general sales manager; Roy Haines, Eastern and Canadian sales manager, and Norman H. Moray, short subject sales manager.

Only a brief outline of next season's program was given at the Montreal meeting. The complete details will be announced at the company's national sales convention in Chicago, starting July 28.

Tradeshow Turnouts Puzzling

Variety of Explanations for Slim Results

B. Distances too great in many localities.

C. Lack of interest on the part of exhibitors.

D. Tendency to depend entirely upon trade paper reviews.

One midwestern exhibitor expressed the opinion that screenings of good product will draw exhibitors to the showings just as good product will draw patrons to the theaters. On the other hand, a major company executive said that exhibitors were not interested in seeing top bracket pictures nor low budget pictures, but wanted to see the "in-between" product so as to judge for themselves what they should pay for them.

All of which has the industry in somewhat of a quandary. It has been indicated that unless the showings are better attended, M-G-M will transfer its screenings to projection rooms because it would be economically unwise to continue the present setup.

The proposal of some exhibitor organizations to create a reviewing committee for their members was criticized in some circles. Differences in tastes among such a committee would be confusing to the exhibitors for whom the advice and information were intended, it was said.

There is a feeling in some quarters that it is too early to criticize or form an opinion on the outcome of the tradeshows. It is believed that a solution will be reached before the consent decree gets into active operation.

Those attending yesterday's showings included:

Norman Aaronwald, Plaza Theater; Jack Meltzer, Allied Theater Owners of N. J.; Anthony Paollillo, Paradise Theater, Brooklyn; J. J. Thompson, non-theatrical; Tom Sarris, Skouras Theaters; Lois Wilson, actress; Jack Harris, Skouras Theaters; Harold Blumenthal, Sam Rosen, Sid Deneau, Fabian Theaters; Murray Miller, Hecht Circuit, N. uct with the Lasky-Wallis production next Tuesday, it was announced yesterday by Grad Sears.

Initial tradeshow is designed for New York metropolitan territory only, and will be held at 10 a.m. in the Warner home office projection room.

"We had not planned to tradeshow any new product, in New York or anywhere else, until after our annual sales convention," Sears stated. "But in my entire film experience I have never known of so many exhibitors calling, phoning and wiring in for a picture, as they have done in the case of 'York.' The screening next Tuesday is a result."

Since opening at the Astor on July 2, "Sergeant York" has been doing turnaway business, with a heavy advance sale.

☆ ☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆ ☆

"Mountain Moonlight" with Leon Weaver, June Weaver, Frank Weaver

Republic 68 Mins.

AUDIENCES THAT LIKE HILLBILLY HUMOR AND THE WEAVERS SHOULD LIKE THIS.

Latest in the series Republic is making with the Weaver Brothers and Elviry, this one should please audiences that appreciate this type of humor and the principal characters in the picture. It is definitely aimed at a certain class of trade and exhibitors know whether or not the picture will draw at their houses, dependent upon location. More production value is evidenced in the picture than is usual.

The cast does all that is asked of them and the four Weavers have a capable group of supporting players, including Betty Jane Rhodes, John Archer, Kane Richmond, Frank Sully and Andrew Tombes. Nick Grinde directed from a screenplay by John Krafft, Mauri Grashin and Dorrell and Stuart McGowan.

A cyclone levels the Weaver home, but when a chimney is pulled down a revolutionary deed is discovered which states the Government owes the Weaver family some $200,000. The family immediately sets out for Washington and matters come to a pretty pass. It turns out that the deed is valid, but that payment of compound interest makes them the richest family in the world. The curses of wealth are pictured at some length before Leon Weaver, family head, solves all their problems and returns home with enough money to rehabilitate the entire community.

"Hurricane Smith"

with Ray Middleton, Jane Wyatt, Harry Davenport

Republic 69 Mins.

OKAY OFFERING FOR TOP TRADE; HAS LIVELY ACTION AND SUFFICIENT DRAMA.

As a program offering this release should fit in nicely on the average bill. The cast is capable, there is a sufficiency of action and drama, the direction is able and technical standards are up to par in all respects. The story is somewhat improbable from several different angles, but audiences are not likely to question that item.

Ray Middleton creates a favorable impression in the lead role. Miss Wyatt is attractive and very able, and deserves more work and better parts. Harry Davenport is fine in a role made to order for him, and a number of capable players give more than adequate support, including J. Edward Bromberg and Harry Brandon. Bernard Vorhaus directed from a screenplay by Robert Presnell.

Middleton, a cowhand and top rodeo rider, falls for Miss Wyatt, a reporter, and asks her to marry him the night she is to return to Chicago. She doesn't give an answer, but indicates she will. Middleton, leaving the railroad station, gets involved in a holdup staged by Bromberg and Brandon, and is sentenced to die for murder. Miss Wyatt finally learns of this and there is a considerable amount of drama before a happy ending is contrived.

CAST: Ray Middleton, Jane Wyatt, Harry Davenport, J. Edward Bromberg, Harry Brandon, Casey Johnson, Charles Trowbridge, Frank Darien, Howard Hickman, Emmett Vogan.

"Arizona Bound"

with "The Rough Riders," Buck Jones,
Tim McCoy, Raymond Hatton

LATEST OF BUCK JONES SERIES HAS PLENTY ACTION AND B.O. APPEAL.

Monogram 57 Mins.

This latest of the "Rough Rider" series, coupling the box-office and action appeal of Buck Jones and Tim McCoy, plus Raymond Hatton, will find a ready market and reception by exhibitors of westerns and their fans.

The well-produced opus, credited to Scott R. Dunlap, with coherent, down-to-earth direction by Spencer Bennett, finds the "Rough Riders" called to duty from their individual ranches to which they had retired after resigning from the U. S. Marshal service. Faced with the necessity of getting the Wells-Fargo gold stages through a gang of murder-sated renegades in the employ of Taggert (capably portrayed by Tris Coffin) who seeks to secure the Fargo franchise, Jones, McCoy and Hatton play fast and loose with chance and six-guns until the final showdown which ends in a roar of gunplay and justice.

Buck Jones, as usual, turns in a fine portrayal of the stalwart, silent type, persevering man of justice. Tim McCoy, too, leaves little else to be desired excepting more of his particular brand of western action, with Raymond Hatton comprising the third pal of a triumvirate that should spell box-office.

Oliver Drake's well-defined original story is capably done into a well-knit screenplay by Jess Bowers, with the Harry Neumann brand of photography adding to its enjoyment. Musical Director Edward Kay provided adequate background music.

CAST: Buck Jones, Tim McCoy, Raymond Hatton, Luana Walters, Dennis Moore, Kathryn Sheldon, Tris Coffin, Horace Murphy, Slim Whitaker, Gene Alsace, Ben Corbert, Jack Daley, Hal Price, I. Stanford Jolley.

Exhibitors playing this type of film should find this one well-received by audiences that appreciate this type of film.

Ray Corrigan, John King and Max Terhune portray the Rangebusters effectively and get good support from a competent cast. Gwen Gaze provides the female interest, and George Chesbro and Frank Ellis provide the villainy. A good performance is contributed by Forrest Taylor. S. Roy Luby directed from a screenplay by John Vlahos and Robert Finkel.

Skouras Sees Decree Revitalizing Films

mass production. "No longer will terms on deserving box-office pictures be reduced to equalize poor results of mediocre box-office attractions," said Skouras. "Pictures will be sold on their merits and rule of survival of the fittest will prevail and once more the distributor will come into his own."

Skouras pointed out that the appearance of affiliated circuits, functions of distributors and exhibitors in every important community throughout the country were transferred to New York where a few would buy from a few for practically all the theaters in the country, and this same few would book all principal theaters of the country.

"After that distributors and theater men in every city of the nation became stooges," Skouras stated. He asserted that under the decree distribution and theaters are back in the hands of people who should sell pictures and those who book and manage theaters. He pointed out that now the advertising department will be revitalized and once again hold the position it formerly enjoyed in American business when the motion picture industry was considered the most progressive user of advertising.

"Showmanship will again be restored but the brunt of responsibility will fall upon the shoulders of you gentlemen as distributors," he said. Skouras urged close relationship between salesmen and distributors and stated: "If you are to derive maximum benefits under the plan of merchandising films, your relationship must be founded on a sincere desire to help your account." Skouras predicted new contract between National Theaters and 20th Century-Fox on a sliding scale basis will prove as beneficial to 20th-Fox as it has to other companies who have sold National Theaters under this plan before.

Salesman's Job Today

In his talk Charles P. Skouras, president of Fox West Coast, declared: "Today a salesman's job is not only to sell pictures but he must enthuse, stimulate and help the exhibitor with his policy, advertising, exploitation and in any other way that he can."

Skouras stressed the fact that the exhibitor should not follow a fixed policy any longer and said his circuit had no fixed policy.

"We take each picture, analyze its potentialities, discuss it, plan an intelligent, comprehensive campaign, then book it and squeeze out every day of playing time the picture deserves. I am not bragging but if every exhibitor in America followed our methods, our policies, 20th-Fox would not need revenue from Europe, South America, the Orient or anywhere else. They would get their negative cost here in the United States with a very substantial profit besides. But this cannot happen until every exhibitor you do business with adopts a flexible policy and gives your pictures the playing time they deserve."

Skouras said his theaters have received helpful ideas from the distributing companies.

Must Improve Price Allocating

William Sussman, Eastern division sales manager, declared an improvement must be made in the method of price allocation on pictures to exhibitors, which causes 90 per cent of grievances between exhibitors and distributors. He said it will be easier to appraise value of pictures under the consent decree. He asserted that first-runs are now more important than ever and stressed the importance of preferred and extended playing time.

Frank L. Newman, Rick Ricketson, Arch Bolles, Elmer Rhoden and Michael Rosenberg were among the exhibitors introduced.

Questioned for details of the company's sales policies for 1941-42 season, Wobber declared that the organization has no fixed percentages; percentages are to be set according to the size of theater and situation plus other factors. Generally, the company will adhere to the percentage arrangements of previous season.

Wobber stated that although 20th-Fox plans to make 50 pictures for next season no ceiling has been placed on the budget and pictures will be sold singly or in groups.

"Kisses for Breakfast" with Dennis Morgan, Jane Wyatt, Shirley Ross

Warners 82 Mins.

FARCE MISSES FIRE DUE TO STORY WEAKNESSES; JUST ANOTHER PROGRAMMER.

This picture might have been very funny if the story had not been bothched into sloppy slapstick. As it is, it is just another program picture. A highly capable cast does its best with the material at hand. Technical work on the picture is okay and direction of Lewis Seiler is adequate.

Dennis Morgan, Shirley Ross and Jane Wyatt fill the three lead roles efficiently and get fine support from Una O'Connor, Barnett Parker, Lee Patrick and Jerome Cowan. Seiler directed from a screenplay by Kenneth Gamet which was based on a play by Seymour Hicks.

Morgan marries Miss Ross, shortly afterwards is kidnapped and beaten up. He is assumed to be dead when his car is found at the foot of a cliff on the ocean edge, but he is very much alive although he has lost his memory. He goes South and gets a job on a plantation owned by Miss Wyatt, and marries her after a short time. Things come to a pretty pass, however, when he and Jane go to attend Miss Ross' next wedding. The turmoil and shouting dies down after considerable confusion and Miss Ross bows out of the picture.

CAST: Dennis Morgan, Jane Wyatt, Shirley Ross, Lee Patrick, Jerome Cowan, Una O'Connor, Barnett Parker, Romaine Callender, Lucia Carroll, Cornel Wilde, Willie Best, Louise Beavers, Clarence Muse.

CREDITS: Produced by Warners; Director, Lewis Seiler; Screenplay, Kenneth Gamet; Based on a play by Seymour Hicks; Cameraman, Arthur Edeson; Editor, James Gibbon.

Charge Intimidation At Crescent Trial

an hour of fireworks yesterday in the anti-trust hearing, with George Armistead, defense attorney, charging D of J counsel with intimidating this same witness. The witness was William Griffith Head, now manager of the State Theater, Central City, Ky., for Rockwood Amusement Co., and former independent exhibitor in Greenville, Ky.

Anxious about his job with the Crescent affiliate, Head apparently acted in a manner to justify the accusation by D of J attorneys that he had been offered a reward to testify favorably to the defendants.

This he denied and the accusation was parried by defense attorneys with a statement, undenied, that he has been repeatedly grilled by Albert Boggess, and others of the D of J counsel, in the six days that he has been in Nashville waiting to be called.

Points Out D of J Attorney

Allen A. Dobey, special assistant to the Attorney General, was pointed out by Head as the one who shook his finger in his face during a three-hour questioning of the witness.

For the first time, Government counsel revealed some of its methods of obtaining information for the original bill of particulars when A. J. Lemaire, Covington, Ky., FBI agent out of the Louisville, Ky., office, was called to the stand to be questioned about statements made to him by Head in regard to his experience in Greenville.

According to the testimony, Head sold his theater in Greenville in January, 1938, for $8,000 after alleged "rumors and threats" that Crescent planned to come in, culminating in the "measuring off" of a lot, purportedly for a theater, located alongside of Head's theater.

Difficulty in Getting Pix

The witness also alleged that Crescent was able to make it more and more difficult for him to get films. Read from Lemaire's report to the D of J was the statement that: "Head will make the Government a good witness. He is alert and thoroughly familiar with Sudekum's methods."

The statement that Head wanted assurance that the Government would win the suit against Crescent met with the comment by Judge Davies: "We cannot assure him that."

Late Wednesday three witnesses from East Gadsden, Ala, Charles Pardue, bank president and shareholder in the Etowah Amusement Co., and B. F. Curry and H. T. Bailey, past and present manager of Etowah Theater, testified as to difficulties in geting films for their houses. Crescent, at that time, was operating three theaters in Gadsden and East Gadsden and one in nearby Alabama City.

Three Suits Filed vs. Minn.'s Anti-Five Law

Individual Actions Filed By RKO, Para., Vitagraph; With Three More to Come

Minneapolis — Three individual suits attacking the constitutionality of Minnesota's new anti-blocks-of-five law, passed by the recent legislature, were filed late Friday in Ramsey County district court in St. Paul.

Greenblatt of RKO Sells First Block

Pittsburgh—First across the line with a block-of-five sale under the consent decree was Herb Greenblatt, RKO branch manager here, who made trade history by closing a deal at 1:05 p.m. Friday with Charles Truran of the Park, Meadeville, who had attended the "Lady Scarface" tradeshow. Truran also bought the full RKO short program for 1941-42 as well as the first block. Ned Depinet okayed the feature terms, Harry Michalson, the shorts deal. Both were here for the tradeshow.

Tradeshows Puzzle

By L. H. MITCHELL

TRADESHOWS: Initial tradeshows under the consent decree found distribs. puzzled by the light turnout of exhibs. Highspot in exhib. attendance was Indianapolis at RKO's preview with 450 present. Chicago was next with 300, then came a big hiatus down to 50, 40, 20, with the lowest 12. Metro's tradeshows were somewhat better attended in several spots but turnout generally was disappointing. Various reasons were suggested for the lack of exhib. interest. Wisconsin ITPA announced it would name a committee to review tradeshow pix for its members.

No Greater Sin

University Film (SR) 85 Minutes Rel. ———

There will be differences of opinion over this attraction It deals with syphilis, quite frankly Time was when the subject was never discussed openly but the hush-hush of that day is giving way to a more honest approach. The exhibitor, of course, is the court of last resort here, but he ought to know this: BOXOFFICE sees nothing objectionable in the content and believes the public is served i giving wide circulation to matters which, hygienicall affect its well-being. The fact that "No Greater Sin" wa produced for profit and the theatreman who plays it will exhibit it for profit makes no difference After all, producers are going wild on entertainment films with a defense base; thus, they seek to aid defense, but also expect to make money in the doing. At the same time, and while the subject here is not as shocking as it used to be it has to be recognized any film dealing with syphilis has its delicate approaches This places upon the exhibitor c responsibility, due his investment and his patronage, t shy away from sensationalism in exploitation. If he lack good taste and restraint, he will run into trouble and th whole business might suffer But if he checks himse and seriously seeks cooperation of health, medical ar social groups, the probability is no kickbacks will devel About the film It has a defense industry and an ar camp base and tells of the danger to both and to the g eral community through lack of control, via the blood test route, of organized vice. Story situations are perfunctory and emphasized through fictional characters, lead into a murder trial and final victory for a crusading he missioner while the boy chiefly involved is acqu reunited with his family. Well acted, and forcefully directed, "No Greater Sin" can attract many patrons to theatres showing it.

Dealing honestly with its subject matter of social disease, "No Greater Sin" confines sensationalism to the luridness of its title. The film itself has been carefully documented and will offend only those social ostriches who insist upon wincing at every mention of the word "syphilis"

A film of this kind, tieing in pointedly with the defense effort and the additionally grave menace to the health of both army and civilian defense workers at this time, may well serve to awaken public opinion in many communities. No Greater Sin

BECAUSE public sentiment a is afflicted with an holier complex—because society as a shudder when it realizes what is about—the producers of No Great can prepare themselves for protests against its public showing. Yet it is a picture which performs a distinct service to society and its producers are to be commended, first for their bravery in making it, then for the good taste with which an inherently distasteful subject is treated. A young doctor is the hero of the story; syphilis is the villain, and the story has as its theme the protection of the young men who have been called to the colors, though it is of direct interest to society as a whole.

And it is a motion picture which will hold your close attention, make you think while it entertains you. It might well be sponsored by the whole film industry as a public service, but I am afraid there will be too many exhibitors who will refuse to show it because it may offend the narrow-minded element of their patronage. It is not, of course, screen entertainment for those low down in their teens, but it should be seen by all those who are emerging from them, and by all adults who bring clean minds to bear on consideration of the ugly phases of our social existence.

As I have intimated above, No Greater Sin, while a social preachment, has as screen entertainment without rega its theme. William Nigh has given it able direction except in some scene which he allows his players to fairly s lines which should be spoken in ordinary conversational tones. Leon Ames, in the leading role of the young doctor, gives a really intelligent and impressive performance. Similar praise can be given the characterization of Luana Walters, an attractive young woman who merits the attention of our big producers. The same might be said of George Taggert, a young man who displays real dramatic skill in his enactment of a highly emotional role. Two veterans, Bodil Rosing and Guy Usher, also stand out.—W.B

Through "No Greater Sin" is his first picture as a producer, Eddie Golden, former sales manager of Monogram Pictures, has shown cards and spades to older producers, for he has produced a picture that stands out among, not y independent but also a large number of major proions, for casting, direction and acting are of high dard. Mr Nigh, the director, succeeded in making the acters real human beings. The story deals with a social ase, syphilis, the mere mention of which in newspapers magazines was tabooed as recently as three years ago. But he has handled the different situations so delicately that not many regular theatres will fail to play it. There is de human interest in it, and the message it conveys is ded in the entertainment. Coming at this time, the should do much good.

But he could not marry her until he was cured of syphilis. At the trial the defense builds up a fine case, and the hero is acquitted.

eral, and chief of the D of J staff, stated that examination of New York representatives of film distributors would begin this morning. He would make no prediction as how long would be required to hear these witnesses. George H. Armstead, Jr., chief defense counsel, holds to his original prediction that the trial will consume six weeks.

The following distributor representatives were scheduled to reach Nashville yesterday: R. W. Perkins, Vitagraph, Inc.; Austin Keough, Paramount Pictures and Paramount Distributing Corp.; Leopold Friedman, Loew's, Inc.; Felix Jenkins, 20th Century-Fox; J. Miller Walker, RKO Radio; E. C. Raftery, United Artists Peyton Gibson, Universal; and Charles Schwartz, Universal Pictures. All these were subpoenaed on June 2, subject to call for their appearance in court.

Chief Witness on Friday

Most of Friday was consumed with the questioning of Tim W. Smith, president of Peerless Enterprises, Inc., Knoxville, Tenn., about his experiences in competition with Crescent Amusement Co., in Harriman, Morristown, and Newport, resulting, according to his testimony, in the necessity for his closing his houses in all three towns in 1938.

Cross-examination by Attorney Armistead brought out the facts that in September, 1938, Smith complained to his congressman; that in October 1938 he wrote a lengthy letter of complaint to Assistant U. S. Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold, and a short time later went to Washington to see D of J officials, all for the purpose of airing his charges that he was forced to quit the theater business in Morristown, Newport, and Harriman because Crescent was making it difficult for him to get pictures. Judge Davies, concerning Smith's testimony, made the significant comment that the evidence offered did not prove in any degree that the witness would have succeeded if he had been able to secure any films he desired.

In November 1938, according to his testimony, Smith brought a suit for $100,000 damages against Crescent and several film distributors in Federal court at Knoxville. This suit was dropped in February 1940.

Witness Unable to Get Pix

Andy Anderson, Hartford, Ky., owner of Photoplay Theaters Co., operating theaters in four small Kentucky towns, former manager of Crescent's Alhambra Theater, Hopkinsville, Ky., testified to his inability to get Paramount and M-G-M films for the Kentucky Theater, Hopkinsville, which he operated for a while in 1937. Numerous letters between Anderson and these distributors were introduced while he was on the stand.

File 3 Suits Against Minn.'s Anti-5 Law

the act and to draw the necessary complaints.

James F. Lynch, Ramsey County Attorney; Ed J. Goff, Hennepin County Attorney, and Thomas Gibbons, Ramsey County Sheriff, are defendants in all three actions, filed by RKO-Radio, Paramount and Vitagraph.

The action was started in Ramsey County because that is the state's capital while Hennepin includes Minneapolis, film distributing center for the state and most of the Northwest. The plaintiffs ask permanent injunctions against all three officials named to prevent them from enforcing the new anti-five law known as Chapter 460 of the 1941 Minnesota session laws.

Effort of Circumvention Charged

Efforts to circumvent the New York consent decree, which set up the block-of-five selling plan, are charged in the actions. The plaintiffs point out that only a full season's output may be sold to an exhibitor if the Minnesota law is to be enforced and charge that such an arrangement is a deliberate effort to get around the Federal court's order.

Although the three companies which are plaintiffs in the action have been selling present season's product in this territory, no sales of the coming season's pictures have been made by them nor by the other two majors which have accepted the New York consent decree. United Artists will file a separate action. Metro and RKO however, have started screening their first block-of-five of the new season.

David Shearer, Minneapolis attorney, representing the firms which started actions filed Friday, Joseph Finley, St. Paul attorney, who will assist at the trial of the suits, both admitted other cases probably would be filed within a few days.

Hearings on the three filed Friday have been set for July 29 in St. Paul District Court.

State Atty. General to Defend

The law will be defended in the court fight by Attorney General G. A. Burnquist, and Allied Theater Owners' of the Northwest, which sponsored the measure and steered it through the legislature, probably will offer the aid of its attorneys for the trial. Fred Strom, N. W. Allied secretary, was out of the city when the court actions were filed.

Both sides in the case are expected to ask speedy trial and early decision so that the outcome may be known before September when selling of the new season's product should be well under way.

Although it has been hinted for several weeks that the attack on the law would be started in Federal courts, it was shifted into state court at the last minute. This would allow earlier appeal and probably a faster decision, if it is decided to take the case to the high court.

Never Approached by UA On a Deal, Asserts Gordon

Max Gordon, returning to New York Friday from a tour of the strawhats, denied that there was "any foundation in fact" for published reports that he was talking a deal with UA.

Gordon in a formal statement released through Columbia said he had neither been approached nor had been given the opportunity to discuss, accept or reject any such association.

(Arthur W. Kelly, UA vice-president, mentioned the reported deal in a trade press interview last Tuesday, following his return from the Coast).

Gordon, under contract to Columbia as a producer, will make "My Sister Eileen," rights to which were acquired several months ago.

"Screen Has No Room for Propaganda"—Hays

MPPDA Deplores Those Who Would Use Films Not To Amuse But Bemuse Fans

in asserting flatly, "The screen has no room for such propaganda."

"Significance is not achieved at the expense of entertainment; it is the result of entertainment," Hays declared vigorously, adding:

"Pictures do not need any other horse to ride in order to play their part in the preparedness of mind and body which results from recreation."

Public Pays for Entertainment

Equally pointed were these Haysian words:

"There is no fear industry will ever be far behind public demand in the production of entertainment for the nation. But it must be entertainment. The informational, educational and inspirational elements on our screens are growing. That is as it should be. But when the public lays down its money at the box-office, it is primarily for entertainment."

(The Film Daily editorially on July 16 discussed growing exhibitor uneasiness over demands for screen time for "defense" films. Editorial in part said, "If defense subjects, whatever their nature, are to fulfill their mission, their message must—and the word well might be in caps—be entertainment-coated. If it isn't it's a 100-to-1 shot that it will not only miss fire, but definitely irk the audience. For it must be remembered that the audience has paid, not for a message, but for entertainment.").

Hays, who compared entertainment and recreation to machine tools "necessary to bring human machinery to the height of its efficiency," declared that Hollywood's creative capacity "is up to the highest possible demands of the theater-going public."

Referring to the recent b.o. recession, the MPPDA prexy declared that "those whose hopes of the screen fall with every seasonal drop in theater attendance have been weeping too soon," referred to the July 4th pickup and observed, "it is natural that theater attendance should be somewhat affected by the preoccupation of the millions with the news of the flaming events which are happening in the world today."

"But this," he contended, "is a temporary condition."

To those few "on the fringes of the industry' who would break the Picture Production Code to improve b.o. appeal, Hays made this tart answer, "Only those in whom originality is dried up believe they need to pick themes or treatments in the gutter."

Hays continued:

"The fact is that if there ever was a time when the highest possible standards of wholesome entertainment were demanded of the industry the time is today, with millions of our youth being prepared in body and mind for the task of national defense that faces the nation."

Turning to the industry's role in national defense, the MPPDA head said that he thought the industry "can take some deserved satisfaction" from its contribution.

"Public morale must be maintained . . . The industry is doing its part without stint," asserted Hays. "Moreover, it is a task achieved under freedom, not under the duress of dictatorship which can create only propaganda."

"Making Good" on Decree

Referring to the industry's operation under the New York consent decree provisions, Hays said succinctly:

"The industry's earnest efforts on all fronts are evident, also, in the manner in which those companies affected are preparing to make good their commitments under the Government consent decree in the sale of pictures in blocks of not more than five and in other provisions, the advantage and practicability of which time must prove."

Talley Raps Wheeler For His Newsreel Attack

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — Truman Talley, addressing the 20th Century-Fox sales convention which came to a close on Friday, took a number of digs at Senator Wheeler for his recent criticism of "war-mongering newsreel companies." He said that the two newsreel companies Wheeler called patriotic couldn't supply war pictures because they had no cameramen in Europe.

William J. Clark, head of the short subject department, stated that if the industry decides to return to two and three-reel pictures, his organization was prepared to meet the demand, with a studio on the West Coast and one in New York.

Herman Wobber, sales chief, announced the following release dates: Aug. 1, "Charley's Aunt"; Aug. 8, "Dressed to Kill"; Aug. 15, "Wild Geese Calling"; Aug. 22, "Private Nurse"; Aug. 29, "Sun Valley"; Sept. 5, a "Charley Chan" subject; Sept. 12, "Belle Starr"; Sept. 19, "He Married the Boss's Daughter"; Sept. 26, "A Yank in the RAF"; Oct. 3, a Jane Withers vehicle."

Federal anti-racketeering laws through alleged extortion of $550,000 from the film industry. Judge Strum, in reserving decision, directed the filing of briefs by next week.

Browne, through his lawyer, Martin Conboy, maintained that the anti-racketeering statute is unconstitutional under interstate com merce powers. Additionally, Conboy argued that the indictment was not definite and that the facts set forth did not constitute a criminal offense. The Government, in vigorously supporting the indictment, contended that the Supreme Court has already ruled the anti-racketeering statute constitutional.

Outlook for the new video-audio medium has become more optimistic each week, with the two New York outlets, WNBT, only station now operating on a commercial basis, and owned by NBC, and the CBS experimental outlet, WCBW, receiving considerable attention from the advertising agencies.

From a commercial standpoint, billings to date have far exceeded original expectations, it was reported at NBC. Signing of Adam Hats, and contracts with two new firms which are expected to be signed during the coming week, plus the spot telecasts seen under commercial sponsorship by Bulova, Procter & Gamble, Lever Bros., etc., have indicated that the advertisers will assist telecasters to underwrite some of the costs in the early stages.

Galston Sees Greater Exhib. Tradeshow Attendance After Salesmen Quote Prices

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—That there will be more interest in the second block of pictures and real interest in the third group is the belief of Al Galston, member of board of directors of ITOA of Southern California and Arizona and a former president of the organization. Galston points out that this interest will develop after exhibitors learn the prices salesmen will quote on the initial group, and exhibitors will attend the subsequent showings of group pictures to be in better position to bargain with the salesmen.

Galston declared majority of exhibitors in this territory are operating in the lower brackets, charging 25 cents admission and less; that they can observe audience reaction on certain pictures in first-run theaters. He also stated it has been too difficult for exhibitors to attend the morning showings of the group pictures.

Greater New York IUC Backs Cartoonist Guild

Greater New York Industrial Union Council has passed a resolution in support of the Screen Cartoonists Guild of California in its strike against Walt Disney. The council, which has more than 400,000 members, is co-operating with the New York Disney Strike Committee in the effort to bring about early settlement of the strike.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Disney, George J. Schaefer, president of RKO. and to the management of the New York Palace Theater, where "The Reluctant Dragon" is scheduled to open soon.

The resolution "urged" union members and friends of labor in this city to protest showing of Disney productions locally.

"Dr. Jekyll" to Follow "Sergt. York" at Astor

Metro's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will follow Warners' "Sergeant York" at the New York Astor, opening in the Broadway show window on Tuesday, Aug. 12, several weeks in advance of its national release, it was announced yesterday.

"York," current, will move to a larger house, as exclusively forecast by THE FILM DAILY last week.

Policy to be adopted for the Metro pic, included in its first 1941-42 block, is undisclosed.

Warner Bros. will move "Sergeant York" from the Astor, Broadway, to the Hollywood Theater on Aug. 11. Policy will continue on a two-a-day basis.

$2,000,000 Second Quarter Net for Paramount is Seen

Wall Street reports yesterday indicated that Para.'s second quarter earnings would be approximately $2,000,000. This would be slightly less than the $2,400,000 reported for the first quarter.

According to the Wall Street Journal, investment interest is being attracted to the company's $6 preferred, now selling around 97. It was stated that there is less than $13,000,000 of this now outstanding and dividends are currently being covered many times over. The Journal asserts that cash balances in the treasury of the company and its subsidiaries are more than enough to retire the whole issue.

radius of 150 miles, are served by this company in the delivery and pickup of films from the various exchanges here. Since the strike, the theaters are resorting to express and parcel post facilities, though some are making special trips to haul their own films, and so far few missouts have occurred.

George F. Callahan, president of Exhibitors Service Company, states that the union, Local No. 211 of the AFL, gave only a 48 hour notice of its intention to call the company's "first and only labor trouble in 30 years."

The increase was asked only for drivers doing night work, to establish a differential from a day scale. Other contract changes would affect both day and night drivers.

Callahan said about 90 per cent of the drivers come within the increase demanded.

The increase is demanded for the existing eight-hour day that pays $1.00 an hour. Other demands include pay for all holidays and double pay for drivers who work time and a half for overtime over a 48 hour week, and two weeks paid vacation.

It is estimated that to meet all demands would cost the Exhibitors Service Co. an additional $75,000 yearly.

Time and Cost Cut Exhib. Tradeshow Attendance

Boston Only City With Good Attendance As 75 Show Up

which the tradeshows were considered a real success and RKO officials were reported to be "jubilant" over the results. More than 75 exhibitors representing 400 or more theaters from points as far as 150 miles away were on hand during the week of previews.

In other cities, however, the turnout was not so encouraging for either the RKO or the M-G-M screenings and the reasons are summed up herewith, based on actual interviews with prominent exhibitors. Independent operators, it was learned, did not attend in the same ratio as circuit representatives. Summarized data and comments follow:

ALBANY: Mondays are the big booking days here and only on Mondays can a big crowd be expected. As the territory extends as far as Poughkeepsie to the south and to the Canadian border, exhibitors will find it difficult to travel from 250 to 300 miles to see a picture and get back to their theaters.

PHILADELPHIA: Exhibitors here expressed the opinion that, compared to other advantages which might have been included in the consent decree, tradeshows amount to very little. Among other reasons given for poor attendance were lack of interest generally, inability of out-of-town exhibitors to take time away from their regular business, long distances to travel and lack of merit of some of the attractions.

CINCINNATI: Apparent indifference of both local and out-of-town exhibitors to the showings has placed the new method of selling "on the outmost limb," according to comments here.

CHICAGO: Reaction to the tradeshows here was not bad, but there was hope that the screenings could be held in the morning and afternoon, preferably in the exchange preview rooms. Independent circuit heads declared the tradeshows were helpful and urged all independents to attend them.

DETROIT: Screening of "Citizen Kane" on Friday drew 20 exhibitors, highest number of the week. Lowest was on Saturday when nine showed up. Belief here is that during the Summer, exhibitors don't want to waste the good weather in tradeshows, many saying they preferred night screenings or showings after midnight when they could afford the time. While some showmen believe they can buy by guesswork, William London, head of 12 theaters, said he intended to attend every screening "until, at least, we can work out a formula to buy pictures under the blocks-of-five policy."

INDIANAPOLIS: No explanations for poor attendance were advanced after the big first day of showings. Reluctance to comment was in evidence, although in some circles it was said that the result "was what was expected." Exhibitors cannot afford to spend days looking at pictures which only adds to the expense of operation it was said.

OMAHA: After the first week of screenings here, a survey gave the following summarized reaction to FILM DAILY:

Exhibitors—"We can't spend every morning and every afternoon looking at pictures."

Distributors—"All we can do is show pictures; it's up to the exhibs. to attend."

DES MOINES: Lack of attendance here was blamed primarily by the independents on the "unreasonable" setup of having to spend five days in the city to look over five pictures. Attendance last week ranged from a high of 20 to a low of five. Some interest is centered on 20th Century-Fox showings because five pictures will be shown in three days.

WASHINGTON: Although unwilling to express themselves for quotes, distributors here are frankly amazed at the poor attendance last week. There appeared to be no explanation. One distributor said: "We thought this is what the independents wanted, but it looks at if they aren't interested."

PITTSBURGH: Expense was the big objection expressed here last week. First-runs showed more interest than the independents. Inability to give the necessary time also was advanced as a principal reason for low attendance. Many declared that it was the "B" pictures they wanted to see before buying; others took the opposite stand.

DALLAS: Differences in opinion prevailed here after the first week of showings. Expense and the long distances necessary to travel in Texas were given as reasons for small attendance, although some doubted that the expense was a factor. There appeared to be doubts that exhibitors realize the importance of the tradeshows and the crowds will increase when the importance is realized. City exhibitors indicated that they preferred to wait for first-runs to catch the pictures. Col. H. A. Cole, Allied president, advocated screening room showings only.

"In Texas," he said, "we have some 500 independent theaters owned by 250 individuals. These theaters are located from 25 to 600 miles from Dallas and the cost of coming in to see a screening is no small item."

NEW HAVEN: Customers having large staffs had one or more representatives at last week's screenings, but smaller exhibitors indicate that the expense necessary to attend does not make up for the benefit of seeing the pictures. It was said that many will rely on opinions and gradings expressed at Allied of Connecticut meetings and trade paper reviews.

Occupied France Spurns Nazi and Fascist Films, Foiling Booking Campaign by Tobis

Paris (By Air Mail)—Tobis is having great difficulty in booking its schedule of 25 German and Italian pictures in Occupied France. Despite Nazi propaganda, the French population has boycotted the Axis films even when they were dubbed into French, and the campaign is deemed a failure.

Case of the German shocker "The Polish Campaign," is especially striking, the French staying away from showings even when free tickets were distributed. Tobis has spent considerable money trying to show the film in the Free Zone but no bookings are reported.

Mono. Tradeshows For Des Moines

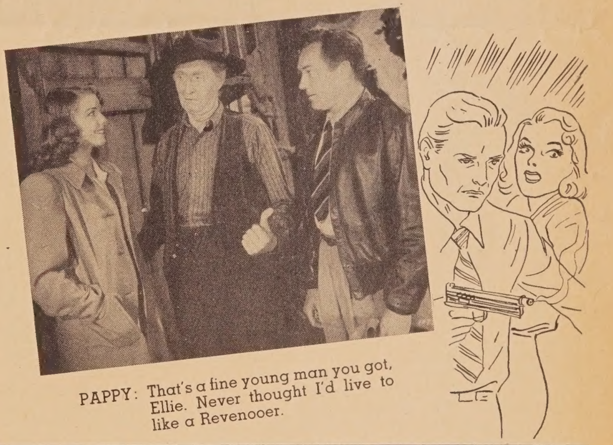
Forrest Judd of Monogram pulled a "sleeper" here.

First he held a Monogram tradeshowing last week in a local exchange of two Westerns and arranged it so "Arizona Bound" was shown on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and "Wranglers Roost" was shown on Tuesday and Thursday. Under Judd's plan, exhibs in town for RKO's tradeshows had three days to see the one pic and two days for the second one. Attendance was reported good at all the showings.

His second stunt was setting up the first regional "vicinity" tradeshowing. The show will be held at the Co-Ed theater at Fairfield tomorrow with exhibitors from six counties invited to see "Father Steps Out" and a Rough Rider western.



PAPPY: That's a fine young man you got, Ellie. Never thought I'd live to like a Revenooer.

Conspiracy Evidence Seen As Lacking

affiliates. This statement was made following the court's over-ruling of an objection by defense counsel to introduction of inter-office communications among distributor offices.

Oscar A. Morgan, sales executive for Paramount Pictures, placed on the witness stand by the prosecution in an effort to prove the charges of film monopoly from the angle of the distributors, emphatically denied that there was, or that he had any knowledge of, any agreement, or otherwise, between Paramount and the defendants as to control of films in any manner calculated to suppress competition with other local theaters.

Morgan was questioned closely by Robert L. Wright, chief of D of J counsel, concerning a five-year franchise sold by Paramount to Crescent, in 1937. The witness, who at that time was Southern, or Southeastern manager for Paramount in Atlanta stated that negotiation for this franchise began in Oct. 1937, after his company had been completely out with this circuit, that it was signed in December, becoming effective Nov. 1 of that year. He stated that the general purpose of a franchise is to "insure a definite and continuous outlet for film products" and is absolutely not intended to "freeze out small or independent exhibitors."

Among a dozen or more communications introduced by Wright, while Morgan was on the stand were a telegram and a letter. The telegram, which was sent by Morgan to William F. Bugle, Memphis Paramount office, read: "Have made deal with Sudekum for S-7 therefore void Paris contract, and do not negotiate Brownsville or Union City." The witness stated that instruction to "void" referred to an application and not a contract since no contract had at that time been signed.

The letter, written by Morgan and addressed to J. J. Unger, New York office read: "In any event, the only way he could sell second run, even if we wanted to in these particular towns, would be after Sudekum had had the refusal, because paragraph 8-E (of Paramount's franchise to Crescent) provides that he can 'repeat' any feature at a certain given price."

These two communications lead to clarification by Morgan of a point considered exceedingly vital to the Government's charges of conspiracy as to the different meanings of "repeat runs" and "second runs" of pictures. He explained that a "repeat run" refers to a second showing of a film in the same theater but that "second runs" refer to showing in another theater. It appeared that Federal counsel was not familiar with this distinction.

The testimony revealed that in 1939, section 8-E of the Paramount franchise with Sudekum, was modified to limit to 30 days after "first run" of a picture the privilege of a "repeat" run. Morgan, under Wright's questioning, denied that this section or its modification, was in any way intended to suppress competition by preventing or limiting sales of "second run" contracts. Attention of the witness was called to statement of Tim W. Smith, Knoxville exhibitor, that Paramount had refused to sell him "second run" pictures for Harriman, Morristown and Newport.

Morgan stated that Smith was refused because he wanted to contract for "only 10 or 12 out of 50 or 60 pictures" and not because of any prior commitments to the defendants. Smith is the man of whom Judge Davies admitted that he "didn't think much of as a witness." Morgan testified that the application of Smith, which was received after the 8-E clause in the franchise was modified, was the only effort that has been made by any exhibitor to contract for second run pictures.

The Morgan testimony touched the wider field of the controversy between the D of J and certain exhibitors when the witness, questioned by Wright, denied that there have been "many complaints from exhibitors over the country" of difficulty in getting Paramount pictures in given situations. Morgan declared that there have been only two such complaints.

Power Shortage Won't Cut Theater Operation—Krug

A. Krug, co-ordinator for defense power in the Office of Production Management said at a press conference yesterday.

Krug stated that theaters in that area are being requested to cut down their air conditioning differential as much as possible, but that no further demands upon them is contemplated at this time. He said the theaters are being requested for instance, to have their houses only about eight degrees cooler than outside instead of 20 degrees cooler.

He would not predict what the future holds, but expressed hopes that measures now being taken will increase power sufficiently to provide for the situation and relieve necessity for pressure on amusement places.

Power Rationing Again Effective in Alabama

Montgomery, Ala.—After a two weeks' recess from power curtailment, "rationing" again went into effect in Alabama at 6 a.m. yesterday only a few hours after the clocks were moved up for daylight saving time.

Simultaneously with Gov. Dixon's announcement that the state would change over to daylight saving time on July 21 in answer to the President's request for this power-saving measure, the Alabama Power Co. called on commercial users to observe the blackout from Monday through Friday of each week with illumination of windows, signs and outline lighting from 7 to 8:30 p.m. only. No curtailment is requested for Saturdays and Sundays.

Theater air conditioning to be operated so as to give 5 per cent lower temperature inside than outside, with a base setting of 83 degrees with relative humidity of 65 per cent.

Street lighting is reduced 50 per cent and ornamental whiteways, except corner lights, is discontinued.

Industry attorneys, however, point out a "catch" in the proposal. Large circuits and producer-controlled houses are reported to be particularly leary.

the year received and cannot be paid on a yearly installment plan.

Suit was filed as a result of the leasing by Schine of 12 theaters to Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc., in 1929, and the acceptance by Schine of a substantial part of the rent in advance. Schine, in its bookkeeping, staggered the sum over a period of years. When Fox was thrown into receivership in 1933 the leases were cancelled and the Commissioner sought to collect a lump payment on the balance.

The high Court held that the time had passed for an assessment and that only in 1929 could a collection be legally made. Since there was no fraud on the part of Schine the Commissioner had lost his right to bring suit later.

"Lady Scarface" with Dennis O'Keefe, Judith Anderson, Frances Neal

RKO 69 Mins.

GANGSTER YARN FALLS BELOW PAR DUE TO INEPT STORY AND MISCASTING.

(In RKO's First 5-Block)

A deficient story and some miscasting have been combined in this dramatic effort. Imagine Judith Anderson as a scarfaced, gun-toting gang leader for a beginning. Then take the accomplished Eric Blore and give him nothing to do but parade some dogs in and out of a hotel and engage in pratt falls with a house detective. For dessert, there are a few more happenings just as weird. Picture can best serve as a filler.

Dennis O'Keefe is okay in the lead role, but suffers from a case of bad dialogitis, along with other members of the cast. Miss Anderson is a splendid actress at all times, but doesn't seem right for the role. Frances Neal as O'Keefe's love interest is fairly effective. Mildred Coles, Eric Blore, Marc Lawrence, Damian O'Flynn and Andrew Tombes do their best and all of them are better than capable. Frank Woodruff directed adequately from a screenplay by Arnaud D'Usseau and Richard Collins.

Story concerns O'Keefe's efforts to run down a gang of thieving killers headed by a character named Slade. Miss Neal is a photographer for a magazine. The chase goes from Chicago to New York and there are a number of complications, but the Mounties always get their men, pardon, the Chicago police in the person of O'Keefe in this case.

CAST: Dennis O'Keefe, Judith Anderson, Frances Neal, Mildred Coles, Eric Blore, Marc Lawrence, Damian O'Flynn, Andrew Tombes, Marion Martin, Rand Brooks, Arthur Shields, Lee Bonnell, Harry Burns, Horace MacMahon.

CREDITS: Producer, Cliff Reid; Director, Frank Woodruff; Original Screenplay, Arnaud D'Usseau and Richard Collins; Cameraman, Nicholas Musuraca; Editor, Harry Marker.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with Spencer Tracy, Ingrid Bergman, Lana Turner

Metro 127 Mins.

(In Metro's First Block)

SPLENDID DRAMATIC OFFERING, BRILLIANTLY ENACTED AND PROJECTED TO THE SCREEN; SHOULD BE ONE OF YEAR'S TOP PICTURES.

This, the newest version of the noted Robert Louis Stevenson novel, should rank as one of the year's top pictures. It is brilliantly enacted by a star-studded cast, superbly mounted and is topped off with a sparkling directorial job by Victor Fleming. Showmen should do a land-office business with this offering. It has every thing an exhibitor could ever want, big "Names," a wealth of exploitable opportunities, a noted director and Leo as a trademark. When acting awards are being considered at the end of this year it is a cinch that Tracy and Bergman will be contestants on the basis of their performances in this picture even if they don't do anything else all year.

It is a long picture, but not too long, and it certainly deserves to be played on a single feature basis on its merits. From an exhibitor's standpoint it possibly could have been edited to an extent in the early part of the picture. However, from an average audience viewpoint it is doubtful if one person will ever notice the length of the picture as it unfolds slowly but surely on a rising dramatic note that builds always to a terrific climax.

Fleming brilliantly sustains this drama, he never allows interest to flag, building every scene so that it leaves expectancy and mounting interest in what is to come. His handling of the players is flawless, every performance adjusted to the nth degree to its integration in the story. His staging is also artful to a degree and in this department he has been given a scintillating assist by cameraman Joseph Ruttenberg. Ruttenberg's lens work is worthy of high praise. An excellent musical score was contributed by Franz Waxman.

Tracy's startling makeup is a feather in the cap of Jack Dawn. It would be unfair to describe it as it must be seen. Suffice it to say that it is different. Montage effects by Peter Ballbusch, special effects by Warren Newcombe, the editing of Harold F. Kress and all technical work is top drawer.

John Lee Mahin wrote the screenplay. It is a moving and compelling drama that he has created; dialogue is excellent; suspense is created and maintained on a steadily rising pitch from beginning to end.

In the lead role, Spencer Tracy gives an award winning performance. He is sincere in his understanding of the role, smooth and effortless in his portrayal and at all times within bounds in his acting where the part could have been overplayed or underplayed with bad results Next in line for honors is Ingrid Bergman, in the role of the barmaid that falls prey to Mr. Hyde. Her portrayal is sympathetic, understandable and brilliantly shaded. Certainly Miss Bergman's characterization is a flawless piece of acting.

A surprising performance is given by Lana Turner as Dr. Jeykll's fiancee. She is demure and sweet in the role, and very sure of herself. It is something entirely apart from what might be expected of her and she does full justice to it. Donald Crisp and Ian Hunter are excellent in two juicy supporting roles that they do to a turn, both of them being a definite asset to the picture as they are to any picture. Remainder of the cast is comprised of a long list of talented players, all of whom are good. C. Aubrey Smith, Barton McLane, Sara Allgood, Peter Godfrey, Frederic Worlock and Billy Bevan among them.

The story has not been changed. It is still the story of the man who dared God by attempting to cross the great divide while still alive, and pays the penalty for his brashness. It is the execution of the story in its drama, acting, sound, lighting and movement that will hold audiences glued to their seats and have them talking about the picture when they leave theaters. Chalk this one up as a bullseye for Leo.

Tradeshows' Shift to Projection Rooms Indicated

Slim Exhibitor Attendance At Early Screenings Will Bring Change in Policy

A general shift by RKO and M-G-M from theaters to projection rooms for tradeshowings was in prospect yesterday as reports on screening attendance continued to reach New York. In Detroit it was learned that RKO planned to hold future showings in the exchange, while M-G-M is expected to cut the number of cities in which showings are held in theaters and transfer them to screening rooms.

The South had its Lee,—synonymous with "strategy." Currently a Lee of the North (Brooklyn to be exact) is showing the same aptitude. He's Joe Lee, in command of the Fabian theater pool's forces in that Borough. If you look at today's amusement pages of the News, Mirror, Post and Journal-American, you'll discover how Joe tied-in Britain's "V" for Victory drive with the ads of the Brooklyn Paramount and Fox pic programs. A large "V" appears making the ad-head read "Very Best In Entertainment." Let's see Doc Goebels steal that one!

1941 TECHNICOLOR FOOTAGE SOARING

Company Aims for 100,000,000 Feet in Prints This Year, Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus Reveals Productions in Technicolor are currently at a new numerical high, with seven top-bracket features before the cameras or in other stages of preparation, in addition to several short subjects, according to Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, company's president.

DR. H. T. KALMUS

In the full length category, Paramount has four,—"Reap the Wild Wind," "Bahama Passage," "Louisiana Purchase," and "Her Jungle Mate,"—while Warners, 20th-Fox and Korda have "Captains of the Clouds," "Weekend in Havana" and "Jungle Book," respectively.

Dr. Kalmus said that his organization "is aiming at an aggregate of 100,000,000 feet in prints" during 1941, which will represent a sharp rise from the 80,000,000 feet achieved in 1940, the former high water mark of Technicolor's steady advance during the past decade.

Monopack (single negative), he stated, is not yet ready to be offered generally, but is gradually being used on an experimental, semi-commercial basis on the Coast.

The British wing,—Technicolor, Ltd.,—has been co-operating closely with the Admiralty and the British Army in the matter of making color

Dieterle to Make Gompers Biographical Pix for RKO

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — Prexy George J. Schaefer of RKO announced yesterday that he has exercised an option with William Dieterle and Charles Glett for two more Dieterle productions to be made in 1942.

"The Life of Samuel Gompers" will be the first picture under the new deal, which in no way effects "The Band Played On," his second feature on the current season's schedule. The first, "Here Is a Man" based upon Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Danied Webster," will be on RKO October release.

"The Life of Samuel Gompers" was originally announced for production by Labor Pictures, Inc., formed by the A F of L. A delegation from Labor Pictures returned to Washington last week following studio conferences. Among others, 20th-Fox was reported interested in Gompers as a biographical pic possibility. Labor Pictures some time ago was reported as talking a starring deal with Paul Muni for the title role.

Readers Guild Requests NLRB Reopen Its Case

Protesting against the NLRB decision which excludes piece-work readers from collective bargaining, the Screen Readers Guild of New York, at an emergency meeting termed the Board's decision "at complete variance with the facts," and asked that the case be reopened for oral argument. By a unanimous vote the membership of the Guild reaffirmed its intention to gain a contract for all readers, whether on salary or on piece-work.

The Guild, whose members are responsible for the coverage of all literary and dramatic material at the home offices of the major film companies, praised the stand of Edwin S. Smith, member of the Board, who dissented from the majority opinion and charged that the decision "waters down the right of collective bargaining" and attempts to deny the rights to such bargaining to roughly 60 per cent of readers in New York.

Copy of the Guild's letter was forwarded to the White House

Wuxtry! Fidler Okays Ban on Studio Previews

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—First Coast columnist to side with the industry in ending the preview priority enjoyed heretofore by newspaper writers covering the studios is—of all persons!—Jimmie Fidler.

Jimmie, whose advance raps of new pix when he was on the air as much as anything were responsible for the issue which recently reached the showdown stage, yesterday wrote in his syndicated column:

"A word regarding the fight between studios and critics—precipitated by the studio ban against reviewing of pictures ahead of release.

"I side with the studios. Why should they let their films be previewed months in advance?

"I should think you readers would much prefer timely reviews of pictures that are being shown, or are about to be shown. In that way critics' opinions may help you to select your screen entertainment—and isn't that what you want?"

Disney Guild Dispute Referred to Washington

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — Gunther Lessing, counsel for Walt Disney Productions yesterday declared his organization has attempted to negotiate an agreement with Screen Cartoonists Guild, but inasmuch as the points of view of the company and the guild are ireconciliable, Disney has agreed to refer the entire matter to John R. Steelman, director of conciliation, Dept. of Labor in Washington. Lessing said it is his understanding that all parties interested have also consented and matter is now in hands of the Governmental agency.

in the same court last week, the action was brought by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as plaintiff with the county attorneys of both Ramsey and Hennepin counties and the Ramsey sheriff as defendants.

It asks a permanent injunction to restrain the three defendants from enforcing the law passed by the last legislature. Trial was set for July 29. In addition to David Shearer of Minneapolis, J. Robert Rubin and Stanley Thompson are named as counsel for the plaintiff company.

A fifth suit, that of 20th Century-Fox, will be filed today, Shearer said here yesterday. Trial of this case will be set for July 30 but Shearer said he expects all five actions to be tried at the same time.

Fred Strom, executive secretary of Allied Theater Owners of the Northwest, which organization sponsored the anti-five bill and lobbied it through the legislature successfully, returned to the city yesterday. He announced the organization had instructed its attorney, Clarence Bolton, to confer at once with the Minnesota Attorney General relative to trial of the cases. Strom said he expects the attorney general to intercede in the cases as counsel for the officials named as defendants.

● ● ● IN line with a widely-observed custom of Summertime...... let's go to the "woods" today......—namely, Hollywood and one of its human sub-divisions, Sam Wood......But before talking about them ......we need to set down a preface......which, briefly, is this: ......For as long as this corner can remember......—and you, too—filmland has worshipped at the shrine of the "new". There has been a lot of sincere devotion, yes......and a considerable amount of mere lip-service......We can't recall a single season wherein......a lot of stress has not been placed by producers......on the new faces they intend bringing to the screen......Yeah, and clamor raised by the Messrs. Exhibs.......for new talent to vitalize the ole b.o.......So much for the preface......Now back to the "woods"......

● ● ● DIRECTOR Sam......who is currently megaphoning "Kings Row"......on the Warner lot......has some very definite ideas on the subject of new pic talent......which e'er long...... you can expect to lamp in the form of an article in one of the national mags......under his by-line......Sam doesn't like Hollywood's negligence to the droves of young, potential stars...... who throng Coastward to crash the movies......but wind up working as carhops......It won't be tipping Wood's mit...... to preview here one of the angles of his article-in-preparation ......He takes the instance of the beauty queen......or young actress......or model......who, discovered in the East by a scout, comes to Hollywood......amidst the glamor of a reception at the station......with photogs flashing bulbs in her face ......and publicists posing her and rushing her off to the studio ......in a luxurious, sleek limousine......It's great stuff...... She thinks she's made the grade......She is given a "long term" contract......with options every six months......

● ● ● FOR weeks she poses in sweaters, bathing suits and other revealing raiments......before cameras of the avid "leg art" boys ......Then, Wood points out, comes the big day......She's told to report to stage such-and-such......in the garb of a stenog......for her first role......Here, indeed, is the day she long has sought!...... But then she discovers that all she does is sit at a desk......while the principals walk back and forth in front of her......and she doesn't even get a chance to clear her throat......After another long interval maybe she'll get another bit......Maybe this time with two or three words of dialogue......"By this time," Wood explains, "the studio is through shooting its leg art......and option time is here......More than likely she'll be dropped without so much as a line in the trades ......The studios don't like to publicize the fact that they drop someone......So she fruitlessly makes the rounds for several weeks ......until her money starts to get low......and then she jumps at a job as a carhop just so she can be where a producer might see her ....and discover her"......

Ohio ITO Exec. Hits Harmful Pix Reviews

Wood, secretary of the ITO of Ohio.

A particularly bad review of a picture which opened at the RKO-Palace, Cleveland, was the basis for the attack. In his letter to the distributors, Wood pointed out that the motors used in a new model of a well known car did not live up to the claims of the advertising and that the manufacturer called them all in for reconstruction and replacements.

"Notwithstanding this mistake," Wood wrote, "I defy anyone to produce any newspaper article setting forth the defectiveness of these . . . cars and warning readers not to purchase them."

When it comes to motion pictures, however, newspapers don't hesitate in telling their readers how "lousy" they consider certain "models of our merchandise," although they take the industry's money to advertise that the same piece of merchandise is "excellent, stupendous, outstanding and gigantic," Wood wrote.

Wood contended that before this condition can be corrected, "the industry will have to indicate, by some definite action, that it has acquired something it has always lacked in connection with these harmful newspaper reviews, viz:—GUTS."

A similar letter was written to the editor of the Plain Dealer. Wood asked how long the paper would retain the advertising business of some of its leading accounts if their products were condemned in the same manner as pictures.

May Drop Tradeshows In Up-State Michigan

Detroit—Attendance at screenings got off to a good start this week with 35 exhibitors at M-G-M's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," despite competition of Variety Club golf tourney on the same day.

Fewer screenings slated for this week was one big factor in the higher number attending. Representatives of all larger buying groups and circuits continue to attend practically every screening.

Talk along Film Row is to the effect that distributors are in favor of discontinuing upstate screenings, which are being held at Saginaw and Grand Rapids. Comparatively small attendance all down the line to date is assumed to indicate lack of interest in attending by exhibitors, and it is felt that economy of only one showing, and that in Detroit, will be important.

Warner Field Men to Aid General Industry Relations

devote a certain amount of time and effort to public relations work of benefit to the industry in general, it was decided at yesterday's session of the four-day advertising conference being held at the home office.

With Mort Blumenstock presiding, the session was addressed by S. Charles Einfeld, Gradwell L. Sears, Joseph Bernhard; Francis S. Harmon, executive assistant to Will H. Hays; Roger Albright of the Hays Office, Harry Goldberg, and John L. Fortson of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The importance of creating wider markets for pictures and the necessity of developing larger special audiences for particular films were among the topics discussed. Specific pictures and campaigns discussed included "Sergeant York," "One Foot in Heaven," "Dive Bomber," "The Bride Came C.O.D.", "Underground," "Manpower," "Highway West" and "Bad Men of Missouri."

The "York" campaign was gone into in greatest detail. This is expected to serve as a pattern for the handling of a large number of new season's films of equal caliber.

Tradeshows Out of Theaters?

General Shift to Projection Rooms Is Seen

of "Sergeant York" in its home office projection room yesterday attracted exactly 31, seven of whom were women, it was learned. In view of the slim turnout, it is expected that Warners will shelve the mulled plan for hotel ballroom screenings and utilize projection rooms for tradeshows.

> In practically every city in which tradeshows have been held, a large majority of the exhibitors declared that they intended to rely on trade paper reviews as their buying guide rather than attend the showings personally.

It was pointed out that exhib. failure to turn out yesterday for the "York" tradeshow ran strongly counter to exhib. interest in acquiring the pic. As a possible explanation, it was suggested that the theater men in the New York area felt it was unnecessary to see the production before talking terms, the biz being currently done at the Astor b. o. speaking for itself as to the film's strength.

"York" will be tradeshown in all exchange centers on Aug. 4 with one exception, Portland, Ore., where screening is set for Aug. 6, Warners announced yesterday. With few exceptions, "York" tradeshows will be in branch projection rooms.

Shifting of tradeshows by M-G-M and RKO from theaters to screening rooms, as has been indicated, may create a problem hitherto not considered. It was learned yesterday that M-G-M has only four exchanges with projection rooms, while RKO has only a very few more.

This means that exchanges will have to double up with other companies in order to conduct screenings. Some cities have one central screening room which takes care of all local exchanges.

Summarized data on attendances and tradeshow reactions as gathered by THE FILM DAILY field correspondents in cities not covered in yesterday's report follows:

SAN FRANCISCO: Results of tradeshows here to date indicate that local exhibitors don't intend to use them as a buying guide. No exchange has drawn more than a handful of exhibitors, many of them admitting that they just dropped in because there was nothing else to do. Practically nobody who wouldn't have been in town anyway attended. Time and expense were reasons given. It is the consensus that many small town and neighborhood exhibitors who are in a position to wait before buying will delay picking up their blocks of five until the pictures actually open to test their box-office value.

PORTLAND, ORE.: Hot weather was blamed for low tradeshow attendance here. It was contended, however, that if screenings were held regionally, such as in Medford, Eugene, Salem and other cities, attendance would have been 25 per cent higher.

MEMPHIS: Not lack of interest but inability to stand the expense was given as the reason for low attendance here. As Monday is usually the out-of-town exhibitor's day, it is likely that only Monday showings will be well attended. Only local theater men are expected on other days.

OKLAHOMA CITY: Exhibitors in this territory apparently feel that they would have to live in Oklahoma City in order to see all the tradeshows, and there is little to indicate that state showmen plan to travel to the exchange center for the sole purpose of seeing a picture. Morris Loewenstein, head of the Theater Owners of Oklahoma, asked: "Why look at something you don't have cancellation on?"

ST. LOUIS: Many exhibitors here claim they tell the quality of a picture by the cast, director and producer without taking the time to see it. They indicated that it was the "in-between" pictures — those that are neither high nor low budgeted— that they want to see before buying. Attendance here last week was not considered bad and only slightly below expectations.

"Tom, Dick and Harry" May do $105,000 Week

An all-time record for July has been recorded at Radio City Music Hall where RKO's "Tom, Dick and Harry" attracted 141,252 patrons in six days. A gross of $105,000 for the week is anticipated. Previous July record was set in 1938 with "Algiers." Picture starts its second week tomorrow.

Oppose Re-election of Foes Of Mo. 150-Minute Measure

St. Louis—State legislators who opposed the 150-minute program bill backed by the Better Film Council of Greater St. Louis at the legislative session which closed recently at Jefferson City will face opposition in turn when they come up for re-election, it was learned here yesterday.

The bill will be tossed back into the hopper at the next regular session if the way is not cleared for consideration at the anticipated special session.

The Council has shelved a proposal to seek adoption of a special city ordinance here since its effect would be nullified by the nearby theaters in St. Louis County.

Milton F. Napier, attorney for the Council, said yesterday that the organization is prepared to keep offering the measure until it is enacted by the General Assembly, and that it hopes to defeat for re-election those solons who have refused to co-operate.

Indie. Customers "Poor," Witness Says

Wright, special assistant to the attorney general questioned J. F. Willingham, manager of Loew's Memphis exchange, and R. M. Avey, branch manager for Loew's at Atlanta. On cross-examination defense counsel drew from these witnesses that Loew's sold Crescent or its affiliates because competing independents were "poor" accounts of long standing and their theaters inferior in both housing and projection equipment.

Questioned about several situations, evidently counted on heavily by the Government, these branch executives offered testimony of unsatisfactory dealings with independents involved.

It was stated by Morgan that, while, not by any means its largest customer, "Crescent Amusement Co. is our best customer, fulfilling every contract to the letter." He explained a prolonged negotiation for Paramount's franchise to Crescent that "Sudekum is a close, cold-blooded buyer."

Office memorandums and letters exchanged by C. E. Kessnich, Loew's Southern district manager, and H. Postman, Loew's, New York, figured prominently in yesterday's hearing. A memorandum, dated Aug. 25, 1935, from Kessnich to Postman stated:

"Memphis has sold a contract for Brownsville, Tenn. you had better hold up approval of this contract until we get our negotiations with Sudekum for the reason that Sudekum has also gone into Brownsville with an opposition theater to our present account in Brownsville."

Testimony of Avey brought out the fact that a contract for Loew's product for 1937-38 was held up by Kessnich in New York until the unsatisfactory nature of W. F. Roth's account was brought to his attention.

A letter offered by D of J counsel, dated Aug. 20, 1935, from Postman in New York to Willingham in Memphis, explained headquarters disproved of applicants for contracts from C. G. Lawing for his Southland Theater in Brownsville and Strand Theater in Whiteville by saying: "This matter was discussed with Mr. Kessnich yesterday and he suggested that you hold these contracts on your desk until you hear from Mr. Sudekum regarding the 1935-36 deal at which time final disposition can be made of these applications." A letter from Willingham to Kessnich, dated July 1, stated in part: "You know Mr. Lawing personally and know this is the party Mr. Sudekum sat on top of in Brownsville, Tenn., and finally ran him out of town. Mr. Lawing is a very good theater operator but cannot buck such opposition as the Sudekum circuit."

On cross examination of Willingham by defense attorneys the witness made statements that indicated that Lawing's accounts were in a "poor condition" and that he was not fulfilling his contracts with M-G-M when the shift from his house to Sudekum's was made. Claims by Willingham, purported to be shown by a tabulation sheet he had made, that Loew's returns in Brownsville were larger than the Crescent contract than from the previous Lawing contract, were discounted when Federal Attorney Robert L. Wright pointed out discrepancies between this tabulation and playoff sheets secured from Loew's office under subpoena. Willingham explained the discrepancy by the statement that his figures were made up from film sales contracts which might or might not represent the amount actually received by the distributor.

Attorney for J. Myer Schine was back in Nashville yesterday to attend the hearing, stating that Schine himself was "too busy" to return with him.

Exhib. Tradeshow Reactions

Western N. Y. Showmen Dubious of Benefits

By J. H. GARNISH
FILM DAILY Staff Correspondent

Buffalo—Western New York theater operators' reactions to the first week's tradeshows:

"I saw five in a week and I'm going blind. It's a physical impossibility to attend them all."

"About the only value of the screenings to us is if some of the films are clucks, seeing them will improve a house's dickering position."

"We have been looking more out of curiosity than expectancy. We've been wondering if we were going to get stronger pictures. As a group, the answer seems to be, no."

"You must know where you stand before you buy, because the exchanges can say that you had a chance to see what you were getting, so you have no grounds for an adjustment."

"These screenings are costing plenty. The distributor, you can bet, will be passing that along to the exhibitor to pay."

"It doesn't mean anything to look at them now. Public reaction in the first-run houses weighs heavily. Word-of-mouth advertising is important to all theaters, but particularly to ones like ours."

"We're going to buy 50 pictures in 10 groups of five. We'd rather look later and buy nearer our exhibition dates."

"One of the screenings I saw was 'Citizen Kane.' It was swell, but I hesitate to go out on a limb, because I don't know what the first-runs will do with it. First-runs will be buying ahead of us. It would mean more if we could look at a picture after they had played it."

"Ringside Maisie"

with Ann Sothern, George Murphy, Robert Sterling

Metro 96 Mins.

PRIZEFIGHT STORY IS OKAY ENTERTAINMENT FOR POP TRADE.

Latest in Metro's "Maisie" series, this one comes up to the standard of its recent predecessors, although it is shaded by the first couple of releases. For the pop trade it is okay entertainment and should be well received, particularly by the fans that have helped to popularize the series. The cast is good, direction and story adequate and technical work is up to par.

Miss Sothern fits the "Maisie" role naturally. George Murphy and Robert Sterling share the male leads, with Murphy portraying a fight manager, Sterling appearing as his leather pusher. Virginia O'Brien, the dead pan singer, Natalie Thompson, Margaret Moffat, Maxie Rosenbloom, Jack La Rue and "Rags" Ragland are important adjuncts. Edward L. Marin directed from an original screenplay by Mary C. McCall, Jr.

Miss Sothern gets involved with Murphy and his prizefighter when Sterling gives her a lift as she walks along a country road to a promised job at a Summer resort. The job blows up and she accepts a job as companion to Sterling's mother, Miss Moffat. Murphy's antipathy to Miss Sothern disappears from fight to fight until he falls for her. Sterling, on the verge of the championship, wants to quit, but Murphy makes him fight. His eyes are hurt, misunderstandings ensue, but a satisfactory ending is contrived.

CAST: Ann Sothern, George Murphy, Robert Sterling, Virginia O'Brien, Natalie Thompson, Margaret Moffat, Maxie Rosenbloom, Jack La Rue, "Rags" Ragland, Oscar O'Shea, John Indrisano, Roy Lester, Eddie Simms, Jonathan Hale, Purnell Pratt.

"Charley's Aunt"

with Jack Benny, Kay Francis, James Ellison, Anne Baxter, Edmund Gwen

20th-Fox 81 Mins.

GREAT AUDIENCE PICTURE SHOULD BE ONE OF THE TOP GROSSERS FOR THE YEAR ON 20th-FOX SCHEDULE.

(In 20th-Fox's First 5-Block)

Despite the fact that "Charley's Aunt" has been made twice before and has undoubtedly been seen by a great many of the current crop of theatergoers, it should be one of the top grossers for the year on the Fox schedule. Jack Benny gets away from the old fast comeback routine and gives a good performance as the aged "belle of the campus."

Director Archie Mayo keeps the film moving at a fast clip. The now familiar chase routines and lace panty gags kept the preview audience in stitches—at some times to the point where it was impossible to catch all of the dialogue.

William Perlberg's production is tops. There is little that could have been used that wasn't taken full advantage of. James Ellison, Arleen Whelan and Anne Baxter give a good account of themselves as the boy and girls of the nineties. The rest of the cast including Edmund Gwen, Laird Cregar, Reginald Owen and Richard Haydn, enter into the spirit of slapstick and contribute merrily to the hilarious proceedings.

The fun is a little late in getting started—the only fault to be found—and it is a bit of a shock to find Benny playing this type of role, but audiences love it and that's what pays off.

Kay Francis as the real "Charley's Aunt" has never been lovelier.

A ten-year student at Oxford, Jack Benny is talked into impersonating a pal's aged Aunt from South America so that the friend can have his girl friend to lunch in his rooms for lunch—with Benny as chaperone. Complications follow when Laird Cregar and Edmund Gwen, fortune hunters, begin a campaign of violent lovemaking to win the hand of the "Aunt."

Most of the action is of the chase variety with plenty of laughs and clean suggestive humor that puts Benny in just about every kind of spot he could imagine—but it winds up with love blooming for all but the villains.

Definitely an audience picture, this one has names and everything it takes to pull 'em in.

CAST: Jack Benny, Kay Francis, James Ellison, Anne Baxter, Edmund Gwen, Reginald Owen, Laird Cregar, Arleen Whelan, Richard Haydn, Ernest Cossart, Morton Lowry, Lionel Pape, Will Stanton, Montague Shaw, Claude Allister, William Austin, Maurice Cass.

CREDITS: Producer, William Perlberg; Director, Archie Mayo; Screenplay, George Seaton; Author, Brandon Thomas; Music, Alfred Newman; Cameraman, Peverell Marley; Art Direction, Richard Day, Nathan Juran and Thomas Little; Editor, Robert Bischoff.

"Harvest For Tomorrow"

Warners and Loew's, Inc. 28 mins.

Highly Interesting Subject

Directed by Edgar Peterson, 2nd, for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (wing of the Department of Agriculture), this subject is not only excellently conceived and presented, but packs a lot of interest for hosts of Americans whether they reside in urban or rural communities. It recounts how, for decade after decade, the farm lands of the nation (New England is taken as a section in point) have been yielding-up their natural chemical riches in repeatedly harvested crops until today when much acreage can no longer be productive unless the soil is revitalized through fertilization,—chiefly the addition to it of lime and superphosphate.

The footage traces how land has become worn-out, and illustrates how it can be rehabilitated. Peterson, who also collaborated with AAA officials on the script, has done his job with complete understanding, injecting into the film a high degree of popular appeal and showmanship, rarely found in this type of documentary. The narration is excellently handled by Frank Craven, while the music composed by John Alden Finckel, and rendered by the National Symphony Orchestra, provides fine atmosphere.

Many of the camera shots by George Ortlieb are eye-filling and always arresting.

This short is distributed gratis to theaters by Loew's, Inc., and Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. for a span of some three months, after which, in keeping with the policy of the Government, it will be shown non-theatrically.

Republic Pix Going Into Many Theaters for First Time as a Result of Consent Decree

San Francisco—Republic's 1941-42 product is set to go into many theaters for the first time as a result of the New York consent decree, according to Prexy James R. Grainger, here on circuit deals.

Grainger pointed out that for the first time, due to the decree's provisions, a large number of houses will not be over-bought with "Big Five" films, thus assuring a break for such companies as Republic.

First deal to be set locally by Grainger was closed yesterday with the Joseph Blumenfeld circuit.

The ruling removes the last obstacle in the way of the trial, which has been ordered to proceed on Aug. 17.

Havana — Henry Weiner, United Artists' local manager, one of the pioneers of film distribution here, will be awarded a gold medal on the night of Aug. 2 at the America Theater by the Association of Motion Picture Writers in recognition of the outstanding contributions he has made to the local film business during the past 20 years. On the morning of that day in the Rio Cristal a banquet will be tendered in his honor by Cuba's distributors, exhibitors, the press, film associations, and his many friends.

Dominion Gov't May Rule "Service Charge" For Theater Giveaways as Taxable Admish

Ottawa—Dominion Government, according to reports here, may take a further tax potshot at Canadian exhibs, requiring theaters using giveaways to figure in the "service charge" as part of the admission price, with the over-all subject to the new 20 per cent levy.

Situation is muddled by the fact that some theaters levy no "service charge" for giveaways, while others absorb part of the cost of the premium offered.

Theater Authority Benefits Face Tax

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington — Bureau of Internal Revenue has ruled that all benefits handled through the Theater Authority are no longer tax exempt. It is also reported here that decision may possibly be made which would nullify tax exemption on all benefits.

Theater Authority, while accepting the Government ruling, expects to move for revision of tax measure so that ruling would be lifted in the future whenever country is no longer in state of emergency.

20th-Fox to Employ Two Contract Forms

A master contract and a "short form of contract" will be used by 20th Century-Fox in the selling of product under the consent decree.

Under the plan, the first contract the exhibitor signs will contain all the necessary clauses and will be the master contract for the year. Subsequent contracts will be brief and will merely give the essential data as to town, state, theater, etc., terms of the sale of the individual pictures and playing arrangements. A clause will provide that all terms of the master contract will apply to the subsequent sales.

No Paramount Stock Held By the British Government within 24 hours after close of arguments.

Max Buchanan, in 1939 proprietor of Buchanan Amusement Co., Athens, Ga., considered one of the Government's "ace" witnesses, told of competition between his theater, the Bama, with two theaters (later three) owned and operated by Louis Rosenbaum, of Muscle Shoals Theaters, Inc. Buchanan claimed that Rosenbaum cut admission prices until the take at the Bama was not sufficient to meet expenses. He also charged that he was unable to obtain sufficient films.

Cross-examined by Edward J. Raftery, on behalf of United Artists, Universal, and Columbia, concerning rejection of his application for renewal of a contract with United Artists, the unsatisfactory character of Buchanan's account was revealed as the reason for rejection of the application, not a conspiracy with competing theaters.

Letters and other items of communication were introduced to show that the witness was well supplied with Little Three product. The testimony also brought out that when Buchanan opened the Bama he contracted for 21 Paramount pictures, but placed only one.

After opening the Bama in May, in July, 1939, Buchanan sued both Louie Rosenbaum and Tony Sudekum in Alabama Federal Court, asking $100,000 damages . When he sold the Bama to Rosenbaum, in January 1940, settlement of this suit was included in an $8,000 payment for the house.

Buchanan testified to writing the Department of Justice and explained registered letters to certain distributors as efforts on his part to secure "written evidence."

It is contended by Louie Rosenbaum and Mrs. Tony Sudekum, owners and operators, that Muscle Shoals Theaters, Inc. has no connection with Crescent Amusement Co.

lined at the Coast convention last week, are comprehensive. Twentieth-Fox will use radio whenever its use will serve box-office purposes or whenever a production adapts itself to etherizing.

A Radio Bureau has been set up for the purpose of weekly keeping radio commentators and radio editors of newspapers with news of the company's screen offerings and personalities. This material will be distributed in the form of a weekly Broadcasting News-Letter which will be mailed from the Home Office.

Spot-news will be telegraphically made available to radio commentators, as well as the radio and motion picture editors whenever it develops, according to McCarthy's plans.

Radio transcriptions of musical numbers will be made available to indie stations, so long as the Ascap-BMI controversy exists. In addition, Decca, Victor, Columbia and Brunswick records tieups will be available on all musical productions.

A tieup, whereby picture credit is audibly given, has been negotiated with makers of records featured by the thousands of "juke" boxes in use throughout the U. S.

McCarthy intends to concentrate on 170 key cities as permanent bally points, with the Home Office handling five in the metropolitan area and the company's nine field promotion men the other 165.

bookings include RKO houses in Columbus, Rochester, Providence and several smaller theaters. Other engagements will follow.

Completion of the agreement brings to a head Serlin's long-standing desire for closer collaboration between film and legitimate theater interests

Schaefer declared that "Life With Father" would have the full co-operation of the RKO organization, but pointed out that the bookings do not mean that RKO embarks on a general policy of playing road attractions indiscriminately. It was said, however, that Serlin and others predicted similar arrangements would be established between booking executives and theater circuits in subsequent seasons.

Serlin for some time has been at odds with the United Booking Office.

"Sun Valley Serenade" with Sonja Henie, John Payne, Glenn Miller and his Orchestra

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

20th-Fox 86 Mins.

OUTSTANDING ENTERTAINMENT IS RICH IN LAUGHS, DRAMA AND ACTION IS CERTAIN TO HIT THE BOX OFFICE BULL'S EYE.

(In 20th-Fox's First 5-Block)

The reaction of three hundred and fifty Fox salesmen and a Glendale preview audience certainly proved to Darryl Zanuck's satisfaction that the formula used in all the Henie pictures is still good stuff. All of the elements are there. The cast, excellently placed in their roles by Producer Milton Sperling, give fine performances, and Megger H. Bruce Humberstone adds another feather to his cap with his sterling direction of this cute yarn.

Former reaction to pictures of this type—that there was too much spectacle and not enough story—will never be mentioned by those who see "Valley." There is everything needed in this, laughs, action, drama, cute new twists and that superb Milton Berle humor.

The skating scenes are lovely. The much-touted new discovery black ice is a real innovation, and the scenes of Miss Henie and John Payne skiing are breathtaking.

You can also chalk up Milton Berle on you "Must" list. He should gain a lot of following after this one. Lynn Bari is another member of the cast who makes a hit. She does a lot to earn herself a name comparable to Oomph or ping.

There are whistling tunes here too. Mack Gordon and Harry Revel have done as good a job as they ever have done with the clefting of this opus.

John Payne, with the assistance of his hot-spot press agent Milton Berle, adopts a Norwegian refugee who turns out to be—to the consternation of everyone concerned—a beautiful girl, Sonja Henie. The band Payne belongs to, because of Lynn Bari's liking for Payne, is booked into the hotel at Sun Valley.

Miss Henie smuggles herself aboard the train taking the troupe West and shows up at Sun Valley to break up the Payne-Bari romance because she has decided to marry Payne.

She does her best to break up the romance but despite her efforts Payne and Miss Bari announce their engagement. Strong measures are necessary so Sonja tricks John into staying with her in a mountain cabin and they are discovered by his affianced who promptly breaks the engagement and Payne and Sonja take over.

Waxmann Asks Writ In Fight for Films

Embassy, Atlantic City. Other defendants are Warner Brothers Circuit Management Corp. and Wielland Theater Company. D. Ben Kresch is attorney for Warners, Morris Wexler for Columbia, Milton Kamsler for Wielland, George T. Steeley, Carr and Krauss office, and George P. Aarons represents Waxmann.

The Waxmann claim is that his Astor and Hollywood, Atlantic City, bought successive runs after first-run Atlantic Ave., Atlantic City, but with the opening of the New Embassy recently, after the old Embassy was closed, the former was made a first-run under the Warners-Wielland and Lewis pool.

Waxmann claims his contract gives him clearance over any new houses built in the area, and that the Columbia pictures could not be put into the New Embassy under his contract. Hearing began yesterday, but was continued to allow the Judge to study contracts.

Macklin Arbitration Case Settled and Withdrawn

Milwaukee—Lee Macklin, operator of the Grand, New London, has withdrawn his complaint against Loew's, Paramount, 20th-Fox, RKO, Warner Bros., following settlement yesterday. Arbitration action charged companies with giving unreasonable clearance to Rio and Appleton theaters in Appleton.

Arbitrator Holds Technicality Defeats Arbitration Purpose

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—"Splitting hairs over legal technicalities would defeat the purpose of the arbitration agreement," Arbitrator Louis M. Denit held yesterday in denying motion by defendants' attorney that a portion of the K-B Amusement Co. case be dismissed on a technicality.

K-B is complaining against clearance granted Uptown and Calvert over its Apex. Defendants contended that since there is no lapse of time betwen end of run at the Uptown and time it is available to Apex, there is no clearance under the meaning of the consent decree and that therefore, the portion of the complaint applying to Uptown should be dismissed

The contest is conducted much like the old fashioned spelling bee,—a contestant remaining on the stage as long as he answers questions correctly. The climax comes at the conclusion of the program when anyone in the audience is allowed to take a chance at answering a special question for a bonus award. Treasury to Permit Defense Bonds as Bank Night Awards

Washington — If movie theaters want to use defense savings bonds as prizes for Bank Night and Bingo games, the Treasury Department will not interfere, it was indicated here yesterday following reports that theaters in Chicago and other cities have made plans for such use of the bonds.

On the other hand, while the Treasury will do nothing to halt such use of the bonds it will do nothing, certainly in an official sense at least, to encourage this method of selling. This will be left entirely up to the theater owners themselves and local authorities.

Nashville — Federal counsel, directed by Robert L. Reversing the order of things, the card leads off with "For Sale to the Lowest Bidder." It then goes on to announce that: "This theater offers to the lowest bidders among the distributors of motion pictures three hundred sixty-five (365) new-and-never-before-used playdates during the 1941-42 season.

Small Town Biz Seen Badly Hit by Proposal; Nabes in Large Cities Might Benefit

Gasoline rationing plan for the East and possibly other sections reported taking shape in Washington contemplates a maximum annual allotment of 300 gallons, according to information reaching trade circles here. That would mean a possible weekly ration of about six gallons.

Plan, if it materializes, would cut deeply into theater biz in small towns where exhibs. count on drawing rural patronage from up to a 40 or 50 mile radius, and, to a somewhat lesser extent, would curtail urban grosses. Downtown houses in the cities, it is felt, would be hit, with nabes, of course, benefiting.

House to Tackle Tax Bill Next Wk. Under 'Gag Rule'

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—The House next week will start consideration of the defense tax bill under a tight "gag rule." Measure, estimated to yield $3,529,200,000, provides for reduction in admission tax exemption from 20 cents to nine cents, the abolition of existing exemptions to charitable institutions, churches and all other exemptions except to U. S. service men in uniform, and the imposition of a tax on billboards and on radio broadcasting.

The new billboards tax, a late addition to the bill, is estimated to yield $7,000,000. The rates are $5 on boards of less than 300 square feet; $8 on boards of from 300 to 600 square feet; and $11 on boards over 600 square feet.

Just before completing the bill, the House Ways and Means Committee struck out proposed excise taxes on candy and chewing gum, which would have yielded $18,200,000, and taxes on electric signs.

House passage of the measure next week in approximately its present form was virtually assured, leaders said.

Gas Rationing Plan Will Affect B. O.

understood, would not directly issue the rationing cards; car owners rather would obtain them from the State Motor Vehicle Bureaus.

The proposed 300-gallon limit obviously would put a crimp in recreational motoring, particularly on week-ends, and theaters conceivably might find their Saturday and Sunday business aided to some extent as a result. But in this connection, it was pointed out that radio also stands to gain, and, according to the Gallup poll recently made for RKO, radio has a marked lead on films.

Voluntary curtailment of gas consumption in response to the recent Ickes request is reported as disappointing. The Wall St. Journal Wednesday declared that it is "increasingly evident" that more drastic measures will be necessary on the Eastern seaboard. The financial paper asserted that thus far in July demand for gas has been running about 12 per cent higher than a year ago throughout the U. S., while the demand for the first six and a half months was about 9 per cent up.

(Oil Coordinator Harold Ickes Tuesday asked the industry to build a $70 million pipeline to carry crude from Texas to New York. Ickes also recommended 40 to 50 new large high speed tanker ships and suggested immediate consideration of a products pipeline project to serve the Atlantic Seaboard. Neither these moves nor voluntary curtailment will prevent gasoline rationing in the East coast markets, however, defense officials believe.).

MOTION PICTURE DAILY

"Charley's Aunt"

[20th Century-Fox—1941-'42 Release]

Hollywood, July 22

IT'S an idea for exhibitors playing this picture to reinforce their seats and pad the aisles because the paying patrons are in for a laughing jag that will strain every bolt in their chairs, pound the arm rests and then roll up and down the aisles.

"Charley's Aunt" is one of the fun[illegible]st pictures ever made, and it is so produced that audiences larg[illegible]d small, here, there and everywhere, in big city and small town [illegible]y be expected to roar, howl, scream, shout, chuckle, chortle and th[illegible] stagger home to tell their families, friends and neighbors to go [illegible] see it. There's about a laugh to every half-minute in this la[illegible]adaptation of the Brandon Thomas play which serves ad[illegible] as a vehicle for Jack Benny, and Benny on radio program or [illegible]s never funnier.

[illegible]ure from the other Benny film vehicles in that it does not [illegible]style of a radio program, but gives the comedian a more or [illegible]t" role, this 20th Century-Fox production, which leads off [illegible]k under consent decree selling, is replete with fresh dialogue [illegible] and given outstanding embellishment by producer William [illegible] Director Archie Mayo.

[illegible]o plays the title role to the utmost for a well rounded char[illegible]zation, is supported by Kay Francis, James Ellison, Anne Baxter, Edmund Gwenn, Laird Cregar, Reginald Owen, Arleen Whelan, Richard Haydn and others. The familiar story, in which a youth at Oxford is browbeaten by two of his classmates into playing the role of the chaperoning aunt of one of them, and getting into romantic difficulties with two elderly men who are after "her" money, is presented with freshness and verve. Its telling combines all types of comedy, from farce to slapstick and burlesque, and does excellently in every department.

[illegible] 20th-Fox's First 5-Block)

[illegible]te the fact that "Charley's Aunt" [illegible]een made twice before and has un[illegible]tedly been seen by a great many of [illegible]e current crop of theatergoers, it should be one of the top grossers for the year on [illegible]he Fox schedule. Jack Benny gets away [illegible]om the old fast comeback routine and [illegible]es a good performance as the aged "belle [illegible]the campus."

[illegible]irector Archie Mayo keeps the film mov[illegible] at a fast clip. The now familiar chase [illegible]es and lace panty gags kept the pre[illegible] audience in stitches—at some times [illegible]e point where it was impossible to [illegible]all of the dialogue.

[illegible]am Perlberg's production is tops. [illegible]s little that could have been used [illegible]sn't taken full advantage of. James [illegible] Arleen Whelan and Anne Baxter [illegible]ood account of themselves as the [illegible] girls of the nineties. The rest of [illegible] including Edmund Gwen, Laird [illegible]eginald Owen and Richard Haydn, [illegible] the spirit of slapstick and con[illegible]errily to the hilarious proceedings. [illegible]fun is a little late in getting started [illegible]e only fault to be found—and it is a bit [illegible] a shock to find Benny playing this type of role, but audiences love it and that's what pays off.

Kay Francis as the real "Charley's Aunt" has never been lovelier.

A ten-year student at Oxford, Jack Benny is talked into impersonating a pal's aged Aunt from South America so that the friend can have his girl friend to lunch in his rooms for lunch—with Benny as chaperone. Complications follow when Laird Cregar and Edmund Gwen, fortune hunters, begin a campaign of violent lovemaking to win the hand of the "Aunt."

Most of the action is of the chase variety with plenty of laughs and clean suggestive humor that puts Benny in just about every kind of spot he could imagine—but it winds up with love blooming for all but the villains.

Definitely an audience picture, this one has names and everything it takes to pull 'em in.

CHARLEY'S AUNT

Like Niagara Falls, 'Charley's Aunt' stands the test of time. A half century ago, its initial presentation on the London stage started it on a healthy and wealthy career, with profitable revival on Broadway last year catching attention of Darryl Zanuck for a third film presentation. Solid farce of maximum laugh potentialities, and with Jack Benny in the title role, picture is a strong audience attracter that will roll up hefty grosses all along the line, and rate holdovers in the keys.

Former film versions — in 1925 with Syd Chaplin, and 1930 with Charles Ruggles—did well. But acquisition of Jack Benny for the title spot was expert showmanship. Benny, playing with enthusiasm and romping merrily and crazily along the route, takes fullest advantage of laugh opportunities. It's a new angle for the comedian's talents, whose previous film assignments comprised a lightly frameworked story background, on which gagmen built an overload of unassociated quips and blackout episodes. As a result, Benny demonstrates he can handle a straight farcical assignment without recourse to his retinue of wisecrackers, gagmen and radio delivery technique.

Under expert direction of Archie Mayo, there's no letdown in the fast pace maintained for rollicking results. Many situations are double-barrelled for laughs—first when the audience is given advance tipoff on what's going to happen; and a roar when it actually occurs. Only deft timing by both director and comedian can achieve that result, and the Benny-Mayo team works in perfect synchronization.

Picture closely follows the stage farce in unfoldment, carrying Oxford background of 1890. Perennial student Benny is forced to masquerade as Charley's rich aunt from Brazil to provide chaperonage while Charley (Richard Haydn) and James Ellison have their girl friends for lunch and marriage proposals. The oldfashioned female getup tosses Benny into a series of complications that fall on him in torrents. He's the recipient of amorous advances from fortune-hunting Laird Cregar and flustery Edmund Gwenn; encounters troubles with his multi-petticoated ensemble; and wends his way through embarrassing passages with the real aunt, Kay Francis. When he gets through with it all, the imposter finds he's engaged to the rich aunt from Brazil: and his pals are amply taken care of with their romantic affairs.

Picture is a slick combo of farce, burlesque and straight slapstick. There's nothing there except long and hearty laughs—with reaction from the women just as explosive as from the male sector.

Benny clicks effectively in the title spot, carrying the burden of the story with a grand performance. Supporting players are selected for maximum results from their respective portrayals. Ellison and Haydn are the two undergraduates who get Benny into the predicament; Anne Baxter and Arleen Whelan are the coy maidens whose hands are sought by Ellison and Haydn. Miss Francis, although getting limited footage, carries off her assignment in top fashion. Cregar, Gwenn, Reginald Owen and Ernest Cossart add much comedy to the proceedings.

Picture gets fullest advantage of 'A' production mounting, with Peverell Marley's photography of high standard throughout.

ADVENTURE STORY SET IN NORTHWEST IS ENTERTAINING SCREENFARE FOR AVERAGE AUDIENCES.

General audiences should get a full measure of entertainment from this new 20th-Fox release, one of their first block-of-five. Laid in the Northwest at the turn of the century, there is a good combination of adventure, romance and skullduggery. There are two strong "names" at the head of the cast, the Stewart Edward White novel from which the picture was made is well known, and the average audience always likes a story of this type. Locations are fine, direction is good, photography is fine and the story is okay.

Heading the cast as the wandering lumberjack is Henry Fonda. He gives the characterization a full measure of realism, imparting the thought in many a man's mind, that it would be swell to follow the geese when they fly North to new and greener lands. Joan Bennett is an attractive and capable feminine lead. Warren William is a suave addition to the cast as an adventuring gambler, and Barton MacLane provides the menace. A fine supporting cast, including Ona Munson and Russell Simpson, is helpful. A thoughtful directorial job is turned in by John Brahm, and Horace McCoy's screenplay is smooth, although it could have been stepped up in pace and contained more action.

Story concerns Fonda principally, and his desire to see all the country to the North where the geese fly in the Spring. He quits a lumberjack job to meet William, an old friend in Seattle. There he meets and marries Miss Bennett, a dance hall girl, not knowing that she used to be William's girl. William shows up, appreciates the situation and keeps his mouth shut, and the three of them set sail for Alaska to take over a hotel William has won from MacLane, in what MacLane charges was a crooked dice game.

MacLane follows them and Miss Bennett is caught in William's room by Fonda while she is warning him about MacLane being in town. Misunderstandings ensue, but a baby brings about a reconciliation after a hectic stretch of action.

CAST: Henry Fonda, Joan Bennett, Warren William, Ona Munson, Barton MacLane, Russell Simpson, Iris Adrian, James C. Morton, Paul Sutton, Mary Field, Stanley Andrews, Jody Gilbert, Robert Emmett Keane, Michael Morris, George Watts, Charles Middleton.

CREDITS: Producer, Harry Joe Brown; Director, John Brahm; Screenplay, Horace McCoy; Based on a novel by Stewart Edward White; Cameraman, Lucien Ballard; Editor, Walter Thompson.

"Dressed to Kill"

with Lloyd Nolan, Mary Beth Hughes, William Demarest

20th-Fox 72 Mins.

BEST IN "SHAYNE" SERIES TO DATE; FIRST-RATE WHO-DUN-IT FOR POP TRADE.

(In 20th-Fox's First 5-Block)

The third and latest in the 20th-Fox series about Michael Shayne, private investigator, this is the best to date. It is a first-rate who-dun-it for the pop trade. It is well-paced, the killer is smartly covered up until the climax while suspicion plausibly centers on a number of people, and plenty of action and suspense are incorporated. The cast is good, direction clever and technical work first-rate.

Lloyd Nolan competently fills the lead role and Mary Beth Hughes is a complement to the picture as his fiancee. William Demarest will get laughs as the police inspector. Sheila Ryan attractively fills a bit role and a number of able players are in the supporting cast. Eugene Forde directed from a screenplay by Stanley Rauh and Manning O'Connor.

Nolan and Miss Hughes are about to be married when Nolan stumbles into a double murder, which eventually becomes a triple murder. With his customary ethics he lifts evidence, tips a newspaper before the police and sets out to grab the murderer and capitalize on the situation. He gets the murderer in a good climax, but loses his girl.

CAST: Lloyd Nolan, Mary Beth Hughes, Sheila Ryan, William Demarest, Ben Carter, Virginia Brissac, Erwin Kalser, Henry Daniel, Dick Rich, Milton Parsons, Charles Arnt, Charles Trowbridge, Hamilton MacFadden, May Beatty, Charles Wilson, Mantan Moreland.

CREDITS: Executive Producer, Sol M. Wurtzel; Director, Eugene Forde; Screenplay, Stanley Rauh and Manning O'Connor; Based on a novel by Richard Burke and a character created by Brett Halliday; Cameraman, Glen MacWilliams; Editor, Fred Allen.

No Indie Help in Decree, Harry Brandt Tells Arnold

A reminder to Thurman W. Arnold of his reported promise to help change the consent decree if it proved to be not workable was sent to the Assistant Attorney General last week by Harry Brandt, president of the ITOA.

In his letter, Brandt pointed out that the trade screenings were being poorly attended and declared that "we feel sure that we will be able to send you, in the very near future, further proof of the inability of the consent decree, as presently drawn, to cope with the problems of the independent exhibitors."

Brandt contended that further proof would show Arnold that the distributors will not be able to sell, and exhibitors will not be able to buy, pictures in blocks of five.

"Private Nurse"

with Jane Darwell, Brenda Joyce, Sheldon Leonard

20th-Fox 60 Mins.

STRICTLY A PROGRAM OFFERING AND NOT ON THE PLUS SIDE IN THIS CATEGORY.

(In 20th-Fox's First 5-Block)

Mark this one as an unimportant offering that will serve only as a supporting feature. Story is hackneyed, dialogue is trite and the cast with a few exceptions is just adequate. Technical work on the picture is okay.

Miss Darwell competently fills the bill in one of the lead roles as a nurse. Miss Joyce is pulchritudinous, but doesn't register too strongly. Sheldon Leonard overplays the part of a reformed gangster, and Robert Lowery is only adequate as a drunken playboy. Ann Todd, a promising child actress, is a bright spot, as is capable Frank Sully. Kay Linaker has a small part. David Burton directed and Samuel G. Engel wrote the original screenplay.

Miss Joyce is stranded in New York when her fiance doesn't show up. She registers with a nursing service and "steals" a call, which brings her reprimands and friendship from Miss Darwell. A drunken playboy, a reformed gangster, his young daughter and estranged wife occupy the spotlight from then on. With a hearts and flowers touch the two nurses readjust the lives of most of the people concerned. There are a couple of good laughs provided with messenger gags.

CAST: Jane Darwell, Brenda Joyce, Sheldon Leonard, Robert Lowery, Ann Todd, Kay Linaker, Frank Sully, Ferike Boros, Claire Du Brey, Leonard Carey, Clara Blandick, Myra Marsh, George Chandler, Steve O'Brien.

CREDITS: Executive Producer, Sol M. Wurtzel; Director, David Burton; Original Screenplay, Samuel G. Engel; Cameraman, Virgil Miller; Editor, Al De Gaetano.

DIRECTION, Adequate. PHOTOGRAPHY, Good.

"Tom, Dick and Harry" May Stay 3d at Music Hall

First week of RKO's "Tom, Dick and Harry" at Radio City Music Hall grossed $105,000 and pic started its second week yesterday with an intake practically equal to that of the opening day, it was reported last night. "Sunset in Wyoming"

with Gene Autry, Smiley Burnette

Republic 65 Mins.

LIVELY WESTERN YARN FORTIFIED BY COMEDY AND MUSIC. WILL SCORE WITH STAR'S FANS.

As characteristic of all Autry starring vehicles, "Sunset In Wyoming" has solid production values, plenty of catchy melodies, action, and comedy relief. Latter, in this instance, is supplied by Smiley Burnette, and perhaps the best of the humorous sequences shows him as a butler in the mansion of a lumber millionaire.

At times, the story goes off on a merry tangent to supply laughs, but such occasions are less extraneous than the film's title itself, which has little association with the yarn itself, other than the fact that the locale is labeled Wyoming. On the two most important counts, this film commends itself to outlets,—entertainment worth and the marquee name of Autry.

Tale's authors,—Joe Blair who penned the original, and Ivan Goff and Anne Morrison Chapin the screenplay,—have provided an excellent finale which depicts dramatically the storm which sweeps through the valley, washing away the homes of the ranchers because the mountain hard-by has been stripped of trees by a lumber company. Footage recounts Autry's efforts to get the lumber interests to abandon the forest destruction.

During his campaign, he even launches a drive for the State to establish the mountain as an official park, but that proves unnecessary in view of the change in heart of the lumber baron's daughter when she and the members of a commission witness the results the storm inflicts. At the windup, she severs her engagement to the lumber company's general manager, and transfers affection to Autry who has saved her father's life in the raging flood. Cast is capable, William Morgan's direction tiptop, as is Reggie Lanning's photography.

CAST: Gene Autry, Smiley Burnette, George Cleveland, Maris Wrixon, Robert Kent, Sarah Edwards, Monte Blue, Dick Elliott, John Dilson, Stanley Blystone.

Judge Excludes Late Crescent Documents

Wilson, branch manager Fox Atlanta exchange, Roland H. Fairchild, Tennessee representative for Fox, out of the Atlanta office, and T. W. Young, Jr., branch manager Fox Memphis exchange.

High points of the day's testimony and proceedings came just before noon when Wright proposed to enter as evidence 20th-Fox franchises with Crescent, and with Muscle Shoals Theaters, and a series of contracts between Fox and Cumberland Amusement Co., an affiliate of Crescent's, all dated since Aug. 11, 1939, when the Government anti-trust suit was filed.

On objection of defense counsel, Judge Elmer D. Davies moved to exclude any matter occurring or dated since the suit was filed. Wright contended that this later evidence was necessary to prove a "continuing conspiracy," but Judge Davies ruled that anything later than the date of the original filing would have to be brought in by filing of supplemental charges.

In the handling of this case by D of J attorneys, the eight distributors are considered as "conspirators." The Fox representatives on the witness stand were there largely to legalize introduction of letters and contract documents in support of the contention that Fox conspired with defendants in numerous situations.

Ballance, cross-examined by William Waller for the defense, explained that the handling of the Fox contracts in certain "free towns" in Kentucky as leverage to gain the advantage of business of the adjacent Crescent Amusement Circuit.

Waller drew from Wilson on cross-examination, the usual information that in October, 1937, 20th Century-Fox refused to sell Cumberland Amusement Co., a Crescent affiliate, a deal for Rogersville, Tenn., because their circuit refused to take the deal for its other towns. The deal was sold to an independent.

T. W. Young, Jr., Memphis, was excused from appearing at the trial, but was introduced by stipulated agreement of counsel for both sides and numerous letters from his office were introduced as evidence.

Wright revealed in statements to Judge Davies some important theories that will form a part of the Government's argument at the close of the hearing, that the action is aimed at "circuits sufficiently strong to influence distributors to grant privileges not customarily granted to exhibitors," and that "all franchises are made to allow distributors to handle pictures in given situations as leverage against competition." Defense counsel, by frequent objections to introduction of interoffice communications, are combatting charges of complainants that there existed "a ninth conspiracy" among Crescent and affiliates among themselves to violate the anti-trust act.

The Government is expected to complete its case today.

Indie Victory Seen In K-B Clearance Decision

Apex Theater. The arbitrator in his decision removed all clearance, and left open to be negotiated the question of whether run preference should also be wiped out. Independents hailed the victory, expressing belief the decision would make distributors easier to negotiate with in the future.

Abram F. Myers, counsel for Allied, saw in the decision additional evidence that the arbitration system affords independents a remedy they never had before. "This award and others in the last two weeks indicates that the arbitration system does afford a remedy for the independent exhibitors such as they never had before," he said. He said he referred specifically to decisions in the Papayanakos case in Albany and the Campus Theater case in Dallas.

The case attracted considerable interest partly because two former D of J attorneys, James V. Hays and Robert Sher, represented the complainant. Both worked on the consent decree. Loew's was represented by Stanley Thompson, while Warners was represented by Howard Levinson and Harold Berkowitz.

Reviews Guiding Buying; Considers Tradeshows as Simply "Added Protection"

By OSCAR HUME

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—The Department of Justice feels that the poor attendance at tradeshows indicates that THE FILM DAILY and other trade publications are doing a "good reviewing job," it was learned unofficially here over the week-end.

It was pointed out that before the New York consent decree, exhibitors were obliged to buy pictures before they were even filmed, whereas now they are given the benefit of previews of the finished product as well as the opportunity of viewing them in person if they wish.

The tradeshowings are simply an added protection, it was said D of J

Hollywood—Whether W. F. Rodgers, M-G-M general sales manager, will become president of United Artists depends partially on the willingness of Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., to release him from his contract, it was indicated here in UA circles at the week-end.

Arbitration Squawk Preceded Contract

San Francisco — First arbitration hearing here was tossed out when the Rita Theater, Vallejo, withdrew its complaint which charged that the house could get no product until it had cleared all other Vallejo houses. However, it was learned that the Rita, which recently was completed, had filed the complaint before any contract had been made with a distributor, leaving nothing to arbitrate.

Dow-Jones Sees Pix Earning Power Up

An upswing in earning power of the motion picture industry is noted by a Dow-Jones survey for investors appearing in The Wall Street Journal on Friday.

The survey points out that the film business normally lags six to eight months behind general business trends and that current gains in consumer income have begun to be reflected sharply at the box-office.

The big business reported over the July 4 week-end is regarded as the turning point of the so-called slump. Adjustments of operations to conform with war conditions have been applied so efficiently that the loss from foreign markets has been considerably lessened.

The report declares that British income, while blocked by exchange restrictions, is holding up close to normal and negotiations are on to persuade Britain to release more income on blocked balances. According to the survey, the producers have reduced inventories materially and built up large cash balances so that they are in the strongest financial position in their history, with debts down, the reverse of their situation ten years ago.

officials feel, but as long as the trade magazines do as good a job as they have been doing, most of the exhibitors probably will continue content to make their purchases on this basis.

Reaction of the Department of Justice thus indicated tends to establish that the Government anticipated the scant exhibitor interest in tradeshows, plus the fact that it has been keeping close watch on what has been transpiring during the first two weeks that tradeshows have been under way.

The series of tradeshows continue this week, with Metro tradeshowing "Down in San Diego," completing its first block, and Paramount starting to screen its first five-block, embracing "Buy Me That Town," "Nothing But the Truth," "New York Town," "Hold Back the Dawn" and "Henry Aldrich for President."

The industry had awaited with keen interest first hint of the Government's reactions in view of some exhibitor criticism that the tradeshow schedules made effective by distributors made attendance at all of them virtually impossible.

Para. Drops Tax Refund Suits

Paramount Pictures on Friday dropped its two suits which sought refunds on taxes in the Federal Court of $69,600 for 1934 and $36,500 for 1933. No explanation for the move was disclosed. The suits against the Government claimed that capital stock tax laws for these two years were illegal on a number of grounds and that the company and some of its predecessors had made the payments under protest.

Crescent Must Show Files, Court Rules

called for action of the Court on a subpoena duces tecum against Crescent Amusement Co. and affiliates, calling for their correspondence and other files to be brought into court, the motion this time being restricted to correspondence between co-defendants and inter-office correspondence.

After lengthy discussion by counsel on both sides, particularly as to the time required to comply with this subpoena and as to the "exploratory" motive of the Government in asking for it, Judge Davies ruled that defendants must comply with it. At first he announced a recess of the hearing until Aug. 4, but on appeal of out-of-town counsel for distributors that the suit continue, the recess ruling was withdrawn. However, earlier in the day Judge Davies had announced that the Crescent hearing would be discontinued until Wednesday morning, the court being required to look after other matters. The defense counsel agreed that a considerable part of the subpoenaed files could be in court by Wednesday.

As a result of the new move by the Government counsel, the plaintiff's case cannot be completed before Friday of next week, probably not then in view of the vast amount of correspondence to be examined. At this time, the end of the case appears indefinitely deferred.

W. F. Ruffin, Covington, Tenn., president of Ruffin Amusement Co., was questioned for several hours by Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the Attorney Genral in regard to his experience as an independent exhibitor and later as a unit in the Crescent organization. J. W. Baird, operator of Newport Amusement Co., Newport, Tenn., also testified.

Exhibs. Still Want Duals Indie Association Believes

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — Independent circuits are continuing to espouse double bills, President I. E. Chadwick said Friday at a meeting of Independent Motion Picture Producers Ass'n. which is campaigning for duals. The proposal that directors working on pictures costing $15,000 or less be paid $600, and $800 for pictures costing $15,000 to $25,000 was broached. The association is seeking a reduction in the cost of viewing-fees from Hays office, which is charging $100 a picture.

Association members will be charged $10 a picture as their dues with a $100 initiation fee for new members joining after Aug. 1.

proached several weeks ago to head the company and it is understood that negotiations are still pending. His existing contract with Loew's has about three years to run, it was said.

Following Schenck's arrival on the Coast Saturday, efforts to enduce him to release Rodgers from his present contract were renewed. It is understood that Schenck had previously rejected requests. If Rodgers' release is granted, it is believed that he will not ask a long-term contract with UA.

W. F. Rodgers said on Friday that he "was flattered" by the reported offer to head United Artists but declined to make further comment. Rumors that UA was desirous of annexing Rodgers to fill its top spot had been circulating in New York for more than a week.

in the opinion of Sydney S. Horen, 20th-Fox manager in Argentina, currently here for home office confabs.

Horen stated that theater business in Argentine cities is maintaining a good level and is strong over week-ends, but he pointed out that the war has caused serious dislocation of the export trade which has hurt the agricultural interior districts.

He praised Argentina censorship, stating that it had been eminently fair up to the present time.

Horen said that the film managers there had made a number of recommendations in regard to the currently discussed trade agreement, but had no knowledge of what would be embodied in the pact in its final form.

Ufa, said Horen, is supplying Nazi newsreels free to some 45 Argentine exhibs. In a counter propaganda move, prices of British newsreels have been radically cut.

20% Canadian War Tax Aids Portland Exhibs.

Portland, Me.—Favorable reaction on film theater business in this territory is noted as a result of the 20 per cent war tax on theater tickets now in force in Canada. Principal reaction of the levy has been to keep filmgoers residing on the U. S. side of the border from crossing over into Canada for their entertainment because of the saving on tickets which was made possible by the 10 per cent difference in U. S. and Canadian currency.

American residents no longer find it feasible to patronize the Canadian houses which exact from patrons an admission charge which includes both the Dominion tax and the provincial amusement tax, the latter imposed by Quebec.

Cuban Daily and Censors Tangle Over Soviet Films

Havana (By Air Mail)—Stories in two issues of THE FILM DAILY were used as arguments in a controversy between the local newspaper Hoy and the Cuban Film Censor Board.

The Hoy pointed out that the censors had banned Soviet pictures as the result of a news story in THE FILM DAILY to the effect that the ITOA had asked that the ban against axis pictures be extended to include Russian pictures on the grounds that they were used as instruments of propaganda

If that were the cause of the Cuban ban, the Hoy asserts, then the censor board should read THE FILM DAILY of July 2 which stated that the exhibitors who asked for the Soviet ban were reported to be rushing to book Russian product.

"York" At Advanced Prices, Warner Plan

will not be shown at any lower prices for the remainder of this year, at least.

(In New York at the week-end, it was reported that Warners may ask percentage terms approaching those which prevailed for GWTW).

"In all my 25 years in the film business," Sears commented, "I have never known a picture to arouse interest and catch on so fast, so widely and so solidly. I think this is due to its red-hot timeliness, the national admiration for Sergeant York and the brand of Americanism that he stands for, and likewise to the fact that its entertainment values have been pretty thoroughly broadcast through the papers, magazines and radio."

In New York, the only place where "Sergeant York" has opened to date, the picture has played to capacity at $2.20 top since its world premiere. Picture there has only a fair advance, but daily window sale early exhausts the pasteboards. On Aug. 11 it moves to a larger Broadway theater, the Hollywood.

It is understood that Warners already have some 300 contracts for "York."

Sears to Sound Keynote As Warner Parley Opens

Chicago — Warners annual sales parley opens at the Blackstone here today with Grad Sears, presiding, delivering the keynote address. Others slated for early talks are Carl Leserman and Charles Einfeld. Screenings will follow.

Atlantic City Opening Set for "Sergeant York"

Atlantic City — Harry Goldberg, advertising manager for Warner Bros. anticipated total of $900,000 in deposits were due the American companies within the next three months.

No official action to obtain this money has been started, but it is understood that the effect of the freezing order on Japanese credits will be awaited before an industry policy will be adopted.

The film companies are expected to point out to the Government that they have been waiting almost four years for their financial returns on their pictures in Japan and this revenue, when available, should be released.

A meeting of the foreign departmenth heads may be held later in the week to discuss the situation.

By exerting every effort toward longer engagements and better box office prices, Skouras said distributors could concentrate on the American market and make a profit there without worrying about the foreign field.

Skouras predicted that the new selling system will mean much closer co-operation between exhibitors and distributors through the more frequent contacts that will be necessary. He foresees a new era for the better of the industry, and pledged his full support to that end.

At the afternoon session of the initial day of the Blackstone Hotel meeting, Sears spoke on the greater need of executive ability in branch managers as a result of N. Y. consent decree requirements. He declared that Warners through the recent elimination of outposts and other intermediary channels of contact between home office and field had given new importance to branch heads and placed the company in position for constant and quick contact with the field.

Sears told the delegates to be prepared for handling as many as 250,000 contacts under the decree, compared to the 11,000 customarily closed in a season.

Lowell Calvert, representative for Frank Capra spoke to the delegates.

"Nothing But the Truth"

with Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard

(In Para.'s First 5-Block)

Paramount 90 Mins.

FAST AND GAG-LADEN COMEDY WITH THE POWER AND B. O. NAMES TO SCORE IN ALL SITUATIONS.

Back in '20 and '29, film versions of "Nothing But the Truth" appeared. But it's only splitting hairs to call the present opus a revival, because Producer Arthur Hornblow and Director Elliott Nugent have brought the story so up-to-date that it bears only a distant resemblance to its progenitors on the screen. This up-to-dateness is fundamentally to be credited to Don Hartman and Ken Englund, who penned the screenplay. The Hornblow-Nugent combo did the rest to set the stage.

The prime thing they did was to cast Bob Hope in the top role,—a deed which accounts largely for the picture's box office power and its sustained ability to exact salvos of belly-laughs. Indeed, where there's Hope there's Life,—if you'll pardon the twisting of the adage. Bob makes this his picture via a lilting, side-splitting performance, rendered to the tune of spicy situations and crisp, punchy, down-to-earth dialogue. It is geared to make any audience forget every care, real or imagined.

In addition to the irrepressible Mr. Hope, there is an able, enthusiastic cast, the femme luminary of which is the exotic Paulette Goddard, via whom another b.o. name is supplied to the marquee. This film should do strong biz in all situations as a result of its swirling comedy and intense tempo.

Its plot discloses a big business man's niece entrusting $10,000 to Hope, who wagers it with three commercial colleagues that he can go 24 hours without telling a lie. He does it, but with devastating consequences wherever he goes, shocking dowagers, dinner parties, and week-end guests aboard a luxurious houseboat. At the finale he wins not only the wager but the Goddard heart. Elliott Nugent's direction is expert, as is Charles Lang's photography. Helen Vinson is swell as "the other woman" in the action.

be given such status without going through the regular officers' training course.

Until recently Kanin was a top-Hollywood director. Then he was drafted and is now serving as a private. It is said that his services are urgently needed for directing training films, but he can't be used in that capacity as a private, and under the ruling by the Secretary of War he can't become an officer without being specially selected for officers' training on the basis of leadership, ability and other qualifications, and then going through the officer's course.

A number of other Hollywood technicians whose services are needed for making training films are in similar situations.

The ex-Hollywooders can't be given director's jobs while they are serving as private because they wouldn't have the proper authority over their crews, and because of other conflicts which inevitably arise because of rank.

☆ ☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆ ☆

"Here Comes Mr. Jordan"

with Robert Montgomery, Claude Raines, Evelyn Keyes
Columbia 93 Mins.

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

EXCEPTIONAL PICTURE WITH APPEAL TO YOUNG AND OLD SHOULD RATE WITH THE BETTER GROSSERS OF THE SEASON.

Chalk this one down as an exceptional picture, a picture that will be widely discussed, a picture that will catch the fancy of both young and old, and, as a result, a picture that should rank with the better grossers of the season.

Producer Everett Riskin, noted for his successes in the field of comedy, had no cinch with this property which might easily have backfired with an inexperienced hand at the helm. But Riskin's talent and knowledge has placed this finished product very near the peak of perfection in film making.

A delicate subject, dealing in metaphysics, life after death, portraying the Maker and Heaven, "Mr. Jordan" nevertheless has more bellylaughs, more human drama, more downright solid entertainment in its ninety-three minutes than you'll find in a dozen ordinary "A" pictures. And despite the alarming proximity of tender toes, no one gets hurt. On the contrary, religious groups might well sponsor showings of this "human" look into the future.

Robert Montgomery's superb performance of the lost soul was only slightly overshadowed, according to the spontaneous vote of the preview audience, by the characterization of his manager as done by James Gleason. Claude Rains, Edward Evertt Horton, Rita Johnson, John Emery and Donald MacBride upheld the standard set and give sterling accounts of themselves. Evelyn Keyes, deserves a separate notice for her work. With beauty, presence and real thespic ability, she should go far from here on.

Megger Alexander Hall's direction from Sidney Buchman and Seton I. Miller's adaptation of the play "Heaven Can Wait" by Harry Segall, is smooth, thoughful and lacks nothing. Joseph Walker's lensing is at times breathtaking.

Robert Montgomery, a prize fighter, is flying to New York, alone, in an airplane. A line breaks and he is suddenly sent plummeting to earth and a crash that demolishes the plane.

He is next seen in "heaven" accompanying "messenger" Edward Horton to meet "Mr. Jordan" (Claude Rains). A check of the "expected" list shows that there has been some mistake. Montgomery has another fifty years before he can be accepted. Horton admits he was a little anxious and snatched Montgomery's soul before the plane hit the earth—so the only thing to do is to return it to his body. Back to earth Montgomery is horrified to discover that he has been cremated and a search begins to find him another body in which to continue his life.

The plot thickens and gets so complicated that you find yourself actually believing everything that happens from then on, until in the final scene Montgomery, in another body, finds the girl he loves and begins with her that fifty year stretch.

There is enough laughter here for the rabid comedy fan and plenty for the thinker. It's a cinch for young and old.

"Down in San Diego"

with Bonita Granville, Ray McDonald, Dan Dailey, Jr.
M-G-M 70 Mins.

(In M-G-M's First Block)

MINOR EFFORT BUT WITH ENOUGH ACTION TO MAKE SATISFACTORY PROGRAM PICTURE.

Metro trots out its juvenile troupe and the results exceed the material. A minor and routine treatment of an espionage story is given a refreshing lift by the collective performances of a group of youngsters headed by Bonita Granville, Dorothy Morris, Ray McDonald and Leo Gorcey.

Screenwriters Harry Clork and Franz G. Spencer have been fairly successful in fashioning some rapid-fire dialogue in the modern jargon which the youngsters click off for some solid laughs. Pert Miss Morris shares top honors with Miss Granville while the male members of the troupe uniformly handle their roles in a workmanlike manner.

The plot revolves around Al Haines, brother of Miss Granville who attempts to break away from his gangster friends by joining the U. S. Marines. He is framed by the mob and forced to act as a dupe for a foreign spy outfit. The kids come to Haines's rescue without the latter's knowledge and help uncover the spies by some snappy sleuthing.

Stephenson Dies on Coast

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — James Stephenson, 52, English screen character actor, died yesterday of a heart attack at his Santa Monica home.

"Henry Aldrich for President" with James Lydon, Charles Smith, June Preisser, Mary Anderson

Paramount 75 Mins.

(In Para.'s First 5-Block)

GOOD FAMILY-AUDIENCE COMEDY, WITH LOTS OF LAUGHS AND YOUTHFUL ZIP, PLUS HUMAN INTEREST.

In Paramount's first block-of-five for the new season, "Henry Aldrich for President" is the candidate for family entertainment, carrying as it does a goodly degree of appeal for adults, and particularly so for the up-and-coming generation. The footage bubbles over with the modern manifestations of youth,—pep, humor, and human interest.

James Lydon, the angular and rather typical boy whom anyone is likely to find in a cross-section of current high school material, has the title role, which he plays well and understandingly. His sidekick is Charles Smith, whose screenplay function, aside from being able to wiggle an ear much to the delight of his classmates (and the audience), is to get pal James into devious scrapes and then aid in getting him out of them. Blonde June Preisser makes an attractive, incipient vamp, whose ambition and womanly ways are sufficiently developed to go a long way toward shattering, betimes, the romance 'twixt Mary Anderson and young Mr. Lydon.

The character, Henry Aldrich, is so widely known, and solidly established, that this picture has a pre-sold fan following. Its biggest asset beyond that is that it is a comedy with lots of clean laughs. The villian of the piece is Kenneth Howell (as Irwin Barrett), and a good heavy he is. He looks like a sure winner in the class's presidential election, but to make sure he can split the opposition vote and ride in, hands down.

June Preisser gets Lydon to agree to run, and Jimmy does, and gets elected. But there's a helluva scandal attached to the election, but this is cleared up at the finale, with Howell in full disgrace. The said finale is uproariously funny, witnessing Lydon piloting a plane whose passenger is the itinerant printer whom Howell has employed to turn out fake election ballots. Hugh Bennett's direction is skillful, and reflects how well he knows the psychology of today's young bloods. "Henry Aldrich for President" is not a big picture, but it has a good wholesome wallop. John Mescall's photography is capable.

CREDITS: Producer, Sol C. Siegel; Associate Producer, Joseph Sistrom; Director, Hugh Bennett; Original Screenplay, Val Burton (a sequel to the Clifford Goldsmith Henry Aldrich stories); Sound Mixer, George Dutton; Film Editor, Thomas Neff; Art Directors, Hans Dreier, Franz Bachelin; Cameraman, John Mescall.

"New York Town"

with Fred MacMurray, Mary Martin
Paramount 94 Mins.

(In Para.'s First 5-Block)

FROTHY, PLEASANT ROMANCE FORTIFIED WITH AMUSING SITUATIONS. SHOULD DO WELL IN MOST STANDS.

Romance is the keynote here,—Producer Anthony Veiller aiming at audience heartstrings, and scoring a fairly direct hit with the well-tried Cinderella theme. Audiences of all types should like the story, and the performances of the two stars who dominate the action. There is a big helping of New York atmosphere in the footage, and this will serve additionally to satisfy the fan appetite.

Fred MacMurray is cast as the "flagstone photog," who snaps pedestrians along the city's sidewalks for a living,—and that's just about all. Sharing his fortunes is Akim Tamiroff, a Polish professor of art who is seeking American citizenship. Partner Tamiroff's function in the "enterprise" he shares with MacMurray is to take the latter's photographs of celebs-on-the-hoof and make oil paintings, which are then offered for sale to the pride-filled subjects themselves.

While pounding the pavements with his camera, MacMurray meets a Vermont girl who is broke, and with no immediate prospects of conquering New York. He befriends her, giving her lodging under his and Tamiroff's roof. The befriended Mary Martin falls in love with her snapshot benefactor, but the latter has been preaching to her that she should marry a man of wealth.

In desperation, the eye-filling Miss Martin sets her cap for a young millionaire (Robert Preston) who proposes to her. Then, "seeing the light," MacMurray goes to his rival's pretentious mansion, and, with only the justification of a screenplay, lets go at him with haymakers, although he himself has picked his victim to be La Martin's hubby. Aside from the incongruities of the piece, there is considerable entertainment, studded here and there with pathos and counter-balancing laughs.

While, in a number of respects, the plot is something you've seen before, it must be set down that the yarn is ingeniously told from the standpoint of technique and plot structure. The attraction has enough on the ball to provide an hour and a half's diversion for most filmgoers. Leads and the cast generally are competent, as is Charles Vidor's direction. Naturally, at the finale, Fred and Mary face the future together. Charles Schoenbaum's photography is effective throughout.

CAST: Fred MacMurray, Mary Martin, Robert Preston, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, Eric Blore, Fuzzy Knight, Cecil Kellaway, Olive Prickett, Ken Carpenter, Iris Adrian, Edward McNamara, Sam McDaniel, Grace Hayle, Chester Clute, Linda Gage, Frances Marion, George Meader, Marshall Ruth, Margaret Hays, Marjorie Dean, Lilyan Irene, Jack Rice, Monte Blue.

"For our part," Sears declared, "we intend to exert our greatest efforts and invest the largest sums to date in turning out good pictures. Further than that, our advertising and publicity departments, headed by Charles Einfeld, Mort Blumenstock and Bob Taplinger, are going to help the exhibitor as never before by their elaborate plans to create public interest in, and a demand for, our pictures. If that doesn't help exhibitors to greater prosperity than ever, nothing will."

☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆

"Hold That Ghost"

with Abbott and Costello

Universal 86 Mins.

SURE-FIRE RIOTOUS COMEDY IS CINCH TO PLEASE AND SHOULD RING THE BOX-OFFICE BELL.

Following the formula of the former A & C hits, with the sure-fire locale of a haunted tavern, and a rapid succession of those old-new burlesque routines, "Hold That Ghost" is a cinch to please all those theater patrons who have become rabid A & C fans in the past few months.

Lou Costello has never been funnier. At times his comedy is so fast that lines of dialogue are ignored and the audience roars at the pantomime he uses with his lines.

A plausible story, with Richard Carlson, Joan Davis and Evelyn Ankers to give it the "straight" touch, and probably more mechanical contrivances than have been used in a half-dozen chillers, is a perfect vehicle for the boys.

Ted Lewis and his band and The Andrews Sisters, who do a couple of routines at the beginning and the end of the film, should add considerably to the box-office draw of this.

Producers Burt Kelly and Glenn Tryon, with Megger Arthur Lubin at the throttle, have plenty of production here. Robert Lees and Fred Rinaldo's original and screenplay is topnotch material for the funny men.

A couple of service station attendants (Abbott and Costello) are trapped in a speeding automobile when the police chase a gangster. He is killed, and according to the terms of his will, the person or persons with him when he dies inherits his estate.

So the boys find themselves sole owners of a broken down tavern in a lonely part of the state. Richard Carlson, Joan Davis and Evelyn Ankers, are riding in the bus to the tavern when the driver dumps them all at the tavern door and runs off with their luggage.

The haunted house routine starts from there, and, while a group of gangsters, searching for the former owner's hidden wealth, play ghosts to Abbott and Costello's scared victims, everything happens.

However in the end everybody is happy. The boys own a night club with Ted Lewis and The Andrews Sisters working for them.

"Hold That Ghost," because it has everything that the former team's pictures has, should ring the bell as lucratively as did the others in the series.

"Father Steps Out" with Frank Albertson, Jed Prouty and Lorna Gray

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

Monogram 63 Mins.

FAIR PICTURE; WILL PROVE SATISFACTORY ENTERTAINMENT FOR LOWER HALF OF TWIN BILLINGS.

"Father Steps Out" but at a pace that barely manages to sustain interest, despite the neat framework of the story. Underpaced, the picture still contains a chuckle or two that will cause it to pass muster in the lower brackets.

Faced with too much doctoring, a henpecking sister, numerous newspaper reporters who are digging for the facts of his stock manipulation that give him control of a competitive railroad, Father (Jed Prouty) leaves in his private railroad car for a vacation. One of the reporters (Frank Albertson) goes along under the guise of a doctor. During the trip, Father is lost from the train. Taking up with two hobos Father soon finds renewed interest in life, food, and a new vigor. Meanwhile his vanquished competitors manipulate the stocks so that Prouty is about to be sold out by the bank. Reporter Albertson steps in in time to find Father and return him to save all, and earn the final fadeout with Father's daughter, Helen (Lorna Gray).

Produced by Lindsley Parsons, with William T. Lackey acting as associate producer, production values were of fine caliber for the low budget field, with main slack due to either Joseph West's original screenplay or Jean Yarbrough's direction. Neither, however, can be held faulty to the extent of the displeasure of audiences but, perhaps, with the failure to take full advantage of a possible real "pleaser" in its intended class.

Fine bits were portrayed by Gene O'Donnell, John Dilson, Frank Faylen, Tristram Coffin, Charles Hall, John Maxwell, with Kathryn Sheldon performing ably as the henpecking sister.

Mack Stengler's photography showed to fine advantage.

CAST: Frank Albertson, Jed Prouty, Lorna Gray, Frank Faylen, John Dilson, Kathryn Sheldon, Charles Hall, John Maxwell, Mary Field, Tristram Coffin, Paul Maxey, Gene O'Donnell.

"Wide Open Town"

with William Boyd, Russell Hayden, Andy Clyde, Evelyn Brent

Paramount-Sherman 77½ Mins.

GOOD CLEAN ACTION ENTERTAINMENT WITH LOTS OF COMEDY RATES SPOT ON ANY BILL.

In "Wide Open Town," Producer Harry Sherman sticks pretty close to the solid Western formula of good clean action entertainment. There is no love interest, the villains all pay the price for their wrongdoings and right prevails in the end.

Mr. Sherman's record for making the best westerns that can be made at any price doesn't suffer with this one. It was photographed at the base of Mount Whitney in a setting of rare scenic beauty. That photographic splendor and the musical accompaniment has made these Boyd pictures stand out in their class.

The trio of adventurers, Boyd, Hayden and Clyde continue to be the same sure-fire personalities they have played in the entire series and they are well supported in this by Evelyn Brent, who doesn't show a single reason why she has been kept from the screen for so long. A newcomer, Bernice Kay, displays real promise with her role of the publisher's daughter.

On the trail of some cattle thieves, Boyd, Hayden and Clyde come into the town of Gunsight just in time to rescue Morris Ankrum from a beating at the hands of Victor Jory and his hoodlums. Because the town is lawless, run by saloon-keeper Evelyn Brent, Boyd accepts the job of temporary sheriff to clean it up.

With the help of some of the town's better citizens he traps or kills the badmen one after one until in the last reel he wipes them all out in a "clean-up" gun fight.

Miss Brent reforms and saves little Miss Kay from the vengeance of Jory—but she too goes to jail, with the promise of help from the town's best citizens.

There is plenty of action in this and lots of comedy. As usual with a Sherman Western it can play on any bill.

CAST: William Boyd, Russell Hayden, Andy Clyde, Evelyn Brent, Victor Jory, Morris Ankrum, Kenneth Harlan, Bernice Kay, Roy Bancroft, Glenn Strange, Ed Cassidy, Jack Rockwell.

Aunt" and "Sun Valley Serenade" the company is instructing its salesmen to get in any situation the best terms received on its No. 1 picture in either of the three preceding seasons.

In spots where, due to economic developments the situation has changed for the better, salesmen are being asked to get either increased terms plus a split when the gross has reached an amount through which the exhib. has earned 50 per cent of the film rental paid the company, or improved percentages from the first dollar.

Twentieth-Fox is placing equal emphasis on playtime for its top bracket pix, with salesmen instructed to line up the best houses for the greatest number of days and with provisions for "proper" advertising support. As previously published, the company will plunge on co-op campaigns in 165 key cities for some 30 pix next season.

Salesmen are being reminded that when unable to sell the full block of five to exhibs., re-pricing is permissible, and that the company expects increased terms from an account using only a selection of 1941-42 pictures.

Instructions to the sales force also warn against sale of features with absolute playdates where it may result in delivering product to relatively unimportant houses prior to the making of a sale to more important houses.

Company's distribution department is convinced that exhibs. generally are going to await its outcome of the first-runs before making deals under the new consent decree setup, making the selection of first-run customers, plus proper advertising and exploitation, of the utmost importance if product is to fully payoff.

One bad booking, the sales force has been warned, may cost 20th-Fox several hundred thousand dollars.

protect the gains already made and to assure the desired amendments.

Myers asserts that the nine-cent exemption, as provided in the bill, is "arbitrary and will result in price cutting," adding that already five-cent admissions are springing up among the drive-ins.

Allied polled its directors when the Ways and Means Committee first began consideration of the revenue bill in order to formulate a program. A majority favored the following proposals which were presented to the committee by Myers: Defeat of the Treasury Department's proposal to place a 5 per cent tax on film rentals, recommendation that the admission tax apply to all adult admissions regardless of the amount, repeal of the exemptions in favor of shows given for the benefit of religious, charitable and civic improvement organizations, etc., exemption of children's 10-cent admissions and, if Congress so wishes, the admissions of men in uniform and imposition of a tax on competing enterprises.

Defer Action On Measure To Exempt Soldiers from Tax

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Since it is one of the most popular provisions in the new Revenue Bill, the Ways and Means Committee has decided to defer action on a separate bill to exempt men in service uniforms from admissions taxes, it was learned yesterday. Rep. Gene Cox of Georgia recently introduced a bill to make the exemption for service men effective immediately, rather than wait for passage of the revenue measure which may require some weeks.

The Committee has no objection to making the exemption immediately effective, but on talking the matter over they decided that there is much opposition to certian unpopular features of the measure they had better not set a precedent by passing on popular features by separate vote.

Swiss Army Command Puts Ban on Import Statistics

Geneva (By Air Mail)—For reasons not disclosed, the Swiss Army Command has banned the publication of film imports, the order retroactive to Jan. 1.

U. S. imports in 1940 represented 452 titles, including 179 features; total approximated 38.9 per cent of all imported titles. Germany was second with 27 per cent, France third with 14.3 per cent and Britain fourth with 12.9 per cent.

Temporary shortage of American features, due to transportation difficulties, failed to materially affect the position of U. S. distribs. in the Swiss market. Latter, however, face threat of greater opposition in French-speaking Switzerland from the newly organized Continental studios in France.

Controlled by UFA and Tobis, the latter will dub Nazi product in French for export to Switzerland.

U. S. product shown here are the originals with French and German sub-titles.

in Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina are headquarters for the handling of Nazi and Nipponese government papers. German material destined for Japan, it was said, is flown to Buenos Aires, Santiago and Montevideo encased in cans usually identified with motion picture films and bearing the bold stamp "UFA."

The cans, it was said by "Confidentially Yours," are taken in charge by Japanese "film exchange" officials and are rushed to some port on the west coast of South America where they are placed aboard Japan-bound steamers. Some of the cans, it was said, clear Latin America through ports in Panama. The system works the same way in reverse.

The President echoed Senator McKellar's thought that the pic "ought to be shown in every theater throughout the land."

☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆

"Buy Me That Town"

with Lloyd Nolan, Constance Moore

Paramount 70 Mins.

(In Para.'s First 5-Block)

GOOD GANGLAND COMEDY WITH FRESH STORY ANGLE. ACTION, LAUGHS, AND ROMANCE GIVE IT SOUND FAN APPEAL.

Comedy is the long suit in Paramount's initial block-of-five, much of it arising from this film whose story strikes a fresh note of originality, as it pokes a lot of fun and satire at racketeers, at the same time unfolding actionful drama and a much more appealing thread of romance than is usually found in attractions of this type.

In stature, the film is not big, but it is diverting, and will please most picturegoers, especially those bent on getting relief from the cares of day for the price of an admish ticket.

Harry A. Gourfain, Murray Boltinoff and Martin Rackin penned the original,—and it is original. It recounts the shift in leadership of a New York gang, the top man being caught in the draft. His successor, to whom the henchmen vow fealty, is Lloyd Nolan. He and his lieutenant are pinched in a small burg and given a stiff fine on the ground that the town is unincorporated and therefore privately governed, but insolvent.

Nolan, perceiving how readily and profitably the community can be exploited by professional racketeers, rather than by its present incumbents, buys it. It becomes a rendezvous for big businessmen anxious to get out of scrapes and impressments of one kind or another. Back to the scene comes the former gang leader, whose machinations to get control are thwarted at the climax.

Nolan is steered to the straight-and-narrow by pretty Constance Moore, niece of the town's magistrate. The dialogue and situations get solid laughs as does the character acting of a bevy of hard guys in the cast. Eugene Forde's direction is nifty, and the photography by Theodor Sparkuhl ditto. Players are well-chosen. Theatermen who want a laugh-getting comedy, "Buy Me That Town" will fill the bill.

"Hold Back the Dawn" with Charles Boyer, Olivia de Havilland, Paulette Goddard

Paramount 115 Mins.

(In Para.'s First 5-Block)

FINELY CONCEIVED LOVE STORY WITH STRONG FEMININE APPEAL WHICH SHOULD REGISTER EFFECTIVELY.

It has been a long time since a love story of such tenderness and poignancy has been brought to the screen. Embellished with such names as Charles Boyer, Olivia de Havilland and Paulette Goddard, Director Mitchell Leisen has served up a drama that should command respectful attention in most spots.

The film bears the stamp of Leisen's skilled directorial talents. He departs from the accepted in getting the film off to a start which will catch the audience's interest immediately. Leisen plays himself as a refugee, Boyer, hounded by the immigration authorities comes to him for $500 for which he will tell Leisen an unusual story. And Boyer relates a startling tale. During the film, Director Leisen uses Boyer's off-screen voice with effect to link the continuity.

There are many emotional moments of high dramatic value. Miss de Havilland is largely responsible. She gives her role of the school teacher who marries Boyer a sympathetic fullness and meaning that surpasses anything she has done on the screen.

Boyer is a European dancer who had a way with wealthy women. Forced to wait in a Mexican border town for many years in order to reach his immigration quota, Boyer decides to marry an American tourist in order to become an American citizen. Idea is supplied by Miss Goddard, his former dancing partner in Europe who is still in love with him.

Through some slick conniving, Boyer quickly wins Miss de Havilland. He takes her on a honeymoon through Mexico to escape the prying of an immigration official, Walter Abel. The honeymoon sequences are among the finest in the film. Later Miss Goddard divulges the truth to Boyer's wife in a blunt manner. But after Miss de Havilland leaves and cracks up in an auto accident, Boyer realizes he loves her. He breaks through the immigration fence to get to her side and there is a happy ending.

Other highlights of the film are the sequences dealing with the refugees waiting for entrance. Casting is of high order with fine bits contributed by Victor Francen, Rosemary DeCamp, Curt Bois, Mikhail Rasumny and Nestor Paiva. As the friendly official, Abel is a happy choice.

Film, however, has a tendency to lag in spots and could stand some judicious clipping.

CAST: Charles Boyer, Olivia de Havilland, Paulette Goddard, Victor Francen, Walter Abel, Rosemary DeCamp, Curt Bois, Mikhail Rasumny, Nestor Paiva, Eva Puig, Billy Lee, Michelaine Cheirel, Madeleine LeBeau, Eric Feldary, John Holland, Sonny Boy Williams, Edward Fielding, Gertrude Astor, Don Douglas, Chester Clute, Jesus Topete, Tony Roux, Francisco Moran, Carlos Villarias, Arthur Loft, June Pickrell, Buddy Messinger, George Anderson, Pauline Wagner.

"New Wine"

with Ilona Massey, Alan Curtis, Binnie
Barnes, Albert Basserman, Billy Gilbert

UA-Gloria Pictures 84 Mins.

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

ROMANTIC STORY OF FRANZ SCHUBERT IS RIGHT DOWN THE MUSIC LOVERS ALLEY.

Previewed in the Padre Vineyard's Co.'s huge wine cellar in Cuamonga, Calif., the last of Hollywood's fabulous gala previews, Gloria Picture's "New Wine" bids fair to recapture the popularity of that period success "The Great Waltz."

It is and it isn't a costume picture, cleverly handled. There is a love story in our time and in the days of the early 1800's.

Alan Curtis, Ilona Massey and Billy Gilbert give superb performances, respectively, as Schubert, his sweetheart, and the faithful retainer who carries the master through the lean days.

This film depicts only a short period in the early life of Franz Schubert, but it captures that which music lovers the world over will want to see—the Schubert of early days who fought for recognition because a woman believed in him.

William Sekely's production is excellent and Richard Schunzel has done a great, delicate job of direction of the life of the struggling musician. Cleverness and sympathy is evident in the screen play by Howard Estabrook and Nicholas Jory.

Franz Schubert, (Alan Curtis) a struggling composer, is teaching music instead of mathematics in a Vienna school. He is discharged, and rather than serve in a mercenary army, he flees to Italy. He meets Ilona Massey who believes in him and fosters his career. She takes him back to Vienna and drives him to work until he is recognized by the musical masters of his day.

With recognition comes sorrow, for to save him for his music, Ilona leaves him and in her honor he creates the immortal Schubert "Ave Maria."

For music lovers, and there are millions of them, this is a great picture. Arthur Guttman's musical direction is excellent and adds much enjoyment to the film.

It's not a general audience film but it will please adults who appreciate art in their entertainment.

CAST: Ilona Massey, Alan Curtis, Binnie Barnes, Albert Basserman, Billy Gilbert, Sterling Holloway, Richard Carle, John Qualen, Barnett Parker, Sig Arno, Gilbert Emery, Marion Martin, Forrest Tucker, George O'Hanlon, Maynard Holmes, Erno Verebes, Paul Sutton, Lou Merrill, Ann Stewart, Kenneth Ferrill, Lane Allen, Patricia Farr and the St. Luke's Choristers.

Files Produced at Crescent Reopening

counsel, had stated that the extent of defendant's holdings "are pertinent to our case," Judge Davies commented that "in the absence of a definite conspiracy, the main question appears to be whether it is a violation of the Sherman act for distributors to try to sell to larger customers to the detriment of smaller purchasers."

Since Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the attorney general, and associates have contended that there is definite conspiracy, or conspiracies, involved, the admonition of the court was well received by defense counsel.

For the first time in the hearing Tony Sudekum, president of Crescent Amusement Co., was placed on the stand to testify that he had complied with the subpoenas duces tecum in producing records, etc., of Crescent Amusement Co., Nu-Strand Amusement Co., and Lyric Amusement Co. On cross-examination by George H. Armistead, Jr., chief defense counsel, Sudekum stated that a force of 26 people had worked since Saturday morning in getting together the matter called for.

G. W. Haynes, of Memphis, president of Strand Enterprises, Inc., operator of theaters in Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee as one of the larger Crescent affiliates and a party to the suit, was called to the stand and questioned by Wright. Taking up correspondence, etc., of the Strand corporation, produced by Haynes under the subpoena, certain answers to Government interrogatories concerning official relations of Sudekum, Stengel, and Baulch to defendant corporations were read into the court records. This included records of financial holdings of each defendant principal in Crescent and affiliates and records of loans by Sudekum and Stengel, to Rockwood Amusement Co., and payments on same. Records of all loans are considered very pertinent to the Government's suit since Sudekum claims to hold not more than 50 per cent interest in any one of the affiliates.

Haynes testified that in 1935 he sold one-half interest of his theaters to Sudekum for $12,500, but declared that he continued to buy all of his pictures and made all contracts without interference by any of the defendants. He stated that Strand Enterprises, now has competition in Lexington, Philadelphia and Durant, Miss., and Lepanto, Ark. Another theater in his chain will be opened in Durant August 5. He described the competition in these towns as keen at the present, but denied that distributors of pictures or himself, as an exhibitor, were doing anything unfair to independent competitors.

meager experience to date, but he directed his criticisms to (a) the "inadequacies of the provisions of the decree imposing qualifications on the right to arbitrate and limiting the powers of arbitrators to make effective awards, and (b) to the policy of the distributors ganging up on the exhibitors with a multiplicity of lawyers experienced in the motion picture business and in relying on technicalities instead of permitting cases to be considered wholly on their merits."

Says AAA Has Done Good Job

The American Arbitration Association, Myers declared, appears to have done a good job in setting up the system. He said he was not familiar with the panels in other cities. but the Washington panel, he added, is a roster of the leading business and professional men in the city. There is no reason, he asserted, to believe this is not true of the other panels in other cities.

Myers contended that the system has been given a black eye "by the insistence of the distributors on separate representation in all cases and the insistence of their counsel in injecting all manner of technicalities into the proceedngs." This, he said, results in five or six lawyers on one side opposed to a single, often inexperienced lawyer representing the complaining exhibitor.

The tactics of the distributors, Myers said, were well rebuked by a Washington arbitrator who said, "Splitting hairs over legal technicalities will defeat the purpose of the arbitration agreement."

Ken Decision Disappointed

The decision of the appeal board in the Ken Theater case was a great disappointment, Myers said, in that "it knocked out arbitration in Chicago so far as clearance cases are concerned." Notwithstanding the defeat of otherwise meritorious cases by technical rulings, Myers expressed the opinion that arbitration of clearance disputes has been in the main satisfactory. Awards in several cases should encourage exhibitors who are subjected to unreasonable clearance by the large circuits to file arbitration complaints, he added.

Continuing, Myers said:

"Numerous complaints, especially complaints that a distributor has refused to sell on 'some run' have been settled. It is fair to say this would not have happened if a remedy by arbitration has not been provided. These amicable adjustments should be taken into account in measuring the worth of this system.

"The value of arbitration under Sections IV, V, VII, IX and X remains to be determined inasmuch as they have not yet been put to the test. As pointed out by Allied on numerous occasions, Section X is so hedged about by technicalities and arbitrary terms and conditions that it can not possibly reach the real evil at which it was supposedly aimed and it is unlikely that it will benefit many exhibitors."

Branch Raps Small Tradeshow Turnout

that exhibitors have been complaining for years about having to buy pictures by number without having any knowledge of what was being offered. Now, he stated, the "cat is out of the bag" and the age-old complaint is being answered.

Ponting out that the distributors were arranging the tradeshows in a manner that should be favorable to exhibitors, Branch pointedly asked, "What are you doing about it?" At one screening, he said he counted four exhibitors besides himself.

"Maybe you are willing to take somebody else's word on pictures," Branch said. "My guess is this practice will soon be changed and the court will decide that you were not so interested in seeing what you were buying. Needless expense and hardships upon parties to the decree will not be tolerated long."

Branch urged larger attendance and to encourage distributors to continue if it proves practical. In conclusion he said, "Exhibitors protested for years that we were buying a cat in a bag. Now we are telling the world this is not what we wanted at all."

Inconvenience Cutting Exhib. Turnout—N. J. Allied

Reports that exhibitors were indifferent to the recently inaugurated tradeshows and that they were not interested in them were challenged by Allied of New Jersey at a meeting this week.

Lack of interest, they said, was due more to the inconvenience caused by the present system of screenings. This especially applies to the large majority of independent exhibitors who have to manage their own theaters, it was said. Members voiced the opinion that the best system would be to show the same picture mornings and afternoons, thereby accommodating the majority.

termed as "in production or slated for early filming" and as many more described as "other properties acquired" for the new season.

He said the actual number to be released might be as high as 50 or as low as 40. "We aren't going to worry any more about the number of pictures. We are just going to concentrate on making the best pictures that can be made and then sell them for all they are worth," Sears stated, and "We think this policy is best for exhibitors as well as for Warners."

Of the 38, only 17 are originals. Additionally, said Sears, the company has "at least" 20 other properties under consideration.

In the first group of 18 titles outlined by Sears, there are ten originals, four plays and six best sellers, while the second group of titles embraces seven originals, three plays and eight best sellers.

Fidler Charge Film Admissions Too High Brings Return Fire from Alex Schreiber

Detroit—Jimmie Fidler's assertion in his syndicated Hollywood column that film theater admission prices are too high for the average American earning $125 a month drew return fire here from Alex Schreiber of the Associated Theaters Circuit.

Pointing out that moviegoers in that income class chiefly patronize nabe theaters, Schreiber asserted that such houses were providing a three and a half hour show at 15 to 25 cents.

"Consider competing amusement prices," Schreiber said: "These same people spend 10 or 15 cents for a ride in an amusement park lasting 60 to 150 seconds. They go to beer gardens and spend 15 to 50 cents door charge to go in to see vaudeville in fire traps."

WB Merchandising Methods Outlined by Charles Einfeld

Chicago—An outline of the new merchandising methods for selling Warners' new season product, by S. Charles Einfeld, director of advertising and publicity, featured yesterday afternoon's session of the Warner convention. Introduced by Gradwell L. Sears, Einfeld outlined plans for future exploitation of "Sergeant York" in addition to the accomplishments already achieved in New York and predicted a new era that will make advertising history as well as show business history.

A principal activity of the new plan is the policy credited by Einfeld to Carl Lesserman, assistant general sales manager, of an extensive campaign to sell the public on all pictures.

As a starter space will be taken on "York" in newspapers of 100 key cities embracing 40,000,000 readers and in several big national magazines. Picture will be given individual handling in all these situations via a special unit under Mort Blumenstock. Frank Seltzer heads the unit.

Test engagements will be employed on all pictures to determine the best methods of selling and basic fundamental selling and widespread advance stimulation will precede every release, Einfeld stated.

Selling plans for "Sergeant York" will be announced today. Advance reports indicate that the terms will be lower than expected and will give exhibitors a "50-50 break."

Tradeshowings Upon Exhibitor Request to be Warner Policy

Chicago—Tradeshowings of films at the convenience of the exhibitor, in addition to the legal screenings required under consent decree, will be part of the future Warners policy, it was announced yesterday by Grad Sears.

Commenting on the slim attendance reported at tradeshowings by other companies to date, Sears said:

"With five major companies regularly tradeshowing pictures, the exhibitor must choose between neglecting his business to attend screenings or passing up the screenings. For our part, we don't want him to neglect either, and we do want him to see our pictures before he buys, so we are going to make things as easy as possible for exhibtiors by showing him our product any time it is convenient for him to see it. All he has to do is call or write any of our branch managers and private showings will be arranged to suit him."

Seven RKO Theaters To Play Stage Shows the Fall. They are in Cleveland, Boston, San Francisco, Cincinnati and Dayton.

Koerner said he found business conditions better than had been painted, asserting that the so-called slump in many spots had been exaggerated. A policy of keeping pictures for longer runs will be tried shortly. He said that houses which usually played a program three or four days would hold the pictures for a week, backed by strong advertising and campaigns.

Koerner was optimistic over the plan to present "Life With Father" in several RKO houses, declaring that every engagement would be a sellout. Success of the venture will be the signal for other Broadway hit plays to be offered in the RKO theaters.

Chances for the elimination of double features are slim, Koerner said. All efforts to drop them where they are established policies have been failures, he declared.

Koerner said that RKO's business for the first 26 weeks of this year was ahead of the corresponding period last year.

Picture-Hungry Europe Is Going to Film Theaters

people apparently are picture-hungry and attend theaters whenever possible.

Paramount is continuing to do business in Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, Hungary, Sweden, Egypt, Palestine and a few other places although operations are difficult. Lange said. Travel is almost an impossibility and food, except in Portugal, is scarce and not good.

Some production is being attempted in France, Lange said, but progress is hampered by the scarcity of raw stock, a condition which eliminates dubbing even if pictures could be sent to occupied countries.

Lange is here for conferences with John W. Hicks, head of the foreign department, and to visit his family in Philadelphia.

13 More Film Experts Now In 20th Signal Service Co.

The Army's complement of film experts grew larger last week with the transfer of 13 more men into the 20th Signal Service Co. at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Since Aug. 30, 1934, the mortgage balance of $32,353 on the Uptown has been paid off, and arrears of preferred dividend amounting to $36.75 per share have been met, leaving a balance of $3.50 per share currently in arrears.

Eastman Little Affected By Japanese Export Ban

Rochester—Because Japan for the last two years has imposed strict limitation on many items imported from the U. It was explained that "practically nothing" has been exported to Japan in the film line, although the Kodak Company maintains in Tokyo one of its many film processing stations. How that will be affected was not known immediately.

bill reported, only Committee amendments will be considered, and so great is the anxiety of the Committee to get the bill through as soon as possible it is expected to offer only such amendments as are considered essential.

In the Senate though it will be a different story, and it is there that Allied officials are banking upon getting their plan written into the new law. Senate hearings are tentatively scheduled to commence Aug. 4, but may not commence until after that date.

The Ways and Means Committee has been furnished language of the amendment desired by Allied, but yesterday had taken no action and Committee officials predicted unofficially that no action would be taken by that body. Allied will be permitted to speak its piece before the Senate Committee when that body gets the bill.

Allied wants to tax the first cent of admissions to halt price-cutting, with an exemption on ten cent admissions for children.

It was explained that "practically nothing" has been exported to Japan in the film line, although the Kodak Company maintains in Tokyo one of its many film processing stations. How that will be affected was not known immediately.

27,927 16mm Outlets Reported in U. S.

Chicago—A total of 27,927 schools, CCC camps, and other institutions are now showing 16 mm. pictures on two or more programs a month, it is reported by Jack Friedman of Monarch Film Service. Friedman asserts that the demand for all kinds of 16 mm. subjects is taxing the producers to supply the required number of films.

The Chicago school system alone is supplying prints to 700 projectors, according to J. E. Dickman, who has succeeded Gerald Bench as director of film activities. All Chicago high schools are equipped with sound projection equipment as are 150 of the 338 elementary schools. Balance of the lower grade schools have silent projectors and sound equipment is being ordered for all of them, he said.

Number of sound prints in the school library has reached 2,000 titles with more being added each month. Dickman voiced a preference for more color in films and said that black and white slides in the school system are being replaced with natural color material. He said the schools are showing more vocational films than ever before, and are looking for more vocationals, in an effort to aid the National Defense program.

Kuykendall Says New Arbitration Setup Has Been Beneficial to Film Industry

Arbitration has undoubtedly proven beneficial, Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA president, said yesterday in commenting on the first six months of the system. In a statement to THE FILM DAILY, Kuykendall said the benefits were not derived only from the system's actual functions, but from its effect on those in dispute in the industry.

Kuykendall said that it had caused a wider spirit of conciliation, thereby settling many disputes privately. "I feel," he continued, "that the American Arbitration Association is doing its dead level best to do a fair and constructive job, and I have found by personal contact that J. Noble Braden, the executive secretary, has a very wide acquaintance with our industry."

Jam Handy on 18-Hour Operations Schedule

Detroit—Reports from the East that the Jam Handy organization would discontinue because of the auto quota are strongly denied at studios here. Apparent source was layoff month ago of some 20 men in retail training department because of the auto situation. Actual production work for auto companies is only off 25 per cent and companies appear to be going ahead with programs through commercial films stressing institutional rather than direct sales advertising. Increase of work on slide films and motion pictures for training work for Army, Navy and Air Corps, and Canadian Government has more than taken up slack of auto cut, causing production department to work 18 hours steadily.

Govt. Will Make More "Long" Films

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington — The Government will continue to produce "long" films whenever officials think length necessary to properly cover the subject, in spite of rejection, by the Committee Co-operating for National Defense, of its film "Aluminum," on the grounds it was too long.

"Aluminum" runs about nine minutes, whereas the Committee contended it should run only three. Undismayed, officials went about booking by direct contact, and claim they have had outstanding success.

"We will continue to make them just as long or as short as the subject warrants, and will not set and hard and fast rules as to time," an official yesterday told FILM DAILY. It is understood that if the Committee does not co-operate with the longer films, direct booking will be continued.

Wheeler charged that one studio official ordered all employes in a department be canvassed in advance as to whether they would hear the speech by Willkie, whom Wheeler termed "this great war maker."

Wheeler's outburst yesterday marked a revival of his criticism of the film industry, heretofore largely confined to alleged propaganda on the screen. There were indications that the isolationist leader might press for a Congressional investigation.

PLAIN TALK

. . . about equipment

By GEORGE H. MORRIS

Equipment Editor, THE FILM DAILY

JUST a few days ago, the lead story in the July 21 issue of M-G-M's promotional newspaper, "To Whom It May Concern," came to our attention. The story was titled, "What's Wrong With the Audience?" On the surface, the yarn appeared to have no bearing on the theater equipment field. But yet it did. We quote in part:

—o—

"ALMOST every day we are faced with a new questionnaire or a new battery of experts polling the public, the press, and the exhibitors to determine 'what's wrong with the movies?' It's just occurred to us that maybe they're on the wrong track. We've observed that people are much more annoyed by the audience than anything they see on a theater screen. You never heard patrons come out of a theater swearing at Gable or Hedy Lamarr. But you couldn't print what they say about the lady with the big hat who sat in front of them; or the peanut brittle cruncher; or the man who took the overland route on their toes getting to his seat. Maybe what we really need is a good survey on 'what's wrong with the audience'?"

—o—

THE story then suggests that those who read the promotional newspaper send in their findings, listing briefly, without animus if possible, the five kinds of people most annoying in a typical movie audience. We like surveys. Too, we believe that filmland is only just really awakening to the value they can be in bringing to light valuable information, through which all branches of the industry can be more effectively and efficiently operated. But we cannot help but feel that a survey probing

Company Field-Testing Development Currently On Hollywood's Lots

Heralding a much higher standard of realism in sound reproduction in motion pictures, a new, strange-looking device known as the "lie microphone" is being field-tested on the movie lots of Hollywood by engineers of RCA Laboratories.

Number of Orders Held Cause of Some Delays, Not Material Shortage

Survey aimed at determining the current status of film theater equipment from the standpoint of supply as well as demand discloses that (a) manufacturers are getting a reasonable flow of materials, and (b) exhibition outlets are, in general, placing orders to an extent where dealers assert that the national trade "picture" is very good.

Naturally, some territories are finding business better than others, but local conditions, frequently complex, are held accountable for this. For example, shifts in population, as it follows the opportunities afforded by the national opening of

. . . about equipment

"what's wrong with the audience?" is a survey of effects rather than of causes. Of more primary consequences would be, we hold, a good look into "WHY are audiences wrong?" What makes them act the way they do? Is the fault with them, or does it lie elsewhere?

—— o ——

SPEAKING plainly, this corner admits that no theaterman or all of them put together can teach some patrons good manners and consideration for one another. The centuries to come will have to take care of that. But the theaterman can eliminate many of the basic things which produce bad manners and patron-annoyance in their houses. They can do it via both auditorium alteration and equipment. For instance, the lady with the big hat can be rendered harmless by the arrangement of theater chairs such as features the houses designed by most of our progressive architects. The peanut brittle cruncher is a genius which you can't do much about, but the modern theater has effectively muzzled the bawling babe via the crying room. If candy-crunching becomes a major threat, that can be taken care of, too. Thirdly, the man who took the overland route on the toes of his row-companions may be a gentleman to the manner born. But what is he going to do when row-spacing is such that it's all a worm could do to get to the aisle for exit? Today we have theater chairs which can completely void the trampling of their occupants' toes.

—— o ——

WE could go on for columns about the things which make audiences seem vastly more ill-mannered than they actually are. Hence a probe of "what's wrong with audiences?" looms as the cart before the horse. The equine in this case is "WHY are audiences wrong?" Improper, outmoded design and equipment are the roots of much evil.

Strom Still Fighting For Iowa Fire Code

Des Moines—Iowa Fire Marshal John Strom, in conjunction with motion picture operators, has been working on establishing a theater fire code, but action has been held up pending an opinion from the attorney general as to whether the fire marshal had jurisdiction to set up regulations.

Strom on Wednesday of this week reported that during the first six months of 1941 there had been 12 theater fires in the state with property loss of $122,923. The figures were taken from his semi-annual report.

This compared with a total of 16 fires in theaters during the entire year of 1940 with property loss of $46,181, or an increase of $75,742 in property loss during the first six months of 1941 as compared with the entire year of 1940.

Strom pointed out the rapid increase in both number of fires and property loss called for more rigid fire regulations in the state. A bill which would have provided for a state theater fire and building code was defeated in the last legislature this Spring.

shuttered stands. In a number of instances the labor invasion of communities has been going hand-in-hand with the concentration of trainees in Army centers. Modernization operations for the first seven months have been brisk, aiding equipment sales.

Circuits and indie exhibitors report some delays in acquiring certain equipment, notably air conditioning units, but even such delays do not indicate, it is said, any shortages of consequences on the manufacturing end. It is merely that orders have come in so rapidly that, coupled with the demands exacted by national defense, the equipment field is unable to deliver "spot."

Supply houses assert that theater chairs continue to be in the "slow delivery" bracket, as are motor generators and rectifying apparatus. Carpet deliveries are also tardy, due not at all to inability of manufacturers to obtain raw materials, but rather to the extraordinary demands made upon loom and other facilities. Much the same situation prevails as to other items.

Sources probed declare that 1941, barring unlooked-for developments, will prove to be among the top years in equipment purchasing and manufacturing.

RCA Testing On Coast New Line Microphone

immediately in front of, just above, or at the side of the sound source as the conventional microphone would be, the new device can be positioned "out in front," in a spot more nearly approximating that of the audience.

These unusual properties, say RCA's engineers, introduce the element of "sound perspective," a factor quite necessary to realistic listening.

With the full development of the line microphone, it is pointed out, motion picture directors no longer need concern themselves with swinging booms and drop suspensions in order to kep the microphone out of sight. The new instrument may be placed along-side the camera, so that action and sound are seen and heard from the same point. Sound pickups in long shots would be facilitated.

At present, in theaters and auditoriums, microphones are placed in front of performers or speakers by means of a stand or a drop suspension. The line "mike," in these instances, would operate from the rear of the house.

Has Other Applications

Still another of the instrument's many potential applications would be in the fields of television and radio broadcasting. One of the devices could be set up at the edge of a large crowd to pick up the voice of a speaker in the center or standing on a relatively distant platform. The smack of football players crashing together on the field would be within reach.

Indicative of the new microphone's capabilities is the fact, according to engineers, that it would successfully pick up the sound of a symphony orchestra from a distance of 100 feet.

Among those who spoke on the dedication program were Mayor C. H. Veale of Tulsa; L. C. Following the ceremonies in the theater, Griffith Southwestern was host at a stag prty at the Tulsa Club, where more than 100 prominent Tulsa businessmen and officials were guests as well as members of the film industry. At the banquet the centerpiece at the table was a picture of Will Rogers frozen in a cake of ice which was also illuminated from within. Early Trade Press Screenings Urged advantage" to exhibitors, Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA prexy, declares in a membership bulletin released yesterday.

Kuykendall declares that such reviews and reports are an "invaluable service" and "are most important to the management of theaters in buying, booking, and advance advertising of every picture, and must be available to exhibitors well in advance, even if it requires a special screening for the trade press alone."

The bulletin applauds the end of the preview priority long enjoyed by Coast newspaper men and radio commentators, and points out the new order gives local critics a "chance to make their own independent reviews and descriptions of new pictures count."

In the slim exhib. attendance at tradeshows, Kuykendall sees the props knocked out from under proponents of the Neely bill, and continues:

"Many small theater operators prefer to see the pictures they book at the first-run theaters anyhow, where they get a chance to observe actual audience reaction and interest in the picture. No doubt such exhibitors will continue this method rather than spend the time and money required to attend the compulsory tradeshowings."

The block-of-five plan, Kuykendall asserts, offers possible exhib. benefits "in that the exhibitor will have full and accurate reviews and descriptions by the responsible trade papers—not just a press agent's blurb or a tipster sheet's opinion—on each picture before him when the film salesman comes around with his asking prices. Smart exhibitors will make use of this information in buying product.

"Likewise, in cities and competitive areas where double features are really considered an evil by the theater owners, not just something to yell about in publicity statements, the blocks-of-five selling plan (starting Sept. 1) may enable exhibitors to work out plans to curb and restrain the practice of double billing. Also it makes it possible for courageous exhibitors to experiment with single features on their own initiative. You won't be overloaded with product for months ahead any more."

The proposed Exhibitors Service Bureau, Kuykendall says, is still receiving close study, with these questions to be determined:

"Is the information collected by unsigned questionnaires reliable or misleading, does such information add anything to the information readily available in the trade press, would any additional information on arbitration under the consent decree be of any value to exhibitors, are there any national sales policies that a distributor is bound to adhere to, do reports on local conditions have any bearing in other localities, will the more important exhibitors reveal the terms of product deals to their competitors?"

Observing that unsolved industry business problems remain, Kuykendall says that they will never be solved by the courts or in Washington, but can only be "by those responsible executives of long and active experience within the business itself."

Bulletin hails producers' decision to up ad budgets and endorses 20th-Fox's experiment with a short form contract, saying "it seems to us this idea should be adopted by all of the companies now."

"Not Our Baby", Avers Allied

Myers Puts Tradeshow Idea at D of C Door

Blame directed at Allied for the introduction of tradeshows and their low attendance was disclaimed by Abram F. Myers in a bulletin issued yesterday. The Allied general counsel declared that there had also been a revival of the attempt to cast upon Allied the responsibility for the selling method prescribed by the consent decree.

"There has been no recognition of the fact," Myers wrote, "that no substantial number of exhibitors wanted tradeshowings and blocks-of-five. The plan was developed at conferences between representatives of the Department of Commerce and representatives of the producers-distributors. The Department of Commerce evidently sold the idea to the Department of Justice and the latter was in a position to impose it on the industry."

Myers said it was true that Allied endorsed a plan for synopses which an exhibitor could study without spending a lot of time and money attending tradeshowings. He declared that the plan Allied supported would have permitted the distributor to sell and the exhibitor to buy as many pictures at one time as they could agree upon. "That plan," he said, "was fought tooth and nail by the distributors," adding that its defeat paved the way for the consent decree.

In regard to the sparse attendance at the tradeshows by Allied men, Myers said most independent exhibitors buy late "so that under the new system they will have their accurate synopses in the form of trade paper reviews and reviewing committee reports before they do any buying."

"The time has come for all persons in the industry to acknowledge the indisputable fact," Myers said: "to recognize that all must live under the new system for at least one season, and to turn their attention to the solution of the vital problems that confront the industry and engaged therein."

Myers indicated that the new contracts received from two of the consenting companies—RKO and Paramount—were a "disappointment." He added, however, that Allied would issue a pamphlet summary of all companies' provisions when they are received.

Indiana-Illinois Circuit To Extend Singles Policy

Chicago—With the advent of August releases, the Indiana-Illinois Theaters circuit will extend the use of a single feature policy, it is announced by Jack Rose, I-I exec.

Plan will be adopted by the Elco, Elkhart, Ind.; Jefferson, Goshem; Tivoli, in Michigan City; Hoosier, Whiting; Indiana, Indiana Harbor, and the Vogue, East Chicago.

In this city, the Lex will offer one feature on Sunday through Tuesday. The Gayety here has employed the policy successfully, Rose stated.

Rose said the circuit has been experimenting with an hour variety program with a single feature at the Elco theater with fine results. Type of program is generally used from Wednesday to Friday.

Theaters ordinarily giving night performances only must offer "York" at matinees also.

Advertising expenditures above the normal house budget will be shared equally.

It is understood that, prior to setting the terms, Warners had received exhib. tenders of the GWTW percentage. Company, however, alert to the pic's contribution to national morale, determined against asking that figure.

At the Astor, New York, "York" has played thus far to 78,000 people and a gross above $100,000. Femme matinee attendance has jumped in the five weeks from 11 to 47 per cent.

Chicago opening of "York" has been delayed until Warners can obtain the right house and assurance that the picture can stay in the house as long as attendance warrants.

Bids have come from several key cities for the N. Y. Astor Theater electric sign, designed by Mort Blumenstock, which must be dismantled when "York" moves.

Record Capital Ballyhoo Launches "Sergeant York"

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington — Jesse L. Lasky's "Sergeant York" bowed in at the Earle theater here last night, climaxing by what was regarded by many as the biggest and most extensive bally ever staged in the nation's capital for a film. A veritable Washington "who's who" audience packed the house to see the Warner epic, the man whose exploits it pictures, Sergt. Alvin C. York, and the man responsible for its production, Lasky.

At the conclusion of a reception given by the Tennessee State Society, York, Governor Cooper, Senators Kenneth McKellar and Tom Stewart, General Hershey, General Duncan and other dignitaries were escorted in a parade from the Willard Hotel to the Earle.

Warner Sales Convention Nears Adjournment Stage

Chicago—Warners' sales convention at the Blackstone here approaches the adjournment stage today with divisional conferences conducted by Roy Haines and Ben Kalmenson, also discussions of exchange operations and contract matters with Al Schwalberg, Arthur Sachson, Mike Dolid and Stanley Hatch and some further remarks on advertising and publicity by Mort Blumenstock.

Further discussion of the N. Y. consent decree and outlining of sales policies by Grad Sears and Carl Leserman occupied yesterday morning. James Coston's party honoring Sears with an attendance of about 600 topped off the afternoon.

Leserman, at the morning session, predicted that the consent decree would result in fewer pictures and more theaters, because producers will spend more time and money on each picture and better product in turn should attract more customers. The frequent cry of fewer and better films will now have the acid test, he said.

The contemplated tea parties and giveaways at tradeshowings came in for comment at yesterday's session but later events have disposed of the idea vision of $175,000 for contingencies, reported for the corresponding period the previous year.

Earnings are equivalent to $44.50 per share on 99,617 shares of outstanding preferred and, after allowance for current preferred dividend requirements, to $1.12 per share on 3,701,090 shares of outstanding common. Preferred dividends in arrears amount to $33.6875 per share.

Warners' preferred advanced a half point to a new high on the N. Y. Stock Exchange yesterday, closing at 70.

Realization of a tax loss arising from the sale of all the capital stock of, and advances to, Brunswick Radio Corp., a subsidiary company previously consolidated, has reduced the estimated normal Federal income taxes for the 39 weeks by $415,000. While the book value of the investment in Brunswick Radio Corp. was adjusted each year for the losses of this subsidiary, not all the adjustments were deductible for Federal income tax purposes. Warners has offset its loss, resulting from the sale, including a substantial portion of the accumulated adjustments referred to above, against taxable income in computing its normal Federal income tax for the period.

Additional provision for contingencies increased the reserve in respect of net assets of subsidiaries operating in foreign territories to $1,250,000.

Net profit from operations for the 39 weeks before charges for amortization and depreciation of properties and normal Federal income taxes, was $9,391,855.

Gross income, after eliminating intercompany transactions, for the 39 weeks, was $76,609,471. Comparable gross income for the 39 weeks ending May 25, 1940 was $76,375,905.

Cash in the United States as at May 31, amounted to $10,284,296 as compared with $10,932,279 as at March 1, 1941.

Company's income for the period from rentals, theater admissions, sales, etc., was $73,486,490.50, with rents from tenants and royalties adding $3,122,981.34. Operating and general expenses totalled $43,645,025.27; amortization of film costs amounted to $19,539,066.26, and other costs, including royalties and participations, were $1,772,021.50.

"Peace—by Adolph Hitler"

(March of Time)

RKO 18 mins.

Timely Plus

Latest issue of March of Time brings up-to-date the long list of Hitler's broken promises. The film reveals that a new Nazi propaganda offensive for peace is almost under way. Stress is made of the fact that supporters of the German move are isolationists, Nazi-sympathizers, and others who are earnestly devoted to the ideal of peace but not fully cognizant of the peril of dealing with Hitler. There is a rapid review of the "peace pacts" negotiated by Hitler on his rise to power. Their tragic result is a ringing warning to the United States which is eloquently uttered by Wendell Willkie in one of the closing shots.

Cartoon Newcomer in Super-Duper

Latest entry in the animated cartoon field is the well-known comic strip character, Superman. He makes his bow under auspicious circumstances. All he does is save a city from destruction by a mad scientist. Possibilities for the new series catching on are very good. Superman here as in the strip certainly taxes the imagination, but that should make for more fun. It is a Fleischer Technicolor cartoon.

"Jockey's Day"

(Sportscope No. 10)

RKO-Pathe 9 Mins.

Actionful and Entertaining

All who are even remotely interested in the so-called sport of kings will like this single reel which depicts the strict regimen which the jockey undergoes to keep in shape physically. Training is as essential to the rider as to the horses he rides, the film points out. There are some fine action shots included, particularly at the finale when a big race is presented. Throughout, the reel is solidly entertaining. Too, it is informative, and frequently exciting. Producer Fred Ullman, Jr., shows his usual flare for turning out subjects of quality and zip.

"Robot Wrecks"

However, he is caught and the kids are forced to clean up the mess they made.

Nat'l Ad Campaigns Asked by Allied and few will deny it—then it would seem to be good business for the distributor to say to the exhibitor, 'On all percentage pictures it will be proper to deduct from the gross receipts before computing the percentage to which I am entitled, an amount not to exceed blank dollars to be expended in advertising such pictures in the local newspapers.'"

Myers declared that when an exhibitor who is playing a picture at 40 per cent, spends money to advertise that picture in the local paper, he is in effect paying the distributors 40 cents on the dollar for money invested by the exhibitor in advertising a joint enterprise.

Declaring that the distributors must co-operate with the exhibitors in cushioning the impact of the new selling system, Myers pointed to a joint advertising campaign as one thing that is needed.

"While it may be wise to enlist the good will of periodicals with national distribution by giving them a slice of the advertising appropriation, such advertising actually is of little value," Myers said. "It usually appears far in advance of the exhibition of the pictures advertised. Motion picture advertising is like the advertising of foodstuffs. The latter appeals immediately and directly to the appetite and the reader is urged to 'get some from your grocer—today.'"

Myers pointed out that the distributors split advertising costs with some first-run accounts, and while there may be no incentive to help the subsequent-runs on flat rentals, there is every reason why "they should aid those accounts in advertising pictures played on percentage."

This, Myers said, is only one of the many plans which can be put into effect by co-operative action to rescue the movies from the current box-office slump, adding that before they could be put into execution they must be thoroughly considered and discussed. That is why Allied plans an all-industry convention in Philadelphia next month, Myers said, and why it is hoped that able leaders in all branches will attend.

Tradeshows

By WINFIELD ANDRUS

TRADESHOWS: D of J attitude on the lack of attendance at tradeshows was unofficially revealed at the week-end. Department feels that THE FILM DAILY and other trade papers are doing a "good reviewing job" making attendance not mandatory. Delegates to the Warner convention in Chicago were told that the company will hold special tradeshows for short subjects. From Detroit, Ray Branch, Michigan Allied head took exhibs. to task for not attending showings, declaring that their bluffs had been called. National Allied General Counsel, Abram F. Myers disclaimed blame directed at Allied for tradeshows and blocks-of-five, and claimed that Allied had wanted only synopses of features.

ARBITRATION: National Allied had two criticisms of arbitration when surveyed by THE FILM DAILY. Abram F. Myers directed his criticisms to (a) the "inadequacies of the provisions of the decree imposing qualifications on the right to arbitrate and limiting the powers of arbitrators to make effective awards, and (b) to the policy of the distributors ganging up on the exhibitors with a multiplicity of lawyers experienced in the motion picture business and in relying on technicalities instead of permitting cases to be considered wholly on their merits." Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA prexy, believes that arbitration has undoubtedly proven beneficial, and "that the AAA is doing its dead level best to do a fair and constructive job." Six months check up of arbitration decisions gave an edge to exhibs., 15 to 14. Complaints totaled 94.

Allied Ad Plan Gets UA Support

point of contact and at the time of their local exhibition was the backbone of any film campaign. However, he said, there were several points that he would like to clear up in regard to UA's policy of advertising co-operation with exhibitors.

"We believe," he said, "that the exhibitor should share in these local campaigns, but that in sharing he should guarantee and adhere to the policy of not cutting his regular budget."

Greenthal said there had been isolated cases where an exhibitor agreed to share on the extra advertising and then promptly recouped his investment by cutting down the size of his local ads, thereby nullifying the effectiveness of the campaign and arousing the ire of the local newspaper. The exhibitor, Greenthal said, definitely must spend his regular budget in addition to whatever big ads he shares in with the distributor.

"We have found this policy so effective," Greenthal declared, "that where five or six years ago only 40 or 50 key cities received the benefit of this advertising aid, today on a picture we have gone into as many as 300 to 400 big situations and co-operative ads and materially boosted the theaters' profits and grosses on pictures."

Because of United Artists' setup, it has been the company's policy to support all pictures in key situations, Greenthal pointed out.

"In other words, we give every picture an advertising sendoff. The size and number of ads in any supporting campaign naturally varies with the box-office potentialities of the individual picture."

"We feel," Greenthal concluded, "that if the exhibitor plays ball by adhering to his regular newspaper budget in addition to these special ads, such as radio and national magazines, both the exhibitor and distributor will benefit by this concentrated selling campaign direct to the public focussed at the point of sale the opening day of the picture in the exhibitor's theater."

It was intimated by Sears that Warner sales meetings might be held more frequently in the future.

WB Branch Managers Get Full Contract Authority

Chicago—In carrying out recently adopted plan for close and speedier contact between home office and field, Warner branch managers hereafter will have full say in approval or rejection of contracts, Carl Leserman, assistant general sales manager, told the sales force at Friday's conference of the convention.

Stressing the new and greater responsibilities placed on branch heads, Leserman said they now become the most important cogs in the sales machinery. He urged more and closer contact by branch executives and salesmen with exhibitors.

Roy Haines, Eastern and Canadian sales manager, and Ben Kalmenson, Southern and Western sales manager, held conferences with respective branch managers Friday morning.

Exchange heads were told field sales force will be increased, if necessary to get best results under the decree.

Frank Liberman of Mort Blumenstock's home office staff has been assigned to the Chicago territory, under Monroe Rubinger, in line with the company's plans for increasing field representation to aid exhibitors.

Await Ruling On Crescent Tax Reports

iates and other confidential figures for the years 1935 to 1939.

Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the attorney general, attempted to introduce the income tax returns just before noon and the defense objection was entered immediately by William Waller. Judge Davies agreeed to rule this morning.

Pleading competency of the reports, Wright contended that the income tax figures would show that Crescent enjoyed an increase in income during the five year period after Aug. 11, 1934, four times greater than for the same period prior to that date, with assets about doubled. "It is competent," he asserted, "to show the effect on profit possibilities."

"It would throw no light at all on what is involved in this case," argued Waller, continuing: "we admit that we have a local monopoly in every town where there is no competing theater and we make money out of these. These local monopolies are not in any way, we contend, in restraint of interstate commerce. The only inference they can draw is that Crescent has been successful in the operation of its business."

"Every distributor in this case," declared George H. Armistead, Jr., chief defense counsel, "would be delighted to know what Crescent and affiliates have been realizing out of their business. The law says that there must be overwhelming proof of a conspiracy before evidence of this nature can be introduced."

It was the contention of Wright that "matter of this kind in all such cases tried by the D of J has been accepted as a matter of course." Wright added later: "We will show that the Crescent monopoly has been in a tighter one, with respect to competition allowed, than that of Paramount or any other. What Crescent has made out of their combination in proportion to area involved, makes the earnings of Paramount and others look like peanuts."

A memorandum indicating the existence of a three-year franchise between 20th Century-Fox and Crescent and nine affiliates, for 1939-40, 40-41, and 41-42, involving about 70 situations, was introduced by Government counsel but no supporting evidence has yet been offered.

It is believed that the Government will complete its case today, especially should Judge Davies rule out the income tax and other reports.

BLUES CHASING COMEDY; IS A SURE-FIRE BOX-OFFICE INTRO. FOR NEW COMER RED SKELTON.

As good entertainment, as an introduction to new comer Red Skelton, and as an audience and exhibitor picture, "Whistling In The Dark" will hit the mark it was aimed at.

Enhanced by good old down-to-earth hokum and comedy situations that lend themselves well to Skelton's ability and personality, plus the fine trouping of Conrad Veidt, Ann Rutherford and Virginia Grey, audience reaction was highly favorable and held the promise of definite acceptance of the screen birth of a new comedian.

To Director S. Sylvan Simon goes full acclaim for his deft handling of what might otherwise have proved itself to be a mediocre slap-stick opus, but under his understanding guidance becomes comedy deluxe, as noted by audience reaction.

Faced with the necessity of inventing the perfect crime when kidnaped by a cult of moon-worshippers, headed by Conrad Veidt, who seek to rid themselves of the nephew of a millionairess patron who had willed them the money after the death of her nephew, Skelton, who is known as "The Fox" via his radio broadcastings of perfect crime detections, thinks and acts his way through situation after situation until his final outsmarting of the gang through a broadcast from the inner sanctum of the cult.

Fine portrayals were the order of the pic, with Conrad Veidt, Ann Rutherford and Virginia Grey turning in very satisfying characterizations, but to "Rags" Ragland, as "Sylvester" and Will Lee, as "Herman" go added plaudits. The rest of the numerous cast are deserving of recognition for their fine support.

Credit as producer goes to George Haight who supervised the production, with Robert MacGunigle, Harry Clork and Albert Mannheimer sharing in the credits of a well-done screnplay based upon the play by Laurence Gross and Edward Childs Carpenter. Bronislau Kaper furnished the well-knit musical background. Sidney Wagner, the photography.

CAST: Red Skelton, Conrad Veidt, Ann Rutherford, Virginia Grey, "Rags" Ragland, Henry O'Neill, Eve Arden, Paul Stanton, Don Douglas, Don Costello, William Tannen, Reed Hadley, Mariska Aldrich, Lloyd Corrigan, George Carleton, Will Lee and Ruth Robinson.

"Citadel of Crime"

with Robert Armstrong, Frank Albertson, Linda Hayes

Republic 58 Mins.

Standard "average audience" picture offers a new slant of a mob muscling in on West Virginia moonshiners to lift it from formula level. Film moves briskly enough and contains a fair amount of action.

Yarn is about a big-time gangster who returns to his childhood locale in the Southern hills. His idea is to organize the natives who make moonshine and peddle it at a great profit. When the Government man points out the dangers which the mountaineers face from their alliance, they agree to sever all connections with the gangsters. Then the Government man with the help of the mountaineers round up the mob.

Robert Armstrong delivers a satisfying portrayal as the gang leader. Skeets Gallagher, Linda Hayes, Frank Albertson and Russell Simpson are adequate in the supporting roles.

CAST: Robert Armstrong, Frank Albertson, Linda Hayes, Russell Simpson, Skeets Gallagher, William Haade, Jay Novello, Paul Fix, Bob McKenzie, Wade Crosby, William Benedict.

"I Was a Prisoner on Devil's Island"

with Sally Eilers, Donald Woods, Edward Cianelli

Columbia 71 Mins.

FEEBLE MELODRAMA AND NOT TOLD VERY CONVINCINGLY.

A minor effort about corrupt practices of the officials who run the prison at Devil's Island. Sally Eilers, who usually suffers in prison roles, is married this time to the prison doctor, Edward Cianelli. That is about as bad as being in prison.

She meets Donald Woods at a village carnival. He falls in love with her without knowing who she is. He lands on Devil's Island after he accidentally kills his ship captain. There he helps expose Cianelli when an epidemic breaks out and it is disclosed that the prison doctor sold drugs for an illicit profit.

Director Lew Landers struggles along without much success on a script that has little to offer. Performances are okay for this type of film.

a major role in the plugging of musical pictures. and the failure of some recent musicals to click solidly at the box-office was attributed by some in the industry to the inability to get the tunes on the air via the nets.

Settlement was generally accepted as opening the way for fairly wide use of films, essentially reissues, on tele programs. With feature product employing Ascap music, tele for the last seven months has been forced to steer clear of it. Alternative has been to drop the sound tracks with Ascap tunes and employ other music. This has been done on some occasions.

No AFM Tele Contract Unless On Temporary Basis

No early agreement between the American Federation of Musicians and television stations is anticipated, unless on a temporary basis. AFM officials are wary of any permanent contract with tele interests until the medium is further developed.

Reason is the experience of 15 years ago when the advent of talking pictures is said to have taken the jobs of 15,000 pit musicians. Union leaders are approaching discussions with television operators with one principal idea—that of increasing employment of musicians.

"Technological progress can't be stopped," said one union exec., "but it's certainly not the place of a union to aid it at the expense of its membership."

Charles Mayer Reports Biz Up in East Indies

Exclusion of German and French pictures from the Dutch East Indies has benefited American distributors, according to Charles Mayer, 20th-Fox manager for the territory, who reports business is on the increase.

Freezing of funds of nationals residing on the Islands has resulted also in theater building activity there, Mayer stated. There are, he estimated, 243 wired houses in the Dutch East Indies.

Growth of Malayan production has progressed slowly. According to the 20th-Fox manager, there are now about eight producers who each average three productions a year. First Malayan film ever produced was in 1938. Lack of star personalities and story material is their biggest handicap, Mayer said.

One trend observed by Mayer is that only big pictures are doing business. "You can't get people in the Dutch East Indies excited over the 'B' picture any longer," Mayer declared.

Although there are exchange restrictions in Dutch East Indies, they are not unduly severe and distribs. are realizing remittances from the territory, he said.

Mayer, who is on furlough, plans to remain in New York for about two months before returning.

Mr. Samuel Goldwyn
Samuel Goldwyn, Inc.
7210 Santa Monica Blvd.

Dear Sam:

I have just had a very great experience...I have seen Bette Davis in "The Little Foxes."

I think it is your masterpiece.

The box-office value of this picture - from a famous stage play - with a star such as Miss Davis...and produced by you...was obvious before a camera turned. But you have given us something more than a certain success. You have given us a sensation.

"The Little Foxes" has all of the deep emotional quality of your greatest productions. And again you have given us a brilliant portrait of an unforgettable woman, as you did in "Stella Dallas".

This picture makes me prouder than ever of your association with us - more confident than ever of other great attractions coming from you under the RKO Radio banner.

My congratulations to you are heartfelt. Will you please convey also to Miss Davis, to Director William Wyler, to Cameraman Gregg Toland, and to all of the members of your splendid organization, my admiration of their remarkable achievement in actually heightening the dramatic effect of Miss Lillian Hellman's already highly dramatic play.

And I am particularly grateful to you for introducing to the screen the seven newcomers, including Miss Teresa Wright, who make such brilliant debuts in this picture.

In conclusion, I want you to know that I am ready personally to assure any exhibitor, in any type of theatre, that he will get one of the soundest pieces of box-office merchandise in his career when he gets "The Little Foxes."

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

George

Brandt Says Arb'n Needs Overhauling

The entire arbitration set-up needs an overhauling so that all of the trade practices of the industry may come under an arbitration board's rulings, in the opinion of Harry Brandt, ITOA president, who commented on the first six months of the system's operation. All exhibitors should be allowed to arbitrate.

Said Brandt: "The paucity of arbitration cases under the consent decree to date attests to the ineffectiveness of the system as set up by the Government. Exhibitors, because of the many restrictions imposed as to what may be arbitrated, have therefore determined to try to work out their salvation as best they can. Then, too, only certain exhibitors may arbitrate, which discriminates against many other theater owners who have legitimate claims to present to an arbitration board."

Davidson With Quarterly

Michael Davidson, who formerly wrote and produce the Ripley "Believe It Or Not Show" and more recently handled special radio broadcasts and national and local publicity for Walt Disney, is now handling promotion for "The Country Book," a new national quarterly.

Myers Says Reviews Better Than Synopses

commenting on the offer of Grad Sears, Warners' general sales manager, to show pictures at a time that will be convenient to exhibitors and to arrange private screenings.

Myers said it was gratifying "to learn that one film executive realizes the hardships incident to attendance at the one-a-day screenings which have been held thus far." He added that he hoped others would follow Sears' lead in improving conditions. Myers declared that "much money could have been saved as well as the unfavorable publicity that resulted from criticism" if the distributors had consulted with organized exhibitors before scheduling the first tradeshowings.

Continuing, Myers said:

"It is a pity that in all the criticism of exhibitors, resulting in publicity which will do the industry no good, there has been no recognition of the fact that whether the exhibitors attend the screenings or not, blind buying has been outlawed for the time being.

"It seems unlikely that a final decree similar to the consent decree can be imposed on Columbia, United Artists and Universal before June 1, 1942. If not, the provisions relating to tradeshowings and blocks-of-five will be suspended. During this experimental period of one year all should join in making the new system operate with a minimum of hardships. Grad Sears has shown the way and it is safe to say that others will follow."

Consensus of exhibs. reported to be that "York" belongs in roadshow classification.

New Tax Bill Would Hit Pix Corporations

Washington Bur., THE FILM DAILY

Washington — New tax bill, adopted yesterday by the House by a vote of 369 to 40 and which now goes to the Senate, would hit motion picture corporations through both, normal income tax and excess profits tax. The two levies on corporations are expected to raise $1,322,900,000 of the $3,206,200,000 total fixed by the bill. Deletion of the mandatory joint return of husband and wife reduces the total of the tax bill by an estimated $323,000,000.

Court Asks 24 Hours For Crescent Ruling

Stengel, R. E. Baulch, principals, and of the corporations involved, Judge Elmer D. Davies asked another 24 hours before finally ruling on defense objection Friday to the introduction of such matter, but during a day of almost constant legal arguments between Robert L. Wright and D of J associate counsel and the several defense counsel groups, Judge Davies intimated that he would probably admit no more of the income tax reports than a general balance sheet, not including the highly confidential and informing detailed reports which Wright sought to introduce.

Defense Attorney George H. Armistead contends that any such statements of profits or assets are unreliable as indicating "size and scope" of the Crescent Circuit and affiliates or to "show the profit possibilities of the combine" as suggested by Wright.

Armistead's contention was based on the obvious facts that these theaters and combinations are making money from other than box office receipts which alone relate to film rentals and exhibition of pictures. There are incomes from popcorn and candy concession, sales of screen advertising and promotional tie-ups, rental of store spaces in theater buildings and other sources. Defense counsel insists that any reduction in rental of films, brought about by combined buying, as a result of favorable franchises, would represent only a trifling part of the earnings of the theater.

Defense attorneys say that Crescent Amusement and affiliated exhibitor corporations and the distributor groups involved will offer their defense testimony jointly and not separately for the sake of saving time and that a week will be necessary for presentation of the case for the defense. Argument of attorneys must follow that and Judge Davies asks 24 hours in which to render his decision.

Nicholas Schenck Says M-G-M Would Aid In Any Move to Eliminate Twin Features

Approval of any movement toward re-establishing single features was expressed by Nicholas M. Schenck, on his arrival from the Coast.

"Naturally we would like to see them," the M-G-M president declared as he arrived from the Coast aboard the Twentieth Century. "We would be glad to co-operate with any exhibitors or exhibitors' groups in action for that purpose."

years past. Reason exhibitors have hung on, despite a reported rejection of their plea for relief from the projectionists' union, has been the hope that defense spending would find its way to the box-office.

Although industrial activity in the local area showed an increase in June for the twelfth consecutive month, business at the theaters continues spotty. According to the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, factory jobs here totaled 110,000 in June, a gain of 2,600 over May and an increase of 26,300 over June in 1940.

Payrolls in June ran to $3,708,000 weekly this year, $139,000 more than in May and $1,310,000 above June of last year. This has meant an average weekly pay check of $33.96 against an average of $29.03 per week for the man in the shop in 1929.

Industrialists declare that the end is not yet in sight and that with defense contracts continuing to roll in, record payrolls will continue to be earned by factory workers.

Daylight Saving Time Proclaimed for Virginia

Richmond, Va.—Governor James T. Price has formally proclaimed daylight saving time for Virginia from midnight Aug. 10 to midnight Sept. 28, and has called on the mayors of Virginia's 24 cities for co-operation.

The Governor said he had put in the termination date to coincide with the date already set by North Carolina, but said that could be changed in light of developments. At first he had planned to set no limit.

The proclamation is persuasive as far as cities, counties and towns are concerned, but is binding on all agencies and institutions of the state government.

Fix Clearance Based On Admission Prices

ance of 14 days granted the Jeffris over the Rex by Paramount to be "in certain respects unreasonable," Whelan ruled that in future contracts Paramount could give a maximum clearance of only seven days to the Jeffris where both houses played to the same adult admission price after 6 p.m.; 10 days where Jeffris admission was 5 cents higher than the Rex, and 14 days if the Jeffris charged 10 cents or more than the Rex admission

That part of the complaint against Paramount, which read "and is improperly refusing to deliver prints of motion pictures contracted for said Rex until said pictuees have been exhibited at the Jeffris" was dismissed by Whelan. This was the local board's first case and since recent settlement of its second case, leaves the board without any cases on the calendar.

The bill which Clark introduced on behalf of himself and Senator Nye states that

"Whereas the motion picture screen and the radio are the most potent instruments of communication of ideas; and

"Whereas numerous charges have been made that the motion picture and the radio have been extensively used for propaganda purposes designed to influence the public mind in the direction of participation in the European war; and

"Whereas all this propaganda has been directed to one side of the important debate now being held, not only in Congress but throughout the country; and

"Whereas this propaganda reaches weekly the eyes and ears of a hundred million people and is in the hands of groups interested in involving the United States in war; therefore be it

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

"The Deadly Game"

starring Charles Farrell and June Lang with John Miljan, Bernardene Hayes
(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

Monogram 65 Mins.

TIMELY ACTION MELODRAMA HOLDS INTEREST. CHARLES FARRELL PLEASES IN SCREEN RETURN.

Here is good action melodrama that holds interest to the end. Director Phil Rosen has kept the action moving nicely, while praise is also due Producer Dixon R. Harwin and Associate Producer Barney A. Sarecky. Wellyn Totman contributed a timely, interesting screenplay.

The picture marks Charles Farrell's return to the screen and he gives a pleasing performance as a Government agent, who tracks down a gang of Nazi operators. Bernardene Hayes does excellent work, while John Miljan is convincing as the leader of the German spies. June Lang is decorative and capable as the love interest opposite Farrell. Tom Herbert supplied most of the comedy, and John Dilson, David Clarke and J. Arthur Young are among the principals.

Miljan and his aides kidnap Young, an inventor of a device to combat night air raids. Farrell, who is in love with June Lang, his daughter, does some clever detective work and runs Miljan and his operators to earth.

CAST: Charles Farrell, June Lang, John Miljan, Bernardene Hayes, David Clarke, John Dilson, Dave O'Brien, J. Arthur Young, Tom Herbert, Ottola Nesmith, Fred Gierman, Hans Von Morhart, Walter Bonn, William Vaughn, John Harmon.

Three San Diego Houses Go Single for "Bomber"

For the first time in some years, the three Fox West Coast first-run houses in San Diego will simultaneously revert to single-bill policy when Warner Bros.' Technicolor feature, "Dive Bomber," has its triple world premiere at the three theaters Aug. 12.

The theaters where picture will be premiered and then single-billed are the Fox, State and Plaza. At the Fox, navy officers and men, many of whom participated in filming of picture, will constitute the entire audience.

With Saturday and Sunday receipts at the New York Paramount reaching $22,000, "The Shepherd of the Hills" will complete its first week tonight with receipts of approximately $46,500, according to Robert M. Weitman, manager of the theater. The picture starts its second week at the Paramount tomorrow.

"The Terror"

with Wilfrid Lawson, Linden Travers, Bernard Lee

Alliance Film 63 Mins.

SLIGHTLY DATED BRITISH MELODRAMA THAT MANAGES TO GENERATE SUFFICIENT SUSPENSE.

Mysterious passageways, sliding doors and hooded figures are dusted off and used with only a fair amount of success in this melodrama. Suspense is of the lackadaisical kind and hardly of a spine-tingling nature. As fine an actor as Wilfrid Lawson finds it difficult to make much of his role as the mad criminal.

Based on one of Edgar Wallace's murder mysteries, the yarn is about a mad criminal who waits 10 years to commit the perfect crime. Bane of all the trouble is some loot hidden in the crypt of a former priory. The house at which he resides has been transformed into a large inn.

Center of the love interest is Linden Travers. She is the object of affection on part of the criminal and the Scotland Yard sleuth. After a number of murders are committed, the Yard traps the criminal. Alastair Sim, a good character comedian, does an exemplary bit as one of the criminals who attempts to get his share of the loot. Acting of the male lead, Bernard Lee, as the drunken detective is of the amateur variety.

CAST: Wilfrid Lawson, Bernard Lee Arthur Wontner, Linden Travers, Henry Oscar, Alastair Sim, Iris Hoey, Lesley Wareing, Stanley Latbury, John Turnbull, Richard Murdoch, Edward Lexy.

CREDITS: Director, William Bird; Screenplay, William Freshman; Original Story, Edgar Wallace.

Mills Novelty Biz Soars Skyward 70%

Chicago—Mills Novelty Co., from present indications, will show a record 1941 business volume of some $15,000 000, or an increase of approximately 70 per cent over the $9,000.000 in 1940, according to Fred L. Mills, president. He declares that if the organization is able to get enough raw material for its Panorams and vending machines, the '41 figure may go even higher.

Current, the company is turning out 75 Panorams daily, plus 200 vending machines, as a result of having increased factory forces by about 30 per cent since the first of the year. Bids have also been submitted for national defense orders.

The present manufacturing pace, with resulting income, he asserts, is attributable in a large measure to Panoram production.

REVIEWS OF SHORT SUBJECTS

"Steeds and Steers"

(RKO Pathe Sportscope)

RKO Radio 9 mins.

Plenty of Action

From start to finish, "Steeds and Steers" bristles with action. It's nine minutes of wild and wooly bronco-busting, calf-roping, bull-dogging, with some amazing trick roping by Monty Montana. The rodeo scenes are splendidly devised and consistently punctuated with alert and effective photography. Outlets can't go wrong on this reel. The only thing monotonous about it is that it reminds the onlooker of the regularity with which Producer Frederic Ullman, Jr., turns out novel, quality shorts which strike popular fancy with the impact of a direct hits.

"The Man Who Changed the World"

Metro 11 mins.

Excellent Subject

Tremendously interesting, not only because of its broad historical and industrial aspects and the results in the world today, but because of the insight into the delving of the human mind for advances in methods of living, this short is one of the finest that Carey Wilson has produced. It depicts the birth of the spinning "jenny" resulting from an accident. The inventor, James Hargreaves, is unknown today, but he might well be the man who did more to change the world than any soldier ruler.

"The Cuckoo I. Q."

Columbia 7½ mins.

Funny Satire on Quiz Programs

An entertaining burlesque on radio quiz programs is this Color Rhapsody Technicolor subject. Professor fires questions at our hero who answers them all wrong. For each mistake, he gets banged around by some weird mechanical contraption. Of course, the professor is far from a mental marvel.

"Your Last Act"

Metro 11 mins.

Interesting Short

Latest issue in the John Nesbitt Passing Parade series, this one is up to the series' high standard in every respect. Subject deals with strange wills that have been filed. The material is highly interesting, the staging and direction good and the narrative is excellent.

"Information Please"

(No. 11)

RKO Radio 10 Mins.

Good Audience Stuff

Intriguing character of this famed quiz reel series continues unabated via Issue No. 11 in which Jan Struther, famed femme novelist of Britain, is the guest star, matching her store of knowledge against the "regulars," the Messrs. Oscar Levant, John Kieran, and Franklin P. Adams. Several of the questions are "acted out" with amusing effect, and they range from historical queries to those anent the movies. Clifton Fadiman, of course, does the questioning. Footage compares favorably in interest and subject matter with its predecessor units, and should be well received by audiences in all stands.

"The Alley Cat"

Metro 10 mins.

Funny Cartoon

A number of laughs are contained in the Technicolor cartoon. Hugh Harman produced. It depicts an alley cat that goes in for a brief fling of a high life in the apartment of a very beautiful, and very snooty young female cat. The alley cat's brief interlude in the apartment leaves the place a shambles.

"Dumb Like a Fox"

Columbia 7 mins.

Amusing Fable Cartoon

Gay, animated tale of the puppy fox hound who decides to go out and do his own fox hunting against the better wishes of Papa Hound. Pup runs into a sly, old fox who misleads him about the true identity of a fox. Pup later returns with a skunk on a leash under impression he has a fox to sorrowfully learn what his nose should have told him better.

McCarthy, Bergman Resign from 20th-Fox

Horne, formerly vice-president of Walt Disney, Inc., was joining 20th-Fox in an important capacity.

McCarthy had been the advertising and publicity chief for the last 10 years. In announcing his resignation, he said: "Certain problems have arisen in the operation of the company which, to me, appear insoluble. Therefore, although I have a contract which has two more years to run, I asked Mr. Kent to relieve me of this obligation as this would appear to be for the best interests of all concerned. Mr. Kent, with whom I have been associated for nearly 25 years, accepted my resignation with regret."

Bergman formerly was advertising manager of Columbia Pictures.

Japanese Gov't Will Reorganize Industry

Tokyo (By Air Mail)—The Japanese Government plans a drastic reorganization of Japan's film industry. Existing film firms have been criticized on the ground that they are more interested in making a profit than in the advancement of solidarity and culture of the nation. It is contended that films should be distributed to all chains, instead of shown only at theaters controlled by their producers.

Another step in the Government program is the reorganization of the Japanese Motion Picture Association so that it can serve as a liaison organization between the Government and the producers and distributors. Although the large companies will maintain their separate entities, all of the small firms must unite in order to facilitate the operation of the raw film distribution system, it is reported.

tion against Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp., Loew's, 20th Century-Fox and Paramount with Northeastern Theaters, Inc., and Stanley Company of America as intervenors asking for improved clearance for their Palm theater.

Rhell's decision said the complaint had not been sustained. The present clearance was declared reasonable and the complaint was dismissed. The actual wording of the decision pertaining to the distributor's fairness reads, "The attititude of the defendants and intervenors was one of candor and helpfulness making frank and full disclosure of all facts pertaining to the proceedings from their confidential records."

First Omaha Arbitration Case Filed by M. S. Cohn

Omaha—M. S. Cohn, Strand Theater, Council Bluffs, Ia., filed the first arbitration demand here. He charges Metro, RKO, Paramount, 20th-Fox and Warner Bros. are holding up pictures 28 days after conclusion of first-run in Omaha before they are permitted to play Council Buffs theaters. He asks that this "so-called protection immediately be discontinued."

Cohn names Earl Kerr, Broadway Theater, Council Bluffs, as an interested party and asks that the "five distributors be compelled to release pictures to Council Bluffs as determined by the judgment of the arbitrator."

Cincinnati—Okie Ward, the Ward theater, Summerville, W. Va., old time exhibitor, died recently.

Circuits Simplify Corporate Setups

Chicago—Payment of more taxes and the expense of making reports required by city, state, and Federal Government, are causing theater circuits to reduce the number of individually incorporated companies which they have set up in the past for operation of each house, legal channels assert here.

Following the trend, H. & E. Balaban circuit dissolved a few days ago its Dearborn Theater Co., the Signal Amusement Co. and the Rosemill Theater Corp. Additionally, the AJB Theater circuit surrendered its charter for the Melrose Theater Corp. to reduce the number of incorporated companies and handle the business through one incorporated organization.

No Opposition to Propaganda, Says Morale Committee

Recent statement by Will H. Hays to the effect that propaganda should be kept out of motion pictures has been endorsed almost unanimously by newspapers which commented on his remarks.

A checkup on the press reports reveal that the editorials in favor of Hays' stand outnumbered the opposition by a ratio of 20 to 1. In fact, it was learned that only two large newspapers came out against the statement.

junctions to prevent enforcement of the bill, which provides for sale of a whole season's product with 20 per cent cancellation, comes up in Ramsey County District Court on Friday.

By resolution, Allied also asked continuance of tradeshowings and asked members to attend. Members said they wished to dispel the impression the organization did not favor the practice. In another resolution, the organization asked the Department of Justice to probe alleged extortionary practices being applied in block-of-five sales already being made in the territory outside Minnesota.

A further resolution asked a straight 10 per cent tax on student admissions instead of the full adult tax.

Still another resolution took Universal to task for allegedly top group prices for "In the Navy" on the representation it was a special addition to the regular block, with release date moved forward. Paramount and RKO also were criticized for alleged "sharp" sale practices.

The group's action on the majors' lawsuits to break the Minnesota law was tempered by discussion of the situation if the injunction sought by the majors is obtained. In that case, the advice was go ahead and buy, but don't be in a hurry about it.

William F. Rodgers, head of M-G-M's sales department, also was criticized for refusing to confer with S. G. Lebedoff, Allied film problems chairman in Chicago recently. Lebedoff said Rodgers told him he didn't intend to sell in Minnesota.

More than 100 exhibitors from the territory attended the meeting.

"U" Dismissed as Crescent Defendant

a.m. yesterday that plaintiff's testimony against the Crescent Amusement Co., and its affiliates, was completed, thus ending four weeks of prosecution by six attorneys for the anti-trust division of the D of J.

Admits Balance Sheets

This announcement followed a ruling by Judge Elmer D. Davies that the plaintiff would be permitted to introduce as evidence figures shown by balance sheets of income tax reports of Crescent Amusement Co., its affiliates and principals. Wright had insisted in the face of defense objection on the ground that the matter was highly confidential that these figures would show that Crescent's gross assets approximately doubled between 1935 and 1939 and that its net profits approximately quadrupled.

Following dismissal of Universal, Judge Davies asked Wright, "Shouldn't the motion as to United Artists and Columbia be granted?" This led to an extended argument with Wright admitting that his case against these distributors is "very narrow." Entering largely in this argument was the situation at Union City, Tenn., where Universal allegedly showed discrimination against J. D. Henry, Hickman, Ky., in withholding film license in 1939 where he was in competition with a Crescent theater.

Moves Crescent Dismissal

Motions to dismiss the suit as to Crescent Amusement Co., its seven affiliates, Tony Sudekum, K. C. Stengel and R. E. Baulch as principals was introduced by George H. Armistead, Jr., chief defense counsel, with the contention that "upon the facts and upon the law, the plaintiff was shown no right to relief."

W. H. Mitchell, counsel for Muscle Shoals Theaters, Inc., and its principals, Louis Rosenbaum, Florence Alabama and Mrs. Tony Sudekum of Nashville, moved for their dismissal on the same grounds as was pleaded for the other exhibitor groups and defendants.

Judge Davies made the important admission yesterday that "patrons of theaters were benefitted by situations where circuits have furnished better pictures and better theaters with more comfortable and sanitary seating," with Defense Attorney William Waller very aptly reminding him that since 1920 that a "violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law must involve public interest, which the court has admitted the Crescent action does not do."

plished by the motion picture screen" in the Congressional Record. Coming at this particular time, the remarks of the chairman of the important Senate Foreign Relations Committee were accorded more than ordinary significance.

Prefacing his resolution with the words that he had "just witnessed a grand and unusual motion picture" which prompted his action, the Texan presented the following statement from the floor of the Senate:

"I should like to call to the attention of my colleagues the grand work being accomplished by the motion picture industry in recognizing humanitarian effort of Americans whose accomplishments have been bereft of public recognition. We are now mindful of the manner in which that kindly priest, Father Edward Flanagan, of Nebraska, single-handedly founded an empire of love for the young, unwanted boy. Father Flanagan's work, his courage, his great sacrifice were known but to few of our American millions and it remained for the screen to tell this great humane story to the world.

"Once again this great medium acquaints our citizens with another great personage whose heart and soul and sense of duty have made great contributions to our civilization. For nearly thirty years this simple, courageous woman has devoted her energies to those dear little bits of humanity who come into this world unwanted. Out of her great love for children she established the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society at Fort Worth, an institution which has made happier thousands of childless homes and which has turned out thousands of fine, healthy, sterling citizens.

"It took much love, much courage, much hard work, and much of every form of human devotion to accomplish the truly great work that has been the achievement of that great Texas lady, Edna Gladney. It is with enormous pride that I call the nation's attention to the commendable work of Edna Gladney and to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer motion picture, 'Blossoms in the Dust,' which will serve as a monument to her work, and, I am sure, as an inspiration to all Americans."

Introducing Youngman, he's funny

There are many entertaining moments in this musical two-reeler produced and directed by Ben K. Blake. For one thing, it brings to the screen the popular vaudeville star Henny Youngman. He is a funny comedian and his "Heatchliffe" takeoff should have them laughing out loud. In addition there is an attractive songstress in the person of Karyl Gould and impressions by the Radio Rogues. Script has Youngman running jointly with Al Shean a heart-mending agency. Hal Saunders and his St. Regis orchestra provide the musical numbers.

"Information Please"

(No. 12)

RKO Radio 9 mins.

Right Up To Snuff

Guest star of this issue is the screen's "tycoon of terror," Boris Karloff, and naturally there is a standout question for him to try his teeth on, namely, a query on murders. Most of this reel is interesting and novel, with the result that the series fans will take to it enthusiastically. The affable cross-examiner is, of course, Clifton Fadiman, and Karloff's fellow brain - trusters are John Kieran, Franklin P. Adams and Oscar Levant. Literature and popular drinks are the extremes to which the questions run. Considerable comedy studs the quiz.

"Early To Bed"

(Walt Disney Cartoon)

RKO Radio 8 mins.

Earns Average Rating

Much of the charm of Disney subjects springs from the portraying by his screen characters of the little nuances which humans experience in their daily lives. In the present cartoon, Donald Duck tucks himself into a folding bed for a well-earned sleep. Various factors keep him from his slumber. Among these is the loud-ticking alarm clock. Another is the bed itself. As long as the happenings remain satirical of human sleepers, the footage is funny. But here and there it dips into the incredible, thereby losing punch. However, the followers of this antic-ful duck will be pleased at most, if not all, of the things he does. There have been better "Donalds,"—for this is largely run-of-the-mine.

Tepid Two-Reeler

Andy Clyde is in the wrecking business. One of his jobs takes him to an old house where some crooks are hiding from the police. In order to scare Andy and his helper from the premises, the crooks haunt the place. Gag situations are the customary slap-stick which results in a few laughs.

"The Musical Bandit"

(Ray Whitley Western Musicals)

RKO Radio 16 mins.

So-So Entertainment

Featuring Ray Whitley with the "6 Bar Cowboys," this one is mildly entertaining and lacking zip and originality, although the music is fair enough. There is a surrounding yarn which discloses the boys supplying dance tunes for a hotel operated by Virginia Vale. The structure's mortgage is foreclosed by John Dilson, and the musicians save the day by terroristic methods. At the finale matters turn out okay, but it's all pretty silly. Exhibs. can set it down as so-so stuff which will go in situations which are not over-finnicky about their tab material.

Executives See Slim Chance for Shortage

"scrambling around for what we can get," as one exhibitor put it.

Major company executives, however, believe that it is too early to predict a product shortage. It was said yesterday that while the number of pictures formally announced may be reduced, present tradeshow production schedules can, and will, be maintained, making a shortage unnecessary.

It was pointed out that the main consideration of the producers is to make strong product so they can sell it for a good and fair price, so naturally they will concentrate on the good ones, leaving a possibility that the original programs will be shaved. This might automatically reduce double features, executives said, but any danger of a shortage appears to be in the remote future.

stated that no judge would be available until Aug. 25.

The union leaders are being tried for alleged violation of the anti-racketeering law and for the alleged extortion of $550,000 from Paramount, Warners, Loew's and 20th-Fox.

Matthias Correa, U. S. prosecuting attorney, told Judge Conger he was contemplating revocation of bail of both defendants because FBI men and U. S. marshals in Chicago have been unable to locate Nick Circello described as a "Chicago individual on Browne's payroll from 1935 to 1940." Correa said if Circello did not turn up by Aug. 18 he would ask the court to revoke the bail of Browne and Bioff.

Attorneys for the defendants asked the court to quash the indictments against them on the grounds that the anti-racketeering law under which the defendants were indicted is unconstitutional.

doesn't care if shorts and newsreels had some propaganda in them or not. Poll was conducted by Dr. Floyd Ruch, associate professor of psychology at the University of Southern California, who is said to have been lent to the committee by the university to develop scientific methods of measuring morale.

According to a press release by the committee yesterday, Dr. Ruch had his staff of trained interviewers put the following questions to "representative members of the public" with the results indicated:

"What kind of newsreels and short subjects do you like best?"

Those dealing with the war in Europe	26%
Those dealing with America's defense program	44
Those dealing with non-military events	30

To determine the public's reaction to propaganda, two questions were asked.

"Have you been annoyed by any propaganda in the feature pictures you have seen recently?"

Yes	16%
No	77
Don't know	7

"Have you been annoyed by any propaganda in the newsreels and shorts you have seen recently?"

"The American public is taking a realistic attitude toward war and defense," concluded Dr. Ruch. "It doesn't like war but it is prepared to face it when and if necessary. In the meantime, it wants to know what is going on and looks to the newsreels and shorts for information. So-called propaganda is annoying only when the individual feels that something is being put over on him. Most Americans now feel that they have a real stake in national security and are naturally not annoyed to see the defense program moving along."

Westinghouse, GE Offer To Settle Suit for Million

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. and the General Electric Co. have made an offer to settle a $250,000,000 minority stockholders' suit against them, RCA, officers and directors of RCA and RCA Victor for $1,000,000. Offer was submitted to Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy. Hearings start Oct. 1.

At the same time, RCA was ordered to notify its 270,000 stockholders of the hearings so that they may be represented if they so desire.

Suit originally was filed by 11 minority stockholders who claimed damages of $500,000,000 through alleged waste, mismanagement, fraud and conspiracy.

In their settlement offer, General Electric and Westinghouse declared they do not admit to the merits of any of the charges but claim continuation of the suit for another three years would interfere with national defense work by tieing up the company's executives.

Seek to Dismiss Special Defense in Conn. Case

New Haven — Prefect Theaters, Inc., et al, plaintiffs in the Pickwick, Greenwich, $5,452,575 anti-trust suit against the eight major film companies in the U. S. District Court here, have filed motions to dismiss the "special or separate defenses" of the defendants on the grounds of "insufficiency." Motions have been assigned for hearing on Sept. 16.

The separate defenses were part of the answers filed by the defendants and held that Fairfield Holding Co., one of the plaintiffs, was a foreign corporation and that the complaint should therefore be dismissed. United Artists' special defense described all the plaintiff corporation's as lacking the legal capacity to maintain the action.

The plaintiffs' new motions maintain that the separate defense should be dismissed because the facts set forth by the defendants are insufficient to constitute a defense and immaterial to the issues of the action. In the motion directed to United Artists, plaintiffs say that the answer and defense fail to allege supporting particulars as required by Rule 9 Subdivision (a) of the Rules of Civil Procedure.

An offer made by one of the largest 16 mm. distribs. of a sound projector and a one week's change of program on a rental basis of $22.50 a week. Distrib. also offers liability insurance, sound trailers for rent at 30 cents a week, circus heralds at $1 a thousand, as well as standard theater advertising material at low rental figures.

Merchants in small towns are being solicited to split the cost of the projector between them. The school or civic organization to which the projector is presented for operation, agrees to run an advertisement trailer listing the names of the local merchants donating the equipment, not less than once a month for a period of two years.

It appears in Indiana that any restrictive action is next to impossible. The greater part of the blame for the development of this competition to the established theater operator, is charged to poor co-operation extended the ATOI's legislative committee by individual exhibitors who have not felt the sting of such competition.

However, with recent developments involving an accident alleged to be due to negligence of public officials at Lyons, Ind., where an automobile was driven into a crowd of free show spectators, injuring twenty-six persons, the ATOI has a new approach to the 16 mm. problem.

The Lyons Merchants' Association had brought in "Mounted Police" for its weekly show and a big part of the town's 800 inhabitants and other persons from miles around had turned out.

Crescent Dismissal Motions Up Tomorrow

conspiracy charges against Columbia, Universal Pictures, United Artists, and against Muscle Shoals, Inc. The court reserved decision until after all such motions are heard.

Defense Attorney George H. Armistead, Jr., will be heard today on motions to strike out the testimony on the activities of Crescent Amusement Co. against competition in local situations and to dismiss the entire action against Crescent, its principals and seven affiliates.

At adjournment yesterday predictions were being made freely that Columbia, United Artists, and Universal Pictures would be dismissed by Judge Davies at this time, with dismissal of Muscle Shoals, Inc., as probable too. There was evidence of optimism among counsel and principals that the whole case may end at this time with favorable action on all motions.

"In arguing for the United Artists dismissal motion, Edward H. Raftery, "Little Three" counsel, declared that, "it is common sense to use a 'closed' situation to get into another competitive situation and vice versa but the Government says that we must sell one run or one situation at a time and shut our eyes to all the rest."

In discussing with Raftery the meager case that he admits the Government has against the distributors mentioned, Wright suggested that the court should at least grant "relief to the extent of the interference with interstate commerce" but Judge Davies immediately declared that, if any action was taken, the distributor would be enjoined only for violation of the anti-trust act."

Raftery positively denied a statement made by Wright that United Artists is having "a raft of litigation" at the present time over film releases and clearances. He insisted that he knew of no such litigations. He was assured that Wright's statement was not considered by the court.

It is expected that arguments on dismissal motions will at least be concluded by Friday afternoon. Then, if motion to dismiss the action against Crescent is not granted, defense counsel will ask for an adjournment to allow for defense preparation. This adjournment may be anywhere from three days to two weeks, with the longer adjournment considered probable.

WEDDING BELLS

Maurice Silverstein, M-G-M's manager in Singapore, will be married tomorrow in Sydney to Betty Bryan, star of the Australian picture "80,000 Horsemen." Bernard Freeman of Metro's Sydney office will be best man, with M. W. D. McIntyre, Metro attorney, attending. The couple will leave shortly for New York.

Biographical Films Setting New Mark

James J. Corbett as his next assignment.

Also from the Warner lot: just ready for release is "Sergeant York" and "The Prime Minister" (made in England, starring John Gielgud and Diana Wynyard and immortalizing the statesman Disraeli). In preparation is "Yankee Doodle Boy" in which James Cagney will portray George M. Cohan, "The Life and Songs of George Gershwin," "John Paul Jones," "Captain Of The Clouds," which deals greatly with the activities of Air Marshal Billy Bishop, Canada's World War I ace, "Bad Men Of Missouri," the lives and tales of the famous badmen, the Younger Brothers, "Peary At The North Pole," "The Man From The FBI," which is about J. Edgar Hoover, and "The Life Of Winston Churchill" which will be made by Warners in England.

"One Foot In Heaven," the life of the Rev. William Spence as told by his son Hartzell Spence, is now in production as well as "The Man Who Came To Dinner," which, it is said, reports a short period in the life of Alexander Woollcott.

20th-Fox Has Four

Twentieth Century-Fox has just finished "Belle Starr," in which Gene Tierney portrays the famous feminine bandit of the last century. Also on the Fox list for next season's release is "My Gal Sal," the story of Paul Dresser, clefter of "On The Banks Of The Wabash" and other tunes. Alice Faye has been pencilled in for the female lead in this. Mark Hellinger is readying, with John O'Hara the script, "My Life and Hard Times" the trials and tribulations of James M. Thurber, the New Yorker wit. Fox is also spinning a yarn about John Grumm, America's first lobbyist, to be titled "Yankee Ostrich."

Metro is preparing "The Life Of Simon Bolivar" and "The Life Story Of William Allen White," to star Spencer Tracy.

On Paramount's Schedule

Paramount is readying for the cameras, "Tex Guinan" a tale of the fabulous night club figure, and "Sunrise In My Pocket," a tale of Davey Crockett of Alamo fame. The Harry Sherman unit at Paramount is planning an early shooting date for "Pahaska," the life of Buffalo Bill, to be played by Joel McCrea, and "Tombstone," which is really a yarn about Wyatt Earp. Not biographical but using historical characters is Paramount's "The Remarkable Andrews," in which Andrew Jackson, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, and Chief Justice John Marshall are characters.

RKO will make "The Life of Samuel Gompers," under William Dieterle's guidance, in 1942. RKO will also have the Herbert Wilcox production based on the life story of Amy Johnson, famed British aviatrix. It will be filmed in England.

Samuel Goldwyn will begin shooting here on the life of Lou Gehrig in a few months, while he is also producing "Spitfire" in England. Latter is based on the life of the late R. J. Mitchell, plane designer. Goldwyn also has "Seventh Cavalry," which largely concerns General Custer, and "Hans Christian Andersen."

Columbia is making "Harmon of Michigan" with Tommy Harmon.

Jesse Lasky will produce "The Adventures of Mark Twain."

He expects to close a deal soon for "Terry Of The Pirates," which would be made as a feature.

LETTERS

Editor, THE FILM DAILY

Without hesitation, I can say, with all sincerity, not because I am the publisher of a daily newspaper, but because it should be self-evident to motion picture producers that when you entice people to the movies in the hopes of winning money on Bank Night that you are admitting that the picture is no good.

The local movie houses have been running Bank Night with the result that more people see poor pictures than the good ones. Not satisfied with ruining their business with Bank Nights they are now giving away automobiles and other things in the hope of winning audiences back to see the good pictures.

If the local movie houses spent just 50 per cent of what they are now throwing away on Bank Nights and automobiles and ice-boxes, they could play to capacity for every good picture which was legitimately and properly advertised through legitimate advertising media, preferably the newspapers and radio.

St. Louis Prefers Duals, Poll Reveals likes and dislikes of movie fans in this city.

To assure prompt response, persons contacted in the house-to-house canvass were asked to send or bring in their checked-off answers listed on small questionnaire cards, in return for which they were admitted to the theaters as guests of the management during the following fortnight.

Most important discovery of all was the overwhelming majority of votes rolled up in favor of double-feature film programs. Sixty-four per cent of the more than 30,000 questionnaires turned in, reportedly favored the dual program, while 25.3 per cent preferred single feature programs, 6.2 per cent preferred triple-feature programs and 4 per cent indicated preference for an hour of short subjects featured in conjunction with a single-feature program. But few questionnaires failed to indicate any preference in this classification.

With regard to stage shows, Riegel reports that 69.4 per cent were in favor of, while 30.6 voted against the flesh entertainment. In response to a direct query, questionnaires revealed that 69.6 per cent of those in favor of stage shows, desired this entertainment with a single-feature film program, while the remaining 30.4 per cent stated preference for stage shows with double-feature film programs.

Questionnaires also accounted for the hotly-contested exhibitor problem of contests, giveaways and premiums, the results proving somewhat enlightening insofar as the public's likes and dislikes are concerned.

Eighty-nine per cent of all questionnaires turned in voted against such forms of competition among exhibitors, apparently indicating a strong preference for quality in entertainment rather than a miscellany of dishes and kitchenware. Six and .5 per cent signified their preference for this practice, while 4.5 per cent failed to specify any preference.

Another important result of the poll, Riegel said, will be the preferences indicated by motion picture fans contacted in the canvass, with regard to the type of film program most desired. Figures were not yet available, Riegel said, but should be virtually completed within another week.

The net results of the poll, which has been executed under Riegel's supervision by a staff of 11 representatives, will be turned over for study to Harry C. Arthur, Jr., president and general manager of Fanchon & Marco, which operates the Fox, Ambassador, Missouri and St. Louis Amusement Co. theaters, in addition to the St. Louis.

RKO Studios Starting 10; Hits New Production Pace

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood — RKO studios will place more pictures in work during the period of Aug. 1-Oct. 1 than have been started in any similar period, it was announced yesterday.

Joseph I. Breen, new production chief, and his executive producers, Sol Lesser and J. R. McDonough, have lined up a program of 10 pictures that will occupy the RKO stages and those at the Pathe lot and RKO ranch.

Starting this week, the lineup includes "Land of the Open Range," a Tim Holt western; "A Date with the Falcon" and "Obliging Young Lady." These will be followed by "The Marines Are Ready," "Valley of the Sun," "Joan of Paris," "The Mayor of 44th Street," "Passage from Bordeaux," "Out of Gas," "Journey Into Fear" and "Syncopation."

Batt said he thought this would be a step in the direction of eliminating non-essential consumption and would facilitate a program of "further curtailment" of civilian uses when and if such a curtailment becomes necessary.

Meanwhile, controversy grew as to whether Congress should write its own standards for daylight saving or give President Roosevelt blanket authority. Strong protest to any plan of daylight saving is expected from farming areas.

Kirsch charged that subsequent releases of these pictures were split, presenting the independents from playing the same or similar combinations.

Kirsch suggested that a booking committee be organized, representing all exhibitors, to set releases monthly and that the distributors should reserve the right to designate the week of general release.

London (By Air Mail)—The war has beaten the usual Summer jinx on motion picture attendance. DANGER IN DAYLIGHT SAVING PLAN

Brylawski Tells House Interstate Committee Proposal Would Cause a 25 Per Cent Drop in Theater Attendance

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington — Congress yesterday received warning that adoption of the President's plan for establishing daylight saving on a regional basis would cause disruption of business, including a serious drop in motion picture attendance.

Julian Brylawski, vice-president of MPTOA, told the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which has charge of the bill, that daylight saving time would cause a 25 per cent decrease in film attendance, because people preferred to stay outdoors during the evening hours of daylight, and added that theater owners objected mainly to the provision for flexible time which could be imposed by the President as local conditions required.

He also stated that such changes would be extremely harmful to the

Korda Gets Silver Sword

Alexander Korda's "That Hamilton Woman!" co-starring Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier, was selected as the one film to be shown at the Annual Festival sponsored by the U. S. Naval Station at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii. In appreciation of Korda's co-operation, the officers at the naval station presented a small silver sword to the producer.

Schine Mgrs. Play Golf; Convention Ends Today

Gloversville, N. Y.—Schine circuit managers devoted yesterday to a golf tournament at the Pine Brook Country Club, to a yachting trip on the Sacandaga, and to swimming parties and a steak roast. Ninety-three entered the golf tournament to contest for the 65 prizes. Guest entrants in the tourney included Herman Ripps and Jack Walsh, of M-G-M; Leon Bamberger of RKO, Roy Haines and A-Mike Vogel.

The annual banquet was held last night at the Adirondack Inn when a "confidence scroll" was presented to J. M. and L. W. Schine signed by more than 2,000 members of the organization.

The convention comes to an end today with entire session, except for an address by Frank Buck, being given over to business.

Kilgore, Arnold Confer On Divorcement Bill

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington — Senator Kilgore, chairman of the sub-committee handling the Neely divorcement bill, revealed that he conferred twice yesterday with Thurman W. Arnold of the D of J and indicated that he expects to have a "definite announcement" sometime next week. He said he talked with Arnold to arrange a meeting between the anti-trust head and members of the sub-committee for a decision as to whether further hearings should be held or the sub-committee should go ahead on basis of evidence already obtained.

Some committee members are presently out of town but all expect to be back by the latter part of next week, at which time a definite decision as to procedure will be announced, he said.

BBC Broadcasts Speech From "Hamilton Woman"

Alexander Korda's "Lady Hamilton," starring Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh, was accorded a rare honor when the British Broadcasting Corporation officially reviewed it for radio listeners throughout the Empire on the occasion of the production's opening last Monday at the Odeon Leicester Square, London.

A cabled report on the event, received by Walter Gould, UA foreign manager, pointed out that the only other picture similarly treated by BBC was Charlie Chaplin's "The Great Dictator." At that time, the ether department of the Government air-waved Chaplin's rousing final speech in the picture.

In the case of "Lady Hamilton" (production was called "That Hamilton Woman" in U.S.A.) the BBC broadcast the climactic speech of Lord Nelson in which the great sea hero appeals to the British Admiralty to bestir itself against the dictatorship of Napoleon.

"York" Opens at H'wood With Big Celebration

"Sergeant York" will close Sunday night at the Astor. Broadway, and continue Monday at the Hollywood after six weeks at the former theater. Moveover will be handled in a manner comparable to every pre-release opening of the picture to date.

A Broadway parade with the world famous Victory "V" brought to life by a group of Powers models around Miss Joan Leslie's car will highlight the day's activities. Miss Leslie will lead the parade. In addition to the "V" of models around Miss Leslie's car she will also have a guard of honor. The many units of the parade will be comprised of members of the 77th and 82nd Divisions; 82nd Color Guard; New York State members of the VFW; Women's Auxiliaries; a troop of Boy Scouts and the Scout Band; majorettes, additional color guards and police cars.

"Sergeant York" also opens tonight at the Warner Theater, Atlantic City, with a huge civic celebration heralding the event. Jesse F. Lasky will be on hand for the opening. Picture has also been set to open in Louisville, Ky., at the Mary Anderson Theater, and Dayton, Ohio, at the Century Theater, on Aug. 22. Advance campaigns for both openings are now under way with field men in both cities. Additional dates are being set by the sales department throughout the country.

"York," in addition to the continuance of its New York first-run, is playing extended engagements to capacity business at the Earle and Ambassador Theaters, Washington, and the Mayfair, Asbury Park.

stars Robert Newton and Emlyn Williams. Film based on the A. J. Cronin novel will cost approximately $400,000 when completed and be available for domestic release early this Fall.

Other Paramount property, "The Admirable Crichton," is being held up by casting difficulties. While in Hollywood for the past month, Rose attempted to get some names known in American market but to no avail. Leslie Howard and Clive Brook, now in London, are under consideration for the lead, he said.

Rose believes British producers are now making finer pictures although handicapped by wartime conditions. Limited supply of directors, actors and facilities, he stated, are instrumental in making British producers concentrate on quality films rather than producing minor product.

General observation made by Rose was that the British Government on the whole was pleased with efforts of the British colony in Hollywood with only few exceptions.

He declared theater losses due to "blitzes" and restricted areas remain about 10 per cent but business is better than it has ever been. As a result of rationing of most products, Rose pointed out more money is in circulation.

Rose estimated that curtailed British production had increased playing time of American product from about 70 to 90 per cent.

Parting forecast made by Rose was to watch for newcomer James Mason who has a leading role in "Hatters' Castle."

porting on a study he made in a cross-country tour which included Canada.

The effect of the war effort already has upped theater receipts in the Dominion, where a 15 per cent increase was reported. The United States generally is following the same prosperity pattern trend as Canada and some of New England's industrial areas show theater receipts up as much as 28 per cent, he declared. The country as a whole may anticipate similar diversion of the worker's dollar to theaters after the first of the year.

The Kiesling survey, considered by theater managers and newspapermen as one of the most scientific and thorough conducted on this problem, gives this analysis of how and when the defense dollar gets into the theater till:

With the rush of re-employment under way, workers begin paying old bills. Once these are out of the way there's a period of celebration, and the less expensive night spots clean up. Next clothing becomes a matter of importance.

It is only when all these are out of the way that the theater type of amusement gets the attention of the defense worker. The country generally has reached the apparel buying stage and the theater manager's dream is in sight, he asserted.

Studies show that picture trends, based on fan demand, are to comedies, musicals and thrillers, Kiesling said.

☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆

"Tanks A Million" with William Tracy, James Gleason, Noah Beery, Jr., Joe Sawyer, Elyse Knox

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)

United Artists Release 50 Mins.

INITIAL HAL ROACH "STREAMLINE FEATURE" A MIRTHQUAKE OF LAUGHS. CERTAIN AUDIENCE WINNER.

Originally called "The Tanks Are Coming," Hal Roach's first streamlined feature is an unusual departure from orthodox film making, but according to the preview audience it is a definite success. The formula seems to be to discard everything that interferes with what the picture is trying to get across, in this case comedy, and the compactness resulting from this treatment makes for excellent results.

As a feature it is probably the best service picture to hit the screen so far. The Roach touch for comedy has not diminished during the years he has been making dramatic pictures. If this is a fair indication of what "streamling" is going to do for pictures, exhibs. will be screaming for streamlining the entire Hollywood output.

Director Fred Guiol hasn't let a dull moment creep into the entire four reels. The cast headed by William Tracy and Joe Sawyer, with James Gleason and Noah Beery, Jr., supporting, seem to have entered into the fun with their whole hearts and the resultant slapstick classic never bogs or loses pace. Scripters Paul Gerard Smith, Warren Wilson and Edward F. Seabrook's screenplay ties clever dialogue nicely into the mostly action screenplay.

The story deals with the rapid rise of clever William Tracy, a draftee, from private to top sergeant in a few hours and the reaction of the officers and men of the post. The love stuff is sliced thin with just enough romance to ring in a feminine lead.

Tracy becomes the wonder of the Army and the butt of his fellow draftees until he shows that his heart is in the right place and he is on the under-dog's side.

The tag on this is one of the funniest ever filmed.

CAST: William Tracy, James Gleason, Noah Beery, Jr., Joe Sawyer, Elyse Knox, Douglas Fowley, Knox Manning, Frank Faylen, Dick Wessel, Frank Melton, Harold Goodwin, William Gould, Norman Kerry.

"Rags to Riches"

with Alan Baxter, Mary Carlisle

Republic 57 Mins.

GANGLAND STORY WITH ROMANTIC THREAD. BEST SUITED TO STANDS SPECIALIZING IN EXCITEMENT.

Meller addicts, who like things to happen quantitatively for the spine's sake, should be well enough pleased with "Rags to Riches," whose title implies that it might be a whole-cloth Cinderella story, or one along Horatio Alger lines. But essentially the picture is a gangland saga, with fur smuggling, hijacking, gunplay, fisticuffs, and fast and furious automobile chases. True, there is a love story recounting the rise to musical comedy stardom of an orphan girl of the slums, and the unjustified sentencing of her ambitious young beau to a prison term from which he rebounds to prospective success. However, this romance is always subordinated to the mobster angles.

Alan Baxter holds down the male lead, with Mary Carlisle in the top femme spot. Their devotion to one another is not realistically portrayed, apparently for the reason that the film's makers didn't want to slow things up for such trivialities as moonlight and clinches. By and large, this attraction is a programmer made with a eye to excitement, and will do best in stands whose policy is to provide just that.

The villain of the piece is Jerome Cowan, whose music publishing biz is a front for his smuggling operations. When Alan Baxter is nabbed by the law for allegedly taking part in a robbery, Cowan has him railroaded by having him defended by a purposely lax lawyer. When the lad is paroled, he finds himself a victimized participant in gang war, but at the finale bags both factions and gets revenge on Cowan, who has set his cap for Mary Carlisle. Joseph Kane's direction is routine, and William Nobles' photography okay.

CAST: Alan Baxter, Mary Carlisle, Jerome Cowan, Michael Morris, Ralf Harolde, Paul Porcasi, Suzanne Kaaren, Eddie Acuff, Rosina Galli, Charles Trowbridge, Daisy Lee Mothershed, Joan Blair, Francis Sayles.

DIRECTION, Okay. PHOTOGRAPHY, Ditto.

The fire was the 13th serious theater fire in Iowa since the first of the year and with damage of the Town Theater listed at $11,800, brought the total property damage from fires in the 13 theaters to $134,723 for the year to date.

"The Medico of Painted Springs" with Charles Starrett, Terry Walker, Charles Hamilton

Columbia 58 Mins.

CHARLES STARRETT HELPS MAKE THIS ONE GO OVER.

This Western follows the formula successfully and measures up to standard. Film contains enough shooting and riding to satisfy the cowboy fans.

Charles Starrett does a good job as the Government doctor examining recruits for Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders. He walks into a range war between the cattlemen and the sheep ranchers when he reaches Painted Springs.

Starrett unearths the fact that one of the cattlemen is responsible for a lot of the dirty work which precipitates the clash. His medical skill brings him into contact with both parties. Starrett saves one of the principals from being framed on a murder charge and helps bring the real culprit to justice.

Terry Walker is an attractive asset to the proceedings. Wheeler Oakman, Ben Taggart, Richard Fiske and Edmund Cobb lend support to the principals. The Simp-Phonies provide a few musical sequences.

CAST: Charles Starrett, Terry Walker, Ben Taggart, Ray Bennett, Wheeler Oakman, Richard Fiske, Edmund Cobb, Edythe Elliot, Bud Osborne, Steve Clark, Charles Hamilton, George Chesbro.

have the matter settled once and for all. However, the last time the union called a strike the distributors came off second best and had to bow to the workers' demands.

Reports in the American press that Nazi influences are behind the strike-call of the film union has been largely discredited by both sides, it is said here.

Crux of the deadlock lies in long list of demands which the distribs. labeled "nuisance demands" including the sending of two men from each exchange to Hollywood once a year. General feeling is the distribs. are inclined to meet wage increases which go as high as 30 per cent in some cases if only union leaders take a less recalcitrant attitude on special privileges demanded by the companies.

Approximately 950 theater, it is estimated, will be affected if the film exchanges are forced to shut down next Wednesday. Representatives of Republic and Monogram will not be affected.

Presentations Revival Forecast in FPC Houses

Toronto — Shea's Theater, once noted as a vaudeville house and operated by Jerry Shea in partnership with Famous Players Canadian Corp. is to be closed for modernization and will reopen Sept. 1 as an important unit of the circuit under the supervision of Jack Arthur, district manager and former producer of stage programs in several Famous Players' theaters in a combination screen and stage policy. The move is said to be the prelude to the revival of presentations.

The information has also been forthcoming that Manager Fred Trebilcock of the Uptown Theater, Toronto, is to be transferred to the Imperial, Toronto, and Manager Tom Daley of that theater is to be promoted to head office.

propose that Will Hays, film industry overseer, and executives of major motion picture and broadcasting companies be called before his Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee which is considering a proposal to investigate charges of propaganda in the two mediums of news dissemination.

Clark summoned his subcommittee to a meeting yesterday to discuss a resolution by Senators Bennett Champ Clark and Gerald P. Nye to authorize a formal Senate inquiry. Sources close to the subcommittee revealed that many letters had been received from various parts of the country charging that both the radio and the motion pictures have been used as propaganda instruments for inciting participation of the United States in the European conflict. The hearing, it was pointed out, is to investigate these charges and to find out what basis of foundation if any there is for them.

Senator Clark declined to make any statement on witnesses to be called. He said a list is now being drawn and likely will be released the first part of next week. Another source, however, indicated that Will Hays probably will be called.

J. Robert Myers of the National Association of Broadcasters also objected to the regional features of the time plan saying this would further disrupt radio time schedules and add to confusion of listeners in knowing when to tune in on their favorite program.

Following the hearing, Chairman Lea asserted that his group will report on the proposal sometime next month.

Another development here yesterday was the proposal by Congressman McLean of New Jersey that a new system of time zones be introduced nationally. He said that in his opinion the nation should have only three time zones instead of four as at present.

He would eliminate the Central zone, thereby running the Eastern zone to the Mississippi River. The other two zones would remain unchanged under his plan. "Rapid means of communication have created a situation in time as confused and chaotic as when the present time zones were adopted in 1883, and I think it is time we should do something to remedy this situation."

A MILLION DOLLA

I wish to acknowledge, with thanks, the furore caused by TANKS A MILLION. The front page editorials in the trade press following the preview screening of TANKS A MILLION at the Alexander Theatre, Glendale, California, and by the circuit head screening at Loew's Mount Vernon Theatre on Wednesday night, have resulted in my being besieged by all sorts of suggestions as to how to handle the distribution of TANKS A MILLION.

Everyone says "Sell it individually—sell it on its merit because you have got a hit of tremendous proportions and you will clean up a million dollars."

"You have got a picture, Mr. Roach" says Motion Picture Daily, "that is a milestone marking the progress of show business."

Sure, I am proud of TANKS A MILLION, but I am going to live up to my original promise. TANKS A MILLION will be sold as part of the package of Streamliners I promised to deliver. The fact that this picture has turned out so well that exhibitors who originally planned to book it as a second feature are now going to play it either as a first or single feature, doesn't swerve me from my original purpose of delivering Streamlined features in a series.

When I first announced this series, many great exhibitor names endorsed the idea. Spyros Skouras, Eddie Alperson, Rick Ricketson, Leonard Goldenson, Abe Blank, John Balaban, Sam Dembow, Jr., John Friedel, J. J. Ruben, Ralph Branton, Harry David, Earl Hudson, Charlie Skouras, M. A. Lightman, Frank L. Newman, Harry Brandt, Fred J. Dolle and many others placed their official approval on Streamlined Features, and now that the industry has said we have come through with an outstanding success in TANKS A MILLION, I am going to deliver as promised.

Many of you exhibitors remember what SHOULDER ARMS did years ago. It was only a three-reel picture, yet it lifted the mortgage on many a theatre.

I realize that recently I haven't always produced pictures of a calibre that measured up to your box office expectations, but in producing these Streamliners, I believe I am in my groove—that I am making the type of motion picture that is my particular forte.

I believe I have hit my stride, so even if TANKS A MILLION makes a million dollars for the industry, it is going to be the first Streamliner I release, and I hope the first of a successful line-up of pictures that will create industry history.

Hal Roach

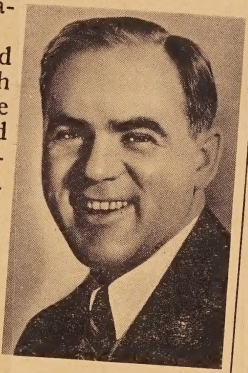
RS FOR YOU!

Front Page MOTION PICTURE DAILY

'Million', First Roach 50-Minute Film, Reviewed

By ROSCOE WILLIAMS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Stop, look and listen—Ladies and Gentlemen of Show Business—to the news about Hal Roach's solution of the double-feature problem.



Hal Roach

You've heard about the Roach plans, and the reasons behind them, for supplying you with a type of picture, shorter and better than the normal "B" average, with which to satisfy the people who demand two pictures for the price of one and, at the same time, to satisfy your own need of shortening program time in the interests of turnover.

Most of you have approved the idea in principle.

All of the people who packed the Alexander Theatre in Glendale to inspect the application of the idea to tangible product approved it 100 per cent in practice.

"Tanks a Million" runs 50 minutes by the clock. But you've got to clock it to find that out. Observed without respect to minutes consumed in its exhibition, it gives the impression of full feature-length entertainment. It knocks into an old, battered cocked-hat the static notion that a feature has to run 60 minutes to stand up under feature billing.

"Tanks a Million" is a comedy concerning the adventures of a Quiz-Kid type draftee in a training camp. It is equal or superior to the trainee comedy hits of recent release in point of humor and presentation, easily the cream of the crop so far as basic idea is concerned. It had the preview crowd, comprised of press, profession and public, hilariously entertained from start to finish.

Produced by Hal Roach, the picture reflects the Roach genius for comedy in all its memorable glory.

Directed by Fred Guiol, the film flows in straight-line continuity from a funny opening to a screaming close.

William Tracy, James Gleason, Noah Beery, Jr., Joe Sawyer, Elyse Knox, Douglas Fowley, Knox Manning, Frank Faylen, Dick Wessel, Frank Melton, Harold Goodwin, William Gould and Norman Kerry are the players, the first four furnishing most of the merriment.

Considered strictly and simply as a picture, "Tanks a Million" is a comedy of hit proportions.

Considered as a step toward solution of the double-feature problem, it stacks up as something for showmen to study in all its aspects and implications, something for production companies in general to examine into with view to emulation, quite possibly as a milestone marking the progress of Show Business.

This is a general audience classification picture ("G").

Release is by United Artists.

UA Reports Sales Up by $3,600,000

Arthur W. Kelly, organization's vice-president.

From the current year's outset to July 12, which comprised the 28-week span, the "played" and "earned" figures reveal a corresponding increase of $2,844,000 over last year, he said, —the figures representing sales activity of the company in the U. S., Canada, Central and South America, and all other foreign territories.

Kelly stated that "the health of United Artists has never been better. Every single member of our sales force in every one of our offices throughout the world has been imbued with a sole purpose—to do the best possible job of selling the films placed in our trust by the independent producers whose product we distribute. If they continue, through 1941, to perform as they have during the first half, then 1941 is certain to be one of the most successful that United Artists and our producers have yet had."

pictures prior to the showing in Waxmann's Atlantic City houses.

Columbia's contract with Waxmann's Hollywood and Astor Theaters provided for runs 14 and seven days after first-run on Atlantic Ave. but it did not specify the name of the first-run theater, although Waxmann's Colonial was customarily the first-run. Waxmann's attorney claimed that Clause No. 7 of the contract granted protection for the Colonial over the New Embassy, which opened June 7.

Morris Wexler. counsel for Columbia, who argued for the defendants, contended that since Columbia's contract with the Waxmann houses did not specify the name of the first-run house, Columbia was privileged to play its pictures first-run in the New Embassy or the Colonial and that Clause No. 7 did not apply to run but only to clearance. Wexler's contentions were accepted in their entirety by the court.

Irving Moross of the Columbia home office and Wexler acted for the defendants.

Court to Rule Today On Crescent Motions

progress for the past two and a half days. These motions are to dismiss Universal Pictures, Columbia Pictures, and United Artists as co-defendants, to strike out all the inter-office communications introduced as evidence, and to dismiss all charges against Crescent Amusement Company and officials of violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Universal Film Exchange, a subsidiary of Universal Pictures, has already been dismissed.

A statement made yesterday by Judge Davies that "except in one isolated instance, exhibitors have testified that they were able to get Universal and Columbia pictures" lends strength to the prediction that these "Little Three" distributors are almost certain to be dismissed today.

Judge Davies' Statement

Another important statement by Judge Davies during the day was to the effect that: "When I get through with this case, I want to be through with it altogether, that is unless the Supreme Court returns it to me." This statement was made in connection with a discussion of what the Government's original complaint prays as the relief demanded by the Department of Justice.

George H. Armistead, Jr., chief defense counsel, argued on a motion to strike out inter-office communications, provisionally admitted by Judge Davies.

Judge Davies stated that if the defense motion to strike is granted on the grounds of inadequate stipulations, he will allow the Government to reopen the case and call certain witnesses back to qualify certain communications as evidence. Plaintiff counsel are expected to make this request if action on the motion today is unfavorable.

William Waller, for the defense, in his argument for the Crescent motion to dismiss, declared that "the Government has failed to produce a single instance where an independent came into a town and offered equal competition with Crescent or its affiliates."

May Eliminate Some Defendants

Judge Davies in his closing statement estimated the possibility of the elimination of certain of the Crescent affiliates even though the motion to dismiss for Crescent and any or all other corporations may be denied. He stated that it is "no violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law for one corporation to own stock in another and a corporation is not a party to any violation if there is no evidence of acts of participation in a conspiracy." Lynch Amusement Co., Inc., New Strand Co., and Strand Enterprise Corp. were mentioned as those corporations most likely to profit by this interpretation by Judge Davies.

In case the Crescent motion to dismiss is denied, defense counsel are expected to ask for an adjournment of probably two weeks.

Boston Theaters In Grip of Slump

Boston—Hub business is off. For the first time since last Winter, downtown theaters actually report a decrease. When other parts of the country were shouting bad business and groping for aid, the Boston pix houses continued to pack them in and for a long period the proximity of the military camps and the throwing of millions of defense funds into this district unquestionably aided the Hub theater section tremendously. Now it's apparently different. Operators are hoping that the slump is a temporary one but are making no secret of the fact that it is a vital one at the moment.

All downtown theaters report decrease of from 10 to 50 per cent in business. The soldiers and sailors on leave over week-ends are apparently spending their time with their parents or their girl friends and not in picture shows.

Business took a sudden tumble and now the local exhibitors are asking one another and the public, "are there too many defense films being shown—has the propaganda gone too far" and in most instances they are receiving truthful replies from patrons or former patrons, "yes, we like a certain amount of the defense stuff, we enjoy the military pictures, but when it gets so that all entertainment value is gone and the picture theaters become purely propaganda mills, then we are through for the duration."

There is no discounting the fact that this feeling actually prevails here at the moment and Boston always one of the best of spots has become one of the problem children of the industry at the moment.

The Cape Cod theaters, which expected to pack them in, are slumping badly. The great number of Summer theaters with their virtual stock companies and their really well-played legitimate attractions also have cut a deep hole in the box office receipts of the cinema in this locality. There are no less than 40 Summer theaters within an easy drive from the Hub, some of them actually within 10 minutes of downtown Boston.

War Themes Color British Production

London (By Air Mail)—British production, which is thinking more and more of the U. S. market as a source of vital American exchange, is coming through with a program replete with war themes and backgrounds. That applies especially to native companies, although American outfits producing on this side are no exception.

Cuban "Protective" Measure Is a Headache

Havana (By Air Mail)—A further headache for U. S. distributors operating in Cuba is foreseen in a proposed bill to be sponsored by Dr. Marino Lopez Blanco, in the Cuban House, and Dr. Octavio Rivero in the Senate.

Styled a measure to protect the Cuban film industry, measure will ask that all Cuban theaters play one Cuban-produced picture and one foreign language picture a month. The foreign language picture would not be a U. S. picture, but would have to be in Spanish.

In addition, the measure will ask for a duty exemption on all materials imported into the country which are used for the production of native films.

A similar measure was later introduced in the House. Senate sub-committee appointed to look into the matter is expected to call Will H. Disney and 16 of Staff Leaving for So. Amer.

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Walt Disney and 16 members of studio staff will leave on Pan-American Airways for a minimum two months' stay in S. America where they will put into work a series of short animated pictures incorporating South American literature, legend, humour, music and customs.

They plan to work in close cooperation with many South American artists and musicians in preparation of the series although much of work will be done in American republics and by South American talent.

The pictures are to be designed primarily for the North American market. There is a strong possibility that Disney may eventually establish a permanent South American unit of his studio although no definite plans have been reached.

Orders Briefs in Minn. Anti-5 War

United Artists also being heard at this time, said they sought only a temporary injunction at present and would leave their action for a permanent injunction and a ruling as to the bill's constitutionality to the October term of Court.

Attorneys for plaintiffs pointed out that the United Artists suit was brought on a different basis since it is not a signatory of the consent decree. United Artists, it was claimed, could not exist in Minnesota under the movie bill because it could offer no full season's product for sale at one time as would be required by that bill.

Attorneys believed that Judge Hanft went into verbal arguments Friday in order to clear the ground so that he could make an early ruling on the briefs by September 1, thus permitting, provided he grants the injunction, sale of new season's product in Minnesota on the block-of-five basis.

Operator is Indicted On Explosion Charge

Meridian, Miss. — Leo Schwartz, operator, was indicted Friday in connection with an explosion in the Royal theater in which six persons were injured, several months ago. Two counts charged Schwartz with assault and battery, the third with malicious mischief.

Investigating officers said a makeshift time-bomb was set off under a section of seats while a crowd was in the theater.

Selznick Deal Rests With New UA Prexy

West Coast Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Final closing of the deal whereby David O. Selznick would become an owner-member of United Artists Corp. rests with the selection of a top executive, it is reported here. Selznick, it is said, will not sign the contract until he knows who UA's president is going to be.

Meanwhile, rumors of the possible president of the company continue to float around. Alexander Korda is reported to have done some negotiating on the matter in New York last week. He arrived over the week-end and is due to return East this week.

Western Pa. MPTOA Sets Up Reviewing Committee

ater Owners of Western Pennsylvania. Plan, which was approved by the board of directors, calls for each committee to attend all trade screenings in a given week and report its criticisms on a card specially prepared for easy classification.

It is pointed out by the organization that the system will give the membership ten opinion cards on each picture from which to draw conclusions. Posted on a blackboard in the association headquarters will be a classification on each picture, which will be the average consensus taken from the individual cards.

Each card calls for the title, producer, type of feature, period, entertainment value, box-office value, name of comparative feature of last season as regards story and entertainment, remarks, committee number, committee man number and running time. The cards will be unsigned.

Although the committee assertedly will work for the benefit of its members, the association urges that all who can should attend the trade shows personally.

Myers Suggests Industry Committee

policies and activities affecting everyone in the motion picture business were adopted and put into effect by one branch without consultation with other branches, or by a select group without consultation with the organized groups in the exhibition branch."

Continuing, Myers said:

"This method may have seemed expedient or politic from the standpoint of those formulating the policies or directing the activities, but it was not calculated to inspire confidence, insure co-operation, or achieve success.

"All branches of the industry have their organizations through which they function. Maybe they are not all-inclusive, but they are representative and are the only points of contact available.

"There is urgent need for frequent and friendly contact between such organizations or groups in the several branches to the end that policies and activities affecting all may, so far as legal and practicable, be shaped and adopted in such form as will work a minimum of hardship and command a maximum of support.

Problems of 1941-1942

"As stated in an earlier bulletin, it is unlikely that the suit against the non-consenting distributors can be settled by entry of a final decree before June 1, 1942. The final decree contemplated by Sec. XII (e) of the consent decree is one entered on mandate after an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. For such a decree to be entered in the time specified would break all records for speed in litigation.

"Therefore, in all probability, the provisions for tradeshowing and selling in blocks-of-five will be suspended and . . . of no binding force and effect upon any consenting defendant' after June 1, 1942.

"What form of selling will the consenting distributors adopt in lieu of the consent decree method, which will no longer be binding?

"Will the mistakes of 1940 be repeated and a selling method be devised without consultation with the organized exhibitors?

"The exhibitors will be vitally affected and their views and wishes should be considered.

"Also, the industry will be confronted with additional proposals for taxation, for co-operation in the defense effort, possibly for regulation.

"Must the several branches and organizations go it alone, or will they function through hand-picked groups, without the advise, co-operation or participation of all substantial, representative organizations?

"Unless liaison is improved, the industry will face—and invite—disaster.

Standing National Committee

"Why would it not be a good idea for the representative organizations in the several branches to form a joint committee, consisting of the duly appointed representatives of each, to meet from time to time to discuss matters of mutual interest and problems affecting all?

"Each organization or group, in order to participate, would have to be national, or at least interstate, in scope. Each would appoint its own representatives, for it has been demonstrated that the best results are not obtained when some outside agency undertakes to say who shall represent a particular organization.

"Such a committee would be as representative as any that could be formed. It could pave the way to a better understanding and more harmonious action. It could save the industry many costly blunders."

Let's Talk it Over

Nothing can be accomplished merely by putting forward such an idea in a bulletin. The plan must be discussed openly by all whose participation is necessary to carry it into operation.

The time and place to do this is Allied's all industry, down to business convention which will be held in Philadelphia on Sept. 16-18.

"TOOTSIE ROLLS" EVIDENCE

Pete Wood's Latest Bulletin Urges "Tootsie Roll" Used In Arbitration Hearing Be Smithsonian Exhibit

Pete Wood, secretary of the ITO of Ohio, whose bulletins are famous for their sense and nonsense, has issued another that may or may not find its way to the Movie Hall of Fame. Whether you are interested in Tootsie Rolls, arbitration or the consent decree, Pete's latest contribution should get your mind off the heat wave or the alleged lull in business. Here it is:

"In Cincinnati on Monday and Tuesday of this week, the undersigned sat through two arbitration cases relating to clearance and, though many exhibits were offered in evidence by the litigants, the most important one was a 'TOOTSIE ROLL.'

"Theater owners, attorneys, film salesmen, branch managers and district managers representing the five consenting film distributing companies traveled from afar to listen to the evidence but, when it was all summed up, 'TOOTSIE ROLLS' emerged as the main issue.

"This industry has suffered many evils which brought about conditions that made it necessary for both distributors and exhibitors to shorten their Winter vacations in Florida from four months to three but, after listening to the testimony in the two cases, I feel that a deluge of 'TOOTSIE ROLL' give-aways to children will not only bring the industry to the brink of ruin, but still further shorten these Florida vacations.

"In the future, many, many arbitration cases will be heard in various sections of the country but never, in the opinion of the undersigned, will such a unique exhibit as a 'TOOTSIE ROLL' be offered in evidence. Therefore, in order to perpetuate its memory, it is urged that this 'TOTSIE ROLL' be properly embalmed and preserved in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington as a symbol of the evils resorted to by those who would tear down a magnificent industry.

"Notwithstanding that during the two days' session the thermometer at all times registered in the nineties, and the many arguments entered into by the attorneys, both arbitrators remained calm ad exceedingly patient at all times and their interest in the cases was manifested by the many questions they propounded."

Matter was still in rumor stage at the end of the week.

Present Attendance Is Detroit's Concern

October anyway, as amended, and exhibitors have to worry about business today, not a few months ahead. Exhibitors typically are given to worrying about the future, but business in this area has been low enough for the past year so that we have to worry about the present, not the future. We will cross the bridge of adjusting to new employment levels created by auto quotas when we come to it."

Original 50 per cent quota is being modified in percentage and date for starting. Detroit is considered the boom town of America by the country at large, and is perhaps 35-40 per cent dependent on the automotive and allied industries.

Detroit's economic ups and downs have always looked several times as sensational to the rest of the country—as reflected both in business articles and in man-in-the-street conversations anywhere when the magic name of the town pops up—than they do right at home—hence the apparently paradoxical calm of exhibitors and distributors alike.

Theater business has not boomed during the recent defense production pickup—as proved in a recent survey made by FILM DAILY. Showgrosses are running about 35 per cent below a year ago in the bigger houses, while the neighborhoods, tending to lose trade to their big competitors, are off by 50 per cent This is the reason for exhibitors' concern with present problems, not possible future loss of business.

There has been a reasonable volume of unemployment in the town right along, and a high labor turnover. Unskilled or low skilled help in the lower pay brackets has been hard to get because of higher prices paid for factory jobs—but the turnover remains very high.

Readjustment to defense production as auto employment is cut is almost certain to be a lot more simply handled than is generally realized. High unemployment caused by such defense work would have such a drastic effect upon morale in view of the objective of defending the American standard of living, that national leaders are known to be united in favoring gradual readjustment, as a careful study of pronouncements from Washington in recent weeks has shown.

Two other factors will make the auto industry readjustment easier—one is that the industry enjoys whatever favored position is possible under today's conditions in the presence at the helm of defense activities of its own W. S. Knudsen. The other is the determination of organized labor to make the adjustment easy for labor. This is one plank on which AFL and CIO are united here, and any serious step to the contrary would likely precipitate a demonstration of unprecedented proportions, as indicated by the recent Ford strike and union contract.

The only serious menace visible to this prospect is the town's fatal attraction for a shifting carpetbag regiment that hitch-hikes here when things are reported booming, largely from the South Central states, causing overcrowding and providing some considerable added burden of unemployment by their competition for jobs with local residents.

Usherettes Looming

New Haven—With increased turnover in usher staffs and beginning of the school term in view, downtowns face a shortage of ushers which may result in employment of usherettes, managers state.

HOLLYWOOD-OF-THE-ARMY

By CHARLES ALICOATE

Fort Monmouth, N. J.

THIS may be an army camp to some folks but it's just a breath of Hollywood to a visiting fireman in the film business. It's no wonder they call Fort Monmouth "Hollywood of the Army": Uncle Sam very considerately has rounded up most of the draftees, enlisted men and reserve officers from Flickerland and deposited them gently in one spot where they can all talk the same language, whether it's printable or not.

Here you will find script writers, cutters, cameramen, producers, directors, actors and technicians—all part of the 20th Signal Service Company and Fort Monmouth is their permanent home, except when units are sent to the various branches of the Army where on-the-spot pictures are shot.

Hearing about this "detached Hollywood" from men who wanted to keep on getting the "Dear Ol' FILM DAILY," we decided to go visiting and the trip was an eye-opener.

The laboratory here is in command of Lt.-Col. Melvin E. Gillette, a member of the SMPE and long active in Army pictorial and visual educational fields. He was in Washington when we arrived but Captain Gordon Rigby consented to act as our host. Captain Rigby is a veteran laboratory man, screen writer and former Columbia Pictures scenarist.

The 20th Signal Service Co. headquarters now contained in the Training Film Production Laboratory building includes facilities for making any type of sound picture and uses almost every device available to Coast studios. Organization includes a large animation department, a miniature deprtment, script writers, cutters, cameramen, producers, directors, actors, and other technicians. A new building, soon to be constructed for the expanding outfit, is expected to include a laboratory, sound stages, and a larger projection room.

Script department is supervised by Capt. Rigby. Personnel and their former occupations include Pvt. Berk Anthony, Disney; Corp. Pete Barker, television stage manager; Corp. William Bloom, Columbia Eastern story editor; Pvt. Richard Blake, WKRC program director; Sgt. Robert Churchill, Documentary Films; Corp. Franklyn E. Coen, screenplay writer; Pvt. Lester Cooper, Coast writer and publicity; Pvt. Douglas R. Kennedy, writer; Corp. Arthur Lewis, associate producer on the "Jones Family" and "Cisco Kid" series; Pvt. Eugene Mudge, writer; Sgt. Edmund H. North, author of "One Night of Love"; Pvt. Donald Robinson writer, whose play "Once Upon a Time" is expected on Broadway this Fall; Pvt. Robert W. Russell Bell & Howell.

Pvt. Granville Scofield, writer on "Li'l Abner"; Pvt William T. Serton, WHO and WOC, Devenport; Corp. Sol Shor, actor in Republic serials; Pvt. Richard B. Strouse, ghost writer; Pvt. Joseph A. Thompson; Pvt. Lester Copper, writer of Warner shorts; Pvt. Arthur R. Wilmurt, Yale Dramatic Dept., and Pvt. Garson Kanin RKO director.

Mexico "Neely Bill" Shelved for a Year

sional committee is to be stripped of its provisions banning block-booking and restricting the number of foreign features which may be exhibited in Mexican theaters, leaving only those sections which relate to support of the native industry. Whether the bill even in that form will be pressed to passage is uncertain.

The majors' representatives here and several members of the Asocciation Mexicana de Productores y Distribuidores de Peliculas (Mexican Association of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors), discussing the bill with the Congressmen who authored it, held that such a measure would prove more harmful than beneficial to the Mexican picture industry. They managed to bring the backers of the bill around to their point of view and persuaded them that a shortage of films would result from its being made law.

Neither Mexican studios nor any others, they pointed out, could furnish Mexican exhibitors with enough pictures to keep the film theaters of the country open unless the total output of the major American film makers were available.

The managers of the American distributing companies here are satisfied that the danger of any such measure being passed has been dispelled for at least some time.

Rides for Aluminum

Derry, N. H.—A new twist was added to an aluminum matinee staged for children at the Plaza Theater here. Besides being admitted to the show for a piece of the national defense material, two free airplane rides over Derry were offered to the boy and girl making the nearest guess on the total weight of the aluminum pile.

Columbia Dismissed From Crescent Suit

Nu-Strand Co., Crescent affiliates, were granted. A motion by Defense Attorney George H. Armistead, Jr., to strike from the records all inter-office communications was likewise denied although elimination of Columbia as a defendant and co-conspirator automatically removes all of its communications from the record.

It was explained by the court that motions in behalf of Kentucky Amusement Co. and Lyric Amusement Co. were not granted because both are involved in distributor franchises now existing with Crescent and affiliates. Motion to dismiss Muscle Shoals Theaters was denied on same grounds. Neither Strand or Nu-Strand were parties to any franchises or joint contracts.

Universal Must Explain

Judge Davies, in ruling on the motion to dismiss Universal, admitted that until 30 minutes before ruling he was inclined to grant the motion to remove this member of the "Little Three" from the case. However, he pointed out, there must be an explanation to the court about a deal in Union City with J. D. Henry for 1938-39 pictures. Testimony shows that such a contract was drawn and that the exhibitor was instructed to come to Memphis and get it, that he made a trip to the Universal exchange in Memphis but failed to see the manager. Later he contacted the exchange manager and was informed that his contract was voided and the year's product (first-run) had been sold to the competing Crescent house. Later Henry did contract for Universal second-run for this same year.

Judge Davies announced denial of the United Artists' motion without reviewing the evidence. There were only two isolated instances where Columbia's dealings with an exhibitor were mentioned in the testimony and in one instance Judge Davies frankly admitted that he questioned the credibility of the witness testifying.

A motion of Crescent defense counsel to dismiss R. E. Bauch, serving in various official capacities with the defendant corporations, was denied, with Judge Davies admitting that "he may be less involved than the other principal defendants, (Sudekum and Stengel)."

Explains Strand Dismissal

In granting the motion to dismiss Strand Enterprises Corp., as a defendant in the case, Judge Davies stated that G. W. Haynes of Ridgeway, Tenn., president of the organization, according to the evidence given, has not been "guilty of any acts complained of by the Government and is not a party to any of the franchises." Haynes did acquire some theaters in competition with him, but the court held that "the mere matter of eliminating competition without using objectionable methods is not a violation of the Sherman Act."

There was nothing in any ruling or any statement made by the court to indicate any change in the "co-conspirator" relations of the "big five" to the suit.

Immediately after reading of the rulings on the motions, Defense Attorney Armistead applied for a "four to five weeks' recess to allow defense attorneys to prepare their case," but such a lengthy recess was strongly opposed by Robert L. Wright, for the Government, who pointed to the fact that the Department of Justice has a staff of eight people here at a high expense. A recess of one week was finally decided upon.

The application for the charter was signed by a number of members of the Detroit Theater Managers and Assistant Managers, an AF of L organization, according to Clayton Bordner, attorney for the DTSE, who also states this is the first charter ever granted and the first place that the CIO has ever stepped into the theatrical field in the United States.

Bordner claims the DTSE represents a majority of theater employes and a number of crafts in the theater which have been AF of L associates for several years.

Say Crescent Charges Are Not Sustained

fense testimony will completely "take care of" all testimony offered by the Government in the five weeks that the hearing has been in progress.

Edward H. Raftery, counsel for Universal Pictures and United Artists, declared in open court Friday: "This suit (against the three distributors) has been brought for the purpose of forcing Universal, United Artists, and Columbia to come under the consent decree. If it fails, the 'Big Five' will come out in 1942. The 'Big Five' want us in and we don't expect any help from them in this suit." Raftery asks only two hours when the defense testimony begins in which to completely clear away the one-witness testimony which prevented Universal from being dismissed as a defendant.

William Waller, associated with George H. Armistead in defending Crescent and its affiliates, in supporting a motion to dismiss charges against his clients, declared (unchallenged) that every independent theater involved in the hearing has at all times had all the distributor connections that the Government says they should have. The Government's "theory," maintained by Wright, is that "in order to operate successfully a first-run theater must have for exhibition a substantial number of the feature pictures" released by "three or more of the defendant distributors each year." The second-run houses "should be able to exhibit on second-run a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year."

The Government's complaint, printed copies of which were made available to the press Friday, divides the Government's charges against defendants into four divisions (A-B-C-D), but that plaintiff has offered proof only under Division A.

The statement of Judge Davies, in ruling on the motions Friday, that the Strand and the Nu-Strand Corporations were being dismissed because they are not "in any of the franchises" and that Columbia was released because it was not a party to any franchise or blanket contracts with exhibitors, leads to the conclusion that the court considers these franchises and contracts as the strongest evidence against those defendants not dismissed. "73-situation contract" or series of contracts, is figuring heavily in the testimony.

"The Little Foxes"

with Bette Davis, Herbert Marshall, Patricia Collinge, Teresa Wright

RKO 116 Mins.

A GREAT STAGE PLAY TRANSFORMED INTO A GREAT SCREEN DRAMA; SHOULD PILE UP IMPRESSIVE GROSSES EVERYWHERE.

Samuel Goldwyn has given the screen a great dramatic production. Too often, in the transcription of a stage play to the screen, certain values inherently necessary to the development of a play vanish on its way to Hollywood. Not in this case. Nothing is lost. The production has gained in stature and blossomed forth with new dramatic power and beauty.

All credit to Goldwyn for treating Lillian Hellman's play with the proper objective reverence and respect. The splendid direction of William Wyler is in large part responsible for a film that sheds its stage trappings with dignity and theatrical magnificience.

Lillian Hellman, the author, has made some slight alterations for the screen version and all for the better. Inclusion of the role of the young newspaperman who loves the daughter of the Giddens lifts the screen play above the almost too-realistic happenings of the stage vehicle by adding a much-needed romantic note of hope to the proceedings. Arthur Kober, Dorothy Kober and Alan Campbell can share praise for their contribution in the way of additional dialogue.

While showmen may eye the cast and quickly spot Bette Davis and Herbert Marshall for marquee names, they will discover the film contains a number of superlative performances. Miss Davis' role as Regina Giddens is custom-made for her and she fills it beautifully. Looking as if she stepped out of a Gibson Girl portrait, her portrayal of the scornful, selfish and cruel Mrs. Giddens will win her new honors.

Among the newcomers, stardom undoubtedly beckons to Teresa Wright whose acting is marked by a poignant beauty and grace. From the stage cast, Patricia Collinge should be far in the lead when Academy Awards are passed out for supporting performances. Her acting is the kind that grips at one's throat. There is a faded magnificence about her part as the aunt who comes from one of the fine, old families of the South, who suffers a quick disillusionment when she marries into the more commercial Hubbards.

Herbert Marshall as the invalid husband who dies because of the calloused indifference of Miss Davis handles his role well. Charles Dingle, from the stage cast, does his role as one of the Hubbards and Miss Davis' brother, with the same degree of excellence. So do Carl Benton Reid, Dan Duryea and Jessica Grayson who are also from the stage cast. Carlson shines along with the rest of the group.

Story is a gripping dramatic tale of the efforts of a Southern family to capitalize on the new industrialism which comes to the South at the turn of the century. Regina Giddens and her brothers exemplify the greed of this new materialism. Miss Davis is not to be thwarted in her desire for wealth in getting a cotton factory started. She allows her husband, who opposes her wishes, to die when he begs for medicine which would give him life. What she does not count on is her daughter walking out of her life and the evil influences which surround her and her brothers.

Canadian Theaters Feeling 20% Tax

central Canada and the maritime provinces, where one or two centers report theater attendance has gained despite the price increase. In the cities, attendance has held up better in the downtown shows than in the neighborhood theaters, although the decline was general just after the tax went into effect May 19.

Largest single exhibitor, Famous Players Canadian Corp. has been insulated from the effects of the tax to some extent by the ability to balance poor receipts in one section against better results in others. Several theaters have been added to the Famous Players circuit and a number removed, with the result that the number of theaters opeated is about the same as at the end of 1940, about 330, or nearly a third of the Canadian total.

try. The Nazis also have a degree of control over pictures made in unoccupied zone, demanding a say in the nature of the films produced along with details of the stars and technicians to be employed.

Under the regulations in occupied France the Germans will direct film censorship, influencing the type and trend of films made. Pictures must contain nothing to embarrass the German or French Governments or the Nazi military command. Newsreels may not conatin anything against Germany or the military command nor make any mention of the German army, navy or air force or the disposition or movement of any troops. No allusion is permitted to General de Gaulle or Great Britain nor polemics about the armistice with France. Any reference to diplomatic news must be confined to those issued by the German official news agency or given on German broadcasts in France.

Similar regulations are enforced under the new regulations in theaters and music halls.

PICKUP IN TRADESHOW ATTENDANCE

Exhibitors Showing Greater Interest in Screenings; Warners Draw Heavy Crowds at Initial Presentation

A general pickup in attendance at tradeshows and greater interest in the innovation are indicated in reports from the field. Pressure by exhibitor organizations and a realization by theater men that the screenings offer a definite service are given as reasons for the increased interest. In some exchange centers preparations are being made to take care of overflow audiences of exhibitors.

In New York yesterday, Warner Bros. initiated its tradeshows to capacity crowds. Representatives of more than 500 theaters attended the screenings of "Navy Blues," "The Smiling Ghost" and "International Squadron."

regarding their efforts to service the Lawn Theater, which met with failure due to inability to agree on terms.

James Steininger, Lawn Theater owner, contended his 20-cent admission charge eontitled him to second week, general release, which was not sustained by the arbitrator, Richard F. Kuhns.

Phil Davis was attorney for the plaintiff and Aaron Stein for the Joseph Stern circuit. Rud Lohrenz, Warner manager, filed a brief for his company in the case. Costs will be shared equally by Steininger and the Joe Stern circuit.

N. H. Arbitrator Refuses To Dismiss Complaint

New Haven—Hearing of New Haven's third arbitration complaint. that of Fred Quatrano, owner of the new Newington, Newington, under construction, against the consenting distributors, has been continued to August 20 after a full day Thursday at the local tribunal office. Newington asks for a clearance arrangement of seven days after New Britain, instead of the 30 days offered by distributors.

Arbitrator A. A. Ribicoff, judge of the City Court of Hartford, overruled the motions of respondents and intervenors, Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corporation, operator of the first-run houses in New Britain, and Jeter Perakos, operator of the Palace, second-run, to dismiss the complaint. Defendant attorneys maintained that there was no arbitrable complaint, since no actual contracts with New Newington existed as yet, there was no fixed clearance, no experience as to policy, admissions, competition, film rentals, etc., factors to be considered under Section VIII of the decree.

Vitagraph, Inc.'s motion to dismiss the complaint on the grounds that under Section XVII, the arbitrator could not rule as to how Vitagraph should sell its "wholly owned subsidiary," Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corporation, was also denied, complainant objecting, and the arbitrator holding his decision in abeyance for introduction of proof.

All-Out USO Support Urged at Luncheon

collections which commence in circuit and indie stands on Labor Day and continue through that week.

In introducing Chairman Bernhard, Van Schmus asserted that some 90 per cent of film houses in the New York area are now under the USO banner, and that only one circuit is currently a campaign absentee, but that it "can't stay out." He said that $217,000 is the local collection quota of some 674 theaters, and, while this may seem large, it nevertheless represents the section's proportionate share.

Strengthen Position

Through the USO drive, Van Schmus declared, the theaters can appreciably strengthen the industry's position with the public.

Bernhard, in a brief yet powerful address, cited the fact that Thomas E. Dewey, national director of the USO campaign, had suggested the film theater drive, despite the fact that the original goal of $10,000,000 had been attained, on the premise that the number of draftees will be doubled over the originally anticipated number, and consequently the drive would have to look to added channels,—one of which is the nation's theaters—, to raise the additional funds for USO.

Presenting a plea for "all out" co-operation of theater men, as well as producer-distributor interests, Bernhard memorialized the gathering that certain channels have recently maligned filmland in the matter of the issuance of propaganda films plus other unwarranted charges, and that this drive is an opportunity for the theaters to join in doing something in the way of solid refutation, and for the boys in the service of the armed forces.

Seek $1,500,000

The plan, he said, is to raise $1,500,000 via the theaters nationally, and that currently some 2,300 indie houses have pledged their full support. Together with circuit stands the co-operating theaters now number over 4,000, and by the time Labor Day arrives the expectancy is in excess of 12,000 theaters.

In response to a question by Leo Brecher as to the availability to houses of collection-aiding personnel, A. P. Waxman, publicity head of the industry's drive here, said that, in instances where the house staffs were limited in numbers, USO would furnish personable young women to aid in the collections.

Van Schmus called attention to the 400-foot trailer which M-G-M has compiled for the drive. This will be furnished to houses via National Screen Service. He added that the trailer, to be most effective, should be shown in a program spot other than when audiences were entering the theater or exiting.

Raw stock manufacturers, he concluded have been most co-operative with the drive, as have film laboratories.

"Hole-in-One" Doob—New Name

Oscar Doob, director of advertising and publicity for Loew's theaters, did NOT become a father yesterday and he did NOT fall heir to a fortune. But anybody would think something equally important happened. He made a hole in one at Glen Oaks on the fifth hole and the excitement may keep him in bed for a week. Doob was playing in a threesome with Mrs. Doob and S. I. Newhouse, newspaper publisher.

letters were from prominent exhibitors.

Brandt pointed out that such an organization would have to be started with outside initiative and that he would not want any member of the ITOA to be at its head or on the directorate. But, he declared, the ITOA would be an active link. Exhibitors have declared, he said, that they would like to have such a man as James A. Farley or Wendell Willkie as president.

No further action will be taken on the step until more letters of endorsement are received, Brandt said.

REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS

"Navy Blues"

with Ann Sheridan, Jack Oakie, Martha Raye, Jack Haley.
Warners 108 Mins.

GOOD SHARE OF ENTERTAINMENT IN THIS ROLLICKING, BOISTEROUS, FARCE.

(In Warner's First Block)

Zippy and zany, "Navy Blues," is a solid program picture sparkling with entertainment and feminine pulchritude. It might be a bit rough for the kiddies in spots but is filled with fun for the folks and the tired business man.

Supplementing the comedy is a number of unpretentious musical sequences which feature the principals, particularly Ann Sheridan. At her revealing best, Miss Sheridan is highly satisfactory in her vocal numbers. One, especially, "You're a Natural," should be well received.

Film teams up Jack Oakie and Jack Haley as a pair of slap-happy gobs who are always getting in and out of trouble because of Oakie's ideas and fast talking. This pair of Jacks rate high for laughs and even trump their gag men. Both are stage-wise comedians and play all situations to the hilt.

In this mad melange, Martha Raye finds herself somewhat overshadowed but holds her end up effectively. Miss Raye and Miss Sheridan are coupled in one standard musical number.

Lloyd Bacon has given the proceedings brisk direction. Script by Jerry Wald, Richard Macaulay and Arthur T. Horman is uneven but filled at times with snappy dialogue.

All the fun begins when Oakie and Haley discover the star gunner of another ship will be transferred to their ship, the Cleveland. Under the impression, they are the only two who know of the transfer, Oakie and Haley get their shipmates to invest in some bets with sailors from the other ships at juicy odds.

After making the bets, Oakie and Haley find out the gun-pointer, Herbert Anderson, yearns for his farm and will not renew his enlistment which is up before the gunnery trials. Frantic, the two gobs enlist the aid of Miss Sheridan and Miss Raye. Haley is married to the latter but joined up with the Navy after his wedding and as a result has Miss Raye on his trail. Anderson falls in love with Miss Sheridan and decided to remain in the Navy for her sake. Only when he is sure she loves him does he regain his shooting eye and save the day for the gobs of the Cleveland.

Miss Sheridan is an attractive standout despite the presence of a gorgeous group of girls known as the "Navy Blues Sextet." Peggy Diggins, Georgia Carroll, Loraine Gettman, Marquerite Chapman, Katharine Aldridge and Claire James are the eye-filling sexsome. Anderson is convincing as the gob with the rural background. Supporting cast including Jack Carson, Jackie C. Gleason, Richard Lane and John Ridgely is up to par.

"Life Begins For Andy Hardy" with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Fay Holden, Ann Rutherford, Sara Haden, Patricia Dane, Ray McDonald

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)
M-G-M 100 Mins.

LATEST "HARDY FAMILY" UPHOLDS THE REPUTATION OF THE SERIES. NEOPHYTE PAT DANE LOOKS A WINNER.

It grows somewhat tiresome reading that one "Hardy Family" film after another is better than the last, but it seems that with each assignment the actors get a stronger feel of the characters they portray and consequently appear to better advantage.

The script of "Life Begins" is, of course, by Agnes Christine Johnstone. It has all the homey charm and philosophy of the former films and a brand new field for Andy—that of manhood. Fred Guiol's direction is smooth and takes advantage of every talent possessed by the leading players.

A newcomer to the series, Patricia Dane, shows great promise. With proper exploitation she could be responsible for a lot of people coming to see this picture. Another newcomer, Ray McDonald, gives an excellent, touching performance as the down-and-out tap dancer. Judy Garland gives her usual fine account of herself.

The plot deals with the attempt of 18 year-old Mickey to prove his ability to care for himself alone in New York. With Judy Garland as his only friend in the city, he starts out full of hope to make his fortune, only to discover that the going was tougher than he had thought.

Close to actual starvation, he finds a job through benefactress-villian Patricia Dane and proves he can hold it to his own and his family's satisfaction—then returns to his home to go to college as his parents wished.

There is a lot to the picture. Lots of entertainment and good common horse-sense. It's for all ages.

CAST: Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Fay Holden, Ann Rutherford, Sara Haden, Patricia Dane, Ray McDonald.

CREDITS: Director, George B. Seitz; Screenplay, Agnes Christine Johnston; Based upon the characters created by Aurania Rouverol; Cameraman, Lester White; Art Director, Cedric Gibbons; Associate, Harry McAfee; Editor, Elmo Veron; Musical Director, Georgie Stoll.

"Forty Thousand Horsemen" with Grant Taylor, Betty Bryant Goodwill 85 Mins.

AUSTRALIAN CAVALRY MAKES THIS ROMANTIC DRAMA INTERESTING AND AT TIMES SPECTACULAR.

With the Anzacs in the public eye, print, and front lines of Democracy's defense, "Forty Thousand Horsemen" takes on an uncommon interest for U. S. filmgoers, because it reveals the spirit, dash and fighting texture of the men from "Down Under." In character, its title notwithstanding, the film is entertainment, its makers having injected into it the overtone of romance, supplied by the mutual love of an Aussie for a brave and alluring French girl whose father has been hung by the Germans.

The action takes place during World War No. 1, and the Near East is the locale. Here was waged history's greatest cavalry campaign, and the scope of the operations is vividly portrayed via the participation in the footage of two divisions of horsemen, co-operatively assigned to the production by the Government of the Australian Commonwealth. To this reviewer, the scenes of the Australian Light Horse silhouetted against the horizon, and charging with abandon down the desert dune-slopes are worth the price of admission. They overshadow in impressiveness all else in the picture.

The story itself,—covering a major military operation,—is of necessity rather sketchy. But it imparts a great deal withal. Charles Chauvel, who produced and directed, never lets the saga-like elements outdistance entirely the love interest. Grant Taylor has the lead as "Red Gallagher," and the femme top spot is assigned to Betty Bryant. Human interest is frequent, springing from the association of Taylor and his two pals,—the latter killed dramatically in battle.

On the technical side, the production falls considerably short of Hollywood standards, but, in compensation, it is more realistic and true-ringing than the Coast might have made it.

CAST: Grant Taylor, Betty Bryant, "Chips" Rafferty, Pat Twohill, Harvey Adams, Eric Rieman, Joe Valli, Albert C. Winn, Kenneth Brampton, John Fleeting, Harry Abdy, Norman Maxwell, Pat Penny, Charles Zoli, Claude Turtin, Theo Lianos, Sgt. Roy Mannix, Edna Emmett, Vera Kandy, Iris Kennedy, Joy Hart.

CREDITS: Producer and Director, Charles Chauvel; Photography, George Heath; Film Editor, William Shepherd; Sound, Arthur Smith, Clive Cross; Art Director, Eric Thompson; Exterior Art Director and Special Effects, J. Alan Kenyon; Music Score, Lindley Evans, in collaboration with Willy Redstone, Alfred Hill; Military Advisers, Major G. H. Ferguson, Sergeant Roy Mannix; Assistant Director, Ronald Whelan; Additional Exterior Photography, Capt. Frank Hurley, Tasman Higgins.

"Tillie the Toiler"

features Kay Harris with William Tracy, Daphne Pollard, George Watts, Jack Arnold, Marjorie Reynolds
(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)
Columbia 67 Mins.

FIRST OF ROBERT SPARKS' NEW COMIC-STRIP SERIES WELL-CAST AND PLEASES KIDS. OKAY FOR FAMILY TRADE.

Although it lacks the solidity of Producer Robert Sparks' other comic strip films, the "Blondie" series, "Tillie the Toiler," the first of a new set, shows enough promise that a prediction of equal popularity at some future date is not too far out of line.

The well-known characters, with Kay Harris, a newcomer playing Tillie; William Tracy as Mac; and Daphne Pollard, Jack Arnold and Gèorge Watts as "Mom," "Whipple" and "The Boss," respectively, play well with the casting of Watts probably the smartest deal of the lot.

Sidney Salkow's direction from Karen DeWolf's screenplay captured the pace of the strip and should satisfy Tillie's followers.

Employed by Simpkins and Company, dress manufacturers, because everyone including the boss has fallen for her, Kay Harris, an unbelievably dumb stenography student, begins a series of mistakes on her first day that look as though they will finish the firm, but, of course, sends business zooming.

She, with the aid of William Tracy, gets her employer head over heels in debt by arranging an expensive fashion show while he is out of town—with the wrong artist's styles. George Watts arrives too late to stop the show, and when he finally, after near apoplexy, sees what a wonderful thing this dumb girl has done for his business, he makes Mac his general manager and Kay gets a bonus.

At the preview the kids seemed to enjoy it greatly. If the reaction throughout the country is the same, Columbia might have another successful series for the family trade.

CAST: Kay Harris, William Tracy, George Watts, Daphne Pollard, Jack Arnold, Marjorie Reynolds, Bennie Bartlett, Stanley Brown, Ernest Truex, Franklin Pangborn, Sylvia Field, Edward Gargan, Harry Tyler.

CREDITS: Producer, Robert Sparks; Director, Sidney Salkow; Author, Karen DeWolf, based upon the comic strip created by Russ Westover and owned and copyrighted by King Features Syndicate, Inc.; Screenplay, Karen DeWolf, Francis Martin; Cameramen, Henry Freulich and Philip Tannura; Editor, Gene Milford; Art Director, Lionel Banks; Musical Director, M. ☆ REVIEWS OF THE NEW FILMS ☆

"International Squadron" with Ronald Reagan, Olympe Bradna, James Stephenson

Warners 87 Mins.

TIMELY AND WELL DONE ACTION DRAMA LOOKS LIKE BOX-OFFICE WINNER.

(In Warner's First Block)

Warners zooms off to a fast start with this timely account of an American stunt flier who joins the R. A. F. It is a meaty tale filled with excitement and spins along at a vigorous pace under Lothar Mendes' keen direction.

Film features Ronald Reagan and it is the best part the young and personable actor has had to date. He gives a credible portrayal as the wise-cracking stunt flier who upsets a few apple carts before going to his death in a flaming bier.

Background scenes of the R. A. F. have an authentic touch to them while some skilled editing of London under a "blitz" gives the picture a highly realistic note. While pattern of story is a familiar one, audiences will find the doings of the R. A. F. topical and interesting.

As a well-known stunt flier, Reagan flies over a bomber to London with his mechanic pal, Cliff Edwards. His friends, James Stephenson and William Lundigan, asks him to join up with the R. A. F. Idea has no appeal to Reagan until he experiences a night bombing in London.

Reagan's yen for women is what gets him into trouble. Stephenson's wife is an old girl friend of his. Reagan skips that hurdle and retains Stephenson's friendship. Because he is out with Olympe Bradna, sweetheart of a Frenchman with the International Squadron, Reagan's buddy, Lundigan, is killed when he takes Reagan's place on a patrol.

To make up for these occurrences, Reagan slugs the Frenchman who has been assigned to a dangerous solo bombing mission and takes his place in the plane. Reagan goes out alone to a sure death but accomplishes his objective before he is shot down.

Loss the studio suffered in the passing of James Stephenson is sadly evident. The actor's last role as the British flight captain is splendidly portrayed.

Barry Trivers adaptation from the original story by Frank Wead is marked by some punchy dialogue.

CAST: Ronald Reagan, James Stephenson, Julie Bishop, Cliff Edwards, Reginald Denny, Olympe Bradna, William Lundigan, John Ridgley, Joan Perry, Addison Richards, Holmes Herbert, Crawford Kent, Charles Irwin.

CREDITS: Associate Producer, Edmund Grainger; Director, Lothar Mendes; Screenplay, Barry Trivers; Original Story, Frank Wead; Cameraman, James Van Trees; Film Editor, Frank McGee; Assistant Director, Jesse Hibbs; Sound, Robert B. Lee; Dialogue Director, Esdras Hartley.

DIRECTION, Good. PHOTOGRAPHY, Excellent.

"Dive Bomber" Premiere

"Dive Bomber" had its world premiere last night at three theaters in San Diego with a distinguished first night audience of Naval officials, officers, Warner executives and Hollywood players and hand.

"The Smiling Ghost"

with Wayne Morris, Brenda Marshall, Alan Hale

Warners 71 Mins.

SPOOKY COMEDY WELL SPICED WITH LAUGHS A GOOD PROGRAM PICTURE.

(In Warner's First Block)

Fortunately for the film, all hands concerned do not take the proceedings too seriously and the result is a minor program picture studded with laughs. It is enjoyable comedy melodrama and will do more than its share as a dual supporter.

A comely heiress, Alexis Smith, is called "The Kiss of Death Girl" because three of her former suitors met untimely ends. Not-so-prosperous college graduate, Wayne Morris, is hired by the girl's grandmother to become the suitor for a month.

Willie Best, Morris' colored assistant, accompanies him to the girl's house. There a newspaper reporter, Brenda Marshall, informs him of the danger of his new position. But attracted by Miss Smith's blonde beauty, Morris stays on to track down the party responsible for the crime. A midnight wedding which is almost completed brings the killer out. When Miss Marshall disappears, Morris realizes he loves her. He gets the "ghost" and the girl.

Sliding doors, graveyard suspense and all the reliable props are trotted out for melodramatic effect. Lewis Seiler has directed with full appreciation for comedy situations. Morris is excellent as the awkward, boyish hero. But colored Willie Best, who gets all the fat lines, practically steals the picture and garners most of the laughs.

Brunette Miss Marshall stacks up favorably against Miss Smith. There is a good supporting cast headed by Alan Hale, who is funny as the butler, and Helen Westley as the grandmother, Kenneth Gamet's script is okay for laughs.

Hollywood, will use the same channel. It, too, contemplates utilizing the equipment of its experimental television station.

This is the first "shot in the arm" commercial tele has received since the inauguration of visual broadcast service on a full-fledged commercial basis.

Granting of construction permits for these two stations marks the entry into commercial television of two of the most active experimenters in visual broadcasting. With actual sponsorship scheduled to start shortly, the new stations will supply the Mid-West and the Pacific Coast with tele service which thus for has been limited to advertisers and viewers in New York. For a month and a half NBC's WNBT station in New York had dominated the commercial tele field.

Possibility of inter-city rivalry is foreseen with the inauguration of sponsored tele in the Western metropolitan areas. Switchover from experimental to commercial transmission will be facilitated by the fact that both Zenith and Don Lee have pioneered in experimental tele.

Abe Stone Files Action Against Vita. in Albany

Albany—Abe Stone, of the Eagle Theater Corp. brought action in special sessions, Supreme Court, here Friday against Vitagraph Pictures, Inc., seeking an order restraining Vitagraph from releasing pictures to Warners' new local nabe house, Delaware Theater, ahead of the Eagle.

Leonard Rosenthal, Troy attorney active in Allied organization, represented Stone, claiming breach of contract in that the Eagle deal Vitagraph product did not provide for any new theater with priority clearance. Gist of point is that the Delaware, opened July 15, replaced the Albany Theater, another Warner house in the run table, the Albany having seven days over the Eagle.

Sam Aronowitz, Albany attorney appearing for Vitagraph, stated that the Delaware is not an intervening run under the contract and that the house is much farther away from the Eagle than the Albany, answering Appellant's contention as to same competitive zone. Both sides were given a week to file briefs with Supreme Court Justice Harry Shirick at Kingston, with decision reserved.

Rosenthal stated that a similar injunction in the South against 20th Century-Fox had been settled by stipulation out of court.

May Drop New York Case Against Three

for not having to be brought to trial in the New York equity suit, Universal, United Artists and Columbia would voluntarily become a part of the arbitration system without being subject to the blocks-of-five and tradeshow provisions.

In the hearings before Judge Goddard, counsel for the "Little Three" expressed a willingness several times to bring the three companies under that part of the consent decree which provided for arbitration of disputes.

Hearings in the Crescent case continue on Monday.

Biggest Training Film Now Goes Into Cutting

Ft. Monmouth, N. J.—Shooting has been completed and editing now begins on the biggest single training film project to be attempted by the Army. The film is a 15-reeler on "The Three-Inch Anti-Aircraft Gun Battery," with exteriors taken at Cape Edwards on Cape Cod. The script was started over a year ago, shooting commenced in April, and another two months will be needed to ready the picture.

Capt. Paul Wing is the officer in charge of the Unit, with Lt. John Kleinschmidt assisting. Bill Widmayer, crack March of Time lenser, has headed the camera crew which includes Jules Bricken, and John Connolly.

The cutting job, supervised by Col. Albert Shaff, has had as many as seven cutters on it at one time. Shaff did Hollywood editing on the "Dr. Christian" series and has used this project in breaking in new men for Army methods. The training film approach must be given to the new men, however experienced they may be. Jason Bernie (the old maestro's son) has done a major part of the cutting, with Bob Hoover (formerly with Columbia) also handling considerable editing.

Argentine Film Biz Changed by War

nice press comments rather than by box-office successes which they didn't need.

Such successes could be hardly expected. Only two first-run houses in B. A. are exclusively dedicated to Argentine pictures, all the rest featuring foreign; in first place, of course, U. S. films. Only half a dozen of the Argentine films shown had a second week's run in the industry's show windows while most of them made their appearance a few weeks after release in obscure suburban houses.

Movies in the interior were inclined to show Argentine films provided that they could be had at extremely low rates. Exports to Latin-America and to Spain were disappointingly low, with proceeds even lower.

Limit to Sacrifices

There is a limit, of course, to sacrifices especially if business generally is bad—and it is rather bad at the present time. Unlike Brazil Argentina produces only a few articles important for U. S. rearmament—such as wool, hides, and some metals. But there are 12 million tons of maize waiting vainly for a chance to be exported; the same is true of wheat. Although two-thirds of the country's fuel needs are covered by Argentine petroleum, higher prices for imported coal and oil and scarcity of imported raw materials, together with the active totalitarian propaganda, which has been responsible for the ban on "The Great Dictator" and "Pastor Hall"—all this has created a certain unrest which makes it advisable even for the wealthy landowners to restrict their hobbies such as the financing of film production. Thus, the alternative before Argentine producers is to make production self-supporting—or to resign. While general expenses are low, already efforts have been made to cut down the payroll—but the number of popular actors is limited and they insist upon rather high fees, up to $10,000 for each film.

Success of Mexican Pix

While the industry is making its maximum effort to improve the quality of its production, at the same time trying to secure government credits without government interference, its development is menaced by the surprising success of Mexican films distributed by Distribuidora Panamericana. This success is not due to the quality of the films but to the story which, contrary to that in practically all Argentine films, tells about simple human and social relations, instead of exploiting the badly abused comedy of errors which forms the basis of most Argentine film stories.

Next Year Decides

Taken as a whole, the next year might decide which way the Argentine film industry will go. The producers are generally willing to "fight it out" and not to ask for more Government assistance than freedom from import-duties for raw-films and machinery. A small nucleus among them, however, insisted upon the necessity of government credits which are opposed exactly by the most serious men in the trade as the best means to make the film "political" and subject to antechambre intrigues. It is pretty certain that these men would welcome closer co-operation with U. S. producers, not only in the technical field but also regarding the problems their films should deal with. As patrons all over the world, Argentinians are getting tired of slapstick-comedy unless they are played to perfection. It is an easy guess, though, that patrons would stay away from "war-films" even should they prove popular in the U. S. Human relations, on the other hand, will always find an attentive audience.

"Dr. Jekyll" in Second Day at the Astor Equals First Day Record-Breaking Business

gram, which is due to resume airing late in September, and which will use a portion of the one-hour variety hour heard Fridays over CBS to preview latest releases. Film stars will be used. Other shows which will be used will include the Lux Radio Theater, Louella Parsons' sessions, Hedda Hopper's talks and the regular film commentaries.

Aside from the regular tie-ups which will be made with the major network shows film companies are expected to use spot announcements in key cities throughout the country as advance publicity for new releases. Practice was used for the first time on an extensive basis this Spring, and was found to be of a decided advantage in hypoing the box-offices.

From the pix angle, radio will be exploited in the main through a series of short subjects which will feature, among others, Ralph Edwards' "Truth or Consequences" show; "Information Please"; Bob Hawk's "Double Or Nothing" and a series of shorts devoted to the various radio shows on the air which will be released through Paramount.

Tax Bill Amendments Proposed by Myers

taxation of movie juke boxes, and of free motion pictures exhibitions.

"The exhibitors feel strongly that the exemption of nine cent adult admissions is arbitrary and unworkable and may result in some cases in the reduction for adult ten-cent admissions to nine cents in order to avoid the tax," he said, "also, we have received word that a few drive-in theaters have lowered their admissions to five cents, and these should not go untaxed."

He said that the nine-cent exemption apparently was in deference to children's admissions, and added:

Prices Stabilized

"Children's admissions in the neighborhood and small town theaters are more or less stabilized at ten cents. Under the bill these will be subject to a one-cent tax, making the admission eleven cents. This will mean the breaking of another nickel which parents are often unable to afford. Therefore, under the bill, the theaters will have to absorb a penny and cut admissions to nine cents, and the Government will derive no revenue therefrom."

"Therefore, little or no loss of revenue to the Government would be involved in exempting children's ten-cent admissions. On the contrary, coupling such an amendment with total abolition of exemption on adult admissions, would protect the revenue."

Tax Juke Boxes

Requesting taxation of the movie juke boxes, Myers said: "These machines, mostly located in taverns, bar rooms and resorts exhibit motion pictures on a small screen and are, strictly speaking, motion picture shows. They not only compete with theaters, but compete unfairly, since the legitimate motion picture industry through the Breen board in Hollywood, censors its own pictures and observes standards of decency.

"This new juke box industry observes no such standards and its films are obviously dedicated to the barroom trade. The legitimate exhibitors feel strongly that these juke boxes should be subject to an amusement tax."

In reply to a question by Senator LaFollette, Wis., Myers told the committee that motion picture attendance had fallen off decidedly, commencing last Fall. He said this was caused by people moving around, work shifts, and people having more money for more expensive forms of entertainment.

"Highway West"

with Brenda Marshall, Arthur Kennedy, Olympe Bradna

Warners 63 Mins.

MILD MELODRAMA FOLLOWS COPS-AND-ROBBER FORMULA UNSUCCESSFULLY.

Film stacks as minor program material. Melodramatic elements in the story are handled in a rather hackneyed manner. Although well-played, film could use more suspense and punch.

Story deals with an escaped gangster, Arthur Kennedy, who flees to an auto camp which his wife, Brenda Marshall, is operating successfully. Her love for him killed by his deeds, Miss Marshall is forced to simulate returning affection for him to protect her younger sister, Olympe Bradna.

Desperate for money, Kennedy holds up an armored pay truck which goes by the auto camp. William Lundigan, fish warden, who has been courting Miss Marshall, gets to the auto camp in time to kill Kennedy.

Idea of woman not knowing husband is a gangster until she married him was included in a previous Warner effort, "Bullets for O'Hara."

REVIEWS OF SHORT SUBJECTS

"Ghost Treasure"

(A Miniature)

M-G-M 11 Mins.

For many decades, adventurers and the more professional prospectors have been convinced that somewhere in Death Valley lie unexploited the gold veins from which the Indians fashioned their precious metal utensils,—lodes which more than tradition asserts furnished a few men with rich reward. But mostly it has been ghostly gold, so little has come to light, and so frequently has death come to those who have sought the bonanza. "Ghost Treasure" depicts three instances upon which the metal has allegedly been brought out of the hot and arid wastes. These particular episodes are enacted, and make fascinating diversion. Audiences generally will like this one for its air of mystery,—and tragedy.

"Midnight Snack"

(M-G-M Cartoon)

M-G-M 9 Mins.

Amusing Subject

Recently, Metro issued a tab reel with the same cat and mouse characters appearing in this one, and this one is every bit as amusing as its predecessor. This time, the little mouse is raiding an icebox when up bobs his nemesis the hungry, sharp-toothed feline. There are some good gags handled with skillful animation, as the mouse attempts to carry away an imposing hunk of Swiss cheese. The cat, sure of his quarry, badgers his intended victim. But the latter turns the tables at the finale,—both literally and figuratively—, leaving the kitchen a wreck and the would-be conqueror conquered.

"Water Bugs"

(Pete Smith Specialty)

M-G-M 10 mins.

Laughs and Thrills

Down in Florida dwells a clique whose hobby is going in for odd and thrilling water sports. Their strange vehicles range all the way from catamarans to water skis. They risk their necks for the thrill of riding on the latter media, while speedy outboard or inboard craft haul the daredevils along in their wakes, and, on occasion, even the airplane is used for pulling power. In addition to the spine-tingling scenes, Pete Smith, as is his custom, spikes the footage with comedy. Even the narration is keyed for laughs here and there. Exhibs. interested in novel, rousing shorts can make no mistake by booking this one.

St. Louis Nabes May Be Hit by Tram Passes

posed 75-cent shopper-theatergoer weekly pass.

This pass is among the suggestions included in a comprehensive plan for betterment of the St. Louis mass transportation submitted by officials of the Public Service Co. to Mayor William Dee Becker last week.

The 75-cent pass would be good from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. Monday through Saturday and good at all hours on Sundays and holidays. In addition on Sundays and holidays two children under 12 years of age would be permitted to ride free if accompanied by a holder of a 75-cent pass.

Since the number of rides on such passes would not be limited it would mean that most theatergoers would virtually ride free going to and from the better houses, since the passes would be worked enough each week to provide many extra rides in excess of the 10 rides that could be taken under regular rates for 75 cents.

The effect would be a reduction in the cost of attending the first-run and de luxe second-run theaters. Hence there would be a pull away from the smaller houses.

general sales manager, and Haskell M. Masters, Western general sales manager, officiating.

Purpose of the conference, which was attended by the district managers, was to explore the selling conditions for the coming season under the consent decree as it affects the sale of films released by United Artists.

The conferees were also shown three newly completed productions—Alexander Korda's "Lydia," starring Merle Oberon; Edward Small's "International Lady" with George Brent, Ilona Massey and Basil Rathbone; and "Tanks A Million," the first of Hal Roach's streamlined features.

Special campaigns on each of these three United Artists releases were mapped out by both the sales department and the advertising and publicity department.

The district managers attending the conference included Jack Goldhar from the Detroit territory; Charles Stern from the Chicago territory; Bert Stearn from the Cleveland territory; John J. Dervin from New England; Arthur Silverstone from the New York territory; C. E. Peppiatt, Southern territory; and Clarence Eiseman, New York Exchange manager.

Tuesday night Kelly was host to the visiting district managers at a dinner held at Toots Shor's. Yesterday Gold and Masters were luncheon hosts to the men.
